FIND CLEW IN CELLAR.

Sensational Turn in Winters Case.

Police of Newcastle Discover Missing Girl's Clothing Sealed in Wall.

Father, Stepmother and Former Boarder Are All Under Arrest.

Indiana Mystery that Has Long Puzzled Nation May Be Solved.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEWCASTLE (Ind.) May 30.—The disappearance of Katherine Winters, the 9-year-old daughter of a Newcastle dentist, which promised to become a mystery like the Charlie Ross case and caused a [illegible] all through the United States, may take its place among the records of sensational murder cases.

Dr. William A. Winters, the girl's father, is under arrest. So is the girl's stepmother. William R. [illegible], a telegraph operator, also is in the Newcastle jail. Each is charged with conspiring to commit [illegible]. Dr. and Mrs. Winters were released on $10,000 bail, but the telegraph operator was unable to furnish it.

The arrests followed the finding of some of the missing girl's clothes sealed up in a wall in the cellar. Workmen under the direction of the Chief of Police and Mayor are digging up the entire cellar. Others are throwing up the earth in the grounds about the Winters house. They momentarily expected to come upon the body of the murdered girl. The strange find and the sudden turn in events in the search for the

BOOTBLACK OIL MAGNATE.

He "Shines" in Front of Rockefeller's Broadway Offices.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 30.—John D. Rockefeller's bootblack is defendant in a suit for separation brought in the Supreme Court. He is Leolardo Volpe, and he has conducted a shoe-shining stand in the Standard Oil building, No. 26 Broadway, for years. The petition for alimony and counsel fee pending the suit states that Volpe earns $135 a month from his stand and has an income of $70 a month from property. He also gets dividends on $4000 worth of Standard Oil stock.

WILSON AS A FAILURE.

His Policies Powerless to Reduce the Cost of Living—Statement Made by Col. Roosevelt.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—Failure of the Wilson administration to handle satisfactorily either the trust or the tariff question was charged by Col. Roosevelt in a statement he left behind him today for publication after his departure for Europe.

"The cost of living has not been reduced. Not the slightest progress has been made in solving the trust question," he said.

And again:

"It has shown that the reduction of the tariff in no shape or way helps toward this solution. The economic conditions are such that business is in jeopardy and that the small business man, the farmer and the industrial wage worker are all suffering because of these conditions.

"There is widespread apprehension among our people. The pinch of poverty is felt in many a household. We can not ignore the conditions, which have brought about this state of things. The cost of living has not been reduced. Not the slightest progress has been made in solving the trust question. It has been shown that the reduction of the tariff in no shape or way helps toward this solution. The economic conditions are such that business is in jeopardy and that the small business man, the farmer and the industrial wage worker are all suffering because of these conditions."

THE CITY. Evidence was secured yesterday tending to connect a gang of ex-convicts with the burning and looting of a store at Casa Verdugo and to identify a charred body found at a cemetery ten miles away.

Veterans of wars long past united yesterday with men recently returned from the Mexican border and with thousands of citizens in observing Memorial Day.

Fossils of the cretaceous period, discovered in the Santa Monica mountains yesterday, are expected to interest scientists.

Detectives are trailing two well-dressed strangers seen loitering near the apartments of a woman who was robbed of $10,000 in gems.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. Domestic war started by a Mexican woman and an American housewife yesterday resulted in involving the police.

Regulars from Calexico took part in memorial services at Imperial yesterday.

A party of Angelenos were banqueted yesterday in the Imperial Valley.

PACIFIC SLOPE. Thomas Hagee, a well-known realty promoter of San Francisco, was killed in an automobile accident.

A cousin of Whitelaw Reid, of San Francisco, will sing in grand opera in Italy.

The only remaining son of John Brown, too feeble to march on Memorial Day, remained at his home in Portland, Or.

GENERAL EASTERN. A clew to the missing Newcastle girl was discovered by the police and there is a chance for the solution of the mystery.

A sixteen-story hotel is to be erected in St. Louis as a memorial to the late Adolphus A. Busch.

WASHINGTON. After having twice snubbed the G.A.R., President Wilson yesterday surrendered and made a speech in Arlington Cemetery, after he had discovered that his rival for the nomination in 1916, Champ Clark, had accepted an invitation to deliver the Memorial Day address.

MEXICO. Every indication at Niagara Falls points to a prolongation of the mediation conference.

Memorial Day was fittingly celebrated in Vera Cruz in honor of those who fell.

FOREIGN. The modern dancing craze has developed a new disease called the "tango foot," which some doctors are mistaking for rheumatism, according to a Berlin dispatch.

The reader who would do justice to himself will not depend wholly upon the foregoing summary, comprehensive though it is, but will take in the complete news report, which necessarily cannot be luminously summarized, epitomized or classified.

WARNING UNHEEDED

Vain Plea by Captain of Empress.

Declares Master of Collier Might Have Prevented Big Loss of Life.

Backed Away from Sinking Vessel When He Should Have Plugged Gap.

Story at Inquest Shows that Signals Were Heard Two Miles Away.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RIMOUSKI (Que.) May 30.—While final tabulations of the casualties in the sinking of the ill-fated steamer Empress of Ireland were being made today, showing that 403 of her passengers and crew had been rescued and 964 had perished, Capt. Henry George Kendall of the liner was telling his story of the disaster at an inquiry conducted by Coroner Pinaud here.

Capt. Kendall, in substance, declared that he had taken all possible precautions against a collision. His ship had been stopped, he gave the requisite signals when the Danish collier Storstad, which dealt the blow which sent the Empress to the bottom, was still two miles away, but the collier had kept on through the fog which settled down soon after the two vessels sighted each other, and had rammed the Empress of Ireland while the latter was virtually motionless. Then, despite his plea to the master of the collier that he run his engines full speed ahead to keep the hole in the liner's side plugged with the Storstad's bow, said Capt. Kendall, the Danish vessel backed away, the water rushed in and the Empress sank.

Capt. Kendall, who stuck to the bridge of his ship to the last and after being picked up by a lifeboat aided in saving a boatload of drowning persons from the wreck, took up his story of the disaster from the point at which the Empress of Ireland, bound from Quebec for Liverpool, had dropped her pilot Thursday night at Farther Point, near which the disaster of yesterday morning occurred.

CAPT. KENDALL'S STORY.

"We then proceeded full speed," continued Capt. Kendall. After passing Rock Point gas buoy I sighted the steamer Storstad, it then being clear.

"The Storstad was then about one point, twelve degrees on my starboard bow. At that time I saw a slight fog bank coming gradually from the land and knew it was going to pass between the Storstad and myself. The Storstad was about two miles away at that time. Then the fog came and the Storstad's lights disappeared. I rang full speed astern on my engines and stopped my ship.

"At the same time I blew three short blasts on the steamer's whistle, meaning 'I am going full speed astern.' The Storstad answered with the whistle, giving me one prolonged blast.

"I then looked over the side of my ship into the water and I saw my ship was stopped. I stopped my engines and blew two long blasts, meaning, 'My ship was under way, but stopped and has no way upon her.' He answered me again with one prolonged blast. The sound was then about four points upon my starboard bow.

"It was still foggy. I looked out to where the sound came from. About two minutes afterward I saw his red and green lights. He would then be about one ship's length away from me. I shouted to him through the megaphone to go full speed astern as I saw the danger of collision was inevitable; at the same time I put my engine full speed ahead with my helm hard a-port, with the object of avoiding, if possible, the shock. Almost at the same time he came right in and cut me down in a line between the funnels.

"I shouted to the Storstad to keep full speed ahead to fill the hole it had made. It then backed away. The ship began to fill and listed over rapidly. When he struck me, I had stopped my engines. I then rang full speed ahead again, when I saw the danger was so great, with the object of running her on shore to save passengers and ship. Almost immediately the engines stopped, the ship filling and going over all the time, starboard.

"I had, in the meantime, given orders to get the lifeboats launched. I rushed along the starboard side of the boat deck and threw all the gripes out of Nos. 1, 3, 5 and 7 boats; then I went back to the bridge again, where I saw the chief officer rushing along the bridge.

"I told him to tell the wireless operator at once to send out distress signals. He told me that this had been done. I said: 'Get the boats out as quick as possible.' That was the last I saw of the chief officer. Then, in about three to five minutes after that, the ship turned over and foundered. I was shot into the sea myself from the bridge and taken down with the suction. The next thing I remember was seizing a piece of grating. How long I was on it I do not know, but I heard some men shout from a lifeboat: 'There's the captain; let us save him.'

"They got to me and pulled me into the boat. The boat already had thirty people in it. I did my best with the people in the boat to assist in saving others. We pulled around and picked up twenty or twenty-five more in the boat, and also put about ten around the side in the water with ropes around their

LITTLE VINCENT M'LEAN RESCUES PRICELESS GEMS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Little Vincent Beale Walsh McLean, the "hundred-million-dollar baby," son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean of Washington, demonstrated that he was a better sleuth than a dozen or more society folks, when he recovered for his mother a $50,000 necklace which she lost at the Devon horse show this afternoon.

Mrs. McLean had left her box for a little stroll along the promenade in front of the grand stand. At the end of the board walk she continued walking on the stnd-covered portion of the track near the stands. It was during this portion of her jaunt that the necklace fell from her throat.

Unable herself to find it, she sent for the bodyguard who accompanies her little son on all occasions. The boy went with him. With a number of friends, the search was continued for yards around the spot where Mrs. McLean believed the necklace had fallen. Every inch of the sand was thoroughly explored. When hope of recovering the treasure had almost departed little Vincent uttered a glad childish cry: "Here 'tis," he cried, as his fingers lifted from the sands the glittering gems. Mrs. McLean was overjoyed over recovering it. The necklace is valued at $50,000 and consisted of a platinum chain with many diamonds set in intervals around it and suspended from it was a great emerald. It was not for some minutes after it had been recovered that the news of its loss percolated through the stands, then the McLean box was the object of the gaze of hundreds.

WOMAN REVEALS PLOT TO BLOW BANK VAULT.

WARNED by a woman said to be connected with a gang of yegg-men that an attempt was to be made to blow up the vault of the Hellman Commercial Trust and Savings Bank at Second and Broadway last night to secure $200,000, detectives threw a cordon about the place shortly after midnight. At 1:30 o'clock this morning a suspect was taken to the Central Police Station and it was announced that two more would probably be arrested before morning.

The tip was given to the Harris Detective Agency late last evening, and immediately communicated to the police. The woman declared that the gang was equipped with diamond drills and the latest and most approved safe blowing devices, and that a tunnel had been dug under the bank from a tailor shop on Second street between Hill and Broadway, passing under a corner of a restaurant adjoining.

The woman declared that she was to have acted as look-out, dressed in man's clothes, and that the thieves had an automobile ready for their getaway.

Early this morning, detectives found an automobile at the spot the girl designated, believed to be the machine in question. It bore a number supposedly stolen 22002, which is in the name of Walter G. Chandlor, No. 1202 South Grand avenue.

Detectives Irwin and Hickok were detailed on the case, in conjunction with Operatives Edmondson and Blaylock of the Harris Agency. They took in custody, Ben Hess, said by the police to be a paroled convict, who lives at the Northen Hotel, No. 420 West Second street. At an early hour this morning, Hess was being examined at the Detective Bureau. He admitted knowing the women who made the revelations to the police and declared that he had been asked by her for money and had made the statement that he would "blow a bank and get it." Hess was convicted of contributing to the delinquency of the woman in the case, whose name is withheld the police say.

Marco Hellman, head of the bank, appeared at the Police Headquarters early this morning, declaring that he had been notified by Harris of the impending attempt, but had discredited it till the discovery of the automobile and taking of Hess.

The girl led the detectives to a basement under the tailor shop and showed them a tray-door that she said led to the tunnel. It was held with a Yale lock and having no authority to break it, the officers decided to wait till morning.

REPORTS ON BARGE SERVICE BETWEEN OCEANS.

Secretary of War Garrison Receives Detailed Account of Establishment of the Line Which Is Used to Supplement the Railroad as Panama Freight Carrier.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 30.—Secretary of War Garrison today received a report from George W. Goethals, Civil Governor of the canal zone, giving a detailed account of the passage of freight-laden barges through the canal, making the first direct voyage of vessels from one ocean to the other by way of the canal. The establishment of barge service has been made necessary to supplement the railroad service across the isthmus, due to the large amount of freight shipped by the Panama route by reason of the interruption to traffic across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, caused by the Mexican troubles.

In his report, Col. Goethals said:

"The tug Mariner, towing barges, left Cristobal at 6 a.m., Tuesday, May 19, and arrived at Balboa at 6:40 p.m., the same day. These barges were loaded with sugar transferred to them from the steamship Alaskan at Balboa and towed back to Cristobal.

"Three other barges, so loaded, started through the canal at Cristobal at 2:40 o'clock on the afternoon of Monday, May 18. They reached Pedro Miguel lock at 6:25 p.m., and tied up for the night."

SURRENDER OF WILSON.

Plays Politics on a Sacred Day.

Twice Snubs Grand Army, Then Laments and Makes a Speech.

Fear of Champ Clark Rather Than Favor to Union Soldiers His Motive.

Plants His Hopes of Another Nomination in Arlington Cemetery.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 30.—Yielding to the storm of northern criticism, President Wilson, at the eleventh hour, withdrew his declination of the invitation of the Grand Army of the Republic to deliver the Memorial Day address in Arlington National Cemetery this afternoon.

The Grand Army men showed their resentment of the President's late acceptance plainly. He was greeted only with perfunctory cheers. Speaker Clark did not appear until after President Wilson finished his address. As the Speaker walked through the crowd he received a tremendous ovation and when he was introduced as a "real friend of the soldiers who has always shown where he stands," the audience broke loose in a demonstration that lasted fully fifteen minutes. President Wilson smiled as the cheering began, but the smile froze on his face before it concluded. It probably was the most uncomfortable quarter of an hour the President has ever spent.

AFRAID OF CLARK.

The acceptance of the invitation by the President followed the announcement that Speaker Champ Clark, Mr. Wilson's chief rival for leadership of the Democratic party in the Baltimore convention and since, would take the place of the President as the orator of the day.

Although Speaker Clark's acceptance of the invitation which Mr. Wilson originally declined was announced last night, and the President's sudden change of mind was not communicated to the G.A.R. officers until this forenoon, the White House secretaries emphatically assert that the Executive was not influenced by the act of his political rival. It is insisted that the President reversed his attitude on the invitation yesterday afternoon, but that through an inadvertence his decision was not announced until today.

When the thin blue line of Union survivors which this year dwindled to 126, had decorated the graves of their comrades in the great cemetery overlooking the Potomac, President Wilson deposited a wreath in honor of the dead and addressed to the veterans and their friends a brief eulogy of the men who saved a united republic.

Earlier in the day the White House sent to the cemetery five wreaths to be placed on various graves and another was deposited on the barge annually sent adrift in the Potomac in honor of the Union men who gave up their lives at sea. Thus for the first time in the history of Memorial Day the ceremony in Arlington Cemetery, in which the Presidents of the republic invariably have participated, has been turned into a national political incident of the first order.

The episode was the result of the discovery by the G.A.R. officers a week ago that the President had accepted an invitation to unveil the monument to the Confederate dead in Arlington Cemetery next Thursday, although he declined to accept the invitation to participate in the Union exercises today. It was in vain that Mr. Wilson explained that he had accepted the Confederate invitation months ago, that it was to be an extraordinary ceremony in which he would participate as the head of the nation, that the Memorial Day exercises are annual affairs in which he later would have an opportunity to appear and that he declined because it would be injudicious to deliver an address in which he would be compelled to refer to warfare in Mexico in which American soldiers have been sacrificed.

SECOND OFFENSE.

The G.A.R. officers complained that this was the second time the President had declined to attend the Arlington ceremony and that it would be entirely possible for the President to refrain from referring to the Mexican situation in his address. This contention has been justified by the character of the President's address today.

Threatening to boycott the love feast of the Blue and Gray at the Confederate monument unveiling, the G.A.R. officers stirred the organization to a high pitch of indignation. Grand Army posts all over the country began adopting resolutions denouncing the President and it was announced that the President would be severely criticised in thousands of Memorial Day addresses for his slight to the Union veterans.

The Democratic leaders in Washington became thoroughly alarmed. They had visions of the break between the President and the G.A.R. developing a degree of unpopularity in the North that would threaten Mr. Wilson's chances of renomination and reelection in 1916.

With Southern Democrats controlling legislation and the administration and the country ringing with the cry

Question.

YPIRANGA FINE CALLED ILLEGAL

German Commander Declares It Can't Be Collected.

Captain of Port Knew Cargo Would Be Landed.

Uncle Sam Had No Right to Clamp on the Lid.

BY GEORGE ADDISON HUGHES.

[BY MEXICAN CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VERA CRUZ, May 30.—The United States government was in possession of full knowledge that the Ypiranga's cargo of arms and ammunition was to be landed at Puerto Mexico. The captain of the Ypiranga informed me today in the presence of four witnesses that the master of the port knew before the Ypiranga had cleared for Puerto Mexico that she intended to unload the cargo. Capt. Stickney, master of the port, refuses to be interviewed, so it is impossible to get his version of the case, but a statement by the Ypiranga's commander made in his cabin substantiates the belief here now that Washington inspired the landing after the breach had occurred with the Constitutionalists over mediation proceedings.

Discussing the fines imposed upon his ship and the Bavaria, the commander of the Ypiranga declared the levies will not hold.

"We are well within our rights," he says. "Mexican law prevails according to the statement of your own American officers, and the Mexican law stipulates that cargo consigned to one port may be landed at another with the consignee's permission."

The explanation made at headquarters here today as to why the Ypiranga was permitted to land arms is that the United States is powerless to halt it, as no war is declared and the armistice prevented the occupation of Puerto Mexico. Excitement reigns here tonight following the report that Huerta had resigned and was expected to board the Ypiranga or Bavaria.

The captain of the Ypiranga, denying the report, significantly said he expects to take him on the next trip. That Huerta cannot last much longer, despite his determination to fight, is the word brought here today by Attache Bonfires of the French legation, who also says the British residents at the capital have fortified the colony in anticipation of an attack by Zapata. Zapata and 12,000 men are reported marching on Mexico City from Cuernavaca, he says, and Englishmen are drilling in the streets to be prepared to resist looting and outrages in the colony.

Uncredited reports arrived at the same time to the effect that a Japanese ship had landed 8,000,000 rounds of ammunition at Manzanillo. This report is believed a companion to the obvious fallacy that there are a thousand armed Japanese in Mexico City.

YPIRANGA IS CLEARED.

GIVES BOND FOR FINE.

[BY MEXICAN CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, May 30.—The landing of war munitions for Huerta from the Hamburg-American liners Ypiranga and Bavaria passed into the realm of diplomacy late today when both ships were granted clearance by the collector of the port, Capt. Herman O. Stickney, after Karl Heynen, general agent in Mexico of the company, had signed a bond covering the fines assessed against these steamers under the collector's interpretation of the Mexican navigation laws.

Capt. Stickney holds that diverting to Puerto Mexico the shipments consigned to Vera Cruz was a direct violation of the laws and a fine of 20 pesos on each package landed was assessed against the shipmasters. The total fines amount approximately to $200,000 in gold.

Agent Heynen holds that the Mexican laws and the proclamation of May 13 issued by President Huerta declaring Vera Cruz to be a closed port and Puerto Mexico open for Vera Cruz cargoes is sufficient authorization for landing at Puerto Mexico and unloading cargo there.

STATEMENT OF DIRECTORS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—The New York directors of the Hamburg-American line made public tonight a cablegram received by them from the Hamburg directors of the line concerning press reports about the landing of arms at Puerto Mexico by their steamers Ypiranga and Bavaria. The cablegram is as follows:

"We have no understanding of any kind with the United States government about the landing of arms in Mexico. Our agents and captains have received instructions always to follow the orders of the United States authorities. No directions or orders have been issued from here to land the arms at Puerto Mexico. We do not believe that our agents would act contrary to the positive wishes of the United States authorities."

In making public the cablegram the New York directors add: "If arms were landed at Puerto Mexico it can only be due to independent action on the part of our agents."

ASKS RELEASE OF MERCHANDISE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, May 30.—Secretary of State Bryan sent a cablegram to the Brazilian Minister here today in reply to the Minister's request for the release of merchandise in the customhouse at Vera Cruz for reentry at Puerto Mexico. Bryan said that the release could be secured by the deposit of customs duties, in accordance with the Mexican law, the duties to be held as guarantee for the payment of the interest on the 5 per cent. consolidated debt. The Secretary of State, at the same time gave permission for the release of 380 bundles of steel bars consigned to the government without payment of duty. The bars are now in the Vera Cruz customhouse.

POULTRYMEN CO-OPERATE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VISALIA, May 30. — Articles of incorporation of the Visalia Co-operative Poultrymen's Association were filed Friday. The association has been in the formative stage for several months past and begins operations with a membership of fifty. By purchasing supplies in wholesale lots and by having representatives in San Francisco and Los Angeles to deal directly with dealers, it is the belief of members of the association that they can secure from 2 to 5 cents a dozen more for their eggs. The association will work along the lines of the co-operative creameries that are being conducted so successfully in this part of the valley.

REACH CRISIS IN MEDIATION.

Carranza's Position Puzzle to Latin Diplomats.

Huerta Has Not Answered Plan Put Before Him.

Quick Response Asked for to Settle the Question.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NIAGARA FALLS (Ont.) May 30.—A crisis in the progress of the mediation proceedings was reached tonight. While awaiting answers from the Huerta government and the United States to the tentative plan for a new provisional government in Mexico, the question of admitting the Constitutionalists to the conferences before an agreement on protocol is signed loomed up as likely to influence the decision of the American government on the plans already outlined.

The mediators called in the Mexican delegates late today to learn if Gen. Huerta had approved the main points of the peace plan now before him. The Mexicans said they had received no reply, but they telegraphed again, urging a quick response. The American delegates also reported that Washington had not acted on the plan. The South American diplomats did not broach the subject of Constitutionalist representation to the Mexicans nor show them the note delivered here yesterday by Juan F. Urquidi, a messenger of Gen. Carranza.

The mediators, it was learned, expected to answer the note, publishing both communications simultaneously. The three envoys pointed out that they had found nothing in Carranza's latest communication, which could be interpreted as a desire to participate in the conferences on the subject of pacifying Mexico. They do not consider that Gen. Carranza has receded from the position which caused them to withdraw their original invitation.

On the other hand, it is said that the Washington government agrees with Gen. Carranza that the withdrawal of the invitation to him to send delegates and the failure of the mediators to answer an inquiry as to what points would be treated in the negotiations, left Gen. Carranza in the position of not having anything on which he could act.

A conference between the American delegates and the mediators tonight lasted until nearly midnight. At its close Justice Lamar said:

"No conclusions were reached. We will resume our conferences at 11 o'clock on Monday morning."

It was understood that the American delegates had laid before the mediators their views on Constitutionalist representation in the mediation and that the question had been taken under advisement and would be further considered.

girl ends a country-wide hunt, sensational at times, which began on March 20 of last year, when the blonde-haired little girl dropped out of sight as completely as if the earth had swallowed her. Dr. Winters is a member of several lodges and societies and found no trouble in raising a fund of $2000 as a reward for finding the girl. Police and private detectives took up the search. Money was offered the Winters by hundreds of sympathizers to prosecute the hunt.

Gypsy bands were trailed across Indiana and Illinois in the belief that the girl was kidnaped.

Dr. Winters went to Chicago and aided the police there in their investigations. He brought with him circulars bearing the girl's picture, which his friends had had printed for him.

THE CIRCULARS.

The circular read as follows:

"To Whom It May Concern: I have been sustained by the hope that our little girl is alive. Without that hope I do not know how I could have endured these weeks of suspense and waiting. Somehow I feel that before long Katherine will be with us alive and well.

"My appeal is to any one who may know where Katherine is. Surely, surely, there is no one who, knowing where she is and knowing what I have suffered, would keep her from us longer.

"My means are small, but I am willing to give for her return everything I possess, to the last farthing. There will be no questions asked. I do not want revenge. I only want my daughter."

During the search Dr. Winters continually hinted that relatives might know more of the girl's whereabouts than they cared to say. He insisted the child was alive. Mrs. Winters took the opposite course. She insisted she believed the girl dead.

The arrests were brought about through the persistence of Robert H. Abel, a Pinkerton detective, who is now working independently. Abel believed the Winters house held the key to the mystery. While Cooper was away and while the Winters were at Terre Haute he went into the cellar and demolished a concrete wall. The detective found a child's red sweater and a red hair ribbon, alleged to be similar in color and size to those worn by Katherine when last seen. A man's red plush shirt was also found. It had been partly burned and there were deep blotches which the authorities maintain are spots of human blood. This garment will be subjected to chemical analysis.

MRS. WINTERS'S STORY.

Mrs. Winters said tonight:

"There were two sweaters in the basement. They had been put there by my mother, who was saving them to make rag carpets. We had a cat and these sweaters were placed in the basket when she gave birth to kittens. One of the kittens crawled into the cement block and one of the neighbors made the larger holes in it so we could get it out. Then we stuffed the other sweater into the holes so the kittens couldn't crawl back into it.

"The little sweater coat was Katherine's and the other belonged to Dr. Winters's nephew."

The Winters girl disappeared just before Easter Sunday. The eggs were all colored for the holiday. Since Katherine's disappearance her little brother Leonard has kept on display in the front window of the Winters home the eggs that had been colored for her in the vain hope that they might act as a magnet to draw her back home.

REFORMER IN QUARANTINE.

Thomas Mott Osborne Finds Something in the State Prison in Auburn that Doesn't Wear Stripes.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

AUBURN (N. Y.) May 30.—Thomas Mott Osborne, wealthy chairman of the State Commission for Prison Reform, is in quarantine in the State Prison here. Because there are now nearly 100 cases of scarlet fever in the men's and women's wards, a representative of the State Health Department today declared strict quarantine.

Commissioner Osborne had been conducting prison work here, and when he learned that he had been exposed to the fever he decided to remain within the walls and assist in the work of controlling the epidemic.

FIGHTING AT BARAHONA.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Fighting between the Dominican revolutionists and Federal troops near Barahona was reported today by Commander Bierer of the American gunboat Wheeling at Santa Domingo city.

Storstad.

COLLIER PASSES QUEBEC ON WAY TO MONTREAL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

QUEBEC, May 30.—The collier Storstad tonight, after passing Quebec, was on her way up the river to Montreal to land her cargo.

While the Coroner's inquiry was going on in Rimouski, the bodies of 175 victims of the disaster that had been recovered were placed aboard the government vessel, Lady Grey for transport here, and tonight her arrival, fixed for a late hour, was anxiously awaited. A mortuary chamber at the wharf was in readiness for the bodies, long rows of platforms, each covered with white cloth and edged with black, having been erected to receive them. The sides of the chamber were heavily draped, while folds of black crepe covered the outside of the structure. Special police were on duty to guard the bodies and control the throngs assembled to witness the removal from the ship.

While these preparations had been made for the reception of the dead, those who had been saved were being well cared for. With the exception of about two score, most of them suffering in the Rimouski Hospital from injuries, all had been brought to this city yesterday. Today all of those here had been provided with clothing and funds and a number of them were able to leave for Montreal on an afternoon train.

Few of them seemed willing to continue their journey Europeward just now, although they were offered accommodations for the voyage on the steamer Alsatian by the Canadian Pacific Railway, to which the lost liner belonged.

Today the death of the first passenger from exposure was reported from Rimouski. The victim is [illegible] Edwards, from Yokohama. Both the sick and injured at Rimouski and the three in the local hospitals are receiving every attention. The Canadian Pacific sent to Rimouski by special train, five doctors and a number of nurses with surgical appliances, bandages and medicine.

Photographs of the faces of the dead were taken by railway photographers at Rimouski today to aid in the work of identification, which is expected to be difficult in many cases.

The giving out tonight by the Canadian Pacific Railway of the list of steerage passengers showed that 226 of them had come from the United States. Nearly all were of birth or extraction foreign to this country, however. Most of them appeared to be either natives or children of natives of Central Europe. A large number of them were saved, although how many the still incomplete reports of survivors in the hands of the Canadian Pacific Railway make it impossible to determine. It is believed that the greater number of those lost were imprisoned inside the hull of the Empress.

Warning Unheeded.

waists, hanging on. Seeing that we could not possibly save any more we pulled to the Storstad, which was then about a mile and a half away. I then got all these people put on board the Storstad and then left her with six of the crew and went back and tried to save more. When we got there everybody had gone. We searched around and could not see anybody alive, so then we returned to the Storstad."

"What was the cause of the collision," the Coroner asked.

"The Storstad running into the Empress of Ireland, which was stopped," Kendall answered.

Capt. Kendall, in answer to a question by a juror, said that when he shouted to the Storstad's captain to stand fast he received no answer. It was impossible for him to have been heard, he added.

"I shouted five times; I shouted, 'keep ahead,'" Capt. Kendall said, "and if he did not hear that he should have done it, as a seaman should have known that."

"There was wind?"

"It was quite still."

"When he backed away I shouted to him to stand by. I did not hear any explosion, but when a ship goes down like that there is bound to be a great deal of air, and the air pressure causes that."

"How many boats were there on the Empress?"

"Between thirty and forty. There was no panic. I had full control of the crew and they fought to the end. There was no panic among the passengers or crew. Everybody behaved splendidly. About four boats were launched; these were the four of which I loosened the gripes. As the ship sank and the water rose these boats floated away. The people who were saved were saved by the Empress's boats and by the wreckage.

"The Storstad had three or four of his boats and he pulled around and took people off the wreckage. He did not get many. I passed a couple of his boats and he only had three people in them."

PASSENGER'S STORY.

James Rankin, a passenger from Vancouver, B. C., and marine engineer, said:

"I was aroused by the noise and ran out. There was a big pitch to the deck. I really cannot tell you how the accident occurred. I heard the whistle blow when I reached the deck. There was a heavy fog and you could hardly see fifty yards. Five minutes after the collision the fog lifted. The boats on the lower side were in the water and four or five of them got away and saved many people.

"I think that if the collier had kept her bow in the hole she had made in the Ireland's side, she could have been able to make the shore and probably have saved every one.

"The behavior of the officers on the Empress was beyond all praise. They did everything they could. The engineers remained below until they could get no more steam and the lights went out."

Chief Engineer Sampson, who remained in the engine-room until the fires were drowned and the lights extinguished, was too ill to appear, and his testimony was taken at his bedside.

ENGINEER'S VERSION.

"I was in the engine-room until the lights went out and there was no more steam," he said. "I had great difficulty in reaching the decks owing to the great list of the ship. No sooner had I got on deck than the boats of the port side, which had broken loose, swept down on top of us and carried us under water. When I came to the surface, I found myself under a lifeboat and entangled in wreckage. I was finally pulled into one of the boats and could see the collier about a mile and a half away. Immediately before the collision we went full speed astern and then stopped. Then I got the order full speed ahead, but had only started the engines when the crash came. We then kept her full speed ahead to try to reach the shore, as long as we had steam. Owing to the steam failing us, and then the lights also, we could keep the engines going for only a few moments.

"There was no explosion of any kind. I saw no reason why the collier did not keep much closer than she did as, if she had, there would have been many lives saved. I am also of the opinion that had she stuck to us we should have reached the shore."

THE EUREKA'S TRIP.

Capt. Belanger of the Eureka told of the trip he had made to the scene of the wreck. He was not sure on his first trip of the exact position where she had sunk. On the second, however, he could tell from the boiling up of muddy water where the wrecked vessel lay. He told of gathering what bodies he could find.

After a moment's deliberation by the jury it was decided to adjourn the inquest for one week in hopes of securing the evidence of the captain and crew of the Storstad, which arrived at Quebec today and proceeded to Montreal to land her cargo.

At 5 p.m., today the Canadian government steamer Lady Grey, with ensigns half-masted, left here for Quebec, bearing 175 bodies in coffins. No other bodies have been found and

R. BRUCE M'CLURE, SUICIDE.

Brother of Publisher Kills Himself at His Home in Yonkers, for no Apparent Reason.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

YONKERS, (N. Y.) May 30.—R. Bruce McClure, brother of Col. McClure of McClure's Magazine and until about a year ago, head of the McClure Syndicate, shot and killed himself in his home, at Yonkers. Although McClure ended his life at 9 o'clock last night, it did not become known till late this evening. His wife is unable to account for any reason for suicide. McClure reached home soon after 6 o'clock last evening and seemed in good spirits. He had retired from the magazine business, leaving the syndicate about a year ago. He then went West for his health, but came back to Yonkers a few months ago. He leaves three sons and a daughter. He was about 55 years old.

Miss Mills is an accomplished contralto singer and has gained considerable renown by her talents. For several years she studied under Estelle Heartt Dreyfus and Harry Clifford Lott of Los Angeles, afterwards going to New York to continue under Madame Bernice de Pasquali of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company.

Miss Mills expects to appear in California soon after her return from abroad.

INDICT UNION CARPENTERS.

Grand Jury in Lexington, Ky., Takes Action Against Men Accused of Shooting.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) May 30.—Thirty-six indictments were returned today by a special grand jury against union carpenters who have been on strike here for several weeks. Five of the indicted men are charged with attempting to kill Daniel Moynahan, a non-union workman, last Wednesday. Moynahan was shot, probably fatally, while on duty at a lumber plant whose men are on strike. The other thirty-one are charged with conspiracy to intimidate non-union workmen.

Five hundred carpenters are on strike for recognition of the union, higher wages and shorter hours. All building operations have been suspended.

A Woman's Health

Every woman's health is peculiarly dependent upon the condition of her blood. How many women suffer with headache, pain in the back, poor appetite, weak digestion, a constant feeling of weariness, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, pallor and nervousness? If you have any of these symptoms, do not despair of getting better, but begin now, today, to build up your blood with Dr. Williams's Pink Pills. See how the nervous energy of the body is restored as the blood becomes pure and red and the entire system is strengthened to meet every demand upon it.

Dr. Williams's Pink Pills are useful for all women, but they are particularly valuable to girls of school age who show symptoms of going into a decline, who become pale, nervous and languid. These pills aid in securing perfect development and health by strengthening the system and purifying and building up the blood. Thin blood during the growing years of a girl's life usually means a flat-chested and hollow-cheeked womanhood. There can be neither health nor beauty without red blood, which gives brightness to the eyes and color to cheeks and lips.

Write now to the Dr. Williams Medical Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for two helpful booklets, "Plain Talks to Women" and "Building Up the Blood."

REBELS AND MAYTORENAS FIGHTING IN HERMOSILLO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) May 30.—Fighting early today in the streets of Hermosillo, the capital of the State of Sonora, between Constitutionalist soldiers and the supporters of Civil Governor Maytorena, was reported in brief messages received here today. Fighting was also reported with the Yaqui Indians at Cruz de Piedra.

The Yaquis were said to have declared warfare upon the Constitutionalists and friendliness toward Maytorena, who was accused by the Constitutionalists of having protected Huerta sympathizers.

All Constitutionalist troops in Cananea and Nogales, Sonora, were ordered to Hermosillo last night.

Antonio Gonzales, prefect of Nogales, Sonora, is in jail, charged with having protected Mexican Federals.

REBELS' EAR FOR MUSIC.

EL PASO (Tex.) May 30.—The disturbance at Hermosillo was caused by public disapproval of music played by the Sonora State band and did not take the form of street fighting, declared Constitutionalist agents here today. The trouble which occurred last night resulted in the imprisonment of Rodolfo Campodonico, the director of the official band, which is rated as one of the finest in Mexico.

According to information said to have been received directly from Hermosillo, Campodonico insisted, in spite of hisses and cat-calls, in playing a piece of his own composition. The title of the selection, "Viva Maytorena," evidently occasioned the public disapproval, as Maytorena is the Governor of the State, against whom there has been directed much political activity.

When Campodonico, the composer, played "Viva Maytorena" a second time the crowd took a hand which ended in a general melee, the breaking of drumheads, the denting of horns and the imprisonment of the band director. None was injured.

REPORT IS DENIED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) May 30.—Reported street fighting in Hermosillo is officially denied here tonight in a message from Col. P. Elias at Calles. The message also denies that the Constitutionalists at Cruz de Piedra had been attacked by Yaqui Indians.

It has been rumored for several days that Saturday would see a "final showdown" between the Yaquis and Maytorenas, but nothing to indicate actual hostilities has yet been heard. Frederico Platt, jefe prefecto at Cananea, an adherent of the Maytorena faction, is reported to have been arrested this afternoon.

While the Constitutionalists have been depending on the Maytorenas to fight the Yaquis, it is becoming more evident daily that they will not take the field, according to a private message received today.

One detachment of 600 Maytorenas that had been sent against the Yaquis is said to have joined the latter, taking a large quantity of ammunition with them. Sixteen American ranchers of the Yaqui Valley are giving the Constitutionalist authorities considerable concern by refusing to leave. The Mexicans predict their murder may happen at the hands of the Indians at any time.

HUNGER STOPS RUNAWAY.

Lad Who Went to Seattle to Find Wild Country Surrenders When Money's Gone.

Paul K. Stern, 15 years old, of No. 900 Harvard boulevard, yesterday afternoon walked into the police station at Seattle and said in an offhand manner to Lieut. Hedges:

"I'm through. I surrender."

"What for?" said Lieut. Hedges.

"Why, don't you know?" asked the youth in a surprised tone.

When told that the department had received no requisitions for desperate criminals matching the boy, Stern told his story.

"I got up early in the morning, Sunday, May 23," he said, "and fished through the old man's trousers. I got $7. I passed $5 over to one of the crew of the Congress and came to Seattle. I had a 'gat' when I left. I heard this was some wild country and a fellow would need a gun. When I struck town I saw it was a regular city. I hocked the gun. I ate up the proceeds and here I am, no place to sleep, and hungry."

Paul was taken to the juvenile detention home and a telegram sent to his mother here, Mrs. Mathilda Stern.

Mrs. Stern telegraphed the Seattle police that, as the boy had run away from home four times, she wanted him to have a lesson. She asked that he be given a chance to work his way on a vessel to San Pedro.

Queer European Relations.

Italy Joins With Its Hereditary Oppressor and the Greeks Ally Themselves With the Albanians.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean:] Sixty-five years ago—March 23, 1849—Victor Emanuel ascended the throne of Sardinia. He was a young and inexperienced man. His little kingdom had just suffered disastrous defeat. Austria hung like a millstone around the neck of Italy; crushing, plundering, and harassing the land. The Austrian flag waved over Lombardy and Venetia; Austrian puppets ruled in Tuscany, and even the King of Naples was a protege of Vienna.

Who could have dreamed that only two-and-twenty years later Austria would be driven beyond the Alps, and Victor Emanuel would rule from Rome over a united Italy?

Surely he would be a proud Prince if he could revisit his country this day; yet he would find one thing to vex his generous nature. Italy has allied herself with her hereditary oppressor, Austria, and chiefly as a result of that alliance she is now helping to deny to Greek people the same boon of union under one flag, which Italians a generation ago were giving up their lives to gain for their own country.

The quibble about the Aegean Islands, the inexcusable joining of hundreds of thousands of Greeks to the barbaric "kingdom" of Albania—neither Victor Emanuel nor Cavour would take pride in such achievements. It is to be hoped that this attitude on Italy's part is no more than a temporary blunder, and that before long she will recognize the right of her Hellenic neighbors to as full a national development as she has won for herself.

VANDERBILT MAN KILLED BY AUTO.

REPRESENTATIVE OF THE FAIR ESTATE DIES WHEN MACHINE OVERTURNS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 30.—Thomas Magee, member of the San Francisco real estate firm of Thomas Magee and Sons, and one of the best known realty operators and promotion men on the Pacific Coast, was killed this afternoon when his automobile overturned two miles south of Cloverdale, Sonoma county, crushing him beneath the heavy tonneau.

Magee was alone in the machine at the time of the accident, which occurred about 5 o'clock. Passersby noticed his plight and summoned aid from Cloverdale. The injured man was rushed to the Cloverdale Hospital in an automobile, but died a few minutes after his arrival there at 5:30 o'clock.

Magee's body was badly crushed. He did not regain consciousness before he died.

By telephone Magee's relatives in Alameda county were notified.

Magee's reputation as a realty agent and promoter was of national scope. For years he has been San Francisco agent for the Fair sisters, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Mrs. Theresa Oelrichs, managing their huge estates.

Magee was prominently connected with the rehabilitation of San Francisco's downtown business section following the disastrous fire of 1906.

He served as chairman of the Federated Association for harbor improvement. Throughout he publicly proclaimed his motto to be: "The greatest amount of work in the least possible time with the funds available," and this he made the basis of his efforts at removing from San Francisco the traces of its great disaster.

HANGED IN ARIZONA.

Former Soldier Is Executed at Globe for Participation in Murder of Two Hunters.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) May 30.—William Stewart, a former soldier, was hanged here yesterday for participation in the murder of Alfred Hillpot and Fred Kibbe, merchants, several years ago. He collapsed on the gallows and had to be supported until the trap was sprung. J. E. Goodwin, another discharged soldier involved in the crime, was executed several months ago.

Hillpot and Kibbe were murdered while out on a hunting trip. The motive was robbery. Goodwin and Stewart appealed to several courts, and finally to the President for clemency, which was denied.

VETERAN UNVEILS OWN MONUMENT.

THEN FIRES SALUTE TO HIMSELF IN A PHILADELPHIA CEMETERY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Melville H. Freas, Civil War veteran, unveiled a marble monument to himself in Ivy Hills Cemetery today to perpetuate the memory of his service and hardships he suffered in southern prisons.

Clad in an old faded blue uniform and with a musket he carried in the war, he marched to the cemetery and over the spot where he expects to be buried, pulled a cord, revealing a four-ton monument surmounted by a life-size statue of himself. Then Freas prayed for himself.

Members of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry refused to fire a salute, saying they would do so when he was dead. Freas lifted the musket and fired a salute over his own monument and ended by placing a wreath on his marble head.

Famine of Frogs Kills Storks.

[New York Tribune:] German country folk and villagers are concerned over the increasing number of deserted stork nests, which can only mean that the birds are dying out, since the stork always returns to its last year's nest.

The cause assigned has to do with the progress of German agriculture. The stork feeds on frogs and other animals that live in bogs and on moist meadows. German farmers have been industriously enlarging their arable land by draining the bogs and meadows; the supply of frogs is running short, and the storks are not finding enough food.

Close observers report that they have begun to eat young rabbits and even to rob the nests of smaller birds. Some report cases where old storks, driven to despair through lack of food, have killed their young and abandoned their nests.

In other cases the young are so poorly nourished that they are unable, when the autumn comes, to make the long fight to Africa, and their emaciated bodies are found dead on the fields.

Health Depends on Kidneys
Whole System Suffers If They Are Deranged.

Health is an absolute impossibility when the kidneys are out of order. The explanation is simple. Life cannot be lived without waste. The blood sweeps through arteries and veins, supplying vitality to every organ and part, gathers up the waste matter and carries it to the kidneys. The kidneys are a filter and it is their office to strain from the blood all the poisonous deposits and to pass them on to the bladder for expulsion. When any part of the kidneys is inflamed, the purifying is less perfectly done. The kidneys and veins are clogged with poisonous matter. If you are troubled with pains in the back, dizziness, aching joints, nausea, or other symptoms of kidney disease, you should lose no time in testing Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy. It is considered by many physicians to be an excellent remedy in the treatment of diseases of the kidneys, liver and blood. It repairs the tissues, soothes inflammation and irritation, awakens the torpid liver, aids digestion, stimulates the enfeebled organs, and will give you that sense of well-being which attends perfect health. A standing remedy for 37 years in the relief of thousands. At all druggists in 50c and $1.00 sizes. A free sample and other valuable information if you write Warner's SafeRemedies, Co., Dept. 205, Rochester, N. Y.

LOSING MONEY AS EXPECTED.

Municipal Trolley in Seattle Has Empty Treasury.

General Tax Levy to Make Up the Deficiency.

Four Hundred Thousand Investment Costly.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SEATTLE, May 30.—Seattle's new municipal trolley system is losing $12 a day, according to the official report, which will have to be made up by general taxation.

Division A of the municipal system, extending from Pike street and Third avenue to Salmon Bay at Thirteenth avenue West, and Dawson street, a distance of four miles, up to yesterday has been in operation six days and the receipts have been nearly $12 less than the interest on bonds and the salary list for each day of operation.

The line cost approximately [illegible]000 and at 4½ per cent. the interest amounts to $50 a day. Three motormen and a barn foreman are paid $40 a day, making a cost for two items alone of $90 a day. The receipts for the first six days of operation have averaged $78.38, ranging from $141.50, the highest, to [illegible], the lowest.

In addition to interest during the period of operation, there must be added to the deficit during the period of construction, covering nearly two years, the charge for current and the usual expense aside from salaries and depreciation. Presumably, the general fund, created by general taxation, will be required to care for the deficit until such time as the line is operated at a profit or meets its expenses.

RAILROAD MEN'S BARBECUE.

Five Hundred or More from San Francisco Are Entertained at Stockton Ranch.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

STOCKTON, May 30.—Five hundred or more railroad men, including many prominent visitors from San Francisco, were entertained at a barbecue today by Albert Lindley, a prominent land owner of this county. The party went to the Lindley ranch on a river steamer at 10 o'clock this morning.

Addresses were delivered by Prison Director C. L. Neumiller, W. T. Radford and Raymond Benjamin. Then there was singing by the Bohemian Club, composed of Vail Bakewell, William Hopkins and Charles Dickman. There were motor boat races, a baseball game and a barbecue for everyone.

One Student Constituted Himself a College Society and Made a Fight Like T. Roosevelt.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, May 30.—The "Society for the Study of Liquor Legislation" has gone to smash. It was composed, according to the Students' Affairs Committee, of just one member, Thomas M. Carlson, a junior student in the university. He has been severely criticised by the committee and ordered by President Benjamin Ide Wheeler to appear before him for reprimand.

Carlson, according to the committee, constituted himself the society. He sent out in April of this year letters bearing the society's name, signed by him as secretary, [illegible] the proposed "California dry" amendment. Investigation showed that Carlson was the whole society.

SALMON BROWN FAILS TO MARCH.

SON OF NOTED ABOLITIONIST STAYS AT HIS HOME IN PORTLAND, OR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND, (Or.) May 30.—"I wish I could march with the old soldiers today," said Salmon Brown, aged 78, "but my marching days are over. I couldn't go out at all if it wasn't for my old comrade here," and he held up a crooked hickory cane that was apparently as old as himself.

Salmon Brown is the only surviving son of "John Brown of Ossawatomie"—the enemy of slavery whose capture at Harper's Ferry helped to bring on the Civil War. Shots through the arm and shoulder during the Kansas border warfare, with a fall in later years, combined to keep the son in his wheel chair at home today, while his companions followed the flag in the Memorial Day procession.

When the Civil War began Salmon Brown went to the front with thirty-five men and became one of the companies of the [illegible] sixth Regiment. He was commissioned lieutenant, but there was feeling against him on account of his father and he resigned. He went to California, where he became a rancher.

"A REBEL SYM
G.A.R. MAN

[BY DIRECT WIRE—E

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 30.—"Mr. President, do you rebuke the uniform of [illegible]"

Col. Jasper T. Darling, speaking at memorial services at Elgin, thus [illegible]riated President Wilson for so long refusing to add his voice to the [illegible] of patriotic speakers who are honoring today the memories of the nation's dead.

Col. Darling's remarks were pointed. He said that President Wilson's sympathies "were and are with those who struggled to destroy the very republic over which he now presides."

Surrender of Wilson.

"The South is in the saddle," the President's advisers strove to avert a further injection of sectionalism into the political situation.

"Unless the President takes a different course at once we soon will hear the cry that Wilson is the President of the Confederacy," a Northern Democratic Congressman said to a Cabinet member only yesterday afternoon.

The Democratic leaders strove to induce the President to withdraw his declination of the G.A.R. invitation, but he refused. Then came the announcement that Champ Clark had accepted an eleventh-hour invitation to substitute for the President, which was communicated to him in Atlantic City yesterday afternoon. The Wilson Democrats were sickened by what amounted to a political coup on the part of the chief rival of the President. The acceptance of the invitation by the Speaker, they realized, would win for Clark the northern [illegible] which the President by his ill-advised act had sacrificed. It made some shudder to think of the situation into which this incident might ripen in 1916.

The pressure on the President to yield was increased by the leaders yesterday afternoon and evening, but they did not know their pleas had won until today.

MORE. MORE

Now they are hoping that the news [illegible] out in time to stem the flood of denunciation of the President at today's Memorial exercises and that the action of Mr. Wilson will result in healing the wounded sensibilities of the Union veterans and their thousands of sympathizers.

Secretary Tumulty was asked whether the fact that Speaker Champ Clark had accepted the G.A.R. invitation to speak at Arlington toady had any influence on the President's change of plan. The secretary replied that it had not.

"We knew nothing at all about Speaker Clark's plans," he answered, "and there is no intention in the President's presence at Arlington of in any way overshadowing the Speaker in today's programme. The President reconsidered his decision because he felt that a deliberate attempt had been made to distort his reasons. He had believed that it would be inadvisable to talk about war at a time like this when the Mexican situation was under consideration, and in view of the fact that it would be hard to avoid that topic the President had preferred to make his Arlington speech under different circumstances."

ADDRESSES BY CLARK AND WILSON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—President Wilson and Speaker Clark delivered addresses at the Memorial Day exercises under the auspices of the G.A.R. in Arlington National Cemetery today.

The President had not expected to participate, but feeling that a false construction had been placed upon his decision, decided today to attend and speak. Before the President's decision had been communicated to those in charge they had invited Speaker Clark to make the address of the day and he had come from Atlantic City for this purpose.

STATEMENT.

The reason for the President's change in his plans was explained by Secretary Tumulty in this statement:

"When the invitation was extended by the committee representing the Grand Army of the Republic of the District of Columbia, the President informed the committee that he did not feel the occasion would be opportune for the delivery of an appropriate address, and because of this he felt that he must decline the invitation, agreeing, however, to attend a memorial service at a later date. Evidently a false construction has been placed upon his action, and therein lies the reason for the change of programme. The President was not willing that his absence should be misconstrued."

President Wilson was applauded as he entered the vine-clad amphitheater in which the exercises were held, and when Dr. J. K. Gleeson, the commander of the Department of the Potomac, Grand Army of the Republic, presented him to the great audience, made up chiefly of members of patriotic societies, who carried their flags and wore the insignia of their orders.

In his introduction of Speaker Clark, Dr. Gleeson spoke of the Missouri leader as "the man who has always been a friend of the soldier, who is always fair and fights in the open."

Mr. Clark's reception was tumultuous. He opened his address with an expression of his appreciation of the hearty greeting.

WILSON'S SPEECH.

President Wilson spoke as follows:

"I have not come here today with a prepared address. The committee in charge of the exercises of the day has graciously excused me on the grounds of public obligations from preparing an address, but I will not deny myself the privilege of joining with you in an expression of gratitude and admiration for the men who perished for the sake of the Union. They do not need our praise. They do not need our admiration should sustain [illegible]. There is no immortality that is safer than theirs. We come not for their sakes but for our own, in order that we may drink at the same springs of inspiration from which they themselves drank.

"A peculiar privilege came to the men who fought for the Union. There is no other civil war in history, the stains of which were removed before the men who did the fighting passed from the stage of life. So that we owe those men something more than legal re-establishment of the Union. We owe them the spiritual re-establishment of the Union; for they not only reunited States, but they reunited the spirits of men. That is peculiar privilege came to the who fought for the Union. There other civil war in history, the of which were removed before who did the fighting passed the stage of life. So that we these men something more than re-establishment of the We owe them the spiritual ment of the Union; for only reunited States, but they the spirits of men. That is their unique achievement, unexampled anywhere else in the annals of mankind, that the very men whom they overcame in battle join in praise and gratitude that the Union was saved. There is something peculiarly beautiful and peculiarly touching about that.

"Whenever a man who is still trying to devote himself to the services of the nation comes into a presence like this, or into a place like this, his spirit must be peculiarly moved. A mandate is laid upon him which seems to speak from the very graves themselves. Those who serve this nation, whether in peace or in war, should serve the nation without thought of themselves. I need never speak in praise of war, you would not desire me to do so. But there is this peculiar distinction belonging to the soldier, that he goes into an enterprise out of which he himself can not get anything at all. He is giving everything that he hath, even his life, in order that others may live, not in order that he himself may obtain gain and prosperity. And just so soon as the tasks of peace are performed in the same spirit of self-sacrifice and devotion, peace societies will not be necessary. The very organization of society will be guarantee of peace.

"Therefore, this peculiar thing comes about, that we can stand here and praise the memory of these soldiers in the interest of peace. They set us the example of self-sacrifice, which if followed in peace will make it unnecessary that men should follow war any more. We are reputed to be somewhat careless in our discrimination between words in the use of the English language and yet it is interesting to note that there are some words about which we are very careful.

"We bestow the adjective 'great' somewhat indiscriminately. A man who has made conquest of his fellowmen for his own gain may display such genius in war, such uncommon qualities of organization leadership that we may call him 'great;' but there is a word which we reserve for men of another kind, and about which we are very careful; that is the word 'noble.' We never call a man 'noble' who serves only himself; and if you will look about through all the nations of the world upon the statues that men have erected—upon the inscribed tablets where they have wished to keep alive the memory of the citizens whom they would most honor—you will find that almost without exception they have erected the statue to those men who had a splendid surplus of courage to spend upon their fellow-men.

"Nobility exists in America without patent. We have no house of lords, but we have a house of fame, in which we elevate those who are the noblemen of our race, who, forgetful of themselves, study and serve the public interests, who have the courage to face any number and any kind of adversary, to speak what in their hearts they believe to be the truth.

"We admire physical courage, but we admire above all things else moral courage. I believe that soldiers will bear me out in saying that both come in time of battle. I take it moral courage comes in going in the battle and the physical courage in staying in. And there are battles which are just as hard to go into and just as hard to stay in as the battles of arms; and if the man will but stay and think never of himself there will come a time of grateful recollection when men will speak of him not only with admiration, but with that which goes deeper, with affection and with reverence.

"So that this flag calls upon us daily for service and the more quiet and self-denying the service, the greater the glory of the flag. We are dedicated to freedom and that freedom means the freedom of the human spirit. All free spirits ought to congregate on an occasion like this to do homage to the greatness of America as illustrated by the greatness of her sons.

"It has been a privilege to come and say these simple words, which I am sure are merely putting your thought into language, and I thank you for the opportunity to lay this little wreath of mine upon these consecrated graves."

OTHER SPEAKERS.

Senator Reed Smoot of Utah also spoke. Hilary A. Herbert, former Secretary of the Navy, and many prominent Confederates were seated on the speaker's platform. On June 4 the United Confederate Veterans will unveil a monument to their dead in Arlington Cemetery and the Grand Army of the Republic will participate in the ceremony. President Wilson also will speak on that occasion.

At the Capitol Grand Army veterans placed flags and flowers on the statue of Washington, Jefferson and others in the Hall of Fame. Representatives Beall of Texas put large bouquets of roses on the statues of Gens. Robert E. Lee and U. S. Grant. A large floral wreath decorated the Lincoln statue, having been placed there by Mrs. Vinnie Ream Hoxie, the sculptress.

Many Senators and Representatives spent the day out of town, some of them addressing Memorial Day meetings in near-by cities

BUSCH MEMORIAL HOTEL.

Sixteen-Story Building to Be Erected in St. Louis in Honor of the Late Brewer.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—As a memorial to his father August A. Busch has purchased one-half block of ground on the west side of Twelfth street between Market and Chestnut streets, on which he plans to erect a sixteen-story hotel to be known as "The Adolphus."

According to real estate dealers who sold him the property, the cost of the hotel has been estimated at $2,500,000 and probably will be constructed on the plan of the New Adolphus Hotel recently erected in Dallas by the Buschs.

The hotel will face City Hall Park on the south and Twelfth street on the east and will be one of the finest hotels west of New York, if the plans of August A. Busch are carried out.

Edward A. Faust, vice-president of the Anheuer-Busch Brewery, confirmed the fact that Busch has bought the property.

There are lumber yards and a garage on the site of the property.

SENATE PASSES OIL LAND BILLS.

CALIFORNIA PRODUCERS ARE DIRECTLY AFFECTED.

The Walsh Measure Authorizes Leases in Territory Withdrawn from Entry Where the Companies Have Been Handicapped by Indefinite Titles in Making Sales.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 30.—The Senate yesterday passed the Walsh bill to provide for leasing oil and gas lands withdrawn from entry, and the Pittman bill to amend the act "to protect the locators in good faith of oil and gas lands who shall have effected an actual discovery of oil or gas on the public lands of the United States, or their successors in interest," approved March 2, 1911.

LOCAL CONDITIONS BETTERED.
DEFINITE RIGHTS PROMISED.

In view of the fact that the passing of the oil land leasing bill by the Senate gives promise of early relief to a large number of small independent producing companies in the Midway-Maricopa district, a much more optimistic feeling was apparent in local oil circles Friday. Stocks affected by the withdrawal orders revealed an improved tone, although they showed some hesitancy on account of the indefinite character of the reports, and probably will not be materially affected until the contents of the bill, as passed by the Senate, is known.

The companies affected by the withdrawal order in many instances have lately been practically tied, hand and foot, as far as the operation of their properties is concerned. Matters came to a head last fall when the Standard Oil Company refused longer to take the oil produced, on account of the risk or paying twice for the product, namely, to the producers and to the government. Following this, most of the concerns had considerable difficulty in finding a market for their production, and some did not succeed until they entered a virtual receivership, with all profits going into escrow.

Although the bill as passed by the Senate may not prove a panacea for all the ills of the producers, in connection with the withdrawal orders, it is expected to improve their condition greatly. It will give them the right to operate and develop the land which they lease, and derive a profit therefrom, in consideration that the government paid a royalty.

It has been recognized that many of the producers entered the territory in good faith, and that therefore they are entitled to some rights in connection with the development of the disputed area. Also, it is considered dangerous to allow wells which have been producing in the oil territory to remain idle and shut down.

A number of prominent oil operators have been in Washington at various times, endeavoring to secure the passage of a land-leasing bill satisfactory to the producer, among them L. P. St. Clair, president of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency; T. A. O'Donnell and Timothy Spellacy.

KERMEEN CASE IS UNEXPLAINED.

Story of Harrell Killing Full of Discrepancies.

Election at Bisbee Shows End of Progressives.

May Ask ex-Gov. Kibbey to Run Once More.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) May 28.—It is evident that nothing approaching the truth has yet been developed in the case of W. W. Kermeen, now awaiting trial in Tombstone for the murder of J. F. Harrell, May 7. Kermeen, arrested at El Paso, at first denied his guilt, but on the train westward made a voluntary confession to Sheriff Wheeler and Deputy Sheriff Graham. He told how he and Harrell had gone on a long walk into the hills near Bisbee, how they had stopped to rest and how he had seized Harrell's gun and "in some [illegible] trance," has slain his friend. Apparently in order to lay the groundwork of a defense of emotional insanity, Kermeen declared, "God knows I am no murderer, as I had no intention to take anybody's life when we two went out hunting. I pray God that the people of Bisbee will study my case in regard to everything I have done."

Little credence is attached by the officers to the statement made by Kermeen of the circumstances of the killing, which seems to have been premeditated and due to a quarrel between the men over a woman then in Bisbee or incidental to a robbery of the victim. Yet the murderer missed $40 in bills in Harrell's pockets when the body was robbed of some valuable jewelry, including a gold watch and a diamond ring. The woman in the case, who registered at the Copper Queen Hotel as "Mrs. King," is said by Kermeen to now be in Los Angeles. Kermeen says he is 27 years old and that he was born in Reno, Nev. It is locally believed that he is a criminal with a hard history and inquiry concerning him is being made all along the Coast. It is noted especially that John Foster, Arizona representative of the Bankers' Protective Association, has been active in the chase after Harrell's murderer.

BISBEE ELECTION.

The Bisbee election demonstrated the continued supremacy of the Democratic party in southeastern Arizona and indicated a decline of the Progressive spirit that had assumed large proportions at the time of the last Presidential election. The vote for Mayor stood: Adams, Democrat, 832; Williams, Republican, [illegible]; Tonkin, Progressive, 412; Holm, Socialist, 197. In the number of straight tickets cast the Socialists were ahead of the Progressives. Two Republicans were elected, Wright as Street Commissioner and Butler as City Clerk. For the latter office the Progressives and Socialists had nominated [illegible], the former's candidate, Mrs. [illegible], being the widow of a popular [illegible] who died by accident. An interesting feature of the campaign was the appeal, apparently successful, made to the women by the Democratic County Committee, which introduced a political innovation, a dance, with refreshments, particularly for the benefit of the women. It is told that the supply of fifty gallons of ice cream and [illegible] gallons of lemonade fell short of the requirements of the attending multitude.

At Douglas, Hugh Ellis, on a nonpartisan ticket, was elected Mayor over Wimberly, Democrat, by a vote of 983 to 668. The non-partisan ticket was successful also in electing three of the six Councilmen, but the Democrats secured three places on the Council and all the minor offices.

A most significant political utterance was that of ex-Gov. Joseph H. Kibbey, who was in Bisbee lately to deliver the commencement address at the annual exercises of the High School. Though Gov. Kibbey was a strong supporter of Roosevelt for President, he denies that he formally entered the Progressive party.

KIBBEY'S CREED.

"There are a great many Republicans in the United States in the same position with me," said Gov. Kibbey. "I will never support the Progressive cause again and only did so in 1912 because of the personality of the campaign. There are thousands of Republicans over the country in the same fix and the reversion to the ranks of the old party are very marked. I was considered a Progressive when I was in the Governor's office. I was even called a dynamiter. But I left the structure of the State's good will and the industrial fabric thereof [illegible]." Efforts have been made to induce Gov. Kibbey to be a candidate for Governor at the next election, with the expectation that he will be indorsed also by the Progressives and that he would secure the support of many Democrats dissatisfied with the present trend of Democratic politics.

CHANCE FOR GRACE.

T. B. Grace, an El Paso [illegible] man, charged with collecting his employer's debts to his own personal advantage, and who was wanted for a few bad checks in Bisbee, who had a meteoric career as [illegible] a musical comedy show, and who was chased down in Seattle by his employer, James A. Dick of El Paso, is to have another chance in life. The chance has been offered by none other than Dick, who sees in his former employee the making of a good citizen, and who is willing to put him on his feet again in the right road. The young woman with whom Grace came to Arizona has been returned to her home in Los Angeles through Dick's liberality. Dick has taken Grace to El Paso, where he will resume his former employment.

DISEASE IN BISBEE.

Though a number of smallpox cases have appeared in the [illegible] quarter of Bisbee, the disease is expected to disappear with the coming of hot weather and no alarm whatever is felt concerning further spread of the disorder. Smallpox is known in the northern states of Mexico during the winter and has been brought into Arizona by refugees.

Monday afternoon a panic was created in Brewery Gulch by [illegible] Walters, a colored bootblack, who chased another colored man, Richard K. Fox, through the crowded thoroughfare, firing four shots at his quarry, the bullets narrowly missing scores of individuals of the innocent bystander type. One of the bullets struck Fox in the lower part of the body, making a wound that may prove serious.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) May 28.—It is ev ent that nothing approaching t ruth has yet been developed in t ase of W. W. Kermeen, now awai g trial in Tombstone for the mu er of J. F. Harrell, May 7. Ke een, arrested at El Paso, at first d ted his guilt, but on the train we ward made a voluntary confession t Sheriff Wheeler and Deputy Sher Graham. He told how he and Ha ell had gone on a long walk into th ills near Bisbee, how they h topped to rest and how he had seiz Harrell's gun and "in some uncause rance," has slain his friend. Appa ntly in order to lay the groundwor f a defense of emotional insanit Kermeen declared, "God knows I a o murderer, as I had no intentio o take anybody's life when we tw went out hunting. I pray God th he people of Bisbee will study m ase in regard to everything I hav one."

Little credence is attached by t fficers to the statement made Kermeen of the circumstances of t illing, which seems to have been pr meditated and due to a quarrel b ween the men over a woman then Bisbee or incidental to a robbery e victim. Railroad Record.

RAILWAY GAIN LEADS WORLD.

Mileage in United States Shows Most Expansion.

More Than Doubles that in European Countries.

Figures Given in Prussia Concede the Record.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 30.—Railways of the United States led the world in growth during 1912, although the railway mileage of the earth scored a larger gain in that year than any other reported in the last five years. The total railway mileage for the world at the end of 1912, stood at 670,023 miles, according to the compilation of the Royal Prussian Department of Public Works, which has just been received in Chicago and translated into English units by the Bureau of Railway News and Statistics. This total represents an expansion of 16,712 miles, or 2.5 per cent., for the year, and compares with 15,078 miles in 1911, while the largest previous gain in the five years was 16,672 in 1908.

Though the Prussian figures report new construction for the United States in 1912, as 5798 miles, which is larger than the actual growth for that year, the total operated mileage, placed at 249,790, is close to the actual operated mileage June 30, 1912. This reported gain in United States railways is more than double that of all railways of Europe, which added only 2296 miles in the year. North and South America account for nearly two-thirds of the entire gain in world mileage.

How pre-eminent the United States is as a railway country is shown by the fact that next to its mileage of nearly 250,000 comes Germany, with only 38,894 miles. Next in line among the leading individual countries, are European Russia, with 38,563 miles; British East Indian, with 33,403; France, 31,144; Austria-Hungary, 28,410; Canada, 26,662; Great Britain, 23,260; Argentina, 20,592; Mexico, 15,805; Brazil, 13,818; Italy, 10,800; Spain, 9517, and Sweden, 8849.

TWO WRECKS CONTRASTED.

THE TITANIC AND EMPRESS OF IRELAND DISASTERS.

Captain of the One Is Lost, Master of the Other Is Saved—Large Number of the Crew in the List of Survivors of the St. Lawrence Tragedy.

Reports of the Empress of Ireland disaster, the worst since the sinking of the Titanic, disclosed a striking contrast with the result of that memorable tragedy of April, 1912.

When the Titanic went down the captain of the ship was last seen alive on the bridge of his ship. Almost the entire crew gave up their lives. The word was "Women first," and members of the crew as well as men passengers gave up their places to women and went down in the icy waters with the huge hulk of the liner.

According to the reports concerning the Empress of Ireland, the saloon and second cabin passengers were in the majority among those who lost their lives. Most of those reported saved were said to be members of the crew and men of the steerage. Capt. Kendall, commander of the liner, was picked up from wreckage and rescued.

Descriptions of the Titanic horror, when 1595 persons lost their lives, are filled with tales of the heroism of officers and crew of the ship. Of 341 first cabin passengers on the Titanic 212 were saved, 154 of them women and children. Of 262 second cabin passengers 115 were saved and all except thirteen of those saved were women and children. Capt. Smith stood on the bridge directing his men at their work of launching the lifeboats. When the decks had been washed away he jumped and was lost in rolling waves. The same grave claimed many of the captain's heroic crew.

The disaster to the Titanic was caused by striking a submerged spur of an iceberg. The passengers were asleep in their rooms when the crash was heard. All were ordered on decks with their life belts. The passengers as a rule did not realize the danger and it was not until preparations were made to lower the lifeboats that the full import of the first order was realized. The women were ordered to the lower deck and the men made way for them, assisting them and the children to points of vantage. Then the crew began filling the lifeboats. It was not until twelve of the rafts had been filled with women and children that men were permitted to enter the boats. Only enough members of the crew left the liner with each lifeboat to handle the craft.

The ship's orchestra remained in the saloon, playing, while the crew hurried the work of life-saving. In the meantime the Titanic settled rapidly and in less than three hours after the ship had struck the iceberg the great liner went down, leaving nothing visible except the string of lifeboats and a mass of wreckage on the surface of the water, with here and there a human body. Most of the crew and officers had sacrificed their lives. They had worked until the last minute, loading passengers into the lifeboats. When the last effort had been extended and the boat was about to disappear members of the crew jumped and swam, but most of them were lost.

It developed after the rescued passengers had been brought to shore by the Carpathia that the officers of the Titanic were on the lookout, knowing that they were in the vicinity of icebergs, although the speed of the ship, it was said, was not slackened.

It was not until the ship began to take a heavy list to starboard that the passengers began to fear. The crew had been called to clear away the lifeboats, of which there were twenty, four of which were collapsible. The boats that were lowered on the port side of the ship touched the water without capsizing.

Kruz of Rochester, Minn., who had been listed as among the missing. Mr. Kruz, who was a former secretary of the Rochester Commercial Club and was prominent in business, was on his way to Europe with his daughter, who is still missing. A number of injured survivors of the Empress of Ireland are still in the hospital here. A partial list of them, with their injuries, was given out tonight as follows:

Gregory Strake, thigh fractured.
V. Fess, thigh fractured.
Mrs. A. E. Mullins, both legs fractured.
A. E. Hirst, fractured arm.
James McKeown, internal injuries.
R. Simonds, congestion of lungs.
Mrs. Simonds, severely bruised.
Mr. Wakefield, congestion of lungs.
His son, assistant purser of the Empress, was with him.
J. Brown, steward, internal injuries.
One foreigner, thought to be a Greek, unconscious; internal injuries.
Sampson, chief engineer, bad shock.
Seybold, first cabin, bad shock, slightly burned.
Capt. Kendall, shock, bruised.

VICTIM KNOWN IN REDLANDS.

One of Passengers on Empress of Ireland Had Only Left There Ten Days Ago.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, May 30.—One of the passengers believed to have been lost on the ill-fated Empress of Ireland, M. A. Darling, was well known in this city, which he left only ten days ago. He was the guest while here of T. Leo Peel, cashier of the Citizens' National Bank, who entertained him at the University Club. He was also the guest of many well-known people while here, including the Henry Fishers, John W. Gill and W. E. Rabbeth. Mr. Darling had been for a year in Shangai, China, connected with a British banking house. He was on his way home to London on leave of absence and stopped here on his way from San Francisco.

H. Clark, steward at the Redland Country Club crossed three times in the Empress of Ireland and has some interesting stories to tell about her. Mr. Clark says that in a period of eighteen months the ship never made her westward journey across the Atlantic without a death on board. He also calls to mind that eight years ago during a heavy storm the ship was struck by a broadside sea, which listed her so that water was dashed into her funnels. For three miles she rushed along under this frightful list crew and passengers expecting every minute that she would capsize. Then she righted.

According to Mr. Clark the ship was splendidly equipped and manned and her captain every morning had a thorough examination of the safety apparatus and the water-tight compartments. He told Mr. Clark on one occasion that the compartments were so constructed that even if the ship should be cut in two the halves would still float. The fallacy of his belief is now proven. Mr. Clark believes that the ship was in some degree top heavy, because of the way in which she rolled during heavy seas.

GIGANTIC LINER ON FIRST TRIP.

LIVERPOOL, May 30.—The Cunard line steamer Aquitania, Great Britain's largest liner, started on her maiden voyage from this port to New York today.

RED CROSS AID FOR SURVIVORS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—While aid has not been asked by Canadian and British organizations in behalf of survivors of the steamer Empress of Ireland and those dependent upon victims of the disaster, the American National Red Cross Society today announced it would forward to the proper authorities any contributions sent to it for that purpose by Americans.

CHOOSING POLICE IN PARIS.

Minute Examination Is Made Into the Record of an Applicant for a Position on the Force.

[Dallas News:] Every summer brings to Paris, among the hordes of American visitors, a number of men vitally interested in the administration of the police departments of various American cities. They come to investigate how "these things are done in Europe," with a view to improving their own departments at home. They are welcome visitors at the Paris Prefecture of Police, and in the person of Emile Laurent, general-secretary of the Paris Prefecture, they have found a courteous host, but at the same time an official who has asked almost as many questions as he has answered. Mr. Laurent's curiosity as to police conditions in America has given him a rather definite opinion as to what may be the matter with the American system. This is what he has to say on the subject:

"It is not my business to criticise the American police, but I venture to express my personal opinion that a fundamental error in the American system is that insufficient attention is given by the administrations of police in American cities to the character of the recruits. Our system in France is to make a minute examination into the record of the applicant for admission to the force. We assume that a man who has at any time been guilty of the least dishonesty has a flaw in his character which will affect his conduct when he is exposed to the temptations of a policeman.

"The prefectures of police assume that if a man has reached the age of 24 years without a blemish on his character he will remain honest for the rest of his life. Candidates must have their written records of conduct while in school and in the army. Even a single bad mark often disqualifies. I do not consider the French system infallible, of course, but the rarity of scandals indicates that it is a good one."

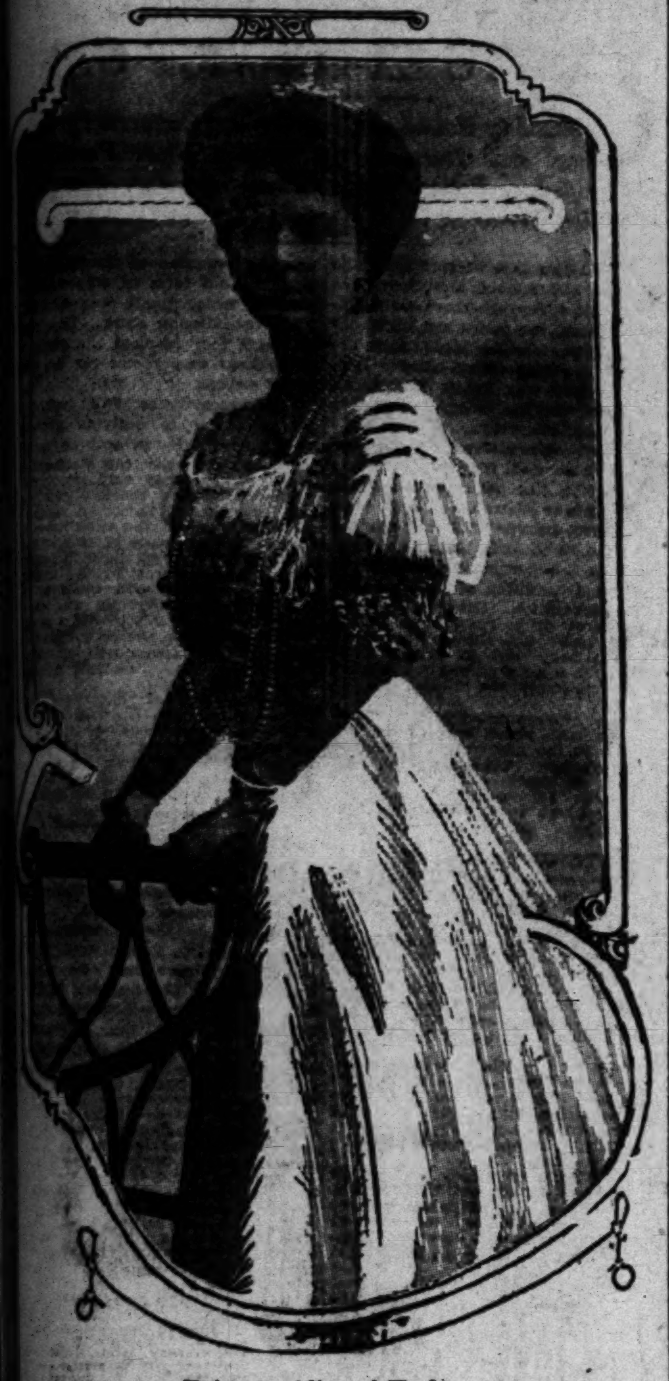
Seeks to be Popular Among Canadians.



Princess Alice of Teck,

for her activity in charitable work in London, who will accompany her to the Dominion, where he will assume office as Governor-General.

Personality.

NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL, WILL SAIL IN OCTOBER.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, May 30.—Princess Alice will go to Canada in October with her husband, Prince Alexander of Teck, the new Governor-General, who will succeed the Duke of Connaught. They were married in 1904. She is 38 years of age, and they have one son and one daughter. The Princess is a most amiable woman, deeply interested in charitable work, very earnest and sincere, with little regard for the foibles of fashionable society.

It is hoped she will become popular with the Canadians. She already has developed plans for her life in the new fields. Both she and her husband have made a study of their new work in the west, with special reference to the personality of the people among whom they are going in an official capacity.

It is considered likely they will adopt a different attitude than that of the Duke of Connaught, who was inclined to be distant and burdened to some extent by his aristocratic tendencies. The Prince and his wife have chosen every occasion to meet Canadians and acquaint themselves with the temper, needs and desires of their forthcoming field of endeavor.

EASTERNERS ENTER FULLERTON FIELD.

TWENTY-YEAR LEASE COVERS VALUABLE OIL-BEARING PROPERTIES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, May 30.—A new oil concern backed by easterners is to enter the Fullerton field at once. Murray Bros. of Pittsburgh have taken a long lease on the seventy-five-acre ranch of the George B. Reeve estate, four miles northwest of Fullerton. The signed agreement covers a period of twenty years and work is to be begun at once.

The first well is to be sunk to a depth of 4500 feet and while the contract only calls for the drilling of one well a year, if an oil strike is made in the first hole of course a large number of wells will be put down in short order.

The Reeve estate is to receive a royalty of one-sixth of all the oil produced and the Murray Bros. are also said to be paying a liberal bonus.

The first well will be put down in the northeast corner of the tract, about one-half mile northwest from the Standard Oil Company's McNally well, and the famous No. 7 well on the Emery lease.

The Reeve ranch is under a high state of cultivation, being set to fruit trees. It is also improved with a residence and other buildings. As ranch property alone it is valued at over $125,000. It was purchased several years ago by the late George B. Reeve, who for many years was second vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway Company.

Well-informed parties still declare that the great gas well, recently brought in by the Standard Oil Company on the Murphy lease, northwest of Fullerton, is the largest gas-producer ever tapped in the West. Rather than take any chances on the heavy pressure blowing out the casing, the operators open up the well occasionally to allow the gas to escape. When the gas is shut off the pressure is over 250 pounds to the square inch.

KNIFED IN ARGUMENT.

Mexican with Views on War Situation Beaten with Bottle and Severely Slashed.

Presumably because of his pronounced opinions regarding the merits of the Mexican situation, Eleno Saldano, a Mexican laborer employed at Camp No. 9 on the Long Beach line, was attacked by fellow-countrymen in front of No. 1542 Naud street last night and probably fatally injured.

Saldano had been drinking and engaged in an argument on San Fernando street.

Later in the night he was found unconscious and at the Receiving Hospital it was learned that his injuries had been caused by bottles and knives. The left ear was entirely cut through, in addition to nearly a dozen knife wounds on the head. His skull may have been fractured.

COMPETE IN ORATORY.

Oregonian and Pasadena Students Win Prizes in Contest Held by Prohibition Association.

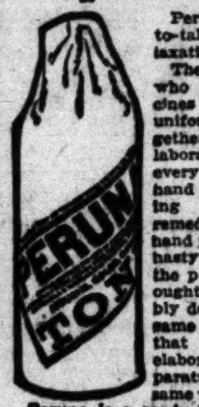
The western interstate oratorical contest of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association was held at the University Methodist Church, at No. 1017 West Thirty-fourth street, at 8 o'clock last evening.

S. W. Grathwell of the University of Oregon won the first prize on his speech on the subject, "Liquor vs. Labor and Capital." Guy McHenry of the Nazarene University of Pasadena won the second prize on his oration, "Our Nation's Dishonor." Paul H. Dupertius of the University of Washington spoke on the theme, "Is Prohibition a Success?" Robert H. Scott of the University of California gave an oration on "Our Nation's Demand for Self-Protection."

The ladies' quartette of the Nazarene University of Pasadena sang several campaign songs, and the First Nazarene Church military band played some rousing music.

Earlier in the day a meeting at the University of Southern California was addressed by several speakers.

Ready-to-take Tonic-Laxative



Peruna is a ready-to-take tonic and laxative.

There are people who believe medicines can be more uniformly put together at a scientific laboratory where every facility is at hand for compounding ready-to-take remedies. An offhand prescription and hasty preparation of the prescription ought not and probably does not give the same uniform result that a deliberate, elaborate, costly apparatus for doing the same work could give.

Peruna is a ready-to-take laxative tonic, made by doctors who know how, with plenty of means at their command. Everything has been done to make it a reliable, accurate, efficient and up-to-date family medicine.

Don't Be Fooled—Get What You Ask For

When you ask your dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, don't let him give you any other. Unscrupulous merchants sometimes take advantage of the nation-wide popularity of by offering imitations and substitutes of the genuine Duffy's to make larger profits. Many even go so far as to offer you in bulk cheap concoctions which they claim are "just as good as Duffy's."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

Duffy's Is Never Sold In Bulk

It is always put up in sealed bottles. Shun all imitations and insist on the genuine. There are several distinguishing points on the genuine Duffy bottle, with which you should familiarize yourself. See that the seal over the cork is unbroken—that our name and monogram are blown in the bottle, and that the label bears our trade-mark of the "Old Chemist" and the signature of the Company

"TIZ" is magical, grand, wonderful for tired, aching, swollen, smarting feet. Ah! how comfortable, how happy you feel. Your feet just tingle for joy; shoes never hurt or seem tight.

Get a 25-cent box of "TIZ" now from any druggist or department store. End foot torture forever—wear smaller shoes, keep your feet fresh, sweet and happy. Just think! a whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents. [Advertisement.

VALLEY DEMOCRAT ON UNIQUE TOUR.

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNORSHIP HERE IN COURSE OF TRIP TO EMBRACE STATE.

Charles King of Hanford, the "farmer candidate" for the Democratic nomination for Governor, arrived here yesterday from the north and is at the Alexandria. After several days in Los Angeles and the beach cities, during which he will confer with local Democratic leaders, the candidate will leave for San Diego and a continuation of his auto tour of the State.

The Hanford man is undertaking a campaign never before tried in California. He started last Monday from his home bailiwick on a three-month automobile tour of the whole State, during which he is planning to stop, not only at county seats and the larger towns, but at every hamlet and village.

During the early part of the campaign, in fact until the beginning of July, he will make practically no speeches, but will spend his time in each community principally in becoming acquainted with those Democratic leaders he does not already know and with citizens generally.

King is a ranchman and stockman with interests that cover all parts of the San Joaquin Valley.

TRACE VERDUGO CRIME TO EX-CONVICT GANG.

Charred Body Found at Cemetery and Connected With Looting and Burning of Mission Store Partially Identified — Police Hunt Three Former Pals of Paroled Criminal.

AFTER two days of search for the men who robbed and then fired the Casa Verdugo store early Friday morning, the police last night obtained evidence which leads to the belief that the crisp corpse lying at Button's morgue was Frank Timlin, an ex-convict who has been on probation for the last two years.

Efforts were made yesterday by Detectives Rico and Williams to locate Timlin, who has been missing from his ranch near Watts for several days. Several persons who knew him slightly attempted to identify the charred remains at the morgue yesterday, but the burned condition of his face prevented recognition. Others who knew him well are to be rounded up at the morgue today and the police believe that the body will be identified as Timlin. In a general way he answers the description of the missing ex-convict.

Several clews pointed to Timlin and the gang with which he formerly operated. In the first place, the nature of the robbery indicated that old methods of Timlin and his pals had been used. In the second place, the fleeing robbers were making straight for Timlin's old rendezvous near Watts.

HISTORY OF GANG.

Two years ago Detectives McAuliffe and McCauley of the East Side Station rounded up a gang of ex-convicts who had stolen groceries by the wagon load. From a store at Twelfth street and Maple avenue the men had taken two loads of goods, both of which later were recovered by the detectives. In this gang were Jack Edwin, alias Eddie Gardner; H. Lithal, Jack Hickey, Carl Barnett and Timlin.

Timlin and another turned State's evidence and were given five years' probation. Three of the men were also connected with a big swindle at Ventura, when they stole $500 worth of beans and shipped them to the Los Angeles market.

With Timlin and Jack Hickey out on probation, Edwin and Barnett were liberated from the penitentiary early this month. An early reunion was held, with Lithal the only one missing, his term not being up for several months yet.

Detectives Rico and Williams yesterday obtained photographs of the entire gang and Timlin was identified by three persons living in the vicinity of the Casa Verdugo store. His body at the morgue was partially identified, and the police believe that the arrest of the former ex-convicts is only a matter of a few hours.

SECOND IDENTIFICATION.

Another of the ex-convicts was partially identified at Casa Verdugo yesterday. Three men had been seen in the vicinity of the Mission store for two or three days before it was burned. It is the theory of the police that the gang went to the scene late Thursday night in a wagon from the Timlin rendezvous near Watts. It was the intention of the gang to repeat the old form of wholesale robbery by taking goods, wagons and all from the Mission store. The wagon in which they reached the scene was to be kept empty and for an emergency escape.

This same gang two years ago caused terror to outlying groceries. They operated for several weeks, robbing many places in the southern end of the city. They sold groceries at wholesale at any market and posed as purchasers of bankrupt stocks.

All members of the gang have done time. The presence of convict-made shoes on the feet of the man found at Evergreen Cemetery Friday morning, burned to death, was the first clew the police had that he was an ex-convict and probably one of a gang.

The autopsy on the body of the man supposed to be Timlin will be made today at the Button morgue on North Main street.

Conclusive proof that the firing of the Casa Verdugo store was planned was obtained yesterday by Chief Heald of the Glendale police, when he learned that two lawn hoses in the immediate neighborhood had been cut to prevent their use in extinguishing the blaze.

DEFENDS PASTOR.

Bible Students' Association Frames Reply to Ministerial Union that Called Lecturer Heretic.

Replying to the compliments recently passed to Pastor Russell by the Ministerial Union and the Church Federation of Los Angeles, in calling him a heretic, the Southern California convention of the International Bible Students' Association, in session here, yesterday adopted resolutions defending the pastor and itself.

The resolutions say in part that the International Bible Students' Association is an association regardless of denominational lines, devoted to the promotion of Christian knowledge. Its work is world-wide and is carried on by means of the publication and distribution at cost or free, of Bibles, Bible helps and religious journals, by free lectures and by the presentation of Bible truths in moving pictures.

The Photo Drama of Creation, the resolutions say, a presentation of Bible truths, in opposition to infidelity and higher criticism, is now being presented free to large audiences in forty cities.

AMAZONS DEFY POLICE CHIEF.

Mexican Women Scratch and Fight With Brooms.

Dispute With Gringo Family Cause of Trouble.

Bicycle Rider Fatally Injured in Auto Collision.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, May 30.—No suffragettes ever made it hotter for a London policeman than two Mexican women did for Chief of Police McIntyre and Detective Betts yesterday morning.

The Chief had no sooner lined up the members of the department for the Memorial Day parade than a telephone alarm was sounded from a lodging-house at No. 201 North Fair Oaks avenue. Trouble that had been brewing there between a Mexican family and an American family, each of which has apartments in the building, had developed into open warfare between the women. The police were advised that Mrs. Marie Romero, the Mexican matron, had run amuck with a broom.

There was no doubt of this, for when Chief McIntyre and Betts arrived they received the full onslaught with that weapon, and when they sought to defend themselves by seizing the woman, she grasped a fire extinguisher and let go at the Chief with that. He caught it just in time to save a crack on the head.

At this stage of the game Mrs. Romero departed for a building in course of construction a few blocks distant to get her husband that he might help rout the police, and her [illegible]-year-old daughter, Josephine, held the fort. She suceeded in scoring a few scratches on Chief McIntyre.

The elder woman found her husband and on the way back with him stopped at the police station long enough to say that she was returning to the apartment-house to kill everybody there. She was arrested as soon as she arrived and stood up in the police automobile to make an oration, declaring that the Mexican soldiers would soon arrive and put an end to the rule of the "gringos." Her husband took no hand in the fight.

Later a misdemeanor charge was lodged against Mrs. Romero, who was locked up in the City Jail. The daughter was released.

Louis E. Barnes, a gardener employed by C. W. Durand, was perhaps fatally injured late yesterday afternoon while riding his bicycle on East Colorado street between Madison and Los Robles avenues. He was struck by an automobile driven by Henry W. Davidson of No. 139 South Catalina

NILAND, May 30.—A party of fifty-two men and women from Los Angeles arrived here tonight after a day spent in studying the agricultural resources of Imperial Valley. This evening they are guests at the first dance ever given in this new town. The visitors have motored from Calexico to Holtville and Brawley and through El Centro and [illegible]. At each stop they were entertained by delegations representing the organizations and by city officials.

The party, inclusive not only of the tourists, but of a number of Los Angeles business men, arrived at Calexico for breakfast. In the dining hall of the Hilyer House they were addressed by the Mayor and speakers from the Merchants' Association.

A motor car ride was then made to the C-M ranch, the largest single ranch in the world. They were shown [illegible] acres of cotton, great herds of cattle and wide areas of alfalfa and [illegible].

At El Centro a "souvenir dinner" was given at the Hotel Oregon. Everything served was grown in Imperial Valley. Addresses were delivered, telling the history of that district and town.

STUNG TO DEATH BY ANGRY BEES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MOORPARK, May 30.—Stung to death by bees was the fate of a fine riding pony belonging to Ray McFadden, a rancher here. McFadden had ridden some distance to his apiary and, dismounting, tied the pony under an oak tree while he proceeded to extract honey from his hives. Hearing a disturbance, he looked and saw the pony literally covered with the angry insects and in a short time the animal died in terrible agony from the poisonous stings. The morning was cloudy, and the bees had been noticed to be in an ill-humor, but such attacks are, fortunately, very rare.

Memorial Day.

VETERANS OF THE LINE STACK ARMS FOR A DAY.

Do Honor to Nation's Dead of Other Wars and the Border Takes Care of Itself While Heads Are Bowed. Services Are Held in All Cities of Southern California. Tons of Flowers in Fragrant Homage.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

IMPERIAL, May 30.—Regulars from the front at Calexico did honor to the nation's dead in the cemetery here today, two carloads, including members of troops D. and L. of the First United States Cavalry and a detachment of the Sixty-first Coast Artillery, coming up from the border to attend the services.

Each of the twenty-three graves of veterans were mounted by United States flags. The salutes were fired and taps sounded by members of L and D troops.

The soldiers were brought from the boundary by the Imperial Cemetery Association, of which William Wessel is president. The men were entertained at luncheon by the association. They stopped at El Centro en route here to pay military honors at the graves of three veterans buried there.

A total of 423 graves at the Imperial Cemetery were covered with evergreens and with all the flowers available.

Services were conducted at the Woman's Relief Corps monument by Rev. M. H. H. Lee, who is City Recorder and Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The decoration of the Woman's Relief Corps monument here was in commemoration of the unknown dead never removed from Southern battlefields or sleeping in the cemeteries in the South.

Considering the remoteness of this day from the Civil War and the newness of Imperial Valley, a remarkable number of veterans became pioneers here.

PASADENA.

PASADENA, May 30.—Never before have the graves of the soldier dead at Mountain View Cemetery been so profusely decorated as yesterday. Tons of flowers were taken to the cemetery. They came from every part of the city. The school children appeared at Library Park, where the exercises were held at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, laden with the most beautiful blossoms the Crown City has ever produced, and residents brought automobile-load after automobile-load of them. There were so many flowers when all were assembled that it required two street cars to transport them and the veterans who carried them to the cemetery.

The morning exercises at Library Park followed a short parade, which formed at the G.A.R. headquarters and marched directly to the park. It was headed by a platoon of police. Next rode Grand Marshal G. M. Burlingame and his staff. The formation continued as follows: Municipal Band, Company I, N.G.C.; Grand Army fife and drum corps, Sons of Veterans, Robley D. Evans Post G.A.R., Los Angeles; uniformed Women's Relief Corps, Robley D. Evans post; John F. Godfrey post, G.A.R., Pasadena; Women's Relief Corps, John F. Godfrey post; Spanish War Veterans, Woman's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans, Pasadena Boy Scouts.

The members of Robley D. Evans post of Los Angeles were the guests of the local post yesterday and were given the position of honor in the parade and in the seats at the park where the exercises were held.

At the park the ritualistic ceremonies which were presided over by Grand Marshal Burlingame, were preceded by an address by City Commissioner Metcalf. He reviewed briefly the history of the United States and paid an eloquent tribute to those who fought in the country's different wars, especially those of the Civil War. The memory of those who gave their lives at Vera Cruz also was honored and floral tributes for them were included with the others.

It has long been the custom to hold evening services on Memorial Day, but as this year Memorial Day fell on Saturday it was decided that it would be well to postpone these until Sunday. They will be held tonight at the First Baptist Church and the address will be made by Rev. S. W. Cummings.

VENICE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, May 30.—The Memorial Day parade formed at the head of Windward avenue and marched to the pier auditorium, where the memorial services were held. In the parade were the naval militia, in command of Lieut. A. H. Woodbine, naval veterans, veterans of other branches of military service, city officials, Spanish War Veterans, school children with flowers, Fraternal Brotherhood, Venice Municipal Band and various other organizations.

Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of Temple Baptist Church of Los Angeles, was the orator of the day. A large choir from the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Los Angeles sang between speeches. Rev. F. L. Holmes, pastor of the Venice Union Church, spoke. Motion pictures of the first battleship to leave for Vera Cruz, and other pictures of the recent war were shown. Judge Curtis D. Wilbur was presiding officer and delivered an address. After the benediction the procession went to the end of the pier, where at the sounding of a signal gun by the naval militia, flowers were strewn on the waters. The ceremony was closed with the national salute of twenty-one guns.

SAN BERNARDINO.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, May 30.—The formal opening of Urbita Springs Park, the annual memorial ceremonies of the G.A.R., W.R.C., and affiliated organizations, and a big barbecue picnic of the Redlands, Riverside and San Bernardino Elks at Harlem Springs, were features of the day in San Bernardino.

Fully 10,000 persons attended the first day's probramme at Urbita, which made its official summer's debut. Sports, band concerts and entertainment of various descriptions, and a pyrotechnic display late tonight, were features.

The veterans held services at Lugo Park, following a great parade in which several thousand, including most of the school children of the city, participated. Rev. Charles H. Scott was the orator of the day.

The Elks festivities began with a flag raising at Harlem Springs at 1 o'clock this afternoon when Dist.-Atty. R. B. Goodcell delivered the memorial address. Several hundred Elks were in attendance. Following sports during the afternoon a beef barbecue was the attraction at 6 o'clock this evening.

SANTA MONICA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, May 30.—Memorial Day was observed here today by many citizens and veterans of several wars. One appropriate historical emblem to be displayed was the flag under which the late President William McKinley took the oath of office at the White House in Washington. The old flag was on exhibition, and many who were interested and who had been present at the inauguration, examined the relic.

POMONA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, May 30.—Mayor Vandegrift's request that all business houses close from 9 o'clock in the morning to 1 o'clock was carried out. Vicksburg Post, G.A.R., and the W. R.C. formed a procession in the morning at the armory and included were Co. D, N.G.C., and school children, who decorated the graves of the veterans with flags and flowers. By special invitation Confederate veterans participated in the exercises.

REDLANDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, May 30.—Memorial Day ceremonies under the direction of Bear Valley Post and the Women's Relief Corps were held at Library Park. Company G, N.G.C., the High School cadets, the school children in general and the Redlands Municipal band, also participated. There was a short parade and at the park musical and literary exercises were held, including the reading of Lincoln's address at Gettysburg, by Harold Kincher and an address by the Rev. Herbert Murkett.

SOUTH PASADENA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, May 30.—Besides the twenty or more South Pasadena members of John F. Godfrey Post, No. 93, G.A.R., who participated in the Memorial Day parade in Pasadena today nearly every veteran in the city joined in the line of march, going to Pasadena in a special car in a body. All business houses closed and the residents went in parties to the beaches, mountains or canyons.

ONTARIO.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, May 30.—All Ontario joined today with the local post of the G.A.R., and the Women's Relief Corps in honoring the nation's dead, an elaborate programme of exercises being conducted at Bellevue Cemetery. The speakers included Commander E. J. Davis, Rev. William Moris Perry, James Bracewell, Mrs. Ralph Gage Spencer, Walter Hastings Olney and Mrs. G. Ben Henke sang, and the Chaffey High School band, under the direction of Mrs. Mary LeDuc Chapin furnished instrumental music.

ANAHEIM.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ANAHEIM, May 30.—Malvern Hill Post paid honor to the dead heroes in the Anaheim Cemetery today. The line formed at the cemetery gates and, preceded by the Fullerton band, those assembled marched to the stand where the exercises were held. The Yorba Linda Quartette sang several selections. A tribute to the unknown dead was given by Rev. Frank Dowling of Fullerton. The Yorba Linda school children decorated the graves under the direction of the Daughters of Veterans.

SAN GABRIEL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN GABRIEL, May 30.—A committee from Stanton Relief Corps of Los Angeles decorated graves of veterans in the cemeteries here Friday afternoon, in pursuance of a custom they have always observed. The committee included Mrs. Harriet Evans, Mrs. Lucy Poor of Alhambra, Mrs. F. A. Rudibaugh and Mrs. H. W. Cowles of San Gabriel.

Los Angeles Harbor.

WHARF READY IN ONE MONTH.

First Municipal Dock Best in the World.

Massive Pile Nearly Done for Big Business.

Steel Freight Sheds Next to Be Constructed.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, May 30.—The last reinforced concrete pile for the great municipal dock No. 1 in the outer harbor was driven tonight, and within another month the great wharf will be ready for commerce.

The municipal dock is 2525 feet long and will cost $450,000. Shipping men from all over the country have inspected the work while it has been under construction and it has been pronounced probably the most substantial wharf in the world. There are over 1200 massive concrete piles to support the wharf and 1100 sheet piles to hold the filled land back of the wharf.

There yet remains 400 feet of the concrete deck to be laid. When completed the whole will be covered with asphalt surface. A contract for the paving has been sublet to the Barber Asphalt Company by Snare & Triest of New York, general contractors for the entire structure.

TRANSIT SHED.

As soon as the wharf is accepted by the city, work will be begun on the great steel transit freight shed. This contract was awarded to the Llewellyn Iron Works of Los Angeles. This shed is to be 1800 feet long and 100 feet wide. It is said to be the largest structure of its kind west of the Mississippi River. It will cost over $80,000 fully equipped.

As yet there is no approach to the outer harbor wharves except over the tracks of the Southern Pacific Railroad, but the Harbor Commission is building a temporary road through Timm's Point and it is expected that work will be authorized soon for the removal of the entire point and the construction of a sea-level boulevard that will permit auto trucks to drive onto the wharf.

Back of the big wharf is eighty acres of filled land known as the Huntington fill, which has been improved at the expense of the city. The entire work cost over a million dollars, and will afford sites for great warehouses for which plans have been drawn. At the outer end of the fill it is proposed to build modern passenger terminals that will be more accessable than those of any other part of the harbor.

TEAM FERRY.

The new team ferry built for the San Pedro Transportation Company by Fulton & Woodley for service between San Pedro, Wilmington, Terminal Island and East San Pedro will be in service for the first time tomorrow, carrying passengers to the Japanese cruisers Asama and Azuma, due here tomorrow morning from Honolulu. The cruisers will be here a week and large crowds of visitors are expected from Japanese colonies in various parts of Southern California.

The new ferry service will not begin until the Harbor Commission has provided suitable ferry slips and landings. At the present time there is no landing on either side of the channel where teams can approach the wharf and be driven onto a boat.

Big delegations of members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles from Los Angeles and surrounding towns are expected here tomorrow to attend the picnic to be given at Point Firmin. There will be a programme of sparing and wrestling exhibitions, races, dancing and broncho busting. A big barbecued dinner will be served at noon.

RABBIT HUNTERS ARE BLAMED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, May 30.—A jury late yesterday decided that George A. Dobson, a rancher near Upland, could not be held for damages, because rabbit hunters started a fire on his property, which spread to the public highway and destroyed an automobile truck loaded with furniture belonging to Amos Gotham. The plaintiff sued for triple damages on the grounds of neglect, but on one ballot, a verdict was reached for the defendant. Dobson would have been stuck $21,000 if the suit had been successful.

The Land and the Water

The Crops and the Market: The Present and the Future

The watered, ready-to-plant lands fulfill every wish of the practical farmer and the prudent investor. The present is the best time to buy land anywhere. It is the psychological instant at PERRIS IRRIGATED FARMS. The price is low. The increasing value is continually urging the price upwards. The demand grows because of the unusual desirability of the conditions. The swelling tide of success on every hand, in every variety of farming that has been tried, proves the remarkable fertility of the soil. Besides alfalfa and general farm products, the utmost success follows the development of deciduous fruit orchards, peaches, apricots and Bartlett pears reaching perfection. Expert judges could not be attracted in such increasing numbers if these unusual advantages did not stand up under the severest examination.

Any Size Tract Large or Small $150 Including the Water Rights

Study the map and note the location. Near Perris, with railroad station on the lands; not far from Riverside, the metropolis of the citrus district; so close to Los Angeles that the round trip may be made in a day; on the way to San Diego by proposed railways; in the heart of a fertile inland valley, 1500 feet above sea level, and enjoying healthful climate, scenic beauty, unexampled prosperity and a future value without a farm and orchard rival in the State.

A "Missouri" excursion from this office, through the orange groves, with free luncheon and free auto ride through the orchards and farms of Perris Valley, past the new High School and along the $50,000 irrigating system of Perris Irrigated Farms, costs only $2.40. That's the right way to buy land. See for yourself and get a square deal. Come in and go.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. MAY 30, 1914

Editor Times,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Wish to thank your paper and friends in your city for congratulations on our great Indianapolis victory. The Maxwell 25 represented the only popular priced American car to finish and win a place in this great gruelling contest in which all world's records were broken. The Maxwell 25 exceeded in endurance and speed six foreign cars and sixteen American cars with more power for its weight than any other car in the world. The Maxwell 25 is upholding American engineering supremacy in every corner of the civilized world.

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Historical Meeting.

The Historical Society will meet in the east hall of the University of Southern California tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The lectures will be "Mormons in California" by Mrs. L. S. Gaines, and "The History of Rancho La Brea" by Lawrence Steaman.

How to Make Your Garden Grow.

The Los Angeles County Horticultural Society will meet in Kruckeberg Hall, Franklin street, on Tuesday evening, when W. W. Felgate of Sierra Madre will read a paper on "Soil Treatment for Garden Crops." The meeting is open to the public.

Picnic Arrangements.

A meeting of the West Virginia State Society will be held tomorrow evening in Fraternal Brotherhood Hall, to make final arrangements for the annual picnic, which will be held in Echo Park on June 20, the date being the fifty-first anniversary of the admission of that State to the Union.

Wisconsin Reception.

To make plans for the Wisconsin booth at the coming carnival of States, and as a reception to tourists from the State, the Wisconsin society will hold its final meeting for the season tomorrow evening at the Federation headquarters on West Seventh street. All visitors now in the city are requested to accept the invitation.

Ad Club Dinner and Dance.

The Los Angeles Ad Club will give a formal dinner and dance at the Hotel Clark on Wednesday evening, as a sort of farewell function to the delegates to the Toronto convention, and at which the Ad Club Quartette will be the hosts. The dance will be given in the hotel lobby and tables will be reserved for those who wish to take dinner preceding the evening's amusement. The delegates will leave on Monday evening, June 8, making many stops en route, arriving at Toronto June 20.

Ball and Banquet.

A grand ball and banquet in connection with the annual election of the Missouri State Society will be given in the Fraternal Brotherhood building on Tuesday evening. Table talks will be made by Rev. C. C. Selecman, Frank G. Tyrrell, Dr. C. W. Bryson, R. C. Mitchell, T. B. Duncan, Dr. J. K. Williams and Mrs. H. G. Henley. There will be a violin solo by Miss Bessie Bailey and music by an orchestra. Dancing will follow the dinner.

Hadley Home Indorsed.

The Municipal Charities Commission has indorsed the work of the Hadley Memorial Home, which is conducted under the auspices of the Episcopal churches of the city, George Chaffey being president, Dr. J. E. Cowles vice-president, and Bishop Johnson the stated visitor. The superintendent is W. T. Hadley, the house director, J. C. Willoughby, and the institution is well known for the excellent work it has done for needy men in years past.

New Jersey Picnic.

Nearly seventy-five former residents of Vineland, N. J., gathered at a picnic held yesterday in Eastlake Park. Old memories were renewed at a basket luncheon, and speeches and reminiscences offered by Fred S. Wheeler, Mrs. A. B. Avis of Pomona, Frank Rublee, M. S. Sawyer of Riverside, Robert C. Root, Pacific Coast secretary of the American Peace Society, and C. E. York, secretary of the Vineland Society, that arranged the affair.

Leg Broken in Wreck.

A "joy spin" on a motorcycle upon which he and his 3-year-old daughter, Thelma, were riding yesterday afternoon ended in F. O. Whist, No. 790 East Twelfth street, being taken to the Receiving Hospital with a broken leg, after his motorcycle and an automobile driven by A. R. Wagner, No. 1148 South Main street, collided at San Pedro and Eighth streets. The little girl was uninjured. Whist asserts the automobile was on the wrong side of the street. He is manager of a restaurant at No. 117 Sixth street.

Save the Little Mockers.

The young mocking birds are now leaving the nests and in many instances are not strong enough for immediate flight. Often they will be found on the ground, helpless against cats and other destroyers, and a member of the Audubon Society writes The Times the suggestion that persons finding the birds lift them up to a limb, when in a few minutes their wings will carry them to places of safety. The mockers are beautiful and valuable songsters and are protected by law—but cats, dogs, hawks and other bird enemies are not versed in the statutes.

GAMBLERS' RAID IN LONG BEACH.

ACCUSED CHEATER HAS "A KNEE IN THE DECK," IS CHARGE.

Acting Police Chief Nabs Four With the Money in Front of Professional—City Council Rejects Application to Lease Auditorium. Extensive Repairs to Be Made.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, May 30.—Headed by Acting Chief Sam Browne, six members of the Long Beach police department made a spectacular raid on a downtown rooming-house late this afternoon and arrested four men on a charge of gambling.

The alleged gamblers, who are being held in the City Jail in default of bail, are J. F. Caldwell, who, the police claim, is a professional about whom numerous complaints have been made of late; Harry Redman, M. Halloway, alias Dicus, and a man giving the name of George Williams. The men are alleged to have been caught while in the middle of a game of poker. There was $43, all in front of Caldwell, when the police entered.

Caldwell, according to Acting Chief Browne, had been cheating his partners by the smooth use of a gambler's trick known as "a knee in the deck," and when Browne ordered Caldwell to stand up an extra hand of aces and other high cards dropped to the floor from under his knee, it is alleged.

The raiding police made a sensational entrance on the alleged gamblers from three points. Browne and Detective Mitchell were first to enter the room, securing admittance through a window off the fire escape, which was reached by a ladder. Sergt. Cole and Detectives Denny and Winters entered through the front way, while Officers Loper and Night Chief Remelt guarded another door.

The raid was made at the Norwood apartments, First street and Pine avenue. The room in which the men were alleged to have been playing cards for money was right over the office of W. H. Wallace, Police Commissioner.

POLICE HALT ROMANCE.

Mother of Dying Man Calls Officers to Keep His Heart-broken Sweetheart from Bedside.

A romance that has been the talk of the younger set in Glendale came to an abrupt end last evening when the police were asked to keep Miss May Lawson, 21-year-old daughter of a past exalted ruler of the Elks lodge at Glendale, from the probable deathbed of her late fiance, Thomas Cox, also 21 years old and formerly a scenic artist for the Kalem Company.

On the heels of this action came a threat from Mrs. Adelaide Wise, mother of the young man, to swear out a warrant against the young lady if she again invades the premises at 808 Lomita avenue. Mrs. J. W. Lawson, mother of the girl, counters with a statement that if such steps are taken she will make counter charges against Mrs. Wise.

Cox is lying in a tent in the yard of his mother's residence and is slowly dying. This reason is given by the boy's mother for refusing to allow the girl to see Cox. She says such a meeting, rather than soothing, would be disturbing.

Miss Lawson, however, tells a tale of devotion to her dying sweetheart. She has been unable to eat or sleep during the past week and has lost twenty-two pounds, she says. Mrs. Lawson said last night that she would take her daughter to some health resort to recuperate.

Don't Let a Cold Settle on Your Lungs

If you have a persistent cough or cold, take warning before it is too late. Eckman's Alterative has restored to health many persons who had serious lung trouble. Read of this case:—

Pleasantville, N. J.

"Gentlemen:—During the winter of 1911 I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. Eckman's Alterative was recommended to me and I commenced using it as a last resort. The first bottle seemed to give no relief, in fact, I seemed to feel worse, but I kept on using the medicine and found out the first bottle had really started me on the road to recovery by loosening the mucus and making me expectorate freely. After using the medicine for some time, my cough ceased, I gained flesh and today I am a well man."

(Abbreviated.)
(Signed) GEO. M. BATES.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Sold by The Owl Drug Co. and leading druggists. Write Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet of recoveries.

SMILING ARMY WILL TAG CITY.

THOUSANDS OF SALESMEN ENTER PROSPERITY CAUSE.

Customers in Business Section, Every Package and Letter and Every Product of Hundreds of Firms Tomorrow Will Bear "Make-Your-Dollar-Nimble" Sticker.

More than 2500 salesmen will pass through the business section of Los Angeles tomorrow tagging all customers with the yellow sticker, "Make Your Dollar Nimble." This regiment directly represents the Salesmanagers' Association and the Building Material Mens' Association.

The same sticker will appear on all materials that issue from over 600 firms tomorrow. Every article that is sold will bear the flag of optimism, and all mail matter will carry the yellow label that means a smile.

The Publicity Committee of the Prosperity League held a meeting at the Hotel Clark yesterday at which S. L. Weaver, president of the Building Material Men's Association, was made chairman. Other members of the committee are Fred E. Golding, Forbes Lindsay, William Henry, Frank E. Fielding and O. W. Leanord.

Reports of building conditions and trade trends made to the committee by the business interests are most optimistic in character, dispersing any gloomy ideas regarding the business outlook in general that may prevail.

The committee cites as proof of the confidence which outside money has in the future of the city, the establishment of many factories for outside industries. As an example, the great factory of the Griffin Car Wheel Company, that will employ 350 men, is now under construction at Fifty-fourth street and Santa Fe avenue.

When the committee made a canvass of the architects to feel the pulse of new building operations, the reports were most gratifying. Several firms announce unprecedented activity in their work and make most optimistic prediction regarding the future.

NECK TWISTED BY THUGS.

Hawthorne Ranchman After Attack in Alley Is Unable to Get the Kinks Out—Refuses Medical Aid.

Unable to speak above a whisper and with his head forced back in an unnatural position, J. E. Bellville, a ranchman living at Hawthorne, reported to the police that he had been attacked and robbed by strong-arm men in an alley near First and San Pedro streets last night and that he had since tried in vain to straighten the dislocated tendons in his neck. He asserted that he was passing the mouth of the alley when suddenly he was grabbed by two men and literally carried to a dark corner, when one of the thugs held his head back while the other took a purse containing $7 and an Elgin watch from his pockets.

With a parting jerk, the first thief wrenched his head back between the shoulder blades and threw him to the ground.

Upon regaining his feet, Bellville said he felt something crack in his neck and was unable to move his head without intense pain.

He was unable to describe the hold-up men but thought they were Japanese.

Bellville declined medical aid and returned to Hawthorne.

ANGELENOS INJURED.

Car Turns Over and Four Persons Are Thrown Out—Motorcycle Rider's Back Broken.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, May 30.—In an attempt to turn the corner of Prospect and Fairhaven avenues at too fast a clip an auto occupied by four residents of Los Angeles turned over on its side. Mr. and Mrs. Corberly and Mr. and Mrs. Williams were the names given by the Angelenos at a nearby house. Their initials were not secured. They took an electric car back to Los Angeles. Williams received a sprained shoulder and Mrs. Corberly some bruises and scratches.

This morning the wheel of a motorcycle ridden by Roy Whitaker and John Wilcox gave way and the two men were thrown. Wilcox escaped unhurt, but Whitaker had to be taken to the Santa Ana Hospital where it was found that two vertebrae were broken. As yet there is no pressure on the spinal cord and Whitaker will probably recover.

DEEDS OF OTHER DAYS FAN PATRIOTIC FIRES.

Memorial Services Link in Spirit the Living and the Dead.

Veterans of Two Wars Stand Shoulder to Shoulder With Citizen Soldiery in Paying Sincere and Loving Tribute to Those Who Failed Not When Duty Called and Who Have Gone Before.

MEMORIES of martial scenes of other days were recalled to the people of Los Angeles yesterday. While impressive tribute in many forms was paid to the nation's soldier dead, veterans who fought for the Stars and Stripes in wars long since past united with other men recently returned from duty on the southern boundary line.

In renewing allegiance to their country and the glorious principles for which it stands, they found a common platform and a common cause. Some of them are too young to know, except through others, of the heroic efforts of the men of '61. Others have more recently served their country in the war with Spain. Still others, members of the citizen soldiery and imbued with the same spirit, are prepared to hear and act upon the call to arms whenever it may come.

Shoulder to shoulder, men whose war careers lie in the past and other men, yet untried, but enlisted as defenders of the nation, joined with all the people in paying tribute to the men of the United States army and navy who have passed beyond, but whose memories and graves are kept green by men and women who deem it a privilege and a duty to thus honor them.

The Grand Army, whose thinning ranks contain survivors of one of the most fiercely-fought conflicts in history, were accorded the post of honor at all the exercises. Numerically, the organizations that actively participated in yesterday's ceremonies were greater in the aggregate than in former years. The lessening number of the Grand Army veterans has been more than offset by the growth of the United Spanish War Veterans and auxiliary bodies.

The organizations that conducted the ceremonies yesterday are: Grand Army of the Republic, Ladies of the G.A.R., G.A.R. Women's Relief Corps, United Spanish War Veterans, Ladies' Auxiliary, U.S.W.V., Sons of Veterans, Daughters of Veterans, Daughters of the American Revolution, National Guard of California and school cadets.

At Rosedale Cemetery, yesterday morning, Stanton Post, G.A.R., Sons of Veterans and United Spanish War Veterans joined in memorial services with orations, decorating of graves and salutes to departed comrades. One of the most impressive ceremonies of the day was the unveiling of a monument at Rosedale by United Spanish War Veterans.

Bartlett-Logan Post and Kenesaw Post, G.A.R., conducted exercises at Evergreen Cemetery. An interesting and unique feature of the annual Central Park exercises was the participation of representatives of other nations. The Seventh California Volunteer Association, Army of the Philippines, Order of Carabao and other patriotic organizations, were in charge of that portion of the programme.

Yesterday forenoon graves were decorated at Soldiers' Home. Memorial services were held in Memorial Hall yesterday afternoon. Memorial vesper services were conducted at Hollywood Cemetery yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Decorations of graves were exceptionally beautiful and profuse at all the city cemeteries. The resting places of those whose near relatives have gone were not forgotten nor unmarked. Flowers and wreaths there were in plenty and loving hands to place them. It was a general tribute of all the people to men who failed not when the call of duty came and to the principles for which they fought.

STEINWAY

Steinway Skill, Experience and Ability Alone Can Produce a Piano of Steinway Merit.

TO attain the world-popularity of the Steinway was possible only by superior merit. This merit consists in the unsurpassed qualities of Tone and Workmanship. These are the distinctive features in the Steinway of today.

The first Steinway Piano was the result of an art ideal. Through four generations this ideal has been upheld and maintained, to the end that proficiency has become a tradition in the Steinway factories and that the Steinways are recognized everywhere as past masters in their craft.

The third and fourth generations of the Steinways are today making the Steinway Piano. Purchase a Steinway and you possess the world's greatest Piano—perfect in tone and workmanship.

Illustrated Steinway Catalog will be mailed upon application. Terms on Steinways arranged to suit.

DEATH ENDS WINNING FIGHT.

FRIENDLESS, PENNILESS BOY CARVES A FORTUNE.

Passing of President of Fulton Engine Works Discloses Notable Example of Pluck in Modest Life. Espoused Divine Right of Every Man to Earn Living.

James P. McAllister, president of the Fulton Engine Works of this city, is dead. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the chapel of Booth & Fitch, Twelfth and Hope streets. The family home is No. 119 East Twenty-fourth street.

McAllister, who was one of the sturdy manufacturers of Los Angeles and conducted his establishment for more than twenty years on the American principle of the open shop, died after but four days' illness and following an operation for appendicitis, at the age of 72 years.

He was a native of Londonderry, Ireland, and at the age of 15 years, both his parents having died, he sailed for America and landed at New York with $3 in his pocket. He spent his first year on a farm in Orange county, with his meager savings went to Pittsburgh, worked for a time on a river boat and then joined the fire department of that city as a driver. In December, 1860, with the true grit of the Irish boy he was, he landed at San Francisco and became a placer miner for a few years, with little success. In 1863 he walked across the snowclad mountains a distance of 200 miles to Virginia City, Nev., and apprenticed himself to the Fulton foundry. He remained with the same establishment for nineteen years, and when he resigned in 1882, to take a position at Tombstone, Ariz., he was general manager of the plant.

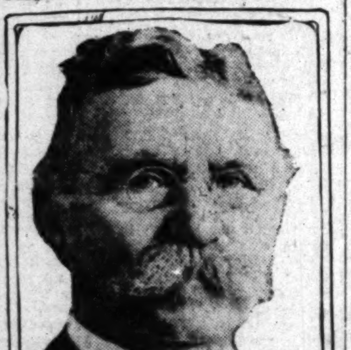
Although he went to Tombstone to be employed as a journeyman machinist, he purchased the establishment before he went to work and became proprietor of the Tombstone Foundry and Machine Shop. He was a member of the Board of Supervisors of the county when the reward was offered for the capture of Chief Geronimo.

In 1893 he came to Los Angeles and established the Fulton Engine Works, named in honor of the men with whom he learned his trade, and he was active in its every-day management up to the time he was taken ill, one week ago today. Several years ago he incorporated his company and made it one of the leading establishments of the kind in the Southwest.

To show the appreciation of the man for educational interests, though his own education had been acquired in the elementary schools of Ireland and the poor man's university of world-contact, he was a school trustee in both Nevada and Arizona, and in addition to having been Supervisor of Cochise county, Arizona, he also served four years as treasurer and tax collector.

He was a Mason and Shriner, a member of the Gamut Club and of the Chamber of Commerce. Too much cannot be said of his sterling integrity and warm friendliness, of his belief in the independence of every man to make his way in the world without hindrance or unreasonable dictation. He had hewn out his own fortune and desired every other man to have the same chance.

Besides the widow he leaves one son, Frank Allister McAllister, and a daughter, Mrs. C. A. King, both of this city. He was also father of Mrs. H. L. Miller of this city, now deceased. The maiden name of his widow was Elizabeth McAllister, whom he married at Virginia City in 1873.



J. P. McAllister,

President of Fulton Engine Works, over whose remains funeral services will be conducted tomorrow.

COMFORT STATION DEDICATION.

The new comfort station at the junction of Ninth, Spring and Main streets, will be dedicated at 10:30, Wednesday morning. The Mayor will deliver a short address; also W. W. Mines, president of the Realty Board; W. M. Garland, president of the Central Business District Association, and Sol Davis, president of the Bankers' Trust and Savings Bank. The rooms of the new station are underground, but a platform one foot high will enable passengers to board and debark from street cars with ease. The cost of the station is more than $20,000.

Greater Safety.

NOVEL RESERVE POLICE BODY.

Organization Purposed to Be Without Pay.

Force of Thousand Citizens for Any Emergency.

Los Angeles Would Have First in Country.

Like the militia, but more local, like the constabulary, but more modern, is a regiment of citizen police which it is purposed to organize in Los Angeles to co-operate with and supplement the police department.

To handle emergencies with trained efficiency is to be its first duty. It will stand as a great reserve force ready for instant call, a competent, responsible force for the city's safety.

The need of such an organization has been felt in Los Angeles and other cities for many years, but it remained for Chief of Police Sebastian to conceive the idea of the present organization. The plans have not been worked out.

Crises that have arisen in the city with alarming rapidity, when the clumsiness of the police under its definite organization was shown, made the necessity of such a reserve force apparent. In order to assemble police power at one point in the city it has always been found necessary to weaken, if not demoralize the policing of the remainder of the city.

It is to avoid such a disorganization in the regular service of the uniformed police that the citizen police body is to be prepared, in readiness for service at short notice.

The system of authority which will direct the regiment, that is unique in America in its organization, will be much the same as that employed in the army. Each of the men in authority will be a trained disciplinarian and leader, proved in competency to take command under such exacting conditions as the regiment must face if it is needed.

The complete list of the officers has not yet been announced, but it is to be one of splendid strength.

The service of the regiment will be entirely patriotic, each member serving without pay. Under the direction of the officers, the members will be trained for service with scrupulous care. Each officer will have had previous training, and many of them are among the foremost military men in the city, now withdrawn from the service and in private work.

It is to be arranged that this regiment can be assembled for service practically as rapidly as the police can be marshalled in force now to face any emergency. And the members of the regiment will be trained for action, concerted or individual.

The planning of the regiment has progressed rapidly. The movement has the support of the leading men of the city, who are watchful for its best interests. It is to be made a real force, responsible and alert, and above all, up to date, in keeping with the spirit of the city.

TRAIL NEAT PAIR AS GEM THIEVES.

POLICE HUNT FOR LOITERERS SEEN NEAR ROOMS OF ROBBED WOMAN.

Detectives are trailing two well-dressed men seen loitering in the vicinity of the apartment of Mrs. S. B. Patton, No. 680 South Westlake avenue, where jewels valued by her at approximately $10,000 were taken Friday night. The officers declare they are almost certain that the burglary was committed by two men who were seen in the hall near Mrs. Patton's apartment Thursday afternoon.

Developments of yesterday prove almost conclusively that the burglary was committed by expert persons of the "Raffles" type who must have known Mrs. Patton had the jewels in her apartments and were probably familiar with her customs.

That the burglars knew what they were looking for is evidenced by the fact that they left no stone unturned to find Mrs. Patton's valuables. The apartment was entered with a pass key. The bed of Mrs. Patton was completely taken down, piece by piece, and a minute search made until the jewels were finally found in a buffet kitchen, where they had been secreted.

Mrs. Patton declares she will make every attempt to find the thieves and recover her property, among which were family heirlooms.

That the thieves wore gloves to prevent the leaving of finger prints is one theory of the police. The apartment of H. G. Wagner at the same address was also entered by the robbers.

CARNIVAL PREPARATIONS.

State Societies Make Arrangements for Booths at the Coming Twelve-Day Fiesta.

Fifteen State societies met in separate session last night at the Federation headquarters to promote their individual plans for programmes and exhibits at the carnival which is to be held in Fiesta Park, beginning June 8. The decorations of each booth will be emblematic of the State represented and some of the societies will offer "gate" prizes and donate merchandise to a country store. Texas announces as its gate prize a six-months-old calf.

The General Executive Committee has announced a baby show each day, and on the twelfth day a contest between the winners of the prizes on the preceding eleven days. A large dancing platform will also be provided as well as the daily attendance of one of the best orchestras in the city. The total receipts of the carnival are to be used as a building fund for a Federation Hall.

Biblical Father.

BORNE TO THE GRAVE BY SIX STRONG SONS.

WHEN FRANCIS MARION ROSS died last week at Huntington Park, aged 76 years, a remarkable family was broken up. In addition to the widow he leaves thirteen children and nearly a score of grandchildren, all residents of Southern California. On Friday, when he was buried in Hollywood Cemetery, all the children were there and his six strong sons were pallbearers.

Coming to this city ten years ago from Winfield, Tenn., where he had been prominent in the business and politics of his State, Ross shortly drew all his children about him. Then came other members of the family from Tennessee until at the time of his death nearly all his immediate relatives were living here.

It was a biblical family, and, as a son-in-law stated yesterday, Ross looked upon his family from the viewpoint of a biblical father. He wanted them with him always and his home was the abiding place nearly constantly of the grandchildren.

In the East to find as many direct descendants of one man living within a small radius is not uncommon. But in the West, a new country, it is remarkable. Incidentally the Ross family, father and sons, have all prospered here, which is a splendid testimonial for the Southland.

SPLENDID GIFT OF GOOD WOMAN.

WITH HER OWN HAND WILL LAY THE CORNERSTONE OF HOME FOR AGED.

The cornerstone of Atherton Villa, which is being erected at Burbank by Mrs. Hannah Atherton Baldwin for the Baptists of Southern California, as a home for aged ministers, aged missionaries and their families, will be laid this afternoon at 3 o'clock, near the Burbank High School. Mrs. Baldwin will lay the stone and the principal address will be delivered by Rev. A. W. Rider, on "Our Veteran Heroes." The villa will be a magnificent modern structure, in the form of a double L, designed to drink in the sunshine. It will be of brick, stucco finish, and will be ideal in every way. Mrs. Baldwin, who is the wife of Osgood Baldwin of this city, has made a gift of $50,000 for the purpose to which it is being devoted. The aged couple are members of Memorial Baptist Church and live quietly at No. 152 West Twenty-fourth street.

The ceremonies this afternoon will be presided over by Rev. J. F. Watson; the scripture will be read by Rev. A. Sterling Barner, pastor of Memorial Church, and the benediction will be pronounced by Rev. J. Howard Adams of Atherton Baptist Church, which is another beneficiary of the same woman.

SUMMER SCHOOL AT U.S.C.

Will Open Late in June With a Greatly-Elaborated Schedule, as Compared With Former Years.

The summer school schedule of the University of Southern California, just issued, shows a more extensive list of lectures and recitations than in any previous year. Among the visiting professors will be A. B. Show of Stanford, history; J. F. Chamberlain of Los Angeles Normal School, geography, and Robert C. Root of the American Peace Society, conciliation. The agricultural courses will be conducted by J. B. Lillard, principal of Gardena High School, and work in public-school music will be directed by Mrs. Gertrude Porsons. The term begins June 29 and closes August 7, with regular exercises from 8 a.m. until noon, with laboratory courses, physical education and lectures in the afternoon.

JAPANESE FLEET IN HARBOR TODAY.

COMMITTEE OF COUNTRYMEN TO GREET AND ENTERTAIN OFFICERS HERE.

Two armored cruisers flying the sun-flag of Japan, will steam into Los Angeles Harbor this afternoon. In the outer harbor they will be met and saluted by a craft bearing a committee of the Japanese Association of Los Angeles and the Chamber of Commerce that will for three days jointly entertain the coming officers and cadets of the Mikado's navy.

However, quiet will mark all ceremonies and functions incident to the visit. The period of mourning for the late Mikado has not expired, and unusual display will not be permitted.

The incoming vessels are the training ships Asama and Azuma, direct from Honolulu and Hilo, their first stops since leaving the home port at Yokosuka, Japan.

At 9:30 o'clock this morning a committee of sixty from the Japanese Association will leave the Pacific Electric depot for San Pedro, to receive the fleet. With them will be John S. Mitchell and Maj. A. J. Copp, Jr., of the Chamber of Commerce.

Tomorrow, the Chamber of Commerce will entertain the fleet officers at luncheon, after which the visitors will be taken by the Japanese committee in automobiles on a tour of Los Angeles and vicinity. At 7 o'clock p.m., officers and committeemen will dine at the Nippon Club, No. 121 San Pedro street.

Y. Numano, Consul-General for Japan at San Francisco has asked forty Americans and ten leading Japanese of this city to lunch with him and twenty officers at the Alexandria, Tuesday.

Cadets from the cruisers, as guests of the Japanese Association, will be shown the city and its environs Tuesday and Wednesday in a series of automobile excursions.

Advices from the approaching fleet state that the public will be received aboard the ships probably Wednesday.

OPPOSING AN ELEVATED.

The Compton-avenue District Improvement Association will meet tomorrow evening at Compton and Vernon avenues to discuss the proposed elevated and the opening of Long Beach avenue. The association opposes an elevated railroad.

THE COST OF LIVING DOES NOT DECREASE IN THIS COUNTRY.

Hardship.

NATION HURT BY THE CHANGE.

Tariff Causes Thousands to Be Out of Work.

Comparative Prices Show Increase in Food Products.

Flood of Imports Causes Domestic Business to Suffer.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Complaints are beginning to seep into the capital from the country at large that the new tariff measure is not fulfilling the glowing promises its sponsors and supporters claimed for it. These complaints are growing in volume and insistency. Figures are cited to show that the tariff has not, in any measurable degree, lowered the cost of living. On the contrary, it is said to have resulted, indirectly, perhaps, in throwing many thousands of persons out of employment, through retrenchments in many lines, due to uncertainty as to the effect of the law. In the beet-sugar industry the injury is marked. Announcement is made that the sugar-beet growers, centered largely in California, Colorado and parts of Wisconsin and Michigan, will be unable to continue in business because the removal of the tariff makes it impossible for them to pay customary wages. Some other effects of the law may be summarized as follows:

THOUSANDS LOSE JOBS.

According to Representative Fordney of Michigan, himself a lumberman, there are 800,000 men employed in sawmills of the country when running full capacity. At present about 25 per cent. of these men are out of employment.

The report of the Home Market Club of Boston says that on March 2 the last out of the American Woolen Mills reporting their condition, 27 per cent. of the looms were closed down. This industry has a total of 168,000 employees, of whom about 27 per cent. are out of employment.

About two weeks ago the packing plants of Chicago laid off approximately 3000 men. Many of these were clerks, indicating that no early improvement was looked for.

A Chicago firm taking the product of 2800 Wisconsin dairies and manufacturing condensed milk will be forced to reduce wages materially or retire from business. Removal of the tariff permits Japanese and Swiss condensed milk manufacturers to underbid them in their own market.

In a letter to Representative Moore, the secretary of the Builders' Exchange of Philadelphia says that building conditions there are at a standstill. Carpet mills in that vicinity are running 20 per cent. less than at this time one year ago. The Brill Car Company of Philadelphia is running on 70 per cent. of its capacity. The Baldwin Locomotive Works on January 1, 1913, had 19,300 employees; on January 1, 1914, it had 10,464, and on March 7, last, it had 8433.

FORD COMPANY LAYS OFF MEN.

The Ford Motors Company of Detroit than laid off 6000 employees, explaining, however, that it is the customary seasonal adjustment and does not indicate any depression in the automobile business. The administration rather resents this action by the Ford company, and has intimated that an investigation will be made to see if the men were dismissed as a rebuke to the Wilson administration.

The Ford company announces that it heartily welcomes any sincere investigation and will gladly co-operate in any feasible plan, consistent with business conditions, to employ men who want work.

REDUCTIONS IN STEEL MILLS.

Heavy reductions have been made in the steel mills at Gary and other points, although nothing has been made public regarding these recent reductions. At Joliet mills, instead of laying off a large number of men, they have been put upon shorter time.

Last year the railroads centering in Chicago sent out more than 40,000 men for repair and construction work. This year the number falls under 1000.

DECREASE IN REVENUE.

Another effect of the tariff is shown in the condition of the treasury customs revenue. Up to May 26, total revenues from customs were $265,816,624, as compared with total customs revenue to the same date last year of $290,969,528.

In April, 1914, exports aggregated $162,[illegible], as compared with $199,813,428 for April, 1913, a loss of $37,[illegible] for the month. The imports for April, 1914, were $172,-649,724, as compared with $146,194,-461 in April, 1913, showing a gain of $26,448,263.

PRICES ARE HIGHER.

Representative Cline of Indiana, says:

"I have taken occasion to make an investigation of the prices of twelve leading farm articles for the last ten years in the markets of Chicago and New York, and of these twelve leading articles for ten years, on the first day of March last, nine of them are higher this first day of March than they have been at any time in the last ten years."

Department of Agriculture statistics show that on May 1, 1914, the farmers were obtaining on an average, less for their butter and slightly more for their eggs and chickens than on May 1, 1913. The average price paid to the farmer for butter on May 1, 1914, was 22.8 cents, or 3.2 cents less a pound than the average price paid on May 1, 1913. The farm price for eggs on May 1, 1914, was 16.8 cents a dozen, or about seven-tenths of a cent higher on the average than on May 1, 1913. The average price to farmers for chickens on May 1, this year, was 12.5 cents a pound, or about seven-tenths of a cent a pound higher than in 1913.

Taking ninety-six leading commodities as an example, statistics show that the average cost per pound of the entire list, during May, 1914, was 8.6224. The average for the previous eleven years on the same commodities was 8.4794.

TABLE FOR COMPARISON.

Here are some comparisons on the present price of leading food articles, as compared with one year ago. These are wholesale prices:

May 1, 1914—Beef (Chicago,) 12.25 cents pound; pork (Chicago,) 11.75 cents pound; eggs (New York,) 22 cents dozen; bread (New York,) 4 cents loaf; mess pork, $22.25 barrel; cheese, 14 cents pound; butter, 22.6 cents pound; mackerel (Boston,) $22 barrel; sugar, .0385 cents pound; tea, .175 cents pound; rice, .0625 cents pound; potatoes, $2.50 per 180 pounds; lemons, $2.75; raisins, .07 cents pound.

May 1, 1913—Beef (Chicago,) 11.90 cents pound; pork (Chicago,) 12.25 cents pound; eggs (New York,) 19 cents dozen; bread (New York,) 4 cents loaf; mess pork, $21.75 barrel; cheese, 13.25 cents pound; butter, 30.75 cents pound; mackerel (Boston,) $18 barrel; sugar, .0415 cents pound; tea, .155 cents pound; rice, .0525 cents pound; potatoes, $1.87 per 180 pounds; lemons, $3.50; raisins, .095 cents pound.

Except for the cut in the price of Australian wool, due to the removal of the tariff impost, that measure has not otherwise played much of a part in developing easier prices, though Argentine corn has been a weight upon the domestic cereal.

IMPORTS INSTEAD OF EXPORTS.

Commenting upon the outlook, the Economist says, in part: "In view of the change in the tariff policy of the United States, the foreign commerce furnishes the best index of trade at present and of the prospects for the next few months or even years. The official statement of imports and exports for April makes possible a comparison of the statistics from October 1, 1913, to the close of last month, the period during which the Underwood bill has been in operation, and of a similar period under the protective tariff. For the first time in many years there is an excess of imports of merchandise over exports of merchandise, a balance against us of $10,271,872 last month, comparing with a balance in our favor April, 1913, of $53,618,-977. The balance in our favor has run off constantly since the first of October, 1913, until it has disappeared. We have then, for the seven months, a balance of trade in our favor of $138,113,148, less than for the corresponding seven months in the last fiscal year. It is reasonable to expect that this process will go on for an indefinite period, and will, of course, cause a movement of gold from this country. Indeed, such a movement is now in progress.

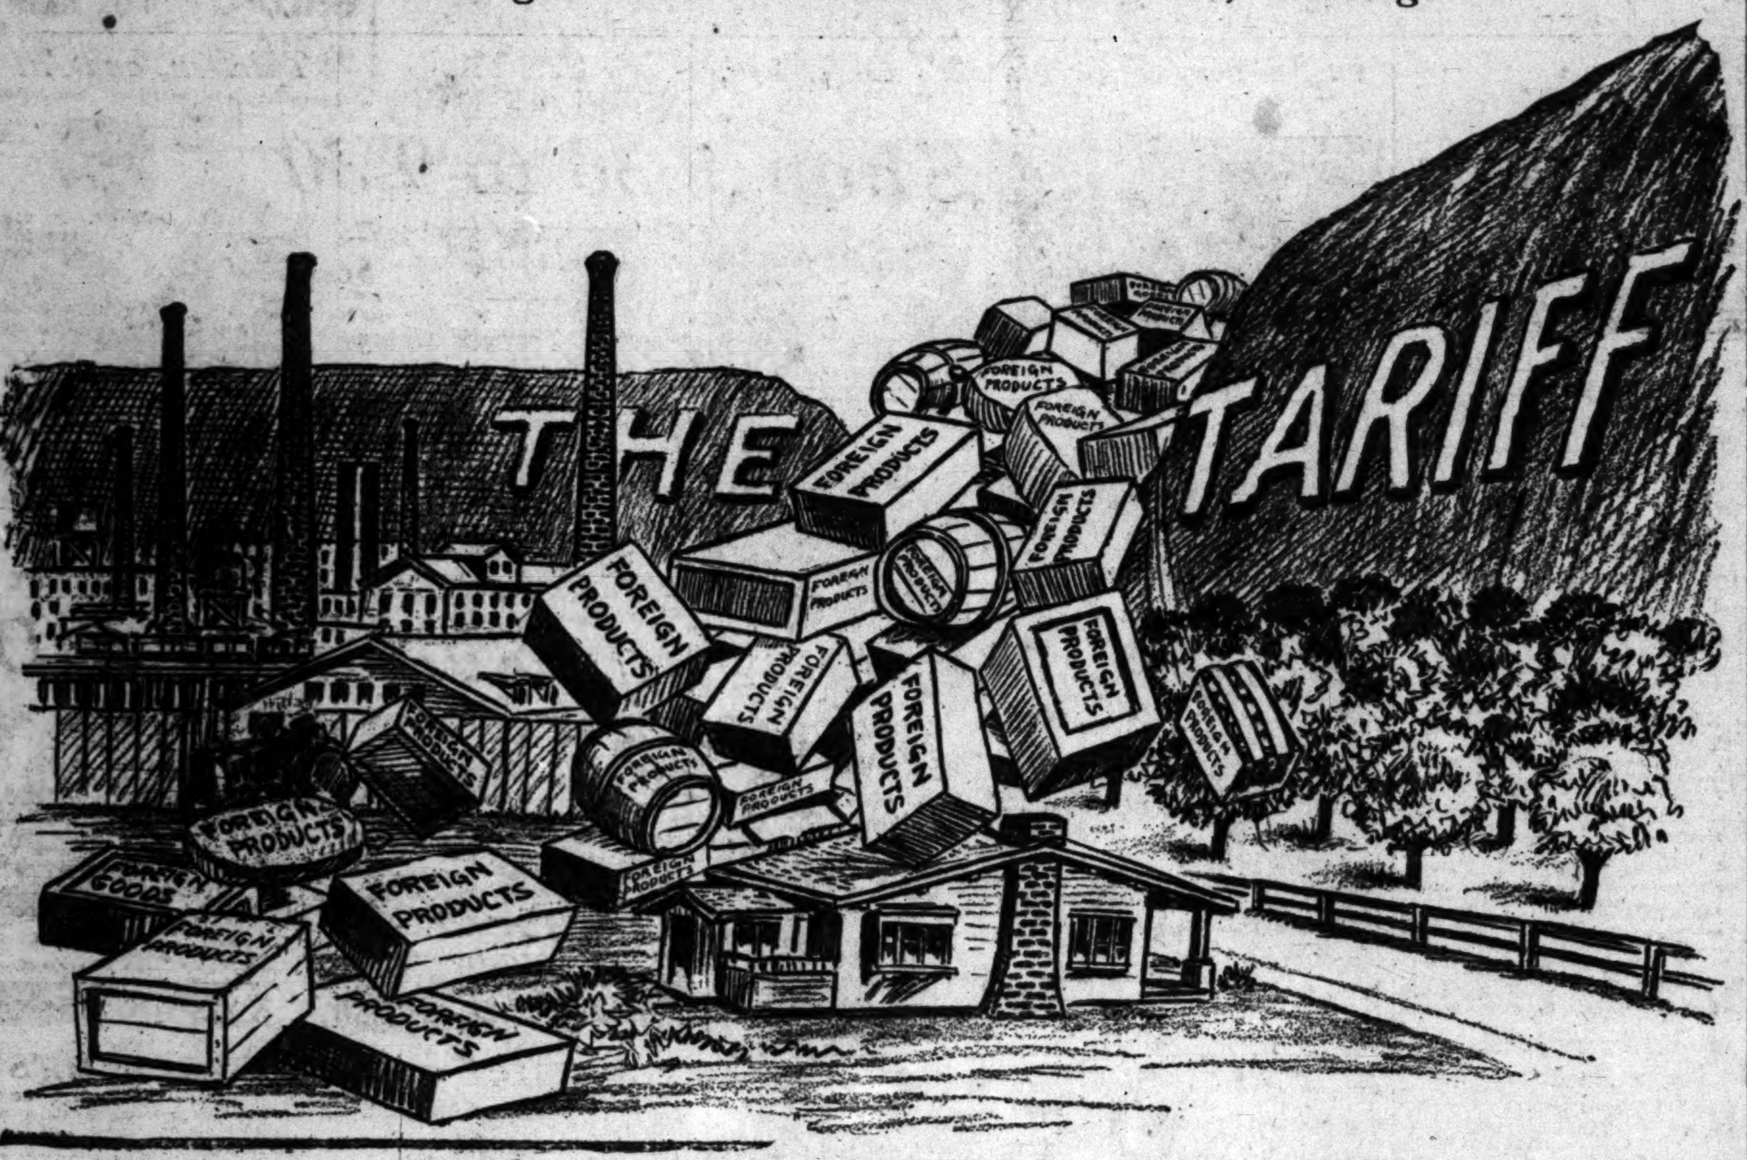
LOSING AMERICANS' BUSINESS.

"This is not the most important element in the situation, however. The great question is whether importations will be so great as to take away a large proportion of the business now done by American manufacturers. The tendency is in that direction."

The reported dividends of the Fall River cotton manufacturing corporations for the second quarter of 1914 show a reduction of $38,000 from the total of the last quarter, but a much greater contrast with the total for the fourth quarter of 1913. That reduction was $1,028,675.

The effect of the new tariff upon the beet sugar industry is shown, in some measure, by the report of the American Beet Sugar Company, disclosing a loss of $1,865,000 in gross earnings for the year ending March 31. This company had operated but six months under the conditions imposed by the Underwood tariff. So dissatified are the growers with the new price to be paid for their product that there is a falling off this year of 19.65 per cent. in the acreage from last year.

Smashing the Dike to Reduce the Cost of Living.



PRODUCTS HIGHER IN LOCAL MARKET THAN YEAR AGO DESPITE TARIFF REDUCTION; FOREIGN TRADE PROFITS.

THAT wonderful reduction in the cost of living too vividly pictured by some of the good Angeleno Democrats when they helped boost Woodrow Wilson into the Presidency and stood for his policy of tariff taboo is just as far away at the present moment as it was a year ago.

Have you been able to notice beefsteak selling at 10 cents a pound in any local shop? Has your wife been able to buy flour as cheap or woolen goods for any less since the barrier against these commodities was thrown down? Has your income been able to command a greater purchasing power since November of last year?

The Democratic tariff tinkerers have reduced prices in Los Angeles, and for that matter in all parts of the country in the same ratio that tipping has been abrogated in the high-priced restaurants where the waiter and the hat-check boy receive no salaries, but depend on the gratuities of the patron. In these same high-priced restaurants the food hasn't declined a cent. If anything, a good steak has inclined to a higher level.

Taking up the case of meat, which the tariff was expected to bring out of the sky of exalted figures with such decided speed, you cannot find a butcher in Los Angeles who has marked off a point in the past six months merely on account of arrival of foreign meats.

HOW MEAT IS KEPT HIGH.

The great packers of the nation haven't cut any fractions off beef or veal, mutton or pork, because they got shiploads and carloads from Australia, the Argentine, Mexico and Canada. They were ready for the heavy influx by shorting the supply in this country to the utmost degree and almost precipitating a meat panic right in California, here too, where much of the supply has been drawn from for eastern packing-houses in the past.

When the first foreign shipments were rushed in the cattle merely helped to reduce the shortage. By the time this was accomplished the surplus in Canada and Mexico was pretty well taken up. Prices advanced in those countries as fast as they advenced here, and are now about on a par with American quotations. A sirloin steak prior to the tariff sold in Los Angeles at 26 to 28 cents a pound. Today that price is as high as 30 cents. Some reduction, eh?

Beef Roast Higher.

A beef roast cost from 23 to 25 cents on good prime rib cut. Today it costs from 24 to 26 cents. All cuts of beef show practically an unaltered figure. There were quantities of Australian beef shipped in which sold from 10 to 20 per cent. less than local meat, but it failed to find favor on account of improper methods of refrigeration and handling. Further than that the supply was quickly taken up from the hands of the independent packers and the markets in Australia, Argentine Republic and numerous other countries are today absolutely in the hands of American packers, a fact admitted by their local representatives, who are in position to know.

Pork and pork products are at a par with last year at this time. It is impossible to make some of these comparisons at the exact date of the opening of the tariff for the reason that seasons create changes in quotations. Lard, for example, is worth 17 cents a pound to the consumer for the best. The price from the packer to the butcher is 13½ cents at this time and was 13 1-4 cents a year ago. Bacon and ham are worth the same figures exactly. The packers' price was 21 cents a year ago on average ham and today that quotation stands. There have been fluctuations in the meantime, but if anything, these have been for the benefit of the middleman, rather than the ultimate lover of ham and bacon for breakfast.

Mutton has not dropped. Wool has brought the highest figure in years and local buyers of wool have been unable to fill half of their orders. The London wool sales have shown advances this year all through the line. The only effect in Southern California on the drop of tariff on live stock of any description has been the loss of thousands of dollars of revenue along the Mexican border. Cattle formerly brought $3.75 a head and sheep $1. Campo, a little border town, that once boasted a revenue of $40,000 to $50,000 a month during the shipping season, has now an income of less than that many hundred.

Egg Prices Not Lowered.

It was expected that Canada, a great producer of cheese, butter and eggs, would pour an immense volume of these products across the line, and that Los Angeles might get some of them. So far there has been no importation of consequence arriving here. Full cream cheese, eastern varieties, selling in Los Angeles at 17 cents last year, are worth 19 cents at this time. Northern full cream cheese worth 12½ cents last year is worth 14½ wholesale, in Los Angeles today.

Chinese eggs have been coming to Los Angeles at the rate of a car a week, during the past three months. They are good eggs and have found a ready sale since the Chinese merchants have learned to pack after approved Pacific Coast methods. Some of them have even been hatched after arrival in San Francisco and Chicago. These eggs have sold from 2 to 4 cents under the quotations on local ranch case count. They have not caused any declines, however. Eggs last year at this time were quoted at 23½ cents wholesale. Today they are quoted at 23 cents.

The local market has been affected by the tariff to the extent that instead of using eggs produced in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and other middle-western States they are using eggs produced in China. Already the effect of this usage is having a telling effect in China. The prices of eggs there are advancing and it will not be long before they are on a parity of value with the locally-produced eggs, shipment charges figured in. The only result here has been unsettling conditions, and should the egg supply in China fail, it would mean the highest prices Los Angeles has ever paid next winter, for it would catch dealers with a depleted storage supply. Where Los Angeles took four cars of eastern eggs a day two years ago for storage purposes during the months of April and May, it has taken about one car a day this year, and many of these eggs have been placed on the market on arrival.

Butter prices at this time favor the tariff to the extent of one whole cent a pound. The quotation on creamery firsts established by wholesalers was 30 cents on this date a year ago. This past week it has averaged 29 cents. The influx of Australian butter has not been as heavy as anticipated. There is still a duty of 2½ cents a pound on the commodity against an original 6 cents. What the effect may be during the winter months here, when storage butter is in demand and the production of the antipodes at its best is a difficult problem to decide, but it will probably be very much the same as the condition on eggs.

Wheat Higher Now.

When the duty of 25 cents a bushel was taken off wheat many housewives setting a batch of bread began to count the new pairs of shoes or gloves that they were going to save on account of a reduction in the cost of flour. Most of them have been very sadly disappointed. Last year the Los Angeles quotation on the best hard wheat and California wheat blended was $6 a barrel. Today, instead of being from 50 cents to $1 less, something promised by ardent devotees of Democracy, who howled for the strangulation of this source of income, the price is higher. The same kind of flour is selling here at $6.10.

One commodity has been cheaper and that is sugar. Where sugar sold for fifteen to sixteen pounds for the dollar at the time of passage of the tariff bill, it has been selling at twenty pounds for the same sum. The housewife is not using enough sugar, however, to make up for the increase in cost of other productions. Further than that, sugar products are higher today than ever. Candy that sold in the best stores for 50 cents per pound box is today selling at 75 cents and the manufacturers blame the increased cost on the fact that the candy girls can only work eight hours a day where they worked ten a year ago. In instances where men have displaced women in this line of manufacture their additional hours have called for higher salary and the makers have gained little. The fruit syrups used at soda fountains, composed largely of sugar have not declined and the consumer who paid 10 cents for a fancy "sundae" a year ago is paying 15 cents in most shops today. Pretty hard on the young sport who must treat his best girl, after an evening at the "movies."

Brooms the same price.

The humble broom that formerly sold for 25 cents is selling for just that much on the same quality exactly. And this despite the fact that instead of a 40 per cent. tariff, the importers are paying only 15 per cent. now. There is little comparison possible in the vegetable importation to Los Angeles this year. Mexico has been furnishing this community with large shipments of tomatoes, cucumbers, cabbage and similar products in the past five or six years.

Prices were higher on all of these things this winter and spring despite the fact that the imports were reduced. In many instances, the Mexicans have raised their customs to correspond to the reduction made by this country. War conditions have made impossible the raising of many of the crops and when things become sufficiently settled in the future to pursue the agrarian arts the cost may be lower.

Shoes Cost Even More.

The abbrogated duty on leather has not brought prices on shoes down in Los Angeles. There are more shoes selling from $5 to $10 a pair in this city today than ever before and every shoe dealer in town is telling the same story of higher prices fixed by the manufacturer because of the higher cost of labor, the decreased supply of hides, strikes and other unfavorable conditions.

Woolens are not selling for less except in the case of a few isolated shipments of English or Scotch worsteds. The majority of fabrics are selling at approximately the same quotations as a year ago. The best that local dry goods merchants will say for the tariff is that it possibly has prevented higher prices than those already in existence. As for reducing costs from the figures of last year, they declare that there is nothing to it.

From all of these facts, indisputable by verification of the best authorities in Los Angeles, it may readily be discerned that somewhere, something has slipped in the plans of the well-intentioned, but poorly-informed Democratic reformers and hard workers in the cause of lower living costs. Locally none of them are able to answer the question as to why prices have not been materially reduced since the inauguration of their pet plan in this direction.

"TAINTED MONEY."

Rich Men's Millions Endow Institutions for the Promotion of Human Health and Happiness.

[Memphis Commercial - Appeal:] There are people in this world who shrug their shoulders and comment in tones of scorn about tainted money. Because one of their fellow-workers in the world's vineyard has been more fortunate, has accumulated wealth, has won the title of financial king, is no reason why he should be condemned. He may be envied, for it is the ruling characteristic of the unfortunate to be envious of those who have succeeded.

This question of tainted money should be sensibly understood and appreciated. It is an improper title given the earnings of deserving men. Radical means may have at times been employed, and some may have their own opinion of the business methods used, but when we consider the vast good being accomplished by the two great men who control this money, or a large part of it, we should be more lenient in our views.

Last week a modest announcement was made by the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research that a serum had been discovered for the prevention and cure of pneumonia.

Here is an institute supported by the millions of a financial king, millions devoted to the steady research of means for preventing and curing disease.

At this institute the best and brightest men of science devote the days and nights to study, just as the study of cancer and tuberculosis is being pushed.

Here is another instance of how science is slowly but surely succeeding in its fight with disease.

There was a time when smallpox and yellow fever, when malaria and typhoid were dreaded contagions. Today they can be successfully controlled.

The anti-pneumococus serum is no experiment. It is an assured and tested fact. At the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research, when a discovery is made it is never announced to the world until it has been thoroughly tested. It is said that the serum was discovered almost a year ago, but it has been continually tested, so that there could be no possible doubt as to its efficiency before public announcement was made.

Here is another instance where a rich man's millions, his "tainted money," has resulted in a discovery which will no doubt save thousands of lives each year. One by one the dreaded diseases of man are being conquered. The crusade could never continue but for the endowments of men like Rockefeller.

THE JAPANESE SALOON.

Handsome Bar Maids Invite the Thirsty to Indulge in the Light of Their Winning Smiles.

[Japan Magazine:] Japanese saloons have the American habit of always providing refreshments other than drinks for their customers. They are not partial to sandwiches; usually it is a dish of herrings or octopus, and the price is 3 sen. It is seldom that a man can get away from a saloon without spending at least 20 sen, which is a large part of a poor man's daily wage.

It is remarkable the world over that men will patronize any establishment that can show a pretty face, even though it be no more than a picture on a cigar box. To place the picture of a pretty girl on anything is the very best advertisement. So the Japanese think, too, and, what is more, they prove it. At these saloons, in the east end, there is always a pretty girl assisting the matron of the place, and she is permitted to wait on customers. The Japanese barmaid has all the influence that her counterpart has in the West. Her face is sufficient to make every passerby imagine he is thirsty, and when she proposes to serve him he never refuses, and in the end he foots the bill. The pretty maid can make even the roughest customer feel for the moment that he is a gentleman and she a fair lady come to do him honor. Who could refuse to accept so delicate a favor from such dainty hands and under the light of such winning smiles? But once the wine is finished and the money is paid, the relationship is at an end. Another customer by this time is waiting, and the last having had his turn of conversing with beauty must be content until thirsty again. Back he will likely come next day, and drink another glass to the health of a fair face, and then be off again satisfied for another day. And so it goes on from day to day, the pretty face winning most, or much, of the shop's custom.

NEW TARIFF BILL INJURES NATION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, May 30.—Effect of the Underwood tariff:

When the Democratic administration revised the tariff "from agate to zinc" it was claimed that it would cause a great revival in manufacturing industries and reduce the high cost of living.

It has caused much activity in manufacturing industries abroad, to the detriment of American manufacturers, who have been forced to curtail activities and working forces. The foreign manufacturer added the difference in duties to the price of his article, so the American consumer gets no benefit.

Canadian surplus food supplies were speedily exhausted by American demand at higher prices than heretofore. This caused higher-cost-of-living prices across the border, with no benefit to Americans.

It is estimated by labor heads and employment agencies that fully 1,000,000 men are unable to obtain employment in the United States at a time when the country should be at the zenith of prosperity.

Balance of trade in our favor has run off constantly since October, 1913, until it has disappeared, and gold has begun to move to Europe.

Broken Promise.

DEMOCRATS FAIL TO KEEP PLEDGE.

EFFORT TO REDUCE COST OF LIVING WORKS OTHER WAY.

American Industries Hard Hit and Gold Is Paid Out to China, Australia and England for Products Formerly Made, Sold and Used in the United States.

The campaign promise of the Democratic party was: "We will reduce the cost of living; it has been increased by the protective tariff of the Republicans; we will reduce the tariff and presto, the cost of living will come down."

The tariff was reduced. It was reduced with scant regard for any business, any producer, or any industry. The mere fact that protection had been accorded to any product, raw or manufactured, was regarded by the Democrats as ample justification for lowering or nullifying the protection.

We will not admit in theory that it is right to ruin American industries in order that the people of the nation may purchase the products of foreign manufacturers a few cents cheaper. The Democrats have acted on that theory in reducing the tariff, but their theory has even failed to work out. The cost of living has not been reduced. The price of products remains as high as before. But the foreign manufacturers make the profit instead of the American manufacturers. The foreigners are flooding the country with their goods, and adding the difference between the tariff reduction and the former tariff to the price of the products. This enables them to make a tremendous profit, so much of a profit that our domestic manufacturers cannot compete with them on a basis of equality.

The tariff was reduced on meat. The price of meat is today higher in Los Angeles that it was a year ago when the protective tariff was in force, and the quality of the imported meat can scarcely be called equal to that which was raised largely by ranchers of California.

The tariff was reduced on eggs. Eggs are quoted today at one-half a cent per dozen (wholesale) less than they were a year ago. China has reaped the benefit. Whereas we formerly imported eggs into California from the Middle States, the chief outside supply comes from China. Money that was distributed among the farmers of Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas is now—thanks to the Democratic tariff reduction—taken from the nation altogether and distributed among the Chinese.

It has been the same with meat. Money that the packers of the nation spent in purchasing stock from American ranchers and farmers now goes to Australian and Argentine markets—the money goes out of the country to help the foreigners and the price of meat is higher. Noble sacrifice, indeed, on the part of the American people to help the industries of the foreign nations!

The same condition exists among practically all of the food products (excepting sugar) that are among the necessities.

We quote from a dispatch from Washington: "Taking ninety-six leading commodities as an example, statistic show that the average cost per pound of the entire list, during May, 1914, was 8.6224. The average for the previous eleven years on the same commodities was 8.4794."

Instead of the cost of living decreasing, the American industries, American producers and American manufacturers have been sacrificed in vain. The cost of living has actually gone up. The Democratic experiment has failed again, and American business pays the price. The experiment has been tried over and over again, and it has failed with disastrous results every time. It fails because it is based on a fundamental fallacy: It allows foreigners instead of Americans to make the profit on business, which is drawn from the nation instead of remaining in this country and circulating through all the channels of industry from the farmer to the capitalist, from the laborer to the [illegible]ers, from [illegible]

The price of sugar has decreased. It has decreased enough to put a number of factories out of business, and reduce the value of sugar beet land in California 50 per cent. It has decreased enough to practically (but let us hope only temporarily) ruin one of the greatest agricultural industries of the nation.

And how much does the consumer—the average family—save? [illegible] would be dear at half of the [illegible]

GETTING THERE.

The Ottoman government has just admitted women to Turkish universities. This means that the harem as an institution is doomed. Before long a Mussulman woman will have a soul that she can call her own.

THE CANTALOUPE CROP.

Nobody knows just how large it will be. A modest estimate for the Imperial Valley acreage is 9000, with a production of at least 5000 cars. Last year the total was only 3200 cars. Whether the present crop can all be marketed successfully will depend on the weather, the manner in which the fruit ripens and the eastern demand. To an extent such crops are always something of a gamble.

THE MODEST CASABA.

For some reason it has always been thought that the casaba could not be shipped. It seems to be essentially a California production. An effort was made to place it on the New York market last year without much success. Later in the season several cars were shipped to Seattle and the Washington people ate them up. They paid good prices for them and ordered more. Oregon and Washington may offer a fine market for at least a limited supply.

A REAL DICTATOR.

It seems certain that Yuan Shi Kai is going to be a general dictator in China. This does not suit the plan of Japan, and may interfere with the mercantile ideas of several nations. Nevertheless, Yuan is on the job, and knows what is required of him. China has made a big step, and it would go to pieces at the outset if the first President did not rule with an iron hand. By the time they are through with him, perhaps they will know better what they expect of a republic and what they can bring to that form of government.

THE EXTREME.

The institutional idea has been developed in the church until some denominations are protesting that religion is left out of the modern congregation's plans. One clever writer protests against the throwing of an apple in the most modern twirl as an influence for filling a tabernacle. He says that when some churches call a minister the first thing they want to know is his record as an athlete. There could be no doubt that the church tries to be very "modern" in some cases and that this might be done at the expense of dignity and high-mindedness. There can be no objection, however, if the church seeks to interest its young people by being interested in its young people.

ONLY HALF TRUE.

Phrases are meaningless unless the phrasemonger applies them intelligently. Honesty is not always the best policy, it is greater and grander than any expediency. Wine is not always a mocker, it only mocks the fool who misuses it. Peace with honor has occasionally been synonymous with a dishonorable war. A fool and his money are sometimes companions for life. The miser is always a fool.

Argument does sometimes convince against inclination, but it has to be a mighty fine brand of argument. An ill wind may blow a pirate into port as well as onto the rocks. Prevention is of no use when the disease is inherited and incurable. Practice doesn't always make perfect, talent also enters into the equation. The proof of the pudding isn't in the eating but among the gastric juices.

Don't pin your faith on proverbs. They are generally only half truths. Even when poverty comes in at the door, there are houses where love only nestles so much the more closely near the hearthstone.

NIMBLE AND HAPPY.

We are going to be nimble and happy, men, women and children, birds, beasts, flowers and dollars, everything animate and inanimate, that lives, moves or has its being in God-blest California. Behind the heavy clouds of Democratic depression the sun of Republicanism is still shining.

Anybody watching the crowds seeking amusement every evening in theaters, auditoriums, ballrooms or private houses in and around Los Angeles feels certain that these are not the people on whom melancholy or the megrims will ever get a grip. Anybody who lives in the country with eyes open is impressed with the indomitable happiness of birds and animals. When they cease to be happy they soon become invisible. A sluggish butterfly or honey-bee or a depressed mocking bird are unknown to nature.

The bee and butterfly are always nimble, the mocker never sinks his song to minor chords. Roses and sweet peas and carnations never go into mourning, they affect gay and bright colors. While they are alive, they live. Even the weeds are green, never black like widow's weeds.

As for pleasures, real wholesome pleasures, there are thousands as yet untried by the happiest human being. People with open eyes will never fail to find them, sometimes in the most unexpected quarters. History and life are full of neglected pleasures. Instead of regretting the more palpable joys, often out of reach, let us become a company of adventurers to explore the byways of simpler and less obtrusive happiness. One nimble dollar sees more of life and love and joy and sunshine than a thousand bars of gold grimly imprisoned in a safe of steel.

WORRYING THE "PROGRESSIVES."

The Progressives are sitting up jabbering to themselves over the proposal made by some of the prominent women of California, and voiced by The Times, to the effect that it might be well to have a woman nominated on the Republican ticket for Lieutenant-Governor. Meyer Lissner almost sprained his wrist trying to be funny with his pen this week in the "Dismal Outlook"—vanity mirror of Gov. Johnson—in a futile attempt to say something real sharp. He dragged in the word "ass." That sort of humor may appeal to the Progressives—they are so different from other people, so much better, you know, even in their selection of things to be witty over. Lissner didn't say anything about the "lead pipe" that he once rather pointedly intimated would be used to assure the election of boss-picked Eshleman as Lieutenant-Governor.

The Times is almost tempted to say—but won't—that if we had known that our proposal (which we advanced as an act of fair play to the women who were eager that it should be placed before the public) was going to stir up such a distressing hysteria among the Progressive bosses, we wouldn't have taken up the proposition.

Chester Rowell shakes down a column, or nearly so, of his stage thunder this week in the "Dismal Outlook" protesting in sonorous diction that The Times is thirty-some varieties of something or other that is not at all sweet and trustworthy like the Fresno Republican. Mr. Rowell edits the Republican, except at such times as Frank Short writes letters telling the Republican readers how little Mr. Rowell knows of the subject on which he has been elaborating for some moons. The letters are printed, too, for reasons—so, Rumor has it—that Mr. Rowell cannot well disdain. Mr. Rowell is truly one of the funniest editorial writers in the State. He can write around a subject longer than any man in California without giving a clew as to what he thinks of the question discussed. He says The Times is running "a stupid, vulgar bluff," but before he gets through with his remarks he shows that he is worse scared than if someone were handling him with iron gloves, and winds up by proposing that the Progressives elect a woman to the Legislature!

Can you fancy anything more ridiculous? It is not difficult if one happens to know Mr. Rowell, but it is fairly ridiculous even for him. It is "stupid" for The Times to voice the suggestion that a woman be nominated for a State office, but it is a sacrifice of a grateful heart for Mr. Rowell to do so in the semi-official organ of Progressive bosses.

Sammy Clover (dead one), formerly editing the Pasadena Blues, or News, or something, is said to be finding fault with The Times. We got the information second-hand, for the obvious reason that time is too precious to be spent trying to keep tab on what Sammy Clover thinks or says. He, so we understand, has called The Times a "Greek bearing a gift." The book of classical references is pretty well worn out over in the News office, but he must have been in a "dreadful" hurry not to be able to use something more biting than that antique phrase some thousand and more years old. He should be up-to-date and learn how Roosevelt comments on things that displease him—as the Progressives are doing. Sammy Clover says: "If the suggestion about the woman for Lieutenant-Governor came from any other source it would be received with greater acclaim." Indeed, it would by him. If some Democratic sheet had even so much as given Clover a chance to think of the idea, he would have been staying up nights polishing sentences to support it. In fact, Clover always writes as though in mortal terror lest a real grammarian should read some of his editorials and perhaps be jarred into apoplexy by finding an infinitive doing a split.

Of course, this is a lot of attention to be giving Clover, Rowell and Lissner, but as the little fellows are tugging at The Times' skirts week after week, it would be positively heartless not to notice them.

As for what influence they have in defeating the ends of the women who are interested in bringing forward some one of their number as the candidate for Lieutenant-Governor on the Republican ticket—there is no cause to even think twice of that. The influence of all three combined, and as many more like them as there are in the State, wouldn't affect the case in the least. The people know 'em.

MEXICAN LABOR.

If the Mexican laborers are to be saved from the spoilers of work, if they are to get a fair reward for their labor, they will recognize the fact that the opportunities for turning manual labor into sufficient food and clothing and shelter are the results of the brain-work of pioneers—that the men, foreign or native, who bring capital into Mexico and spend that capital for opening up its mineral and agricultural resources are the real friends of the peon.

Not Villa with his armies of destruction; not Woodrow Wilson, who has identified himself with the cause of the rebels; not Huerta nor Zapata nor any factionalist can raise, single-handed, the civilization of a backward country. The progress of a nation is the fruit of men who succeed in their work whether aided or hampered by the actions of their rulers. It is the sum of a mass of individual effort.

In the long run the worker will win, though schemers and dreamers for a time get the ear of the multitude. Nations are kept sweet by undisturbed periods of work; any forcible interruption sours the milk of human kindness. The vast unrewarded work of the world establishes the theory of compensation. We have always had our workers and our spoilers of work; those who preach class hatred are the worst foes of all labor and all promise of prosperity. All work is good that is not destructive. To destroy is easy. From his latest interview, published in the Saturday Evening Post, the President of the United States seems to have allied himself with the spoilers of work in Mexico.

Certainly Mexico has suffered, as all nations have suffered to a greater or less extent. The larger proportion of the world's work is hard and painful, and the hard jobs are too often paid at lower rates than the soft ones. The value of work is determined by the competition of buyers and for unskilled labor the competition is a negative quantity. Especially so in a country where 90 per cent. of the people come under the classification of unskilled laborers.

Villa's treatment in driving from the country the Spaniards—whose brains and enterprise have helped at least to create a limited local market for unskilled labor—will only plunge the peons into deeper mires of poverty. Sympathy will not pull them out if all enterprise is hounded from the Mexican republic. Yet the President of the United States evidently approves of this doctrine, this weeding out of those he contemptuously dubs "overlords and aristocrats." In plain words, successful workers. We are fast approaching the era when to be a successful worker will be to carry a stigma of popular disfavor. Those who know better are doubly blameworthy for encouraging so wicked a misapprehension.

A leader whose policy is based on class hatred is an artist in high explosives; the man near the lowest rung on the ladder will suffer first, should some mischief-maker light the fuse.

Lord Kitchener's work in Egypt is the work of one of Wilson's so-called overlords. Yet through the work of these "hidalgos, the men who have exploited this rich country". (to use the President's exact words,) the lot of the Egyptian laborer has been improved a hundredfold; he is now better fed, better housed and better educated than he ever was during the many centuries when Egypt was kept free from foreign "exploiters." Thousands of acres of desert have been turned into fertile irrigated fields, and the whole world supply of food and clothing has been increased through British "exploitation" of backward Egypt.

The experiences of the venturous pioneers, the soil tamers and ore extractors of Mexico, could they be collected, would be invaluable in throwing light on the present condition of things in that disturbed land. The eyes of these men are trained to see the actualities, not to spin theories of reform from a distance of three thousand miles. Their ears are attuned to catch notes throbbing with the dust and strife of the Mexican wilderness, inaudible to the man at the desk over the longest distance telephone.

The lesson of the civilization of Egypt since the Nile waters have been stored behind desert barriers, designed by honest brain workers and built by sturdy fellahin, might well be learned and applied to Mexico and her suffering peons. This will never come from a system of class hatred, fomented by Villa and his guns and acquiesced in by Wilson and Bryan and the theorists.

ANOTHER TITANIC TRAGEDY.

The sinking of the Empress of Ireland is, indeed, a tragedy titanic. She was one of those stupendous ships, fashioned to carry more than a thousand persons in comfort, loaded with lifeboats and guarded with water-tight compartments. Out of the fog a collier came and drove its prow into the side of this palace of the ocean. Seventeen minutes later the Empress of Ireland sank. The number of dead as yet can only be approximated, but it will be near to 1000. Thus the sinking of the Titanic has been duplicated, even after the owners of vessels, warned by the fate of that ship, have represented themselves as doing everything that could be thought of to make these great steamers safe.

It is a catastrophe that stuns the world. In all the universe there is nothing more helpless than a wrecked vessel on the water. The mightiest ship is but a splinter, with her engines gone and her wireless down. The Empress of Ireland was wrecked on a river, and had she not sank so rapidly every person could have been saved, as it is reported that there were more than enough lifeboats to accommodate all.

Further investigations will perhaps lay the responsibility on some unlucky head; but from the information at hand it appears to have been a tragedy brought on by the fog. But why did not the water-tight compartments work? Why were not the fog-horns blowing and the bells ringing? There are precautions, even in a dense fog, that vessels have used with success. Which ship was out of its course? How fast were they steaming? Those are things which, when made known, will help in placing the responsibility.

But the blaming, or even the convicting and humiliating, of all officers and owners of either the collier or the Empress of Ireland will not make restitution to the relatives and friends of those who went to their death in the cold waters of the St. Lawrence. Damages by the millions may be paid, but the touch of a mother's hand or a father's arm can never be restored. And if it should come to light that carelessness or mismanagement is responsible for this tragedy, then those culpable should be severely punished as an admonition to other owners and officers.

THE TOLLS REPEAL QUESTION.

Senator Sutherland of Utah is so sure that the United States is within its rights under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty in exempting coastwise vessels from paying tolls for passing through the Panama Canal, that he believes the Hague tribunal, which, consisting as it does of representatives of maritime nations, would naturally be against us, will, if the question is submitted to it, decide in our favor, and he therefore favors submission to arbitration instead of repeal of the law.

England does not deny the right of the United States to subsidize its ships by returning the tolls which it insists should be collected from them. It is a reductio ad absurdum to claim that the United States should pay itself for the use of its own canal; that it should take tolls from a vessel at one end of the canal and return the money at the other end.

Senator Sutherland said that when he voted for the exemption law in 1912 he was influenced not so much by a consideration of the economic policy of exemption, considered by itself, as he was by the far more important consideration of the right of the American government to deal in its own way with American shipping passing through the canal unhampered by treaty stipulations.

The amendment to the repeal bill by which there is added to it a clause that by such repeal Congress does not waive the right to re-enact it, or otherwise discriminate in favor of American shipping, is simply cowardly. If President Wilson had based his demand for a repeal of the tolls exemption law on economic grounds alone, on the ground that the government needed the tolls to aid in paying the expenses of running the canal, or upon the ground that exemption was a subsidy which ought not to be granted to ship owners, he would have occupied a much stronger and more defensible position than in claiming that the honor of the nation requires us to concede the demand of Great Britain that she be allowed to participate equally with the United States in the benefits of the canal because of her construction of the phraseology of a treaty which was rendered obsolete and nugatory by our purchase from Panama of the ten-mile strip.

"In the history of free government," said Senator Sutherland, "no such astounding proposition has ever before been presented to a great legislative body as this demand of the President that we shall reserve our action 'without raising the question whether we are right or wrong.' To comply with it would be so utterly subversive of every consideration of self-respect that even those who intend to capitulate will raise the question and make a pretense of justifying their action upon defensible grounds before acceding to the President's request."

It would certainly be an example of unusual and extravagant generosity for the government of the United States to have consented not only to take over all the burdens of the obsolete and rescinded Clayton-Bulwer treaty, but to spend $400,000,000 taken from the pockets of the taxpayers upon a more or less doubtful enterprise with the understanding that it and its citizens should never participate in the beneficial use of the canal to a greater extent than the governments and citizens of governments that had never spent a dollar and were burdened with not the slightest care or responsibility respecting the enterprise.

It is the hope, but hardly the expectation of The Times, that the Senate will heed the voice of the people that arises from all parts of the land and either defeat the tolls repeal bill or defer final action until next winter. If action is deferred, the bill will never be repealed, for the voters will sweep from power the men and the party responsible for the repeal of the bill exempting coastwise shipping from the payment of tolls.

MEMORIAL DAY. II.

The Return From the Grave.

The sorrowing cortege reaches the soldier's last halting place. The corporal's voice speaks the command:

"Halt!"

"Right wheel into line—march!"

The pallbearers bring the dead down the front of the line, halting at the center. Again the corporal:

"Present—arms!"

It is the farewell of comrades to comrade; the silent adieu of the regiment. The coffin is rested beside the grave; the silent quarters of the soldier who is mustered out with honor.

"Rest on arms!"

The muskets are reversed, the muzzles resting on the left foot; the hands of the soldiers are crossed on the butts; the heads are bowed on the hands; the right knee is slightly bent.

The chaplain steps to the front and center; here he is greater than the colonel. He reads from a Book—the only Book men read at such a time. It is a soldier's Book; the Book of final victory. The first words the chaplain reads ring out over that open grave like the glorious triumph of victorious bugles—the trumpets of the Conqueror:

"I am the Resurrection and the Life; he that believeth in Me, though he die, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me, shall never die!"

Glorious! Splendid! Magnificent! "In the midst of death we are in Life." That is the way to read it. The bowed heads involuntarily lift themselves right soldierly. Read on, brave chaplain. That is your Great Captain speaking.

Oh, I never stand beside an open grave that I do not see the Son of God standing on the other side of that chasm of shadows, in the resplendent beauty and glory of the perfect Life, and hearing Him calling across to the mourning ones: "I am the Resurrection and the Life!" "I am He that liveth and was dead, and behold, I am alive forevermore." I would not qualify by the slightest shading my absolute belief in that glorious teaching of the Living Christ; I would not exchange one positive word of it for all the cleverest guesses and most brilliant doubts of all the wisest scholars that all the ages have brought forth in this world of human theories and mistakes and restatements, conjecture and hypothesis. I did not doubt it that day, with the dead soldier lying on his bier before me, and I have never doubted it for one moment since. When I stand before the Throne, I will be no more certain of it than I am now.

Over the body of our comrade, the chaplain lifts our souls in prayer. He steps to his place at the right of the platoon. The corporal commands:

"Attention! Carry—arms! Load at will—load!"

Follows the rattle of rammers, the clicking of musket locks.

"Ready—Aim—Fire!"

Thrice repeated. The salute of the army to Loyalty, to Valor, to Fidelity—the salute to the Flag. The blue smoke wreaths its graceful way up toward the drifting white clouds, earth and the heavens greeting each other above the loyal sacrifice. It is the incense of War drifting over the open grave—the last, full sacrifice of loyalty, as though it bore upward the soul of the dead. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man may lay down his life for his friends."

Once more the corporal:

"Carry—arms! Forward, guide left—march!"

The drummers have removed the somber crepe from the rattling snares, now tightly stretched. Clear and shrill as the song of the meadow lark the stirring drums put the tingle into our half-dancing feet, the corporal jocularly calls: "Right shoulder shift 'em!" and with laughter and jest we chatter our way back to camp and life, and duty, and joy and death—"all in three years," we say as we stack arms on the color line.

Had we then forgotten him so quickly? Forget the comrade who had shared our duties, our dangers, our privations and fatigues? Forget him? It was fifty years ago that we fired our farewell shots over his lonely grave, and the old ache creeps into our hearts with the thought of him today.

It isn't a good thing for a soldier who in some form faces death every day, to be depressed in spirit by the thought of it. It unfits him for duty, and duty is greater than death. The trilling fifes and merry drums are not to make him forget. They are to remind him that men must be ready for every duty, all the time; cheery, brave, and faithful. The music of the camp never dims the memory of the comrade who has been called to higher duty. It's the way of the camp and it is a good way. No man loves his friends more dearly and tenderly than I. Yet I do not believe in wearing mourning for the dead. I would not say of my loved ones called up higher:

"They have entered into the perfect life. I love them most tenderly, yet as a token of my feeling toward them I put on sable raiment of gloom and depression. Because they were pure and gentle in life and beautiful in death, I darken my sunshine with emblems of mourning and gloom." That is not right.

Mourning garments were not originally worn to express sorrow. They were to warn people that the wearers were "unclean" as lepers, and were to be avoided and shunned. Why? Because we had lovingly touched with tender hands our beautiful, beloved dead.

"Fall in for roll call!"

The living respond to their names. The sergeant calls the details for the morrow. This man for camp guard. This for the dangerous post of picket; this one to hew wood; that one to draw water; you to go forth to battle; you to minister in hospital; you to abide in your tent, waiting to be called.

And the dead, having achieved their full duty, sleep quietly and sweetly, waiting to hear Him say:

"I am the Resurrection and the Life."

PAINTING.

WALT MASON IN THE TIMES.

Now the husband paints the fence, while the housewife paints her face, and, with energy intense, we are painting every place. We enjoy this useful toil, which will make the town more fair, and we smell of linseed oil, and there's ochre in our hair. Paint would beautify the spheres, and we heave no useless sighs, if there's putty in our ears and some varnish in our eyes. Wheresoever brush is laid, an improvement then is seen, and no odds about the shade—lilac, lavender or green. You will say: "I am surprised that you preach paint evermore; you have sure been subsidized by some paint and varnish store." But I haven't had a yen from the dealers in red lead since I started urging men to embellish house and shed. Some men tell you how to vote, others tell you how to pray, but I'm wearing out my throat shrieking: "Paint Up!" all the day. It's because I hope to make this old world a brighter place that I urge you till I break both suspenders and a trace. Blow yourself for linseed oil, blow yourself for lead and zinc, or your residence will spoil; paint it blue, with stripes of pink!

cause it combined under the direction of the younger veterans the honoring of the memory of those who have departed and the unveiling of a monument as an eternal reminder to coming generations was conducted by the United Spanish War Veterans and the Ladies' Auxiliaries of the various camps in Los Angeles.

Only a few hundred feet away the G.A.R., Sons of Veterans and their auxiliary organizations were conducting ceremonies along the line of those held on Memorial days in the past, while thousands of men, women and children thronged the cemetery and left no grave unadorned with wreaths or garlands of flowers.

The scene at the cemetery was one that carried its thrill to the younger generation and demonstrated that there is as much patriotism above as below the sod. It is estimated that during the day more than 10,000 persons visited the cemetery and nearly as many wreaths, bouquets and garlands found their way to the grassy plots that are marked with the sculptured headstones.

From one of the bronze guns that went down in Havana Harbor on February 15, 1898, with the battleship Maine, the Spanish War Veterans of Los Angeles obtained enough of the metal to cast a bronze tablet. This tablet, morticed in the center of a great block of granite, was unveiled at the cemetery yesterday morning.

Above the legend, "U.S.W.V.," the bronze tablet, carrying a heroic figure of Columbia, and a reproduction of the ill-fated Maine. The legend read: "In memory of the U.S.S. Maine, destroyed in Havana Harbor February 15, 1898. This tablet is cast from metal recovered from the U.S.S. Maine."

The unveiling was done by Thelma Moyer, a little girl of 7 years, daughter of Commander Moyer of Admiral Glass Camp.

John T. Curtin, chairman of the Spanish War Veterans' part in the Memorial Day celebration, presided at the ceremony which was preceded by the marching of 200 veterans from the entrance to the cemetery to the monument. Rev. J. M. Barnhart delivered the innovation and was followed by Judge Thomas White, who delivered an oration upon the general purposes of Memorial Day, paying tribute to the lives and deeds of the dead who had served during the Spanish-American War.

Judge Shenk followed the unveiling with an eloquent tribute to the heroes of the Maine. He alluded to the peculiar significance of the exhibition of patriotism displayed by those who participated in the late war.

Music was rendered by the Veterans' Fife and Drum Corps and a firing squad of the National Guard fired a salute over the new monument and the graves.

Escorted by Gen. W. S. Rosecrans Camp, Sons of Veterans, members of the G.A.R., marched from the Washington-street entrance to the assembly place, where seats had been provided for a large crowd.

In the grave-plot of the G.A.R. the ritual was read, "Taps" was sounded and a salute fired.

Dr. George C. Somers was chairman of the day at the regular exercises. Rev. Willis M. Sapp delivered the invocation after which Gen. Logan's famous order No. 11 was read.

W. E. Herendeen lead the audience in the singing of "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground," while L. L. Eldridge played an accompaniment on the organ.

M. H. Wagar read portions of Lincoln's Gettysburg address. A. M. Z. des Plantes sang "The Star Spangled Banner," while Prof. E. B. Warman read "Foes United in Death."

Past Department Commander J. J. Steadman delivered an oration on "Red, White and Blue," which reviewed the patriotic, heroic deeds of the veterans of the Civil War.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Sapp, and the ceremonies at the cemetery were concluded with the blowing of "Taps" by O. T. Thomas.

THOUSANDS AT CENTRAL PARK.

CITIZENS AND SOLDIERS JOIN IN IMPRESSIVE TRIBUTE.

Foreign Nations Represented by Their Consuls — President and Members of City Council Aid Patriotic Organizations in Conducting Memorial Services.

Remarkable in several aspects was the gathering at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at the Seventh Regiment monument in Central Park to pay tribute to the memory of those who gave their lives in defense of the flag. Probably never in the history of Los Angeles has a public gathering represented so many elements in the social organization. And a precedent was set in this city when the representatives of various foreign governments appeared in their official capacity.

Masses of dainty flowers in wreaths, bouquets and set pieces surrounded the monument. At its top was hung a floral shield of red, white and blue, bearing the words "Seventh California Volunteer Association." Stands of flags, the red, white and blue in the center, and the flags of other nations at the sides, stood forth as marks of honor to the memory of the departed.

All around the monument, on the park walks, sidewalks and reaching clear out to the curbs, stood crowds of people with uncovered heads, as the invocation arose, the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung and "Taps" were sounded. In this assemblage were representatives of many patriotic societies, ranging from aged and trembling veterans of the Civil War down to the members of the very newest camp of the Spanish War Veterans. War widows were there and women deprived of their sons by the strife of battle—and little children looked on in wide-eyed wonder as they absorbed first lessons in patriotism. President Whiffen and other members of the City Council represented the city officially.

For the first time in the history of Los Angeles the consular corps located here participated officially in Memorial Day exercises. The affair at Central Park was virtually an official function, as the city government was represented by the President of the City Council and Acting Mayor, and members of the Council. Of the consular corps there were present the following representatives: Italy, G. Piuma; Peru, Capt. E. J. Louis; Chile, Gen. F. C. Prescott; Costa Rica, G. O. Robertz; Panama and Cuba, William Moorkens.

There were also representatives present for the Mayflower Society, Society of Colonial Wars, Sons of the Revolution, Loyal Legion, Grand Army of the Republic, Sons of Veterans, Spanish War Veterans, National Guards, Order of Carabao, naval militia and other patriotic organizations. Gen. Robert Wankowski, Col. W. G. Schreiber and Maj. H. B. Light were participants in the exercises.

In the assemblage was the mother of the late Sergeant Curtis S. Rollins, one of the men whose name is carved on the Central Park monument. Also participating in the event were a score of members of the newest camp of the Spanish War Veterans, Chaplain Alfred S. Clark Camp, organized in this city a short time ago.

The exercises were in charge of the Seventh California Volunteer Association. Frank D. Shearer presided. The invocation was offered by Rev. George Davidson, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church.

The eulogium was delivered by Gen. Frank C. Prescott. Speaking in tribute to the memory of soldiers of the Spanish-American War who died in service, he said:

"Their oblation to duty was offered sixteen years ago. One war to a generation is the allotment made to the advanced civilization of today; yet but half that time has passed and this Memorial Day finds us dropping wreaths in memory of new sacrifices, and this same regiment on the alert and ready for another tour of duty, all the more difficult that it seems unnecessary, all the more painful that no resentment can quicken the arm raised against those whom we regard with those feelings only of neighborly affection."

Paying tribute to the Spanish War veterans, Gen. Prescott said of the Seventh California Infantry:

"This stone was raised in memory of some of these enlisted men. They were my own associates; I well remember their faces. They were no tramps or loafers drifting aimlessly, everything to make and nothing to lose. They came from homes of culture and refinement. In his devotion to duty each has become transfigured from the plain soldier at the Presidio to the apotheosis of American patriotism. This shrine brings us not only the memories of 1898; those great pioneers of individual right, the Pilgrims of the Mayflower, are represented here by their descendants; those martyrs of the colonial wars are represented here by their kin."

Following the address of Gen. Prescott, Senorita Elainia Sepulveda sang the "Star Spangled Banner," the double firing squad of the Seventh Regiment fired the salute and "Taps" were sounded.

MOUNDS AT EVERGREEN BURIED UNDER BLOSSOMS.

Grand Army Posts and Women's Relief Corps Hold Separate Services, Then Join in Final Ceremony of Memorial With Patriotic Songs and Addresses.

Gray and drab of the morning were forgotten out at Evergreen Cemetery yesterday, because of the brilliancy of thousands of blossoms that veritably buried the mounds covering the remains of the nation's soldier dead. From dawn till dark the quiet aisles were filled with a reverent group of visitors.

Among the first to get to the cemetery were committees of the G.A.R., Ladies of the G.A.R., and the Woman's Relief Corps, comprised of the membership of the Kenesaw and the Bartlett-Logan posts. After the graves had been strewn with flowers, the posts divided over the burying ground of their comrades and each held a separate memorial service. Particular attention was called to the death of nine comrades of Bartlett-Logan Post and six of Kenesaw Post during the past year, and the firing squad of Co. H, First Regiment, Sons of Veterans of Rosecrans Camp, No. 2, under command of Second Lieutenant Davis volleyed a salute.

Together, then, the two posts under the direction of Marshal of the Day Thomas J. Shea, held their services. Marshal Shea spoke eloquently of the men, who as boys, marched to the defense of their country and of the valor it required. Chairman J. L. Palmer followed with a short address. Owing to the illness of Rev. Frederick W. Cartsens, Rev. D. Lloyd Jenkins delivered the invocation. Mrs. W. W. Scott sang "The Star Spangled Banner." This was followed with the reading of the memorable speech of President Lincoln at Gettysburg by R. A. Critchlow of the Bartlett-Logan Post. Miss Emma Teeter sang "Face to Face" and G. W. Woodward of Kenesaw Post read the famous Order of Gen. Logan.

The oration was delivered by Justice Frank S. Forbes. He briefly outlined the reasons for the day's celebration. "It rekindles the fires of patriotism and creates a great national sentiment for the powerful union of States," he said. "The Civil War saved the South as well as the North. However, brilliant and aggressive the southern people, they would sooner or later have had to succumb to the effects of slavery. This fearful system of human degredation could not long have remained with civilization. Hundreds of years have proven that a race must discard it entirely or itself become of an inferior subservient caliber.

"The struggle for the emancipation of the slaves saved the North from the spirit of dis-union that had been growing stronger. There were many men, even brilliant northern statesmen, who believed in the right of secession. Had such a sentiment continued to prevail, had not the question been forever settled by the rebellion outcome, the Union would have been dissolved and today the United States would be little more than a lot of small nations, continually in trouble as are the Latin countries.

"The victories of the northern arms bound inseparably the States and made the nation what it is today," he concluded. A solo by W. H. Turner, a selection by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Scott, the singing of "America" by the entire gathering of several thousand persons, and the final benediction by the Rev. Jenkins closed the ceremonies.

CREX WEEK

Do your shopping early, while assortments are complete

Carpet dealers all over the United States and Canada are showing this year the largest and most complete stock of CREX carpets, rugs and runners ever displayed.

CREX is the ideal health floor covering—made of long, strong, twisted wire grass, compactly woven and bound by best obtainable warp.

CREX coverings are always sanitary. They do not hold dirt—therefore are free of germs. Simply shake and refreshen with brush and water or dampened broom.

Save Labor During Hot Summer Days

Put away your heat-retaining woolen coverings and use cool, bright, cheerful CREX—especially in your bedrooms and on the porch.

You will enjoy luxurious comfort at trifling expense.

The following suggestion is worthy of careful note:

E. H. Ruddock, M. D., Ph. D.; the eminent authority on Domestic Hygiene, says; under the heading "Carpets, Dust and Disease;"—"An atmosphere impregnated with the dust which has gathered in carpets is positively unhealthy. The dust, especially in warm weather, presents myriads of animalculae. To prevent this evil, the carpet should be cleaned often."

When this truth was written Dr. Ruddock did not realize that he was writing a splendid CREX advertisement. In fact, CREX was unheard of until several years later.

Remember there is an appropriate CREX covering to match the color scheme of any room, at prices ranging from 30 cents to $15.00 according to size and pattern.

CREX is the original and genuine wire-grass floor covering, but there are imitations—against which you are warned.

Disappointment comes with all substitutes.

Look for the name CREX in the side binding as shown in illustration. It's your protection and our guarantee.

Scenic Highway.

TO LINK HILLS CLOSE TO SEA.

Propose Short Route South from Van Nuys.

Will Cut Distance to Santa Monica in Half.

Select Route of Beauty in Benedict Canyon.

A new highway that will cut in half the distance between Van Nuys and Santa Monica and will furnish a better outlet from the San Fernando Valley into Los Angeles will soon add another bit of scenic beauty to the country's chain of good roads. Fostered by property owners in Benedict Canyon and the hills bordering the San Fernando Valley south of Van Nuys, who will bear the greater burden of cost, the project is believed to be assured. The road, exclusive of right of way, will cost about $60,000.

The plan is to construct a wide, smooth way from Beverly Hills through Benedict Canyon to Van Nuys—roughly forming a chord of the circuitous route that now connects the two places. The road will start from a point just above the Beverly Hills Hotel and connect with South Sherman way. It will enable travel from Van Nuys to go directly south to Beverly instead of having to go, as at present, eastward in the San Fernando Valley to Cahuenga Pass, then retrace practically the same distance westward. It is declared the new route will not only shorten distances, but will relieve congestion of traffic in the pass.

The county will be asked to pay half of the cost of construction, the property owners to bear the other half and donate the right of way, under the Carey act of 1907.

OFFICIAL ACTION TOMORROW.

The City Trustees of Beverly Hills are to consider the project at a special meeting tomorrow. Between the canyon and the improved portion of Canyon drive in Beverly Hills is a strip of unpaved roadway less than half a mile long and the question of paving this will be taken up.

All of the property owners in Benedict Canyon have signed an agreement to deed to the county free a sixty-foot right of way in the canyon itself, and Harold Bell Wright, who recently acquired a large tract in the foothills of the San Fernando Valley, has been asked to donate a similar right of way there.

Engineers have reported that the enterprise is entirely feasible and that the highway will have a grade of from 1½ to 3 per cent. throughout, excepting one short 6-per-cent. rise. The maximum grade of both the Laurel Canyon and the Cahuenga Pass roads exceeds 7 per cent.

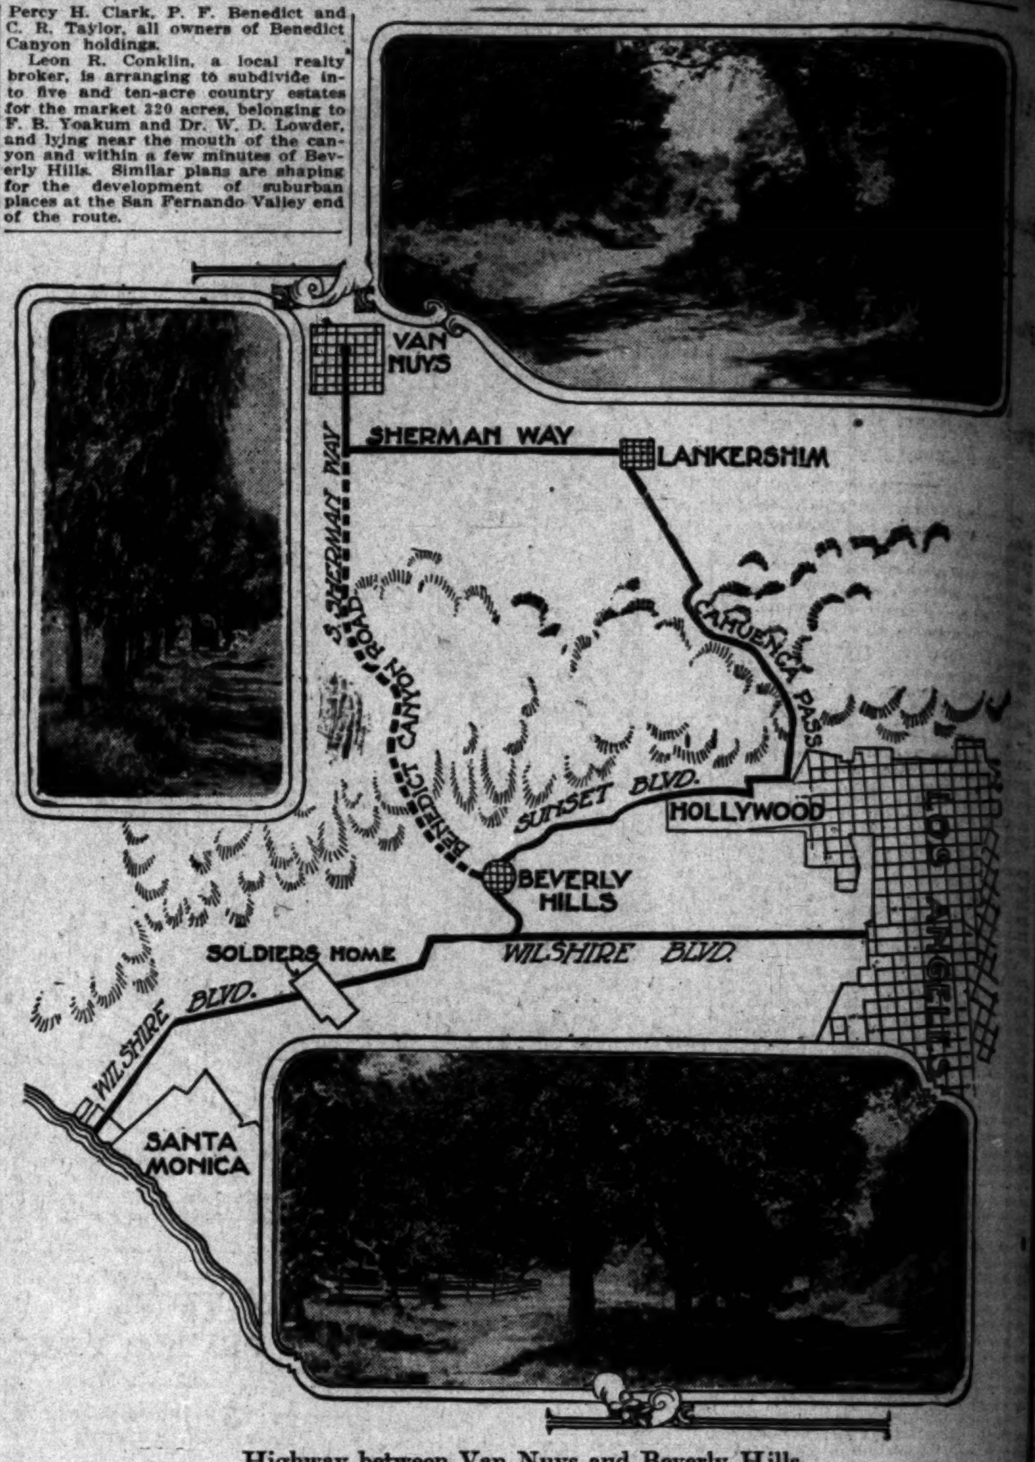
In Benedict Canyon today is an undedicated road two miles long that has been used by families in the canyon for a quarter-century. This road is of good grade and will require but little straightening. The distance between Van Nuys and Beverly Hills by the roadway will be six miles. Of this South Sherman way will comprise a considerable portion at the north end. The road will cross the State highway just north of the San Fernando Valley foothills.

Benedict Canyon has long been noted for its natural beauty. It is heavily wooded and numerous other canyons of equal beauty open into it at intervals, creating large open spaces suitable for residences. The floor of the canyon is unusually wide and offers opportunity for a broad, straight roadway.

The Automobile Club of Southern California had a survey made of the canyon two years ago and reported favorably upon a highway connecting the two valleys. The club has also indorsed the plans now shaping.

Those who have taken the lead in the enterprise are F. B. Yoakum, Dr. W. D. Lowder, Leon R. Conklin, Percy H. Clark, P. F. Benedict and C. R. Taylor, all owners of Benedict Canyon holdings.

Leon R. Conklin, a local realty broker, is arranging to subdivide into five and ten-acre country estates for the market 320 acres, belonging to F. B. Yoakum and Dr. W. D. Lowder, and lying near the mouth of the canyon and within a few minutes of Beverly Hills. Similar plans are shaping for the development of suburban places at the San Fernando Valley end of the route.



Highway between Van Nuys and Beverly Hills.

The road, for which rights of way have been secured from the property owners in Benedict Canyon, will reduce the distance from points in the San Fernando Valley to Santa Monica Bay by half, and will offer a new route into Los Angeles. It is shown by the dotted line. The project has the indorsement of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The views are in the canyon to be traversed.

NEW MUNICIPAL CLUB.

Employees Organize for Mutual Entertainment and Profit—Two Thousand Eligibles.

The Municipal Club was organized among city employees on Friday evening in the Mayor's office.

C. P. Haswell of the water department is the president; the vice-presidents are W. A. Woodis of the street department, Arthur Baker of the purchasing department, and G. W. McDonald of the auditing department; the secretary-treasurer is H. S. Payne, secretary of the Board of Public Utilities, and these officers, with Miss Elsbeth M. Waddell and A. C. Hansen, Assistant City Engineer, compose the board of directors.

The Membership Committee is composed of N. J. Davenport of the Municipal Employment Bureau, A. J. Barsen of the Assessment Bureau, F. W. Wilson of the Humane Animal Commission, G. W. Wade and H. M. Wegener.

More than 2000 municipal employees are eligible and the Membership Committee will be glad to receive applications. It is proposed to provide social, educational and protective features for the membership and a series of entertainments is now being planned. The club meetings will be held the last Friday of each month in the Council chambers at the City Hall.

Forty Joy Days.

GLAD WAGON STARTS WITH KIDS TOMORROW.

THE Kid Karavan starts tomorrow! Yea, verily, 'tis the open season for joy rides. And it's going to rain kids down at Venice for forty days! The Times is going to take a load of 'em down there every day, and turn 'em loose.

A glad, mad day it'll be over at the Orphans' Home tomorrow. Thirty youngsters over there are going to be the charter members of the Joy Jinks, and, wrapped up against the cool sea breeze, will take the gleeful pilgrimage to Venice.

You bet those kids will take the grim-age out of pil-grimage, all right. For thirty kids will sniff the ozone, as they bowl along between green fields, under the blue sky; thirty kids will try to get themselves killed off in all the blissful ways kindly provided by the Venice management; thirty kids will make for the beach, shedding shoes and stockings as they run; and thirty kids will be brought safe home again at 6 o'clock, full of peanuts and joy.

"Gee," (who ever knew a newsie to start off a sentence with anything but gee," leastways in a newspaper article,) "gee, we'se is glad the good ole Times is makin' a noise like a joy ride once more!" cried a freckled thrill-vendor over at the Newsboys' Home.

"Me for the glad wagon!" shouted another; "say, do youse t'ink as de guy'll let us steer her?"

"Well," said a prim little girl over at the Orphans' Home, smoothing down her blue gingham frock, "I haven't seen the ocean for a year, but I s'pose it's just the same old ocean, slopping all over everything."

"And I'm a'goin' to ride the Noah's Ark!" another clapped her hands.

N.B.—The Noah's Ark turned out to be the merry-go-'round!"

They all want a joy ride.

Castelar-street schoolboys hearing the good news that The Times will give them an auto trip to the beach. Above is one of the school gardeners who is selling vegetables to raise peanut money.

For the Boys.

MORE THAN A GOOD TIME IN "THE TIMES" CAMP.

THE ambition to accomplish a purpose, plus his parents' pride and his neighbors' congratulations, means as much to a boy as the fun he will have at the Times Catalina Camp. The time is now opportune for taking a step along the successful lines of life. The winning of a four-day stay at The Times Camp is a big step toward success as well as an easy way to gain a wonderful vacation absolutely without cost. So let every boy take a hand in the race for business, which means such a great pleasure when the frolic season is on!

It is the aim of The Times to go almost the limit with the view of surpassing last year's most successful camp outing. For every effort put forth by the boys, The Times will put forth an effort to equal it when building the camp and planning for the boys' good times. These combined efforts spell nothing but success.

Remember, boys, that big things are promised and remember also that The Times never falls down on its promises. The programme will be a rich one, and you are invited to take part in the many sports. Nothing compulsory at The Times Camp. It is a vacation for you and you may go swimming, fishing, goat hunting, exploring, or you may take part in any of the various other sports to your hearts' delight. But wait, that is not all! All of these good things are backed up by a big "feed" three times a day, cooked and served by none other than that Chef Jackson, who is doing much to make The Times Camp famous. There is also an automatic piano at the disposal of the members of the camp, so that you may have music with your meals if you so wish. Then there are the shower baths in order to keep clean, plenty of fresh towels and a soft bed for each boy in order to gain a good night's rest. What more could any one ask for only a little work?

Now is the time to get to work, either by yourself or with a few of your friends. A four-day outing at the camp is awarded to every boy who turns in only six subscriptions for The Times, each subscription to be for a period of one month and thereafter until ordered stopped. Any club or group of friends going together with be extended the privilege of sleeping in the same tent and eating together at the table. If you haven't already started, or if you wish any further information, come in or write for illustrated circular and subscription blanks.

price when so many factories have closed down and when the value of millions of acres has been cut in two. But this much and no more has sugar decreased. On May 1, 1913, it was .0415 per pound. On May 1, 1914, it was .0385. The average family probably saves a dollar a year. For that dollar a year we use foreign sugar, we send our money out of the United States, we deprive the farmers of California and Colorado and many other States of half the value of their land. For that dollar a year we cause thousands upon thousands of employees in sugar refineries to be thrown out of their jobs.

The chief consumption of sugar, however, is perhaps in the form of candy. The price of candy has advanced rather than descended. The reason given for that increase in California is that employees can only be worked eight instead of ten hours. Irrespective of any labor discussion, the fact remains that we are paying more for candied products than before the Democrats agreed to reduce the price, and in the meantime we have sacrificed the sugar beet industry of California.

Here are a few items relative to the manner in which the tariff reductions has affected labor without increasing the purchasing price of a dollar—in fact, with the purchasing price even less than it was when they went into office!

Over 30,000 lumber men are out of work.

The American Woolen Mills has been compelled to shut down over one-fourth of the looms, because England is making our textiles now, and as a result over 42,000 employees of the American Woolen Mills have been thrown out of work.

The condensed milk concerns of this country have been compelled to retrench because Japanese and Swiss manufacturers can underbid them to get the business and continue to make a profit almost to the extent of the difference between the former tariff and the present. The employees of American firms, so announcement has been made, must expect to have their wages reduced.

Almost within a year the Baldwin Locomotive Works has discharged 11,000 employees.

The Ford Motor Company (which recently announced that it would divide one-half of its profits with its employees) had laid off 6000 men.

Those are only instances which may be compared to drops of water out of a bucketful.

We submit that a poor way to even try to reduce the cost of living is to deprive men and women of the opportunity of earning a livelihood, and it becomes all the more deplorable when the cost-reducing experiment fails.

ASKS PROTECTION FROM OWN HANDS.

GIRL WHO ATTEMPTED SUICIDE TWICE WANTS SENTENCE TO PATTON.

Having unsuccessfully tried twice in four days to end her own life, Miss Catherine Swain, 24 years old, No. 2923 South Hope street, yesterday asked the authorities to commit her to the State Hospital at Patton, where she will be secure from her own hand. Saved by treatment at the Receiving Hospital, after she had attempted suicide last Wednesday, the young woman again sought death yesterday morning by drinking carbolic acid.

Despondency, resulting from insomnia, is declared by Miss Swain to have prompted her to try death. For months she has spent many restless nights. Yesterday morning she arose almost fully recovered from her attempt of Wednesday, when she drank chloroform and inhaled gas.

"I was tired out as the result of no sleep," said the girl. "As I was taking my bath I saw a bottle of carbolic acid on a stand and I thought that I had better end it all."

The girl's mother found her in the bathroom after the poison had been taken. She was rushed to the Receiving Hospital for treatment. Her request for confinement at Patton has not been granted, but steps will probably be taken to prevent her again making an attempt to die.

Makes Hairs Disappear Almost Like Magic

The woman whose beauty is marred with superfluous hair or fuzz will gladly welcome the new home treatment for removing objectionable growths from the face, neck or arms, because this method is quick and certain in its action and so simple that anyone can use it in the privacy of her own home with entirely satisfactory results.

A paste is made with some powdered delatone and water, then spread over the hairy surface. In two or three minutes it is removed and with it comes every trace of hair. After the skin is washed and dried it will be clear, spotless and of a velvety softness. This is a safe, harmless method and unless the growth is very stubborn, one application is sufficient; but to avoid disappointment, be sure to get the delatone in an original package.

Bright, White Way.

"GOOD ROADS" CELEBRATION.

Lighted Highway Completed to Owensmouth.

Merry Carnival to Follow Tour of Inspection.

Circuit Will Blaze at Dusk After Barbecue.

State, city and county officials and thousands of others interested in good roads and the benefits they bring to the communities through which they pass will participate in a "good roads" celebration at Van Nuys and Owensmouth next Saturday afternoon and evening. At that time the new lighting system with its fourteen miles of electroliers adorning the State highway from Owensmouth to Van Nuys will be put to use for the first time. This will complete a thirty-one-mile circuit of the valley, where the finely-improved boulevards afford a delightful view of surrounding scenery by day and a brilliant white way by night.

An opportunity will be given to inspect the $500,000 private boulevard built by the Suburban Homes Company, county and State highways and miles of connecting roads. Visitors will be shown the various methods of asphalt, concrete and macadam construction. A portion of the State highway from Owensmouth to Los Angeles and some of the connecting roads will be opened to travel for the first time on the day of the celebration.

The new boulevard leading to Van Nuys is one of the most beautiful in California. Smoothly paved, with broad surface and speedway, it is bordered for sixteen miles with vigorous rose plants. These, nourished by the rich soil, bloom freely and add a unique beauty to the drive. It required 40,000 bushes to create the appearance which this spring excited the admiration of thousands of automobilists.

The programme will begin at Van Nuys at 3 o'clock with a band concert. Time will then be taken for a tour of the new organ factory and other points of interest. At 4 o'clock an automobile parade will proceed in and about Van Nuys. Half an hour later the trip over the new road to Owensmouth will be begun. The rose-bordered Sherman Way will be traversed for its entire distance and can be viewed both from automobiles and electric cars.

At Owensmouth the visitors will be entertained by a band concert, and brief addresses will be made showing the development and progress of the rich San Fernando Valley in the past few years.

From 5:30 o'clock until dusk a Spanish barbecue will be served by Joe Romera. When the guests have eaten their fill and darkness begins to creep over the valley a button will be pressed and the completion of the thirty-one-mile circuit will be heralded by a blaze of light. With the circuit brightly lighted, automobolists will have an opportunity to see again in new and resplendant guise the same highway traversed earlier in the day.

A free outdoor minstrel show and more music by the band will usher in the evening's festivities, which will conclude with a Mardi Gras carnival with confetti throwing. Prizes for the most grotesque costumes will be awarded after the evening parade, which will be a part of the carnival.

The Automobile Club of Southern California has prepared a special map showing the route to be taken to the celebration and will furnish them upon request. The Pacific Electric Railway has arranged a special round-trip fare from Los Angeles to Owensmouth with a double stop-over privilege.

SEEKS CAT; FINDS BURGLAR.

Woman Hears Scratching on Window Sill; Goes to Investigate—Discovers Intruder's Leg.

What Mrs. Albert Raymond of No. 1126 South Evergreen street, thought, early yesterday morning, was one of her two pet cats scratching on the window sill of her bedroom, proved to be a burglar. Mrs. Raymond arose to investigate and instead of finding her cat, she saw the leg of a man as he was about to enter.

Mrs. Raymond screamed, disregarding the injunction of the nocturnal prowler to keep quiet. As the woman's husband came to her assistance the interloper dropped to the ground and ran.

Mrs. Raymond gave the detective bureau a good description of the man and a search is being made for him.

Small Boy, Preferring Wild Life Shown in Motion Pictures, Disappears from Home.

Guy Herbert Rudolph, 11-year-old son of C. N. Rudolph, No. 790 East Vernon street, is missing from his home as the result of his decision that a wild life in the open, such as he had seen portrayed by the "movies," is far better than the life of a schoolboy. Young Rudolph spent his first half-day in school Friday morning. At noon he returned home and, collecting his childish belongings, disappeared.

The father of the boy notified the detective bureau of his son's disappearance yesterday morning.

Don't Fool Yourself

by believing that there is any more delightful trip than via the WASHINGTON, "D. C."-SUNSET ROUTE through San Antonio, New Orleans, Atlanta, Ga., and Washington, D. C. A trip via this route along the Gulf Coast and through the valleys of Virginia is not not scenic, but also cool and pleasant. Don't deceive yourself. We have reduced round-trip rates. Ask us about them. We can sell going via one route, returning another. Tickets to Europe. We are agents for all steamship lines. T. F. Fitzgerald, 606 South Spring street. Broadway 2901 and F5821.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

[The Times invites strong, clear, bright expression of opinion on current subjects, timely, pertinent and popular. Brevity should be kept in sight. Essays eschewed. Religious and personal controversies are taboo. Value is added to such letters by the signing of the writer's true name, which will be either published or withheld at the owner's request. Letters offered for publication should be in "parliamentary" language, and are subject to editorial supervision.]

Preventing Marine Disasters.

LOS ANGELES, May 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The damnable cause of the Empress of Ireland and Titanic disasters and the heartrending loss of human lives should surely be enough to awaken the inward flickering of any shame yet remaining within us for permitting the possibility of such mercenary murderings. Yes, I emphatically declare them to be such, when we consider the worst than foolish substitution of our dangerously flimsy pleasure-serving steamships instead of the reliable structures of well-seasoned hard wood, that which formed the boasted bulwarks of old England's marine fame in days of yore.

I may be permitted to express an opinion in this connection—as an experienced marine expert of four-score sea travels, besides my early training to the oak shipwright business. Had the ill-fated Empress of Ireland been constructed of reliable material instead of such unreliable and really flimsy angle-iron frames, covered with three-quarters inch thick plates, greatly weakened by myriads of rivet holes, etc.—the collier's impact would not have left us to lament as we now do, over the terrible death toll.

This fact I know from an almost similar experience I had on board of a substantially built wood ship early in 1850 on our way to India, when we were ran into by a large iron coal-laden ship, striking our ship in her weakest part—namely, amidships—causing the coal-laden ship to sink, while our ship, the "Glenorah," was but slightly damaged down to the water line.

POLITICAL TIPS.

The suffragists of the First Colorado Congressional District propose bringing forward Mrs. J. J. Brown of Denver as a candidate for Congress, and with her wealth and popularity they expect she will give any man a hard run for the election. Mrs. Brown is not a politician, but is a prominent society woman, with a house at Newport, where she spends her summers, and where she will soon entertain the Duke of Westminster, and will bring him back to Colorado with her in September. She has also added to her fame by pledging her private fortune for Red Cross work during the Mexican war, should there be one.

Gov. Stuart of Virginia has practically announced his candidacy for the seat in the Senate now occupied by Thomas S. Martin, whose term will expire in 1919. Meantime he proposes to remain in the Governor's office and give his State such an administration as will strengthen his candidacy for the Senate. He only assumed office last February, and his term is four years. This will keep him continuously in politics, and will enable him to prove himself.

Representative Hobson sees little hope that his proposed amendment to the national Constitution will pass Congress because there are too many members who are sticklers for State's rights and who believe that some kind of a State's rights provision should be inserted in any such proposition. This looks as if national prohibition had been put to sleep for the present.

Senator Fletcher of Florida is in hot water because of his favoring the repeal of free tolls for American vessels using the Panama Canal. The sentiment of his district is distinctly in favor of things as they are at present, and so great is the opposition to the position he has taken that it is likely to prevent his renomination. Two years ago he was an ardent defender of American rights in the canal, but today he supports the British position. He is accused of being on whichever side is most favorable to Fletcher. It looks as if he will be elected to stay at home during the next term of the Senate.

The next Governor of Georgia will evidently be named Harris as the Democratic nomination is being sought by Judge Nat E. Harris of Macon and W. J. Harris of Cedartown. Judge Harris is a Civil War veteran, having served in the Confederate army throughout the war, and is a well-liked citizen. The other Harris has just resigned as director of the National Census, is younger and a good campaigner. The campaign will afford a good test of the strength of the Old Guard.

The appointment of Representative Henry D. Clayton to a Federal judgeship in Alabama is President Wilson's payment for his having remained in the House during the recent legislation relating to trusts. Had the President not intimated that he would take care of him, Clayton would have been a candidate for the Senate in the Underwood-Hobson campaign. As he proposes to at once enter upon his new position it looks as if the President felt assured that any further trust legislation will be accomplished without his aid.

Gifford Pinchot's assumption that the country is waiting for such Bull Moosers as he received a setback in the recent primaries in Pennsylvania where he has only had a residence for two years. His candidacy for the Senatorship against Penrose received only a pitifully small vote. The ascendency his star received when Roosevelt appointed him National Forester is gradually being overcome by terrestrial magnetism, and it will soon pass below the horizon. His campaign cost him $3576, and he received no contributions.

A long line of veterans of the Civil War, who have been employed in the departments at Washington, are receiving their last pay envelopes from the government this year, and their places are being filled by younger men, though they are still able to perform the duties of their positions better than new men. Their places are wanted, however, Democratic voters have to be paid, and the question of age is held against the old veterans as an insuperable argument.

By being refused a renomination by the Republicans of the Thirteenth Pennsylvania Congressional District, Representative Kelly has been told that Pennsylvania is a protection State. The big steel mills in the Thirteenth District have no use for a supporter of the Underwood tariff, hence Mr. Kelly will stay at home after his present term expires, where he will have a good chance to personally explain why he voted for reduction in the tariff on manufactures of his district.

Senator Burton of Ohio will not be a candidate for re-election. He will, however, take an active part in the coming campaign in opposition to political conditions which he thinks are wrong. He says he anticipates a better time as a campaigner than he could have as a lawmaker at Washington. Success to him, as there is no question of the character of his Republicanism.

The Progressives are at sea on the tariff question. In Indiana the Fourth District convention declared for a tariff for revenue only. In the Eleventh Indiana District the Progressives, at the suggestion of Senator Beveridge, have nominated a Wilson-Bryan Democrat for Congress. In the recent New Jersey Congressional election the Progressives declared the tariff question was of no consequence.

The depressing effect of the Underwood tariff is conclusively proved by the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times, which recently published a list of ten industrial shares and an equal number of railroad shares of stock, giving their respective market values, in October, 1912, and in May, 1914. The contrast is startling. In the ten industrial shares mentioned there was a depreciation in value amounting to $292,929,672, while in the ten railroad shares the depreciation was $289,943,372. Here is a total depreciation of $582,873,044 in twenty shares of companies engaged in industrial production and in transportation that has taken place since the Presidential election of 1912 gave notice to the country that the long-approved policy of protection was to be displaced for four years by the long-discredited policy of free trade.

Of course, the twenty issues of shares which show a lost value of more than half a billion dollars represent only a small portion of the industrial and transportation properties of the whole country. The Gazette-Times estimates at "fully two billions" the grand total of depreciation resulting from free trade.

Add to all this the wages lost by three million idle men, amounting to more than six million dollars a day, and the grand total of depleted values in a year and a half of prospective and actual free trade reaches stupendous proportions.

GUADALAJARA A RICH PRIZE.

Rebels About to Capture the Second Largest City.

For Years Hotbed of Anti-American Sentiment.

Property Worth Millions Magnet for Obregon.

BY FITZGERALD SLOCUM.

Beautiful Guadalajara, the "Pearl of the Occident" and the second largest city of Mexico seems destined to fall under the dominion of the Constitutionalists at an early date.

Famed as one of the most picturesque localities in the entire world, the city also is notorious as a hotbed of anti-American sentiment and the headquarters of the Mexican jingoes who are now clamoring for war with the United States, under the impression that the people of this country are bluffers who are afraid to oppose the valiant natives of the west coast.

Several times in the last few years, the people of Guadalajara have given open expression to their racial hatred of Americans by mobbing the gringoes and destroying hundreds of thousands of dollars of American property. In November, 1910, the natives were induced to rise against the foreigners and in the riots which followed it is officially admitted that more than fifty persons lost their lives.

Many of the Americans were forced to barricade themselves in the home of Charles Carrothers, a brother of Special Agent Carrothers now representing our State Department with Villa's army, and many of the rioters were shot down by the Americans who were desperately defending themselves against terrible odds. Since the foundation of the city by Cristobal de Onate in 1530 the history of these people shows that they have always been sanguinary, treacherous and cruel and unable long to contain themselves without instigating a bloody uprising of some sort.

SITE OFTEN CHANGED.

The site of the ancient town was changed on several occasions on account of the never ceasing conflicts between the natives of the great valley of Atemajac and the intruding Spaniards, who were admittedly no less cruel than their Indian antagonists.

The present location was decided upon by Guzman and the first house was built in September, 1541, followed a year later by the official dedication of the town, which was then known as Analco.

The famous church of San Juan de Dios which still stands in all its primative beauty was built in 1551 under the direction of a congregation consisting of "six foreigners, nine mountaineers, sixteen Spaniards and seven Portugueses," as the ecclesiastical history relates.

From that time the number of churches and convents increased with amazing rapidity until today Guadalajara supports more ecclesiastics than any other city in the world.

The Cathedral which is exceeded in size and beauty only by the great Cathedral of Mexico City, was commenced May 18, 1561 and has cost up to date several millions of dollars.

It is stated as a fact that the Cathedral of Guadalajara is connected by underground passages with every church and convent in the city and tales are told of subterranean vaults used to secrete the vast wealth of the church in times of war and revolution.

The present governmental palace was built as far back as 1643 and despite the innumerable earthquakes that have shaken the city, the building is as strong and unmarred today as when first constructed.

HAS MANY HOSPITALS.

The city also has a number of ancient hospitals which have withstood the passing of the centuries. During the great plague of 1786, thousands of victims died in these institutions and since that time the public has been quick to respond to the calls for financial help to maintain these establishments, not knowing when another "visitation of Providence" may come.

The penitentiary, which was commenced in 1842, is famed as one of the most beautiful institutions in the republic. The cells are not only kept spotlessly clean, but the convicts are instructed in useful trades. Many of the inmates regularly commit crimes upon their release in order to be sent back to the prison, where life is said to be far more endurable than on the outside. The asphalt paved streets running in every direction and aggregating at least 100 miles are the only real modern innovation except some of the great factories and business houses.

The Americans who made their homes in Guadalajara long have been noted as progressive business men and few of those who were recently compelled to flee from the mob but could boast of a competence honestly earned. Despite the magnificent structures and gardens and the multiplicity of educational institutions, at least 95 per cent. of the inhabitants are steeped in crass ignorance, which is beyond the comprehension of the people of the United States, who have never lived among the "tapatios de Jalisco." It is expected that the rebel forces now making their way over the great barrancas of Tepic with the ultimate intention of taking Guadalajara by storm will meet with unanticipated resistance.

WILL FIGHT TO END.

While the people may not fight for love of President Huerta, they will fight to the end to preserve their homes and women against violation, and students of events in the war-stricken land predict that the largest battle of the revolution will be fought at this place, not excepting even the capital itself. Millions of dollars of wealth is one of the prizes sought by the undisciplined savages under the command of the rebel, Gen. Obregon, and the intelligent classes will make every effort to keep out the marauders until the last cartridge has been fired, is the belief of those who know the town.

Besides, the Indian tribes at San Pedro Tlaquepaque have promised to help the people of the threatened city, and that no mercy will be shown on either side can be safely banked on.

All of the Americans, including Dr. Davis, the Consul, have left for the States, and there will be no foreigners to interfere or criticise if both rebels and Federals revert to the savage methods of warfare adopted by their Aztec progenitors.

I Will Send My DEAFNESS BOOK FREE

To anyone who is deaf or whose hearing is failing at all. It shall not cost you a penny and it's full of the very help and medical advice that every deaf person needs.

I am a graduate in Medicine and Surgery, Dublin University, Ireland, formerly Surgeon British Royal Mail Naval Service and my book tells just what causes Deafness and shows the way to clear and perfect hearing. It explains what brings on the ringing, buzzing noises in the head and ears and how to be free from them. It shows how the ear gets closed up and points out how Deafness can be cured, easily and painlessly, right in your own home. Fine pictures of the different parts of the ear illustrate almost every page.

If you want to get rid of your Deafness, let me give you this book that will tell you what to do. Ask for it today and I will send it at once. Write your name and address plainly on the dotted lines, and mail the Free Book Coupon to Deafness Specialist Sproule, 394 Trade Building, Boston.

THE POLITICAL WATCHTOWER

Far from the limpid waters of the River of Doubt, T. Roosevelt banged his fist on his calloused palm, displayed his unrivalled dental apparatus and bellowed, "I will go to California to help Gov. Johnson if he wants me to." Yes, the "Progressive" party will come to California to help out Holy Hi if Hiram wants him to.

Now, to be candid, Gov. Johnson has failed to make public his "wants." Possibly Johnson is musing on what happened to several candidates in ye recent times who were "helped out" by Roosevelt. It is a matter of record that Roosevelt has not gotten behind a winner since 1908, when he quit the Presidency. Anyway, the Roosevelt announcement hasn't sent cold chills up the backs of stalwart Republicans of this great State. Neither has it spread consternation into the Republican ranks. No Republican of standing and with a comprehensive knowledge of the situation fears such invasion. If he comes it will be with the deliberate purpose of fastening upon this State four years more of an administration that has destroyed industrial and commercial confidence; that has meddled everywhere to no purpose other than to bring about stagnation where natural conditions warranted an enlivening prosperity. The people have entirely recovered from their hysteria, and understand what they want better than any campaigner from the outside. Everybody smile.

Gov. Johnson is charging that a deep dyed-in-the-wool conspiracy exists against him, wherein certain persons are maintaining a bureau at Sacramento to send out matter prejudicial to him. Don't worry, Gov. Johnson, no charges have to be made that do not fairly substantiate themselves. The feeling of the State is mirrored in the registration. This has been a most natural result, and not the consequence of wicked conspiracies. No campaigner, neither Republican nor Democrat, will need to engage in vituperation, or to deviate a hair's breadth from plain facts. All that will be necessary will be to state the facts and figures as to the Johnson-Earl-Eddie administration—how it has blighted every activity in this State—and the voters will do the rest. Indeed, the prospects are that they will do that, anyway.

Robert Sweeny, vice-chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, was asked yesterday if he had yet received any information from Gov. Johnson in reply to his challenge of the Governor's recent statement that the Republicans had raised a $2,000,000 "slush fund" to defeat the Johnson-Eshleman back-room primary ticket. "My challenge of Gov. Johnson's gross misstatement is still unanswered," said Mr. Sweeny. "I am watchfully waiting for his reply. I realize the Herculean task before Gov. Johnson to substantiate the 'slush fund' charge, because it is wholly false. I am willing to be indulgent and accord the Governor sufficient time, but the Republican party will not be satisfied with anything short of full proof or complete retraction. I am so informed that Gov. Johnson repeated his 'slush fund' charge against the Republican party in his Imperial county speeches this week. Now, Gov. Johnson either knows the facts upon which he bases this infamous charge against those responsible for the proper conduct of the Republican party, or he is making a reckless statement for political purposes and maligning the great Republican majority arrayed against him. If he has the facts in reference to this mysterious Republican 'slush fund,' we call upon him to publish them with full details. Let him give the people of California the names of those who solicited this $2,000,000 'slush fund;' the names of those from whom it was obtained, together with the amounts by each contributed; where and by whom, and to whose credit it was deposited. We again ask Gov. Johnson, in the name of the party of Lincoln, to make public without delay all the facts in his possession, on the $2,000,000 'slush fund.'"

Willie Kent, alleged Congressman, has uttered a statement to his constituents reminding them that he stands where he always stood. Kent was first elected as a Republican. Then he cast his lot with the Democrats as an avowed supporter of Wilson. Now he says he will run for Congress as an independent, whatever that is. If his constituents know what he will do from what he has done, they enjoy the happiness of being better posted as to the political intent of Kent than Kent would seem to be himself. Kent is a typical "reformer" and an ABC opportunist. Away with him!

Johnson and Eshleman and their trained troupe of boss-picked candidates for State offices are still shooting about Southern California drumming up votes at the taxpayers' expense. Johnson receives $40,000 a year and Eshleman $10,000. These heavenly twins started from Sacramento on January 5, according to the Express "to impress upon citizens to register as 'Progressives.'" Since that date they have faithfully continued to neglect the important public work to do personal politics. And, remember this, loyal citizen, neither Johnson nor Eshleman will have any opposition in the "Progressive" party for their respective jobs at the primary election. If they each poll one vote they are nominated as the candidates of the "Progressive" party for the final election. Why are they neglecting the business of this great State for eight or nine months to do ward politics and participate in political frame-ups?" "Progressive," huh!

Here's my ticket for 1916:
Mellen and Roosevelt.
Everybody smile.

INVENTIONS IN LOCAL FIELD.

Useful Devices Produced by Los Angeles Men.

Synchronizer Puts Life Into Motion Pictures.

Use of Prisms Adds to Effect of Electric Signs.

While inventors in many countries have been producing ingenious devices to increase the comfort and pleasures of life, Los Angeles men have not been idle. For a year or more efforts have been made to perfect an apparatus that will give perfect synchronism between the phonograph and motion-picture machine. O. E. Kellum of this city, one of the many whose researches have extended into this field, has apparently succeeded. So complete is his device that should a film 500 or 1000 feet long be run with a corresponding lengthy record on a phonograph the synchronizing of the words and pictures would be exact.

At the very beginning of the "building" of a record and film of pictures or what would be called at a motion picture studio, a "scene," the two operations are done at the same time. The unexposed film is placed in the camera and the smooth disc is put on the phonograph. The points of starting on both the film and the disc are marked, so that it is an easy matter to find them again when the process of reproduction is to take place. The pin which runs through the center of the disc is very strong and has a small bevel gear at its apex. Connecting with this pin, by a corresponding bevel gear, is a rod which rotates horizontally and which at its opposite end forms the axis of a commutator. This commutator is separated into six individual parts, so that it may form a make-and-break circuit.

From the commutator the current is carried by means of a cable, the length of which is immaterial, to either the motion picture camera or the projecting machine, depending upon whether recording or reproducing is taking place.

It is mechanically impossible for the phonograph to gain in speed on the camera or vice versa. As in the case of the camera the projector is propelled by a series of magnets placed beneath it and working in a manner identical to those located beneath the camera. After being once started there is nothing for the operators to do but to get the next film and record ready, excepting that the projecting operator must of necessity look to the lighting of the pictures.

PRISMATIC MOTION SIGN.

The electric motion prism sign is the latest thing in the way of an advertising signboard, and is declared by many to be one of the finest advertising mediums thus far devised. This sign has just been invented by J. H. La Pearl of this city. It is made of iron and steel and the motion portion of the sign is operated by a small electric motor. The purpose of the sign is to display, when in register for reading, a series of painted advertisements, these following each other at regular stated intervals on a large and apparently unbroken display surface, this being in reality a series of separate and interchangeable parts.

The electric part of this sign is one of the leading features that go to make this sign so effective. While the reading matter is in register there is a burst of white light reflected upon the advertisements. The idea is that when a display surface has remained motionless in the display position for a given length of time it is made to disappear and is replaced immediately by a second surface, which also is composed of various sections. This changing process is done very rapidly. At the instant the changing process begins the white light is caused to disappear and in its place there is seen a flash of colored light, there being a different color for each changing period. This disappearing sign effect is made possible by a series of prisms, each having longitudinal sides or surfaces. To each of these prisms is fastened a leaf. During the changing process these leaves fall forward so that when the rest period has been reached they are hanging down in such a manner as to fill the spaces between the prisms, presenting a continuous surface.

UNIQUE PARK ENTRANCE.

A unique cement entrance fixture has been adopted by Los Angeles and is located at the entrance of Griffith Park where Griffith Park road connects with Los Feliz road. At the right side of the entrance is located a cement post having a height of about four feet, which serves as a support for an iron pipe, to the top of which is fastened a sign which reads, "Notice. This park closed from 8 p.m. until sunrise."

At the opposite side of the road from this post is another, identical to the one already described except that it does not serve as a support for the sign. To the inside of this post near the top is fastened a chain the other end of which at 8 o'clock each evening is fastened to the post at the opposite side of the road. Both of these posts have been built to resemble trunks of trees.

CHAIR MADE OF HORNS.

A curiosity in the way of a chair, now in the Chamber of Commerce at Long Beach, is made principally of steer horns, these being highly polished and so arranged as to make it comfortable. In the chair there are thirty-eight horns, ranging from eight to sixteen inches in length. The cost for the polishing of these horns alone was $90. The seat and back are upholstered and are of leather, as are the two arm rests. The chair was made by Emil Burger of Long Beach. It is three and a half feet in height and two feet wide.

FOSSIL GEOGRAPHY.

The United States Is Mapping the Lands and Seas of the Remote Past in the Light of Geological Finds.

[Indianapolis News:]. The United States Geological Survey reports the remarkable development of "fossil geography." In this new study the lands and seas of the remote past are mapped in their true form, and by means of these maps we may follow the development of the American continent and trace its many changes of land and water from age to age. As the natural wealth of the country is in large part dependent on the rocks that make up the crust of the earth, it is well to know how and when rocks were formed. It may seem scarcely possible to map these ancient lands and seas by studying handfuls of fossils taken from the rocks on their sites, but this is what is being done.

The geologist can trace these geographic changes by noting the extent of successive formations and the changes in the character of the rocks, but the age and the identity of the geological formation must be determined principally by means of the fossils it contains. The more exact determination of the ages of sedimentary formations—the floors of ancient seas—makes possible, among other things, the correlation from place to place of geographic changes and shows the direction of invasion or retreat of oceanic waters.

Some of the principles used by geologists in their detailed work in stratigraphic geology are set forth by the United States Geological Survey in a paper that shows that groups of animals, or faunas, may be driven out of a region by earth movements or by other causes and that the same animals, slightly modified perhaps, but still to be recognized, may later return to the region. A study of the fossils representing these recurrent faunas may thus throw light on geographic changes.

HOW TO APPLY BOND INTEREST.

OFFICIALS DISAGREE ON SINKING FUND EARNINGS.

Whether to Use Money to Lessen Present Taxes or to Shorten Term of Aqueduct Bonds Is Question that Has Arisen Between Three City Departments.

A question of policy in the handling of the sinking fund for payment of aqueduct bonds, is stirring the City Attorney's office, the Finance Committee of the City Council and the City Auditor's office. There has arisen a direct controversy over methods to be employed in handling the interest that accrues to investments of the portions of the sinking fund used to purchase other bond issues of the city as a temporary measure. The City Auditor holds to one course, the City Attorney's office to another. The Finance Committee this week will go into the subject thoroughly with both departments. Several conferences have already been held on the subject, and these have been spirited.

The basis of the controversy appears to be whether the interest secured from investment of the sinking fund in other bond issues shall be applied to complete the amounts that must be raised each year to meet payments on aqueduct bonds in interest, and thus the levy on the taxpayers for that particular year be reduced, or whether it shall be allowed to remain in the sinking fund for a series of years and be applied for payment on the aqueduct bonds at the last end of the payment period.

The City Auditor holds that the former method should be applied. The City Attorney's office holds to the latter method. The details of the matter have been in the hands of C. E. Spencer, deputy of the City Attorney's office, in so far as that office is concerned.

A general statement of the situation, as set forth by Spencer yesterday, shows that aqueduct bonds run for forty years, and that one-fortieth of the principal and the required interest is collectable every year. This makes necessary a collection of approximately $874,000 a year.

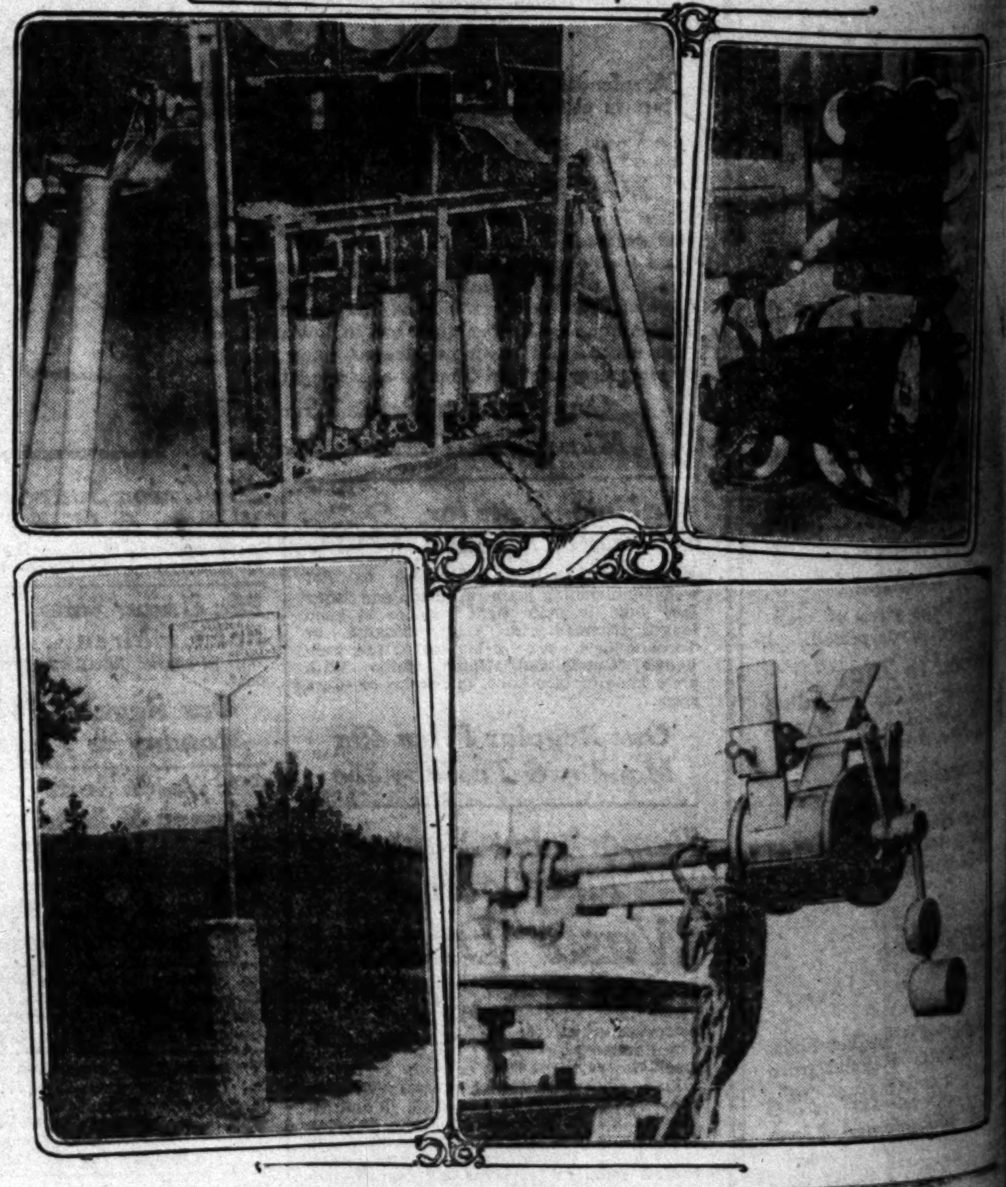
Since 1907 the city has been collecting one-fortieth of the principal every year and about $3,200,000 has been accumulated in the sinking fund.

This year there has been invested approximately $2,950,000 of the sinking fund in other city bonds, bearing interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. The interest from these investments this year is $132,750.

The contention on the part of the City Attorney's office is that this $132,750 should go back into the sinking fund, where it could be deemed profits and reinvested temporarily to secure the city further income to be used eventually to pay the bonds at the latter end of the payment period. A continuation of such policy would result in paying off the issue two or three years earlier than otherwise.

The City Auditor holds that the taxpayers should get the immediate benefit of this interest receipt and have their tax levy for the aqueduct bonds reduced in proportion. This would have the advantage of keeping the tax levy down.

For about six years $570,000 has been set aside each year, up to the present year, when the first series of the aqueduct bonds will fall due. The sinking fund reaches its maximum this year, and henceforth it will diminish at the rate of $100,000 a year.



Curious and useful local inventions.

The upper left hand picture shows a cylindrical device that makes synchronism of words and pictures possible. It acts as a revolving circuit breaker. At the upper right is a chair made by a Long Beach man almost entirely from horns. The unique entrance fixture shown at the lower left is the design adopted by the city of Los Angeles. It is located at the entrance to Griffith Park, where Griffith Park road connects with Los Feliz road. At the lower right is shown a commutator that helps put life in motion pictures.

The committee found a good home for the pickaninny with an honest and industrious negro family. "Chocolate Bon Bon" is a favorite with several white families on Thirty-seventh place, where his new mother is employed as a laundress.

Recently the little black boy was the center of attraction at a party given at one of the homes. Charlie has not discovered that there is such a thing as race prejudice in the world and when he left he held up his arms and asked to be kissed by the white hostess. The guests present, especially the men, thought it was a good joke.

The hostess "made good" and Charlie kissed her on the cheek. That did not end the affair. The women formed a conspiracy and before it was over half a dozen of the men had been kissed by the pickaninny.

The Central Committee on Homeless Children was formed three years ago in San Francisco by the Native Sons and Native Daughters. It is composed of ten members, including three Native Sons, three Native Daughters, one Protestant, one Catholic, one Hebrew and one member of the Associated Charities. Homes have been found for 600 orphans by the committee and its subcommittees.

There are six subcommittees in the State. The local committee is composed of eighteen members, three from each of the six parlors. J. F. Lyon is chairman of the local committee and Dr. Eva R. Bussenius of No. 833 South Grand avenue its secretary.

TARIFF HURTS PORTO RICO.

FREE SUGAR' SCHEDULE HAS DEPRESSED BUSINESS.

The American Sugar Duty Enabled the Island to Build Roads and Put Up Schoolhouses, and Pay Wages Much Higher Than in Any of the Near-by Foreign Possessions.

[New York Times:] Business in Porto Rico is in a condition of great depression just now, according to D. L. Thomson, a consulting engineer of San Juan. According to Mr. Thomson, the sugar situation, with the certainty of the removal of the duty on foreign sugar in the United States, has paralyzed every line of business activity.

"The banks, which used to be literally chasing after people who owned a few hundred acres of sugar land in order to offer them loans, have now shut down on lending money except on guaranteed security," said Mr. Thomson, at the Belmont. "In the last twelve months, or since the time when it seemed to be a practical certainty that the Democratic Congress would put sugar on the free list, more than 10 per cent. of the Porto Rican sugar companies have gone bankrupt.

"At this time two years ago four or five vessels were arriving at Porto Rican ports every week and discharging machinery. This year there is none. Not a piece of sugar machinery of any importance has been sold in the island for twelve months. Only those companies are making any money at all whose plants are perfectly situated with regard to transportation and the gathering of the raw material. Any that are not built on a thoroughly sound financial basis are bound to go under. There is a good deal of resentment among the people over the situation that has been forced upon them by Congress, but the feeling for independence is confined to the politicians. However, the people are angry that they have practically no say in their own affairs.

"I have been identified with the sugar business for twenty years and in many countries, and I say the only resource Porto Rico has, in order to compete with other countries, is to reduce the price of labor. With the advantage given it by the American sugar tariff, Porto Rico has built in the last thirteen years more than 1000 miles of excellent roads, and has put up schoolhouses until it is impossible to stand anywhere in the island and not see one. These things have cost money, and they represent wealth. In Spanish times, the peon used to get wages of 30 to 40 cents a day. He now earns from 6 0to 80 cents, and his standard of living has advanced proportionately. He has taken to wearing shoes, while his father and mother went barefooted. He is able to buy new clothes and to live in a comfortable cottage, while his parents lived in a hut, and either wove their garments out of grass or leaves or wore cast-offs."

"It is going to be a mighty hard thing for these people to go back to old conditions and a standard of living which was just above that of aborigines. People in Porto Rico cannot realize how the repeal of the tariff on sugar is going to materially reduce the cost of living for anybody in the United States, for, according to the best figuring that has been done, the average person in the United States does not use more than a pound of sugar a week, and nobody seems to think that the cost can be brought down by free sugar by more than a cent a pound. Who is there in this country, people ask in Porto Rico, who is going to feel any benefit by the cost of his sugar being reduced by 52 cents a year? And how is the $55,000,000 revenue, produced by the sugar tariff going to be made up? In India there is a salt tax. It is a tax so small that nobody feels it. Yet it is paid by 300,000,000, and from it the British government in India raises an enormous revenue. So it has been with the tariff on sugar.

"I have just come from a tour of Colombia, Venezuela, Santo Domingo and other countries about the Caribbean, where sugar is grown and where labor is cheap, and I find the people delighted over the removal of the American tariff on the commodity.

"Santo Domingo is in a position to benefit tremendously from the new legislation, and American sugar planters who have gone there in the last few years are in high feather. They can import all the labor they want from Barbadoes, Guadalupe and the other islands of the Caribbean, and pay them 25 to 30 cents a day, and with a price of $1.50 for their cane they can make all the money they want. In Porto Rico the planter who gets from $3 to $5 a ton barely makes a living, on account of the higher cost of labor and the fact that his land has been producing sugar for so many years that its fertility has to be encouraged at great expense in order to insure a good yield. In Santo Domingo there is virgin soil all over the country, and you can make a planting of sugar cane there and it will keep growing luxuriantly and producing crops for more than twenty years."

MORE DEADLY THAN BULLETS.

American Soldiers Are More in Danger from Typhus Fever in Mexico Than from Desperate Enemy.

[San Francisco Star:] There lurks on the upland plains of Mexico a foe to American soldiers more deadly than the most desperate band of Mexican soldiers. The foe is the dread disease known to Mexican doctors as tabardillo, to the Mexican peons as "el tifo" and to the world as typhus fever, writes Congressman Clyde H. Tavenner.

Unless sanitary precautions taken by any invading American force are unusually good typhus fever will demand a toll of lives that will make American people shudder. It is one of the deadliest diseases known, the fatalities among victims ranging between 25 and 50 per cent. Typhus exists today in only three spots in the world—in Asia Minor, in Northern Africa, and on the Mexican plateau.

The last case of true typhus known in this country existed during the Civil War. But the troops of North and South were particularly fortunate in escaping this scourge, which had decimated the armed forces of every previous great war. American and British soldiers died like flies from it during the revolution. It is one of the oldest of contagious diseases, having been called at different times "army fever," "camp fever," "jail fever," "ship fever," and the like, for it had always broken out where men were brought together to live in close quarters such as jails, ships and military camps.

The cause of typhus was discovered only in the past five years, and equal credit for this discovery goes to Drs. Anderson and Goldberger of the Public Health Service. These doctors went to Mexico in 1910 to study tabardillo. They noted that the disease exists only on the high plateau of the Mexican interior and is never found in the tropical lowlands of the coast. They also noticed that the upland peons were usually covered with lice, while lice cannot live twenty-four hours in the heat of the coast country. They guessed that the disease was transmitted by lice, and subsequent experiments with monkeys verified the truth of their deduction. Incidentally Dr. Goldberger was striken with typhus and nearly died.

The work of these men and others, however, now makes it possible for an American army to enter Mexico and escape a general scourge of typhus. The secret of immunity is absolute cleanliness, and it is likely that the army authorities will form a new sort of corps for regiments that may invade the country. The new division will be the washtub corps. It is essential that the soldiers bathe as frequently as possible and that their linen be boiled once a day. There is admitted to be danger that typhus will be brought to this country by troops returning from Mexico, and the health authorities concede that it is entirely possible to have an epidemic in the slums of the larger American cities. Recent studies have shown that Brill's disease, which exists among children of New York, Chicago, Atlanta, and elsewhere is a mild form of typhus. Simultaneously it was discovered that lice were transmitting Brill's disease. But where this mild infection can exist it is possible for the dread form of typhus to spread.

The discoveries of modern medical science since the Spanish War should prove to be a wonderful safeguard to American soldiers in Mexico. Yellow fever can be avoided by protection against mosquitoes. Mosquitoes also carry malaria, but recent discoveries have shown that small doses of quinine will prevent malaria. Vaccinations for smallpox and typhoid are relied upon to prevent epidemics of these diseases. Dysentery can be avoided by the use of clean food and water.

BACK TO BARBARISM.

Fashions in Music, Beads, Feathers Leave Nothing Necessary to Be Elemental But a War Whoop.

[New Bedford Standard:] Hints of the revival of the barbaric in modern alleged-to-be-civilized life are not difficult to discover. Here is, for example, the favored accompaniment for the new dance—consisting of piano, drum, and cymbals, the drum and the cymbals being the essential feature of the combination.

This is distinctly a return to the dancing music of the savage, where the tom-tom, with possibly a rude flute furnish all the needed harmony and melody, which is very little. The accentuation is the important thing, and there is nothing like the drum to produce it. Really, the piano is a concession to the spirit of an unduly softened civilization, while the drum is the expression of what some of our modern novel writers are fond of calling "elemental."

Then there is the tall feather rearing itself aloft from the reigning headgear. If the curious in such matters will look over a recent issue of the National Geographic Magazine, wherein various savage tribes are profusely pictured, they will see the same ornamentation for headgear of the women of queer and picturesque faces in remote parts of the earth. Only, in these cases, there is the perpetuation of a custom handed down from one generation to another through long periods of time. It is a custom of the country and not a flitting back of the fashion of the moment to the ways of a long-forgotten barbaric ancestor.

Patience and watchfulness! The fashion of the war-whoop may come along almost any day.

Mining Lime Under the Sea.

[The Argonaut:] Mining material for the manufacture of lime from the bottom of the sea is one of the unique sights on the Island of Martinique, French West Indies. The bulk of the lime used on the island is manufactured from madreporic stone, or reef coral so mined. It is of good quality when made with care. Procuring the material for making lime would appear to be a most hazardous employment. The reefs from which the coral rock is taken are in the bay, fully a mile from shore. Small dugouts are floated over the reef and the coral brought up from the bottom by hooks or grapnels attached to poles twelve to fourteen feet long. The boats are loaded until but a few inches of the sides are above water. It requires both skill and experience to load the boats without upsetting and to land the cargo without sinking.

ECZEMA ITCHED NIGHT AND DAY

Broke Out On Neck. Spread Over Arms and Body. Could Not Rest. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Eczema Disappeared.

☞West Stayton, Ore.—"When the eczema first appeared it was a rash and when I would rub or scratch red spots would appear. It broke out on my neck with itching sores and spread over my arms and body. My clothing would irritate it. The itching was intense night and day. I could not rest at night on account of the irritation.

"I used a treatment but it did no good at all. I then used an eczema lotion which checked it for a short while but it returned as bad as ever. I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample and that checked it some. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment and in two weeks the eczema all disappeared." (Signed) Geo. Sherwick, July 5, 1913.

A generation of mothers has found no soap so well suited for cleansing and purifying the skin and hair of infants and children as Cuticura Soap. Its absolute purity and refreshing fragrance alone are enough to recommend it above ordinary skin soaps, but there are added to these qualities delicate yet effective emollient properties, derived from Cuticura Ointment, which render it most valuable in overcoming a tendency to distressing eruptions and promoting skin and hair health. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Deeds of Other Days.

their declining years in the companionship of comrades of the wars in which they have participated, Memorial Day was observed with commemorative ceremonies. Though, in number, veterans of the Civil War dominated the line of marchers, there were also in the ranks veterans of the Mexican War, the Spanish-American War, the Philippine insurrection and of Indian wars and insurrections.

Citizens from near-by towns flocked to the Home at an early hour yesterday, and enjoyed an hour or two in strolling through paths amidst flowers and shrubbery in the Home's extensive parks, while on every incoming train of the Pacific Electric line visitors arrived in time to witness the procession's start.

The long line of veterans leading in the parade was followed by the daintily-clad contingent of Sawtelle's flower-bearing school girls that immediately supported the rear flank of the veterans. The Women's Relief Corps and other organizations bore flowers, flags and banners of varying devices which gave a pleasing touch of color to the otherwise somber line of solid blue.

The parade was formed on the north side of Wilshire boulevard with the right of column resting at the gate on the west in order to be convenient to the cars. Promptly at 8:45 a.m. the column under the marshal of the day, Gen. P. H. Barry, began its march toward the cemetery in the following order:

Home band, Lieut. W. Osterman, leader; Gen. P. H. Barry, governor, and staff; platoon of guard force under Lieut. Quinn; funeral escort under Sergts. Gallaher; Home companies from A to K; Sawtelle school children, Mrs. Ella Ross (Daughters of Veterans) in charge; Union Veteran Legion, Encampment No. 138; Women's Auxiliary No. 16, U.V.L.; John A. Martin, Post No. 138, G.A.R., and Women's Relief Corps No. 41; Uncle Sam Post No. 177, G.A.R. and its W.R.C. No. 49; Appomattox Circle No. 38, Ladies of G.A.R.; Anna Ella Carrol Tent No. 9, Daughters of Veterans; Hamilton Hawkins Camp No. 43, United Spanish War Veterans; Capt. M. S. Murray Post No. 72, Army of Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico; citizens on foot, and citizens in carriages.

At the cemetery the impressive ritual services, G.A.R., were rendered by officers of the posts. Touchingly beautiful were services at the great column reared to the "Memory of the Unknown Dead," when devoted wives and sorrowing widows placed their loving tribute of flowers at its base. Decoration of graves of the 3656 who sleep their last sleep in the beautiful hillside plat, was followed by a "salute to the dead," "Taps" and then the homeward march.

In the afternoon Memorial Hall was crowded. Gen. Barry presided. The exercises were: "Songs of '61 to '65" (Reeves,) Home band; flag salue, Anna Ella Carrol Tent, Daughters of Veterans; song, "Rally 'Round the Flag," band and audience; invocation, Rev. Fr. Pierse; reading; "Gen. Logan's Memorial Order," Dr. J. J. Crawford of the U.V.L.; song, "Tenting Tonight," Mrs. Maude Dickens and combined chapel choirs; decoration of the "Monument to the Unknown Dead;" quartette, Duaghters of Veterans, Mrs. Maude Dickens, E. W. Mecum, Hattie McNaught and Mollie Price; recitation, "The Dying Soldier Boy," Gerard E. Johnson; song, "America," band and audience, and benediction, Rev. Will E. Knighten.

COL. STEADMAN'S ORATION.

Col. J. J. Steadman, past department commander of the G.A.R., delivered the oration of the day, and Chief Deputy District Attorney W. J. Ford spoke on behalf of the Spanish War veterans, paying an eloquent tribute to the brave men living and dead who rallied to their country's defense.

Col. Steadman said in part:

It was to protect and preserve the Constitution, the home and the fireside, that sent these men from happy hearthstones, from weeping wives and clinging sweethearts, to endure suffering and privation in the camp and death upon the field.

There was no thought of self; there was an enforcement of duty.

The obstacles to that perfect government for which our comrades contended and died and which time has developed and caused apprehension are, first, our lax immigration laws which render it possible for every country on earth to foist upon us their criminals and undesirables.

This vicious element detests law and hates order and no sooner finds a foothold among us than it begins the agitation of its iniquitous propaganda, viz: enmity to organized government and free institutions.

The hissing cry of anarchy never emanates from the lips of educated Americans, but you always hear it from men and women who have come to us from the slums of foreign cities, a large per cent. of them pauper criminals driven from their native land by an outraged people.

We have reached a point where we can no longer parley with this vicious element.

Far more have we to fear from these people than from the "yellow peril" about which the jingo alarmists vociferously orate.

The depth of hatred which the I. W.W. anarchist exhibits toward the flag is one of the most dangerous signs of the times, because when the sight of Old Glory no longer stirs the hearts of men and women and children to shouts of patriotic joy, and when, as The Times said the other morning, 'the swelling chords of "The Star Spangled Banner" no longer quicken the heart-beats, then America has forgotten her past, sullied her present and forfeited her future; then the book of her history has been closed and the volume flung into the furnace lighted by devils.

Another obstacle to our national peace and prosperity is the political demagogue; he is the parasite whose venom poisons the springs of our national politics.

REMEMBER DEAD IN VESPER HOUR.

HUNDREDS ATTEND SERVICE IN HOLLYWOOD CEMETERY.

Governor of Soldiers' Home Recalls Terrors of Conflict and Reminds Hearers of Nameless Graves. Daughters of American Revolution Conduct Impressive Programme.

In the quiet of Hollywood Cemtery several hundred persons gathered on the restful turf near the lake yesterday to attend memorial vesper services, arranged by the Hollywood members of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The principal speaker at the services was Gen. P. H. Barry, governor of the Soldiers' Home. He spoke of the terrors of war, and its heroes; and pointing to the orderly graves about him, he read statistics showing how many of the dead in the soldiers' cemeteries of the nation were unknown—more than one-half.

To make more vivid the terrors of conflict, he told in correct numbers of the dead and wounded and missing at each of the important battles of the Civil War.

In closing, he paid a tribute to the flag which evoked the subdued applause of his hearers.

Under the direction of Mrs. H. T. Wright, past regent of the Hollywood chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the short programme was given. Opening prayer was given by Rev. Dr. McClure. Lincoln's Gettysburg address was recited by Miss Mildred Bierley. Chaplain Hubbard spoke the benediction.

Others in the small enclosure where the speakers stood were Gen. H. G. Otis, Sergt. M. P. Kinney and A. S. Garretson.

The services closed with a salute to the dead, fired by the Los Angeles High School cadets, and the sounding of "taps."

WE SHOULD WAKE UP.

The United States Is the Richest Country in the World, and Might be More Prosperous.

[Leslie's Weekly:] We are the richest country of the world, with resources far in excess of those of any other people. Although prosperous, we are not half so prosperous as we might be with a wiser use of the resources we possess. The address of President Elbert H. Gary at a recent meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute was a clarion call for the country to "wake up to a realization of the fact that we are in competition with other countries, who, by every means in their power, are striving for supremacy; that it is not difficult for us, by good management, to reach the greatest measure of success in competition with other nations of the world, and yet that it is just as easy to fail if our vision is narrow or if we act without due regard to the results."

The total wealth of the United States exceeds that of England by $50,000,000. and is twice as great as that of France or Germany. The per capita wealth in the United States is exceeded in France alone, and by only $10. The amount of money in the United States is $1,000,000,000 more than in the United Kingdom and Germany combined. In the production of corn, wheat, oats, tobacco, cotton, petroleum, pig iron, steel and copper we lead the world. The balance of trade between this country and all other countries for the fiscal year ending June 30 amounted to $653,000,000 in our favor. Nowhere else is labor so well paid or the standard of living so high as with us. That the United States still offers opportunities not presented by any other country is abundantly evidenced by the constant stream of immigration to our shores.

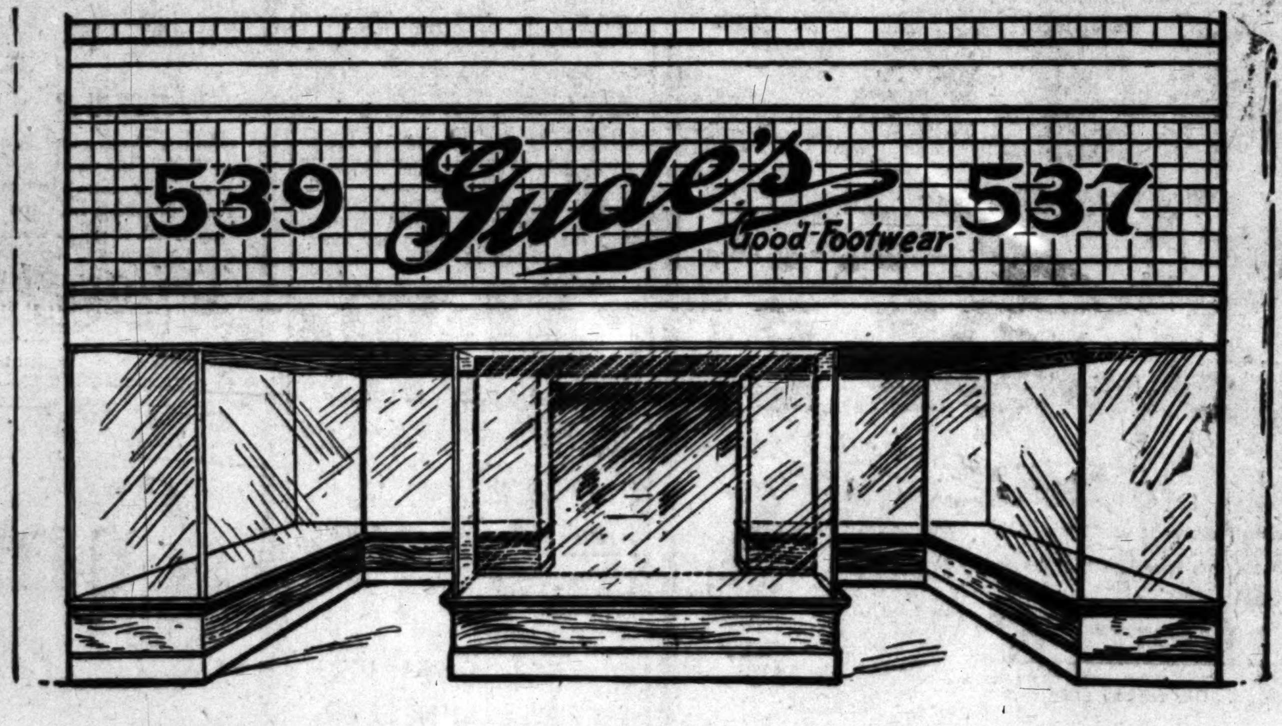
Gude's EXPANSION SHOE SALE

—to double the size of our present store

TOMORROW, June the 1st, we take possession of the store immediately adjoining our present quarters on the south—539 Broadway. This addition will give us a double store, with a total floor space of approximately Ten Thousand Square Feet; or twice our present capacity. This expansion is absolutely demanded—owing to the congested condition of our present store, which has for many months been inadequate to properly serve our constantly increasing clientele. We feel that it is not out of place at this time to refer, in a brief way, to the business policy which has brought about the necessity for the present expansion. Some dozen years ago we opened an unpretentious shoe store on Spring Street. This store was a success from the start. The business grew, and in time—following the trend of trade—we opened another store on Broadway (our present location) with which the Spring Street Store was later consolidated. This success we attribute to the fact that our uppermost thought has always been to build for stability. Shoes of standard merit—prices within moderation—courteous and efficient service—these have been, and will continue to be, the foundation of our policy.



Architects' drawing showing front elevation of "Gude's Greater Store," as it will appear when completed. Note the double entrance, and the spacious lobby

Where Will Your Dollar Go The Farthest?

At Hale's Nimble-Dollar Sale

This is the commencement of Prosperity Week. We have launched this Nimble Dollar Sale as a Prosperity movement, it is born of optimism and reared and nurtured on enthusiasm. It is a movement launched to coax the coy and elusive dollars out of their hiding places and start them jumping, rolling and stretching for the good of all. Dollars at this sale will do double, triple, aye quadruple duty. It provides one of those rare opportunities when you can spend and save, buy and economize. We will do our share, and if you're wise you will do yours by letting go of the hoarded dollars and sharing in the wonderful values which are being offered at this Nimble Dollar Sale.

Hale's
GOOD GOODS
341-343-345 S° BROADWAY
IN THE HEART OF THE SHOPPING DISTRICT

Optimism augurs for success, success is within the individual. As a man thinketh in his own heart so is he. Smile and you reap smiles. Frown and the world grows dark. Wear rose colored glasses and smile; nature will blossom before you and the whole world will be glad. Bring out your rusty dollars that you've been hoarding for so long, put them to work and reap the benefit of their labors. Bring as many dollars as you can spare to Hale's this week and you'll be amazed at their purchasing power. This page of underpriced merchandise is but a meager index of the many money saving specials which we have prepared for this week's business. The opportunity is yours, grasp it.

"PEG O' MY HEART" HERE.

Peggy O'Neil in Title Role at Majestic.

"A Knight for a Day" Opened Last Night.

New Burbank Show; Bates at Orpheum.

"Peg O' My Heart," which will play a return engagement in Los Angeles, opening at the Majestic tonight, offers an excellent illustration of what the public wants. Under the managerial direction of Oliver Morosco, J. Hartley Manners's delightful comedy of youth was produced nearly two years ago at the Burbank Theater with Laurette Taylor in the title role, where it ran for ten consecutive weeks. It was then sent to New York, where it has been playing at the Cort Theater ever since.

The demand for this wild-fire success was so great from all sections of the country that Mr. Morosco found it necessary to organize five touring companies. The one that will be seen at the Majestic is called the No. 1, or transcontinental company, it having played all important cities between New York and the Pacific Coast.

The remarkable cast that will be seen here is headed by the dainty Peggy O'Neil, who, of course, plays the part of "Peg." Martin Sabine, the well-known leading man, has the important leading role of Jerry; Maggie Holloway Fisher has the part of Mrs. Chichester; Jane Meredith will play the role of Ethel, and Roland Hogue, the English actor, will play Alaric. Others are Joseph Yanner, Frazer Coulter, A. T. Hendon and Olin Field.

Morosco.

With one of the most remarkable casts ever gathered in a Coast production, "A Knight for a Day" opened at the Morosco Theater last night, presented by the Gaiety company.

"A Knight for a Day" has been one of the most brilliantly successful musical comedies of the past five years. Its popularity has spread from Coast to Coast because of its excellent story and its wonderful music.

"A Knight for a Day" is the first of the Gaiety offerings to be produced in Los Angeles. All others have been produced in San Francisco and later sent South, but the present production at the Morosco is entirely of Los Angeles manufacture.

Heading the remarkable cast are Daphne Pollard, the wonderful little comedienne, and Alf Goulding, who, in addition to the big part he has in the performance, is the directing producer of "A Knight for a Day."

Melvin Stokes and La Valera, two members of the production, were secured especially for this play from the big time vaudeville.

Stokes is the youngest dramatic tenor of the American stage.

La Valera, his stage partner, has an equally enviable record. She is a young woman of stunning appearance and her dances of the Spanish type are sensationally beautiful. Fred Santley, Bessie Franklyn, Charles A. Mason, Frances White, Frank Hayes and Willie Bevan complete the long list of principals. The production will be reviewed tomorrow.

Burbank.

"Officer 666," one of the most pronounced comedy successes of the past ten years, will receive its first production in stock in Los Angeles at this afternoon's matinee at the Burbank.

This big comedy by Augustin MacHugh was first produced at the Gaiety Theater in New York, where it ran an entire season with tremendous success. Since then its road production has met with great success wherever it visited and its production at the hands of the clever Burbank company should prove one of the most attractive fun offerings of the year.

"Officer 666" is that rare combination of real melodrama and real farce that is so seldom found and so everlastingly welcome.

In the big Burbank production this melodramatic farce will be handled with wildfire speed. Forrest Stanley will have the big role of the picture thief. Dick Vivian will play Travers Gladwin, a part exactly to his liking. Selma Paley will have the delightful role of the young girl for whom both men are fighting. Walter Catlett will have the big role of the Englishman friend of Gladwin. James K. Applebee, William G. Colvin, George Rand, H. S. Duffield, Thomas McLarnie, William Lambert, Beatrice Nichols and Florence Oberle will have important roles in making this big fun hit a success.

Orpheum.

Blanche Bates, in her first vaudeville tour, presenting for its premier in America a one-act, three-scene play by Sir James Matthew Barrie, England's foremost dramatist—this is what the Orpheum headlines for the week beginning Monday matinee. Miss Bates ranks among the very first of American artistes; she has, under both Belasco and Charles Frohman, been a leader among the younger players, and in this, her first, incursion into the two-a-day ranks, has been one of the most popular stars ever offered.

In this new play by Barrie she has found a most acceptable vehicle. It is, in contrast to his lively and joyous "Pantaloon," given us by Dazie last Christmas, quite realistic; almost tragic. It is strong drama, free from the whimsicality usually characterizing Barrie's work—serious, with a problem and a lesson.

Another feature act of the same week is offered by Roshanara, the greatest interpreter of Hindoo dances yet to come out of India. Roshanara is English, but was born in India, and there has made a lifelong study of the dances which figure so largely in the ceremonial life of the Indian peoples. These she has been able to translate, and she is their only accepted white interpreter in their native land. She brings to the Orpheum a series of these dances, each set in appropriate and correct surroundings, with every accessory to give them actuality and truthful presentation.

In all, the Orpheum will offer six new acts the coming week, the other newcomers being Kimberly and Mohr, who have a singing and patter act, "In Clubland;" McDevitt, Kelly and Lucey, who, as "The Piano Movers," show the funny side of putting a piano into the rooms of an operatic star and her woe in connection therewith; Mabelle Adams, who, as a violiniste, is a favorite Orpheum player, who this time brings a complete little play of German student life, "Wanda," which still, however, calls for her exquisite violin interpretations, and Lee Barth, a German dialect comedian—a type long absent but not forgotten by vaudeville, where once it was a mainstay. Barth is an excellent comedian and well entitled to be the first to "come back." The only holdover acts are Master Gabriel, in "Little Kick," and the Moneta Five in some new musical numbers.

Empress.

Beginning tomorrow afternoon with the regular matinee, Manager Worley of the Empress Theater will have for his headline attraction on the coming week's bill what is said to be one of the most elaborately-staged musical acts ever presented in vaudeville.

The act will be Beatrice Morelle's Six Parisian Harmony Girls, a sextette of stunning instrumentalists and vocal stars, presenting "A Study in Blue." Miss Morelle's girls are said to wear some of the most fetching gowns ever seen in popular-priced vaudeville. Many of Miss Morelle's girls were selected especially because of the musical talent and their unusual figures. Some fine musical numbers are introduced, while the staging is said to be the most beautiful ever seen on a local stage.

Most Empress patrons will remember with much pleasure and laughter the appearance of Al Herman, the black-face comedian, who kept Empress patrons giggling during the entire tour of the circuit less than a year ago. Mr. Herman will make his appearance next week with brand new and original songs and stories. His songs and original manner in presenting his jokes made him an everlasting favorite at the local house.

The third act on the new bill will be the popular playlet, "Speigel's Daughter's Beau." In the cast are five people especially selected because of the type they represent. The act carries a pretty little love story with it and the fears of a dear, old German father for the moral safety of his only daughter. Through this fear he suspects every man. His eavesdropping is one of the biggest laughs of the piece.

The dancing feature will be Mack Williams and Ida Segal, the fashion-plate dancing duo. Their dancing here will probably be as much appreciated as it has been along the circuit.

Ryan Brothers, sensational wonders of the air, will be the acrobatic feature, having originated some very remarkable and hazardous tricks on tight wires, drawn twenty feet above the stage, while the always new and first-run Keystone comedies will complete the new bill.

Pantages.

Lottie Mayer and her bevy of diving nymphs will be with us again, giving their first exhibition of daring nerve and startling shapeliness at the Pantages Monday matinee. Six pretty girls and a tank of water have proven the most effective means known to modern vaudeville for separating a man and his money. Of course, that is the principal object, if not the only one, for the existence of vaudeville, in which respect vaudeville is just like the other branches of stage enterprise, only more frank and honest as to motive. Therefore, according to Manager Carl Walker of Pantages, Miss Mayer is one of the high lights of the stage, and it might as well be admitted that Carl is a connoisseur in the matter of bright lights. Miss Mayer has added a new feature to her act, which she calls the dance of the sea nymphs.

Rackett, Hoover and Markey, a man and two women, sing, patter and dance. The man has a good stock

TRAGEDY MINUS PURPLE TRAPPINGS

Masefield Proves That a Vision of the Heart of Life May Be Noble in Breadth and Fire Even When the Subjects Are Ordinary Persons. The Business of Tragedy Discussed.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK

AT MEXICALI the other day I stood watching the play at roulette. A girl who had once been beautiful, and who is still a pretty ruin, hovered over one of the players for a moment. He looked up. The hardness in her face softened. Something like fright crept into her eyes as she edged away without speaking.

"I knew her back there," he said, with a shrug of the shoulders which he intended for me to read as California. "Her home was as good as mine and her people of the best. We both belonged to the same little amateur orchestra." He pushed back his checks to the dealer, took his money and walked out. "I guess that's all for today," he said, as we crossed the line. "She is the last girl on earth I expected to meet there. At home they think she is married and living back East."

Now, if William J. Locke were writing this, the roulette wheel would have been in the principality of Monaco, the girl would have been lovely and good, and the man a crazy genius. They would go away togther and have a romance. In the end they would marry, with as good a chance as married people ever have of living happy afterward.

It is just this difference between the reality and the dream which gives comedy and drama wings of light, but which binds tragedy to realism.

Novels and dramas are often pure fiction, but tragedy is usually based on grim facts. Even Shakespeare's tragedies have historic events for their genesis. There was something about the grim specter of ancient and terrible facts that is ineffacable. Their stern details baffle fiction. There is no occasion to seek anything more dreadful than reality itself.

Time also seems to be a necessary factor. We do not digest large events quickly. It is only after years have elapsed that our tragedies stand apart from other circumstances and may be treated for what they were. When first they occur the people around them see the result and not the cause. They are either too familiar with the facts or too stunned by the outcome for any heroic reflection. That is why we need Dante and Beatrice or David and Uriah to give the eternal triangle the right setting.

There are then two or three reasons why tragedies are not at present popular. The managers do not give them a chance and most of the modern playwrights haven't the habit.

I think I see a good sign in the moving pictures. In their efforts to touch enough depth of feeling to hold the public, they do not entirely slight the general craving for tragedy.

The moving picture is the short story of the stage, and short stories are the narcotics of literature.

Not a dozen short stories in the world could lay claim to being literature, excepting those of Poe and Balzac, and I doubt if the average magazine editor of today would find the works of either of these masters acceptable to their purposes.

The motion picture has its foundation on the fact that American people demand to see and feel, but this only partly covers the case. Largely their popularity, as well as the wide favor of short stories, is due to the fact that there are more superficial people in the world than any other kind. More people want entertainment than desire instruction. They are like children in a cradle who are already asleep, but who have to be rocked to be kept asleep. They can bear to see tragedy in pictures because it is only a part of a bad dream and they know they will pass right on to more pleasant dreams in the next minutes, but spoken and acted tragedy would be too much of a tax upon them. It might wake them up.

The whole business of tragedy in literature is to wake people up. We all know how kindly we treat with others and what allowances we make for everybody else after we have suffered from a great disappointment or a deep sorrow. We show an added respect for all life for a long time after we have been in the presence of death.

Nothing arouses the sensibilities so

How Shocking.

BLANCHE BATES SCORNS BEAUTY.

Cites Savants of Centuries to Prove Point.

Preaches Gospel of Barrie's New Playlet.

Hopes Los Angeles Agrees With Her.

Since making her vaudeville debut in Sir James Matthew Barrie's playlet, "Half An Hour," in which she appears at the Orpheum tomorrow, Blanche Bates has become a fervent apostle preaching the gospel of Barrie which is in everything the antipodies of the teachings of Bernard Shaw.

Meanwhile Miss Bates is championing the plain woman along the lines followed by Barrie in England, and Emile Faguet, the French Academician in Paris. She is opposed to the cult of beauty. She insists that we are living in the century of the plain woman. She goes further and calls her the homely woman and suggests that she is the solvent of the modern matrimonial tangle.

To prove this thesis, Miss Bates's next play which, will mark her return to the legitimate, will celebrate the triumph of plainess over flaunting good looks. Miss Bates declared that it is neither that she loves beauty less nor ugliness more, but because the merely beautiful leaves so little to the imagination; that man's mental appreciation, the safest and sanest vantage ground on which to analyze a woman, is discouraged if the eye of his imagination cannot be opened. Preaching from the text of M. Faguet, Miss Bates says:

"M. Faguet, and he acknowledges the impeachment, is not the first Frenchman to assert the power of plainness; rank heresy to the beauty, but pure reason to the undowered maiden. La Bruyere, Jean Jacques and Saint Simon have all declared their allegiance to plainness.

DEFINING BEAUTY.

Centuries back men were differing as to the value of feminine beauty. Socrates called it a short lived tyranny; Plato, a privilege of nature; Theophrastus, a silent cheat; Theocritus, a delightful prejudice. Aristotle affirmed that beauty was better than all the letters of recommendation in the world; Homer that it was a glorious gift of nature; and Ovid calls it a favor bestowed by the gods. And now M. Faguet has come along propounding the theory that ugliness is more of a fillip to the imagination than beauty.

"If one may trust this Gallic squire o' dames—and no matter what else he avows himself, he still hugs that sobriquet to his gallant heart—the crudite little love god of the twentieth century no longer turns his inoculative dart toward the beauty; he has learned that the plain woman, possessed of personality, she whom the French so well name la belle laide, is the only satisfactory guardian of man's destiny.

Nor does M. Faguet hesitate to say that the plain woman is healthier than her beautiful sister, who fears to spoil her complexion with too much sunlight and hesitates to harden her graceful forearm into a useful member, or strengthen her spinal column into a backbone which can support its own burden. He likens beauty to an irredeemable promissory note that reveals no funds at the end of thirty days and explains it in this wise:

"The beautiful woman, or even the merely pretty woman, had admired herself from the age of three years and has been aided and abetted in her admiration by doting parents and thoughtless friends until at a marriageable age she has become the spoiled and petted being who sees only her own reflection in the eyes of the world; and the happiness that she might well have bestowed if her character had not been warped by adulation is hers neither to keep nor to share."

"The savant goes on to declare that men are beginning to perceive this false standard, and are admiring from a wise distance, rather than taking unto themselves the beauty, who, scintillating with her midnight quaff, prefer her egotistical morning cup au lit. And the proof of this, M. Faguet announces, is in the instinctive acknowledgment by beautiful women who, instead of flaunting their charm in the eyes of the world, as has been the custom since the world began, are indignantly denying the least claim to good looks. He agrees that this may be in rare instances a result of modesty, but insists that, springing from the common feminine brain, it is a means of self protection against the conscious possession of a beauty which to acknowledge is to avow the possible fear that man will, distrusting her face value by its very beauty, find her wanting in the more vital attributes.

WOMEN'S INTUITION.

"But why is it that women, wiser than men in the ways of love, rarely marry a handsome man?" M. Faguet demands repeating his famous epigram, "Handsome men excite the admiration, but rarely the love of women, while homely men are often the recipients of the most profound passions." He owns to the belief that feminine intuition sees in plainness a promise and even a guarantee of permanent happiness.

"And this instinctive feminine logic is being emulated by men, who, while less intuitive, are more reasonable than the objects of their reasoning. And beauty, still the promise of felicity to the heedless, has bestowed upon the unsightly a suggestive quality of happiness which is the too illusive bluebird of modern snaring. Without doubt there are still many men who, scorning reflection where love is concerned, hover close to the beautiful, but with the advancement of civilization the wise men increase. And according to M. Faguet, the beauty that is expressed through the mind, rather than the body, is attracting the discerning eye of the up-to-date Paris, and I hope that Los Angeles, too, and America generally will come to worship the plain woman who creates rather than the beauty who destroys and consumes."

Forthcoming.

MUSICAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

CHILD SYMPHONY CONDUCTOR LATEST PRODIGY.

Richard Strauss' Invention of Opera Without Words Latest Parisian Sensation—Local Grand Opera Company Secures Great Singers and Musical Conductors.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

From London and Paris comes now [illegible] most extraordinary claim ever [illegible] for a musical genius.

[illegible]ned heads of Europe have at[illegible]he Ferrero concerts, have re[illegible]to 8-year-old conductor, who [illegible]ead music nor can play any [illegible]t.

[illegible]he coming of Willy Ferrero, [illegible]re genius may well despair [illegible] obtaining recognition.

[illegible] whole matter would at first [illegible] delightfully absurd, if for the [illegible] two seasons Willy had not been [illegible]en seriously. He actually conducted the new Symphony Orchestra at Albert Hall, London, in compositions of Wagner, Berlioz and Bizet, a few weeks ago.

It would seem, however, somewhat difficult to accept that the boy is really a conductor of merit at the age of 8.

Yet, Willy's achievements have created much attention in the musical circles of London, Paris, St. Petersburg and of several Italian cities.

Such a widespread appreciation from sedate and sophisticated musical centers of Europe indicates that young Ferrero is possessed of extraordinary talent, if somewhat sensational.

From his pictures he looks like a normal child of 8, slender and straight-limbed, with a peculiarly earnest look in his eyes.

This work as the youngest orchestral leader of distinction is the most interesting feature of his existence and demonstrates a memory of phenomenal accuracy combined with a very unusual talent for interpreting music.

Whether Ferrero is really a matured maestro at 8, with superhuman musical comprehension, or is only intensely interesting because of his extreme youth, must for the present remain an open question. But his method of work is certainly new and original for a symphonic conductor.

It is recounted that the boy's first appearance was at the head of a little orchestra in Paris when he was 4 years old. His parents are amateur musicians, but the boy has never been trained in music. He cannot read music, nor can he play any instrument.

Willy's method is described as follows: He first hears a composition played on the piano. If he does not like it he throws it aside. If he wants to add it to his repertoire he has it played once or twice by an orchestra, under the leadership of one of the musicians, who plays the piece in strict time and without shading. Then the boy is ready to interpret it himself in his own way, which he does with the utmost self-confidence and understanding. His repertoire is said to include hundreds of classical pieces, all of which he has learned by heart.

New Strauss Pantomime Opera.

An opera without words is the latest work of Richard Strauss, which had its first performance on any stage at the Paris opera three weeks ago.

Almost universally the production was recognized as one of the highest merit, the music equal to Strauss's best efforts.

The libretto by Count Von Keller and Hugo von Hoffmannsthal, is a remarkably ingenious, if ridiculous, affair. The title is "The Legend of Joseph," and it is difficult to understand why the Biblical story was transferred to old Venice by the writers of the pantomimistic opera.

The only valid excuse for the change was the desire of providing gorgeous and artistic scenic effects.

The rhythmic vibrations of the sensuous melody, enhanced by the chromatic artistry of Leon Bakst, and the intensity of certain passages combine, in the opinion of French critics, to put certain parts of "The Legend of Joseph" among the strongest and most finished of all the Strauss compositions. The beauty of the music redeemed the inanity of the story. The most remarkable novelty was the introduction of Turkish boxers at the feast given by Potiphar. Six boxers without gloves indulged in a combat to illustrative music. The music is said to be less strenuous than that of "Elektra" or "Salome," Joseph's being simple, even naive.

When Joseph leaps from his couch and strives to elude the embrace of Potiphar's wife and draws a garment over his nude shoulders, there was dead silence in the auditorium.

Then, when Joseph's mantle is torn aside and the passion of the woman is transformed into the fury and ferocity of the she-wolf, the public gave vent to an outburst of enthusiasm seldom equalled at the Paris Operahouse.

The strong pantomine, carried further than has ever been attempted before, combined with music of the highest modern character, enhanced by dances more interpretative of the deeper human emotions than even the Russian school has attempted heretofore presented in a scenic frame that Leon Bakst alone can create today, produced a profound impression in Paris.

The reason for this reception is that theatergoers demand something new, more decorative, more intensely natural, yet grandly sumptious than what the operatic art has given up to the present.

Richard Strauss, the intense genius and inventor of new dramatic effects, may have struck a new chord.

National Opera Company Stars.

Carlo Marchetti and Mario Lambardi have just left New York for Italy to recruit operatic stars for next season's grand opera.

A contract with Constantino, the famous artist from the Metropolitan, has been signed. Evelyn Parnel, one of the most popular singers of the Boston Opera Company, has also been secured for the National Company.

Fulgenzio Guerrieri has been engaged as musical director. He was in Berlin and expected to remain in that capital for the coming year but he finally consented to direct the fortunes of the local organization. Dr. Luigi Cecchetti will substitute for the general musical conductor and will also have the charge of the chorus.

A well-known singer who has also joined the ranks of the local company is John Hendricks, a well-liked basso of much talent.

Bertha Vaughn's Recital.

Bertha Winslow Vaughn, the popular soprano of No. 2325 London street, entertained with a recital Friday evening. Eleven of Mrs. Vaughn's pupils contributed to the excellent programme. Ethel Ardin and Pearl Berry sang the duet from "Madame Butterfly." Mrs. C. Brownrigg, Margaret Miller and Mignon Stockman sang as a trio and a delightful quartette was composed of Ethel Best, Mrs. June Barnhart, Mrs. Moyse and Mrs. Isabel Gray. Four selections each were given by Pearl Berry, Eleanor Hornby, Bernice Cass, Mrs. Moyse, Ethel Best, Margaret Miller and at the conclusion of the programme Mrs. Vaughn delighted the guests with two charmingly-rendered numbers. Miss Berry interspersed the vocal numbers with two piano selections. Florence Plumstead was the accompanist for the entire programme.

Fuehrer-Zielinski Trio.

Miss Bessie R. Fuehrer, violin; Miss Lucy Fuehrer, violoncello; Jaroslaw de Zielinski, piano; composing the Fuehrer-Zielinski trio, Miss Mercedes Ciesielska, soprano, assisting, have been heard in recital twice this week.

In Pasadena selections from Rameau Monsigny, Beethoven, Debussy, Faure, Sachs, Sibelius, Glazounoff and Moniuszko were given at the Shakespeare Clubhouse before a large audience, while at Hollywood a different programme of equal merit, but entirely different, presented Eduard Schuett, Cesar Cui, Sigurd Lie, Sjoegren, Pachulski, Arensky, Lehmann and Arbos.

Wessendorf-Schaefermeyer Pupils.

Katherine Meyers, Jessie Stearns, Edith Haggmann, William Stansbary, Myra Watermann, Alice Herron, Edith Germain, Erna Furstenberg, Adolph Geyer, Virginia Hisey, Gertrude Hawkins, Lucile Brady, Margaret Cluns, Irma Odemar, Kenneth Whaley, Cecelia Ebe, Myrtle Shumway, Reba Kellner, pupils of Mrs. Wessendorf and Miss Schaefermeyer, will be heard in recital at No. 1036 West Washington, on the evening of June 6.

Ester Stanton Recital.

Mme. Ester Stanton, a well-known eastern mezzo-soprano, will be heard for the first time here in recital, at Blanchard Hall next Wednesday evening in a programme including compositions, by Arthur Penn, Peterson Berger, Lindblad, Salter, White and Luzzi. A series of Swedish folk songs, "Min lilla vra" and "Ver melands visa," will be given. Mrs. W. M. Hepburn will accompany the artist.

Wharry-Heiss Recital.

Splendid artistry distinguished the musicale given in the Hotel Green, Pasadena, by Miss Aurelia Wharry, soprano, and Miss Olive Heiss, pianiste, on Tuesday evening.

Miss Wharry will leave tomorrow for St. Paul, where she goes to visit her parents. Later she will go to New York, where she will coach with Paul Savage, returning here October 1.

Musical Recital at St. Paul's.

Two months ago at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, a musical programme was given, consisting entirely of compositions played by Jean de Chauvenet and Ernest Douglas, assisted by Oscar Werner, violinist. The evening the concert was given proved to be a very rainy one thus preventing a full attendance. Those who braved the storm expressed themselves as being so highly pleased that it has been decided to repeat the same this evening at 7:45 o'clock. In addition to the musical programme Dean MacCormack will give an interesting talk on music, as a great power for good.

Two New Piano Compositions.

Miss Bertha Weber, a young composer of Pomona and now living in this city, has recently completed two compositions for the piano, "Caprice Sylvan" and "Melody in D Flat," which are now being published.

Miss Weber has studied at the University of Southern California and Pomona College and before removing to this city was organist in the Trinity Methodist Church of Pomona.

SCIENTISTS, CHURCHMEN.

Dr. Ira Remsen, president emeritus of Johns Hopkins University, has been awarded the Willard Gibb's gold medal by the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society. The medal is given for achievements in the field of chemistry.

Sherburne Wesley Burnham, professor of practical astronomy for twenty-one years at the University of Chicago, will retire from active service on July 1. Prof. Burnham has had a most interesting career as an astronomer, his first work being done in a private observatory in Chicago. Later he was an observer at the Dearborn Observatory and at the Washburn Observatory of the University of Wisconsin; and in 1879, he was appointed expert commissioner to test the seeing on Mt. Hamilton, Cal., his report resulting in the location of the Lick Observatory. For four years he was astronomer at this institution, and in 1893 he began his service at the University of Chicago, as astronomer in the Yerkes Observatory. The value of his astronomical researches has been recognized by the award to him of its gold medal by the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain, and of the Lalande prize in astronomy by the Paris Academy of Science.

Prof. Karl Langlotz, sole survivor of the faculty of Princeton of fifty years ago, and famed as the composer of the music of "Old Nassau," the battle hymn of the university, is now a hopeless invalid. With his sight almost gone and other infirmities of age crowding upon him, he has been confined to his modest little apartment for nearly two years. He is nearly 80 years old.

One of the few blind men ever raised to the priesthood by the Catholic Church will be ordained next month at Woodstock College, if the plea of Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore and Cardinal O'Connell of Boston is granted by Pope Pius. The cardinals will appear before the Pope and ask that a special dispensation be granted for the ordination of Henry Wessling of Boston, a Jesuit student at Woodstock College. Mr. Wessling became blind when chemicals over which he was working in the laboratory of Canisius College, Buffalo, N. Y., exploded several years ago. He was then professor of chemistry in that institution. Since that time he has gone on studying.

Prince Alexander of Teck, who is to succeed the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General of Canada, is the third son of the late Duke of Teck, and a brother of Queen Mary, wife of the King of England. He will take up his duties in October at the expiration of the term of the Duke of Connaught. The Prince is a keen soldier, but he has had little administrative experience. He is a good organizer. He has done much in the cause of charity, especially on behalf of the hospitals and in the furtherance of cancer research. The Prince is 40 years old.

Tragedy Discussed.

much a stragedy. The stage dares not outgrow it and no playwright has a chance to live who does not succeed at it.

We do not know Synge very well today, but fifty years hence his tiny play of "Riders to the Sea" will be worth more than three thousand of the dramas that will be written in the next year. It is stark and gaunt, but it is lofty tragedy.

The purple of kings is not required for tragedy. John Masefield illustrates this very well by writing a tragedy about a simple English girl whose father has been hanged for stealing sheep and whose mother belonged to the unhappy ones.

Masefield's brief introduction to the "Tragedy of Nan" will be held by some as better than the play.

"Tragedy at its best is a vision of the heart of life," he says. "The heart of life can only be laid bare in the agony and exultation of dreadful facts. The vision of agony or spiritual contest, pushed beyond the limits of the dying personality, is exulting and cleansing. It is only by such vision that a multitude can be brought to the passionate knowledge of things exulting and eternal. Commonplace people dislike tragedy because they dare not suffer and cannot exult. The truth and rapture of man are holdings things not likely to be scorned. A carelessness of life and beauty marks the glutton, the idler and the fool. Our playwrights have all the powers except the power of exultation which comes from a delighted brooding on excessive, terrible things."

I must disagree with his last statement. Such brooding may be poignant, but not delightful. One associates delight with gladness and beauty, but never with terror, never with violence.

There is, of course, an ecstacy of pain and this needs a close watch to save it from the morbid. Masefield, in his "Tragedy of Nan," lifts his story to poesy at the danger point.

After Nan's father has been hanged and her mother is dead, she comes to the home of an uncle whose wife is a shrew.

The shrew has a wicked heart and an evil tongue and is jealous of Nan's beauty of person and loveliness of character. She has a daughter who has been "working out," as we Americans put it, and "in service," as the English say.

When the play opens Nan's Cousin Jenny has come home and, as a sheep died on the place that week, they are giving a party in the girl's honor with a big lamb pie for supper.

You will note the art of this. There is one family held in honor while it feeds its neighbors with a dead sheep and there, on the other hand, is Nan's father, who was an honest man, yet who has been hanged on the word of a liar who himself stole the sheep.

This is tragedy by way of contrast, and the tragedy is doubled on the party night. Nan is in love with the grocer's son and when she answers his knock at the door, he proposes to her and in a rustic love scene, noble and pure, they become engaged. So sweet a picture of stage love-making is seldom offered in modern drama. Jenny's mother comes down and reads Nan's story in her flushed face. The girl's beautiful dark hair is down and in it there is a red rose.

The shrew tells the boy he is to have a partnership in his father's business if he marries Jenny, but that he will be a tramp if Nan is his choice. The false youth, already having the reputation of a flirt, promptly engages himself to Jenny, who has neither brains in her head nor delight in her veins.

The shrew instantly announces the engagement and when Nan appeals to Dick he scorns her before them all. She goes by the fire in the next room to talk with the old fiddler, who loved a lass in his youth and who lived with that memory ever after her death.

"I have her little grave," he says; "I have her little grave to see to, with flowers and that. If I had great sacks of gold I could have a headstone put up. I would have her little grave all carved. I would have posies cut and her face down on the stone. All in white I'd have my flower cut. White stone. There be no kings who would have whiter.

"There were eight maids in white when they carried her. Beautiful they were. Then they grew old. One by one. And their houses were to let, with the windows broke. And grass and grass. They be all gone. When I be gone, there will be none to tell the beauty of my flower."

I have not tried to follow the old English spelling in this quotation. The poetry is not spoiled by the transposition.

While the old fiddler is talking, Nan is planning her death in the sea.

The old man understands.

He calls the rising tide a rider in gold. This is the way he puts it: "She looked out of the wind[illegible] my white flower. She said, 'The t[illegible] The tide. Coming up the river,' and a horn blew. The gold rider blew a horn and she rose up, my white flower, and she fell back, gold hair on the pillow, and blood. The blood of my girl, blood of my flower. On my heart. My white flower lay on my heart. The tide. The tide. The tide coming up the river."

The old man reminds Nan that the moon is full that night. She says "full moon. It come up misty. And red." And he answers, "It was red on the pillow."

With just as much poetry the dialogue proceeds. Both are speaking in glowing prophecy of the night's sad business. While they talk a constable, a preacher and a captain of the army come in to tell Nan that her father's innocence has been proved and they bring her £50 in gold as the government's apology.

Before this has happened, Jenny has come in—Jenny, who pretended to be Nan's friend—and Nan reads her a prophecy of her future.

"I see your life very plain in your pale eyes," she says. "I see a great town, with lamps, and I see you in a public house, Jenny, with red on your white cheeks and your pale eyes swollen with drink, and you've a raggy skirt and you cough and you tremble. That is the pay in this world, Jenny, for a little cold, mean, lying thing. And I see a dirty room with a dirty bed, and you lying dead on it. Your painted cheeks on the pillow. Till the town dead cart come."

Jenny goes into the next room and faints, while the rest are counting the money. Nan's uncle tries to coax it from her as a loan and her aunt threatens to take it from her because she is not of age. Nan passes a handful of the gold to the old man for a tombstone for his flower, and laughs at the others.

"This for a man's life," she says. "Oh, you little yellow rounds that buy things. There was a strong man, a kind man. He was 49 years old. He was the best thatcher in three counties. He was the sweetest singer. I have known teams going to the field to stop to hear my dad sing. And the redcoats came and a liar swore and that strong man was killed. That voice of his was choked out with a cord and the liars, the thieves, the drunken women and dirty gentlemen stood in the cold to see that man choke. They stayed up all night playing cards, so they could hear his singing stopped—and for that I get little round things."

Dick comes in to try to win Nan back again. He pretends that it is because her father has been proved blameless, but Nan knows it is his greed for the £50. She gives him one last test by telling him to turn the gold over to the others and leave with her. He protests and then she sees clearly and does her work well. She stabs Dick to the heart with a big knife lying near and then turns to the tide, knowing that strange fish will be in tomorrow's nets.

Don't Be a Quitter.

We cannot always find the ways
That lead to waiting treasures;
There must sometimes be dismal days
That are devoid of pleasures;
The winds that blow so softly now
Tomorrow may be bitter;
The storms will come, but, anyhow,
Don't be a quitter.

We cannot always do the things
We wish we might be doing;
We may not be all dukes or kings,
Some men must do the hewing;
Some men must plow and some must sow,
While some in jewels glitter,
But, if your place is high or low,
Don't be a quitter.

Some men may live in idleness
On fortunes they inherit,
And some men never may possess
The sweet rewards of merit;
Some men may ride in lordly state,
While others bear the litter;
But, rich or poor, or small or great,
Don't be a quitter.

You cannot win by sitting in
Your corner, sighing gravely;
Inflate your chest, thrust out your chin,
And do your duty bravely;
You may have cause to be in doubt,
Your hardships may be bitter,
But never let the world find out—
Don't be a quitter!

OVER THE SEA.

M. Bulgakoff, formerly secretary of Count Tolstoy, who has been lecturing on the contents of the great writer's library, says it numbered 10,000 volumes in thirty-two languages. The Russian section comprised 3505 works, the English, 3415; the French, 1045, and the German, 602.

Living up to Hohenzollern tradition, the German Crown Prince is now a tradesman, having adopted the handicraft of a master turner.

Jabez Wolfee, the Glasgow swimmer, famous through his efforts to swim the English Channel, is to make an attempt to swim from the Eddystone rock to Plymouth, a distance of fourteen miles. The swim has never been accomplished, and it is thought impossible of accomplishment, as it is across the tideways.

The French army has admitted to its ranks a youth named Defrance, who, although of the military age, 20, weighs only forty-two pounds and is only 3 feet 3 1-4 inches tall. The medical board found him physically fit in every way. It is understood he will be assigned to duties which will not oblige him to carry the marching outfit of the French soldier.

Among those hard hit by the new land legislation in Great Britain and who, fearing worse to come, have placed their ancestral estates upon the market, is the Earl of Dalhousie, who has offered for sale Brechin Castle, in Forfarshire, which has been in the possession of his family ever since the twelfth century. Lord Dalhousie is known throughout Scotland by the name of the Laird of Cockpen.

MUSICAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

CHILD SYMPHONY CONDUCTOR LATEST PRODIGY.

Richard Strauss' Invention of Opera Without Words Latest Parisian Sensation—Local Grand Opera Company Secures Great Singers and Musical Conductors.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

From London and Paris comes now the most extraordinary claim ever made for a musical genius.

Crowned heads of Europe have attended the Ferrero concerts, have received the 8-year-old conductor, who cannot read music nor can play any instrument.

After the coming of Willy Ferrero, premature genius may well despair of ever obtaining recognition.

The whole matter would at first appear delightfully absurd, if for the last two seasons Willy had not been taken seriously. He actually conducted the new Symphony Orchestra at Albert Hall, London, in compositions of Wagner, Berlioz and Bizet, a few weeks ago.

It would seem, however, somewhat difficult to accept that the boy is really a conductor of merit at the age of 8.

Yet, Willy's achievements have created much attention in the musical circles of London, Paris, St. Petersburg and of several Italian cities.

Such a widespread appreciation from sedate and sophisticated musical centers of Europe indicates that young Ferrero is possessed of extraordinary talent, if somewhat sensational.

From his pictures he looks like a normal child of 8, slender and straight-limbed, with a peculiarly earnest look in his eyes.

This work as the youngest orchestral leader of distinction is the most interesting feature of his existence and demonstrates a memory of phenomenal accuracy combined with a very unusual talent for interpreting music.

Whether Ferrero is really a matured maestro at 8, with superhuman musical comprehension, or is only intensely interesting because of his extreme youth, must for the present remain an open question. But his method of work is certainly new and original for a symphonic conductor.

It is recounted that the boy's first appearance was at the head of a little orchestra in Paris when he was 4 years old. His parents are amateur musicians, but the boy has never been trained in music. He cannot read music, nor can he play any instrument.

Willy's method is described as follows: He first hears a composition played on the piano. If he does not like it he throws it aside. If he wants to add it to his repertoire he has it played once or twice by an orchestra, under the leadership of one of the musicians, who plays the piece in strict time and without shading. Then the boy is ready to interpret it himself in his own way, which he does with the utmost self-confidence and understanding. His repertoire is said to include hundreds of classical pieces, all of which he has learned by heart.

New Strauss Pantomime Opera.

An opera without words is the latest work of Richard Strauss, which had its first performance on any stage at the Paris opera three weeks ago.

Almost universally the production was recognized as one of the highest merit, the music equal to Strauss's best efforts.

The libretto by Count Von Keller and Hugo von Hoffmannsthal, is a remarkably ingenious, if ridiculous, affair. The title is "The Legend of Joseph," and it is difficult to understand why the Biblical story was transferred to old Venice by the writers of the pantomimistic opera.

The only valid excuse for the change was the desire of providing gorgeous and artistic scenic effects.

The rhythmic vibrations of the sensuous melody, enhanced by the chromatic artistry of Leon Bakst, and the intensity of certain passages combine, in the opinion of French critics, to put certain parts of "The Legend of Joseph" among the strongest and most finished of all the Strauss compositions. The beauty of the music redeemed the inanity of the story. The most remarkable novelty was the introduction of Turkish boxers at the feast given by Potiphar. Six boxers without gloves indulged in a combat to illustrative music. The music is said to be less strenuous than that of "Elektra" or "Salome," Joseph's being simple, even naive.

When Joseph leaps from his couch and strives to elude the embrace of Potiphar's wife and draws a garment over his nude shoulders, there was dead silence in the auditorium.

Then, when Joseph's mantle is torn aside and the passion of the woman is transformed into the fury and ferocity of the she-wolf, the public gave vent to an outburst of enthusiasm seldom equalled at the Paris Operahouse.

The strong pantomine, carried further than has ever been attempted before, combined with music of the highest modern character, enhanced by dances more interpretative of the deeper human emotions than even the Russian school has attempted heretofore presented in a scenic frame that Leon Bakst alone can create today, produced a profound impression in Paris.

The reason for this reception is that theatergoers demand something new, more decorative, more intensely natural, yet grandly sumptious than what the operatic art has given up to the present.

Richard Strauss, the intense genius and inventor of new dramatic effects, may have struck a new chord.

National Opera Company Stars.

Carlo Marchetti and Mario Lambardi have just left New York for Italy to recruit operatic stars for next season's grand opera.

A contract with Constantino, the famous artist from the Metropolitan, has been signed. Evelyn Parnel, one of the most popular singers of the Boston Opera Company, has also been secured for the National Company.

Fulgenzio Guerrieri has been engaged as musical director. He was in Berlin and expected to remain in that capital for the coming year but he finally consented to direct the fortunes of the local organization. Dr. Luigi Cecchetti will substitute for the general musical conductor and will also have the charge of the chorus.

A well-known singer who has also joined the ranks of the local company is John Hendricks, a well-liked basso of much talent.

Bertha Vaughn's Recital.

Bertha Winslow Vaughn, the popular soprano of No. 2325 London street, entertained with a recital Friday evening. Eleven of Mrs. Vaughn's pupils contributed to the excellent programme. Ethel Ardin and Pearl Berry sang the duet from "Madame Butterfly." Mrs. C. Brownrigg, Margaret Miller and Mignon Stockman sang as a trio and a delightful quartette was composed of Ethel Best, Mrs. June Barnhart, Mrs. Moyse and Mrs. Isabel Gray. Four selections each were given by Pearl Berry, Eleanor Hornby, Bernice Cass, Mrs. Moyse, Ethel Best, Margaret Miller and at the conclusion of the programme Mrs. Vaughn delighted the guests with two charmingly-rendered numbers. Miss Berry interspersed the vocal numbers with two piano selections. Florence Plumstead was the accompanist for the entire programme.

Fuehrer-Zielinski Trio.

Miss Bessie R. Fuehrer, violin; Miss Lucy Fuehrer, violoncello; Jaroslaw de Zielinski, piano; composing the Fuehrer-Zielinski trio, Miss Mercedes Ciesielska, soprano, assisting, have been heard in recital twice this week.

In Pasadena selections from Rameau Monsigny, Beethoven, Debussy, Faure, Sachs, Sibelius, Glazounoff and Moniuszko were given at the Shakespeare Clubhouse before a large audience, while at Hollywood a different programme of equal merit, but entirely different, presented Eduard Schuett, Cesar Cui, Sigurd Lie, Sjoegren, Pachulski, Arensky, Lehmann and Arbos.

Wessendorf-Schaefermeyer Pupils.

Katherine Meyers, Jessie Stearns, Edith Haggmann, William Stansbary, Myra Watermann, Alice Herron, Edith Germain, Erna Furstenberg, Adolph Geyer, Virginia Hisey, Gertrude Hawkins, Lucile Brady, Margaret Cluna, Irma Odemar, Kenneth Whaley, Cecelia Ebe, Myrtle Shumway, Reba Kellner, pupils of Mrs. Wessendorf and Miss Schaefermeyer, will be heard in recital at No. 1026 West Washington, on the evening of June 6.

Ester Stanton Recital.

Mme. Ester Stanton, a well-known eastern mezzo-soprano, will be heard for the first time here in recital, at Blanchard Hall next Wednesday evening in a programme including compositions, by Arthur Penn, Peterson Berger, Lindblad, Salter, White and Luzzi. A series of Swedish folk songs, "Min lilla vra" and "Ver melands visa," will be given. Mrs. W. M. Hepburn will accompany the artist.

Wharry-Heiss Recital.

Splendid artistry distinguished the musicale given in the Hotel Green, Pasadena, by Miss Aurelia Wharry, soprano, and Miss Olive Heiss, pianiste, on Tuesday evening.

Miss Wharry will leave tomorrow for St. Paul, where she goes to visit her parents. Later she will go to New York, where she will coach with Paul Savage, returning here October 1.

Musical Recital at St. Paul's.

Two months ago at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, a musical programme was given, consisting entirely of compositions played by Jean de Chauvenet and Ernest Douglas, assisted by Oscar Werner, violinist. The evening the concert was given proved to be a very rainy one thus preventing a full attendance. Those who braved the storm expressed themselves as being so highly pleased that it has been decided to repeat the same this evening at 7:45 o'clock. In addition to the musical programme Dean MacCormack will give an interesting talk on music, as a great power for good.

Two New Piano Compositions.

Miss Bertha Weber, a young composer of Pomona and now living in this city, has recently completed two compositions for the piano, "Caprice Sylvan" and "Melody in D Flat," which are now being published.

Miss Weber has studied at the University of Southern California and Pomona College and before removing to this city was organist in the Trinity Methodist Church of Pomona.

SCIENTISTS, CHURCHMEN.

Dr. Ira Remsen, president emeritus of Johns Hopkins University, has been awarded the Willard Gibb's gold medal by the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society. The medal is given for achievements in the field of chemistry.

Sherburne Wesley Burnham, professor of practical astronomy for twenty-one years at the University of Chicago, will retire from active service on July 1. Prof. Burnham has had a most interesting career as an astronomer, his first work being done in a private observatory in Chicago. Later he was an observer at the Dearborn Observatory and at the Washburn Observatory of the University of Wisconsin; and in 1879 he was appointed expert commissioner to test the seeing on Mt. Hamilton, Cal., his report resulting in the location of the Lick Observatory. For four years he was astronomer at this institution, and in 1893 he began his service at the University of Chicago, as astronomer in the Yerkes Observatory. The value of his astronomical researches has been recognized by the award to him of its gold medal by the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain, and of the Lalande prize in astronomy by the Paris Academy of Science.

Prof. Karl Langlotz, sole survivor of the faculty of Princeton of fifty years ago, and famed as the composer of the music of "Old Nassau," the battle hymn of the university, is now a hopeless invalid. With his sight almost gone and other infirmities of age crowding upon him, he has been confined to his modest little apartment for nearly two years. He is nearly 80 years old.

One of the few blind men ever raised to the priesthood by the Catholic Church will be ordained next month at Woodstock College, if the plea of Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore and Cardinal O'Connell of Boston is granted by Pope Pius. The cardinals will appear before the Pope and ask that a special dispensation be granted for the ordination of Henry Wessling of Boston, a Jesuit student at Woodstock College. Mr. Wessling became blind when chemicals over which he was working in the laboratory of Canisius College, Buffalo, N. Y., exploded several years ago. He was then professor of chemistry in that institution. Since that time he has gone on studying.

Prince Alexander of Teck, who is to succeed the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General of Canada, is the third son of the late Duke of Teck, and a brother of Queen Mary, wife of the King of England. He will take up his duties in October at the expiration of the term of the Duke of Connaught. The Prince is a keen soldier, but he has had little administrative experience. He is a good organizer. He has done much in the cause of charity, especially on behalf of the hospitals and in the furtherance of cancer research. The Prince is 40 years old.

Tragedy Discussed.

much a stragedy. The stage dares not outgrow it and no playwright has a chance to live who does not succeed at it.

We do not know Synge very well today, but fifty years hence his tiny play of "Riders to the Sea" will be worth more than three thousand of the dramas that will be written in the next year. It is stark and gaunt, but it is lofty tragedy.

The purple of kings is not required for tragedy. John Masefield illustrates this very well by writing a tragedy about a simple English girl whose father has been hanged for stealing sheep and whose mother belonged to the unhappy ones.

Masefield's brief introduction to the "Tragedy of Nan" will be held by some as better than the play.

"Tragedy at its best is a vision of the heart of life," he says. "The heart of life can only be laid bare in the agony and exultation of dreadful facts. The vision of agony or spiritual contest, pushed beyond the limits of the dying personality, is exulting and cleansing. It is only by such vision that a multitude can be brought to the passionate knowledge of things exulting and eternal. Commonplace people dislike tragedy because they dare not suffer and cannot exult. The truth and rapture of man are holdings things not likely to be scorned. A carelessness of life and beauty marks the glutton, the idler and the fool. Our playwrights have all the powers except the power of exultation which comes from a delighted brooding on excessive, terrible things."

I must disagree with his last statement. Such brooding may be poignant, but not delightful. One associates delight with gladness and beauty, but never with terror, never with violence.

There is, of course, an ecstacy of pain and this needs a close watch to save it from the morbid. Masefield, in his "Tragedy of Nan," lifts his story to poesy at the danger point.

After Nan's father has been hanged and her mother is dead, she comes to the home of an uncle whose wife is a shrew.

The shrew has a wicked heart and an evil tongue and is jealous of Nan's beauty of person and loveliness of character. She has a daughter who has been "working out," as we Americans put it, and "in service," as the English say.

When the play opens Nan's Cousin Jenny has come home and, as a sheep died on the place that week, they are giving a party in the girl's honor with a big lamb pie for supper.

You will note the art of this. There is one family held in honor while it feeds its neighbors with a dead sheep and there, on the other hand, is Nan's father, who was an honest man, yet who has been hanged on the word of a liar who himself stole the sheep.

This is tragedy by way of contrast, and the tragedy is doubled on the party night. Nan is in love with the grocer's son and when she answers his knock at the door, he proposes to her and in a rustic love scene, noble and pure, they become engaged. So sweet a picture of stage love-making is seldom offered in modern drama. Jenny's mother comes down and reads Nan's story in her flushed face. The girl's beautiful dark hair is down and in it there is a red rose.

The shrew tells the boy he is to have a partnership in his father's business if he marries Jenny, but that he will be a tramp if Nan is his choice. The false youth, already having the reputation of a flirt, promptly engages himself to Jenny, who has neither brains in her head nor delight in her veins.

The shrew instantly announces the engagement and when Nan appeals to Dick he scorns her before them all. She goes by the fire in the next room to talk with the old fiddler, who loved a lass in his youth and who lived with that memory ever after her death.

"I have her little grave," he says; "I have her little grave to see to, with flowers and that. If I had great sacks of gold I could have a headstone put up. I would have her little grave all carved. I would have posies cut and her face down on the stone. All in white I'd have my flower cut. White stone. There be no kings who would have whiter.

"There were eight maids in white when they carried her. Beautiful they were. Then they grew old. One by one. And their houses were to let, with the windows broke. And grass and grass. They be all gone. When I be gone, there will be none to tell the beauty of my flower."

I have not tried to follow the old English spelling in this quotation. The poetry is not spoiled by the transposition.

While the old fiddler is talking, Nan is planning her death in the sea.

The old man understands.

He calls the rising tide a rider in gold. This is the way he puts it: "She looked out of the wind my white flower. She said, 'The t The tide. Coming up the river,' and a horn blew. The gold rider blew a horn and she rose up, my white flower, and she fell back, gold hair on the pillow, and blood. The blood of my girl, blood of my flower. On my heart. My white flower lay on my heart. The tide. The tide. The tide coming up the river."

The old man reminds Nan that the moon is full that night. She says "full moon. It come up misty. And red." And he answers, "It was red on the pillow."

With just as much poetry the dialogue proceeds. Both are speaking in glowing prophecy of the night's sad business. While they talk a constable, a preacher and a captain of the army come in to tell Nan that her father's innocence has been proved and they bring her £50 in gold as the government's apology.

Before this has happened, Jenny has come in—Jenny, who pretended to be Nan's friend—and Nan reads her a prophecy of her future.

"I see your life very plain in your pale eyes," she says. "I see a great town, with lamps, and I see you in a public house, Jenny, with red on your white cheeks and your pale eyes swollen with drink, and you've a raggy skirt and you cough and you tremble. That is the pay in this world, Jenny, for a little cold, mean, lying thing. And I see a dirty room with a dirty bed, and you lying dead on it. Your painted cheeks on the pillow. Till the town dead cart come."

Jenny goes into the next room and faints, while the rest are counting the money. Nan's uncle tries to coax it from her as a loan and her aunt threatens to take it from her because she is not of age. Nan passes a handful of the gold to the old man for a tombstone for his flower, and laughs at the others.

"This for a man's life," she says. "Oh, you little yellow rounds that buy things. There was a strong man, a kind man. He was 49 years old. He was the best thatcher in three counties. He was the sweetest singer. I have known teams going to the field to stop to hear my dad sing. And the redcoats came and a liar swore and that strong man was killed. That voice of his was choked out with a cord and the liars, the thieves, the drunken women and dirty gentlemen stood in the cold to see that man choke. They stayed up all night playing cards, so they could hear his singing stopped—and for that I get little round things."

Dick comes in to try to win Nan back again. He pretends that it is because her father has been proved blameless, but Nan knows it is his greed for the £50. She gives him one last test by telling him to turn the gold over to the others and leave with her. He protests and then she sees clearly and does her work well. She stabs Dick to the heart with a big knife lying near and then turns to the tide, knowing that strange fish will be in tomorrow's nets.

Don't Be a Quitter.

We cannot always find the ways
That lead to waiting treasures;
There must sometimes be dismal days
That are devoid of pleasures;
The winds that blow so softly now
Tomorrow may be bitter;
The storms will come, but, anyhow,
Don't be a quitter.

We cannot always do the things
We wish we might be doing;
We may not be all dukes or kings,
Some men must do the hewing;
Some men must plow and some must sow,
While some in jewels glitter,
But, if your place is high or low,
Don't be a quitter.

Some men may live in idleness
On fortunes they inherit,
And some men never may possess
The sweet rewards of merit;
Some men may ride in lordly state,
While others bear the litter;
But, rich or poor, or small or great,
Don't be a quitter.

You cannot win by sitting in
Your corner, sighing gravely;
Inflate your chest, thrust out your chin,
And do your duty bravely;
You may have cause to be in doubt,
Your hardships may be bitter,
But never let the world find out—
Don't be a quitter!

OVER THE SEA.

M. Bulgakoff, formerly secretary of Count Tolstoy, who has been lecturing on the contents of the great writer's library, says it numbered 10,000 volumes in thirty-two languages. The Russian section comprised 3505 works, the English, 3415; the French, 1045, and the German, 602.

Living up to Hohenzollern tradition, the German Crown Prince is now a tradesman, having adopted the handicraft of a master turner.

Jabez Wolfee, the Glasgow swimmer, famous through his efforts to swim the English Channel, is to make an attempt to swim from the Eddystone rock to Plymouth, a distance of fourteen miles. The swim has never been accomplished, and it is thought impossible of accomplishment, as it is across the tideways.

The French army has admitted to its ranks a youth named Defrance, who, although of the military age, 20, weighs only forty-two pounds and is only 3 feet 3 1-4 inches tall. The medical board found him physically fit in every way. It is understood he will be assigned to duties which will not oblige him to carry the marching outfit of the French soldier.

Among those hard hit by the new land legislation in Great Britain and who, fearing worse to come, have placed their ancestral estates upon the market, is the Earl of Dalhousie, who has offered for sale Brechin Castle, in Forfarshire, which has been in the possession of his family ever since the twelfth century. Lord Dalhousie is known throughout Scotland by the name of the Laird of Cockpen.

Dramatic Review.

of new jokes and really funny antic to his credit, and the women ar pleasing and resourceful assistant This is one of those snappy acts which not only get across the footlights themselves, but put the audience in good humor for the rest of th show.

Cornalla and Wilbur will be th opening number. Their tumbling has plenty of thrills, laughs and much astonishing ground somersault work.

Lasky's six Hobos will be the big comedy feature of the show. The announcement of the return of the Hobos included Charlie Lloyd, but not all of the bos he had with him on the previous tour. "In the material" is there, also the "Tango as society does it," and what more could one ask than that. This is one of the acts whose popularity seems never to diminish. It has been a regular every-season event at Pantages for the past four years, and looks as though it were good for as many more.

Two numbers are left blank in the Pantages announcements. Acts to fill these will be sent out from Chicago to join the show here next Monday afternoon.

Hippodrome.

Walter Montague's latest and greatest tabloid drama, "The Great Question," which, in a measure is a sequel to "The New Chief of Police," the sketch which the most prominent municipal workers went to see last week, is announced by Manager Fountain as headliner for the new bill at the Hippodrome beginning Monday afternoon.

It deals in drastic fashion with that still unsettled topic, "why, girls go wrong," is based on actual fact and introduces to the stage characters taken from life, and will introduce in strong situations one of the most famous actresses of the decade, Victory Bateman.

Really, the new bill boasts a double headliner as Bothwell Browne's big girly miniature musical comedy, "In Laughland," with a ravishing cast of twenty beauties, can scarcely be termed anything else.

Other promising features are announced, not the least being the Three Ben Aldis, whirling dervishes, whose dancing can justly be called an athletic miracle, while Scotty Butterworth, one of the smart chaps of vaudeville, is booked with a budget of new songs and eccentric steps.

Biele and Girard, the Yankee and the Swede, and comedy conveyors, returning to the Hippodrome with a new quarter-hour of nonsense, guaranteed to compel laughter.

The De Popplias, a handsome couple, expert in up to the moment ballroom dances, complete the new bill with the usual three sets of new motion pictures.

Republic.

The Great Huntress and Company, a scenic spectacular act featuring Huntress in female impersonations, comes as the headliner to Bert Levey's Republic Theater next week, topping an excellent and diversified bill of vaudeville. Huntress is one of the best known female impersonators on the stage today. He has dressed the act elaborately, and not spared pains nor expense in creating a big scenic spectacular production.

Van and Davis appear on the combill as a song and dance team de luxe. Their eccentric dancing is their strong point, and they have just finished creating a furore in San Francisco. Shy and Shyman have an extraordinary act, "A Study in Crazyology" that is a laugh getter from start to finish; La Vette and Russell novelty comedy jugglers who come to the Republic well recommended and approved all along the Bert Levey circuit; Laughing LaMar has a blackface singing and talking turn, that is clever and amusing, and Irving and Marrick are billed as laugh creators with their funny comedy skit, "The Fool of the Family."

The new Selig weekly and other motion pictures and orchestral concerts conclude the bill.

Clune's Auditorium.

So great has been the popularity of "The Spoilers," the great Alaskan romance by Rex Beach, that W. H. Clune has secured it at enormous cost for a second week in Los Angeles. All during the week long lines waited in front of the Auditorium and reached around on Olive street. Not only the evenings, but the afternoons as well, have proven popular with capacity crowds.

Mr. Clune, in taking the home of grand opera, declared that he was pleasing the greater majority of the people, that the day of the high-priced attraction was at an end. Furthermore, he declared he was going to give the best in the motion picture field in filmizations of dramas and novels. He proved all this last week and Monday will open to still greater crowds, for every person of the thousands who witnessed the performance last week is a committee of one officially boosting.

It is doubtful if any novel of recent years has had a wider circulation than "The Spoilers," and those who have read this story will readily recognize that it is action and interest from start to finish. Further than that, it simply reeks with heart interest. The struggles of Helen Chester in the wild and rugged country exemplifies the American womanhood, and the contrast drawn between this sweet girl with that of Cherry Malotte, of the mining camp, every one will recall, is graphically told by the master of fiction.

The big-hearted, rough and ready Alaskan and his wonderful personality, his keen and vivid perception, his fearlessness and his wonderful will power, made every reader of this wonderful novel proud of his birth country.

Clune's Broadway.

"The Adventures of Kathlyn" will be seen at Clune's Broadway theater commencing Monday. In this installment the adventures will deal with the "Kathlyn's Will" and as this is next to the last number, the thrills are, of course, beginning to pile up. The animals are being used in these scenes more than in any of the previous adventures.

By special request from his friends of the Los Angeles police department, W. H. Clune is having his exclusive pictures of the recent review of the police held over for the early part of the week. The pictures were taken as a surprise to the department and include not only the marchers, but the officials reviewing and the enormous crowd in the street.

A Lubin "Tango Tragedy" which is a splendid comedy in spite of its pathetic title, is one of the bill. "Conscience" and "Caroline" is another splendid comedy by the Edison. Besides the Broadway manager will put on a number of other good film dramas. The Selig pictorial news weekly and the programme will be made complete with well selected music by the orchestra.

"PEG O' MY HEART" HERE.

Peggy O'Neil in Title Role at Majestic.

"A Knight for a Day" Opened Last Night.

New Burbank Show; Bates at Orpheum.

"Peg O' My Heart," which will play a return engagement in Los Angeles, opening at the Majestic tonight, offers an excellent illustration of what the public wants. Under the managerial direction of Oliver Morosco, J. Hartley Manners's delightful comedy of youth was produced nearly two years ago at the Burbank Theater with Laurette Taylor in the title role, where it ran for ten consecutive weeks. It was then sent to New York, where it has been playing at the Cort Theater ever since.

The demand for this wild-fire success was so great from all sections of the country that Mr. Morosco found it necessary to organize five touring companies. The one that will be seen at the Majestic is called the No. 1, or transcontinental company, it having played all important cities between New York and the Pacific Coast.

The remarkable cast that will be seen here is headed by the dainty Peggy O'Neil, who, of course, plays the part of "Peg." Martin Sabine, the well-known leading man, has the important leading role of Jerry; Maggie Holloway Fisher has the part of Mrs. Chichester; Jane Meredith will play the role of Ethel, and Roland Hogue, the English actor, will play Alaric. Others are Joseph Yanner, Frazer Coulter, A. T. Hendon and Olin Field.

Morosco.

With one of the most remarkable casts ever gathered in a Coast production, "A Knight for a Day" opened at the Morosco Theater last night, presented by the Gaiety company.

"A Knight for a Day" has been one of the most brilliantly successful musical comedies of the past five years. Its popularity has spread from Coast to Coast because of its excellent story and its wonderful music.

"A Knight for a Day" is the first of the Gaiety offerings to be produced in Los Angeles. All others have been produced in San Francisco and later sent South, but the present production at the Morosco is entirely of Los Angeles manufacture.

Heading the remarkable cast are Daphne Pollard, the wonderful little comedienne, and Alf Goulding, who, in addition to the big part he has in the performance, is the directing producer of "A Knight for a Day."

Melvin Stokes and La Valera, two members of the production, were secured especially for this play from the big time vaudeville.

Stokes is the youngest dramatic tenor of the American stage.

La Valera, his stage partner, has an equally enviable record. She is a young woman of stunning appearance and her dances of the Spanish type are sensationally beautiful. Fred Santley, Bessie Franklyn, Charles A. Mason, Frances White, Frank Hayes and Willie Bevan complete the long list of principals. The production will be reviewed tomorrow.

Burbank.

"Officer 666," one of the most pronounced comedy successes of the past ten years, will receive its first production in stock in Los Angeles at this afternoon's matinee at the Burbank.

This big comedy by Augustin MacHugh was first produced at the Gaiety Theater in New York, where it ran an entire season with tremendous success. Since then its road production has met with great success wherever it visited and its production at the hands of the clever Burbank company should prove one of the most attractive fun offerings of the year.

"Officer 666" is that rare combination of real melodrama and real farce that is so seldom found and so everlastingly welcome.

In the big Burbank production this melodramatic farce will be handled with wildfire speed. Forrest Stanley will have the big role of the picture thief. Dick Vivian will play Travers Gladwin, a part exactly to his liking. Selma Paley will have the delightful role of the young girl for whom both men are fighting. Walter Catlett will have the big role of the Englishman friend of Gladwin. James K. Applebee, William G. Colvin, George Rand, H. S. Duffield, Thomas McLarnie, William Lambert, Beatrice Nichols and Florence Oberle will have important roles in making this big fun hit a success.

Orpheum.

Blanche Bates, in her first vaudeville tour, presenting for its premier in America a one-act, three-scene play by Sir James Matthew Barrie, England's foremost dramatist — this is what the Orpheum headlines for the week beginning Monday matinee. Miss Bates ranks among the very first of American artistes; she has, under both Belasco and Charles Frohman, been a leader among the younger players, and in this, her first, incursion into the two-a-day ranks, has been one of the most popular stars ever offered.

In this new play by Barrie she has found a most acceptable vehicle. It is, in contrast to his lively and joyous "Pantaloon," given us by Dazie last Christmas, quite realistic; almost tragic. It is strong drama, free from the whimsicality usually characterizing Barrie's work—serious, with a problem and a lesson.

Another feature act of the same week is offered by Roshanara, the greatest interpreter of Hindoo dances yet to come out of India. Roshanara is English, but was born in India, and there has made a lifelong study of the dances which figure so largely in the ceremonial life of the Indian peoples. These she has been able to translate, and she is their only accepted white interpreter in their native land. She brings to the Orpheum a series of these dances, each set in appropriate and correct surroundings, with every accessory to give them actuality and truthful presentation.

In all, the Orpheum will offer six new acts the coming week, the other newcomers being Kimberly and Mohr, who have a singing and patter act, "In Clubland;" McDevitt, Kelly and Lucey, who, as "The Piano Movers," show the funny side of putting a piano into the rooms of an operatic star and her woe in connection therewith; Mabelle Adams, who, as a violiniste, is a favorite Orpheum player, who this time brings a complete little play of German student life, "Wanda," which still, however, calls for her exquisite violin interpretations, and Lee Barth, a German dialect comedian — a type long absent but not forgotten by vaudeville, where once it was a mainstay. Barth is an excellent comedian and well entitled to be the first to "come back." The only holdover acts are Master Gabriel, in "Little Kick," and the Moneta Five in some new musical numbers.

Empress.

Beginning tomorrow afternoon with the regular matinee, Manager Worley of the Empress Theater will have for his headline attraction on the coming week's bill what is said to be one of the most elaborately-staged musical acts ever presented in vaudeville.

The act will be Beatrice Morelle's Six Parisian Harmony Girls, a sextette of stunning instrumentalists and vocal stars, presenting "A Study in Blue." Miss Morelle's girls are said to wear some of the most fetching gowns ever seen in popular-priced vaudeville. Many of Miss Morelle's girls were selected especially because of the musical talent and their unusual figures. Some fine musical numbers are introduced, while the staging is said to be the most beautiful ever seen on a local stage.

Most Empress patrons will remember with much pleasure and laughter the appearance of Al Herman, the black-face comedian, who kept Empress patrons giggling during the entire tour of the circuit less than a year ago. Mr. Herman will make his appearance next week with brand new and original songs and stories. His songs and original manner in presenting his jokes made him an everlasting favorite at the local house.

The third act on the new bill will be the popular playlet, "Speigel's Daughter's Beau." In the cast are five people especially selected because of the type they represent. The act carries a pretty little love story with it and the fears of a dear, old German father for the moral safety of his only daughter. Through this fear he suspects every man. His eavesdropping is one of the biggest laughs of the piece.

The dancing feature will be Mack Williams and Ida Segal, the fashion-plate dancing duo. Their dancing here will probably be as much appreciated as it has been along the circuit.

Ryan Brothers, sensational wonders of the air, will be the acrobatic feature, having originated some very remarkable and hazardous tricks on tight wires, drawn twenty feet above the stage, while the always new and first-run Keystone comedies will complete the new bill.

Pantages.

Lottie Mayer and her bevy of diving nymphs will be with us again, giving their first exhibition of daring nerve and startling shapeliness at the Pantages Monday matinee. Six pretty girls and a tank of water have proven the most effective means known to modern vaudeville for separating a man and his money. Of course, that is the principal object, if not the only one, for the existence of vaudeville, in which respect vaudeville is just like the other branches of stage enterprise, only more frank and honest as to motive. Therefore, according to Manager Carl Walker of Pantages, Miss Mayer is one of the high lights of the stage, and it might as well be admitted that Carl is a connoisseur in the matter of bright lights. Miss Mayer has added a new feature to her act, which she calls the dance of the sea nymphs.

Rackett, Hoover and Markey, a man and two women, sing, patter and dance. The man has a good stock

TRAGEDY MINUS PURPLE TRAPPINGS

Masefield Proves That a Vision of the Heart of Life May Be Noble In Breadth and Fire Even When the Subjects Are Ordinary Persons. The Business of Tragedy Discussed.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK

AT MEXICALI the other day I stood watching the play at roulette. A girl who had once been beautiful, and who is still a pretty ruin, hovered over one of the players for a moment. He looked up. The hardness in her face softened. Something like fright crept into her eyes as she edged away without speaking.

"I knew her back there," he said, with a shrug of the shoulders which he intended for me to read as California. "Her home was as good as mine and her people of the best. We both belonged to the same little amateur orchestra." He pushed back his checks to the dealer, took his money and walked out. "I guess that's all for today," he said, as we crossed the line. "She is the last girl on earth I expected to meet there. At home they think she is married and living back East."

Now, if William J. Locke were writing this, the roulette wheel would have been in the principality of Monaco, the girl would have been lovely and good, and the man a crazy genius. They would go away togther and have a romance. In the end they would marry, with as good a chance as married people ever have of living happy afterward.

It is just this difference between the reality and the dream which gives comedy and drama wings of light, but which binds tragedy to realism.

Novels and dramas are often pure fiction, but tragedy is usually based on grim facts. Even Shakespeare's tragedies have historic events for their genesis. There was something about the grim specter of ancient and terrible facts that is ineffacable. Their stern details baffle fiction. There is no occasion to seek anything more dreadful than reality itself.

Time also seems to be a necessary factor. We do not digest large events quickly. It is only after years have elapsed that our tragedies stand apart from other circumstances and may be treated for what they were. When first they occur the people around them see the result and not the cause. They are either too familiar with the facts or too stunned by the outcome for any heroic reflection. That is why we need Dante and Beatrice or David and Uriah to give the eternal triangle the right setting.

There are then two or three reasons why tragedies are not at present popular. The managers do not give them a chance and most of the modern playwrights haven't the habit.

I think I see a good sign in the moving pictures. In their efforts to touch enough depth of feeling to hold the public, they do not entirely slight the general craving for tragedy.

The moving picture is the short story of the stage, and short stories are the narcotics of literature.

Not a dozen short stories in the world could lay claim to being literature, excepting those of Poe and Balzac, and I doubt if the average magazine editor of today would find the works of either of these masters acceptable to their purposes.

The motion picture has its foundation on the fact that American people demand to see and feel, but this only partly covers the case. Largely their popularity, as well as the wide favor of short stories, is due to the fact that there are more superficial people in the world than any other kind. More people want entertainment than desire instruction. They are like children in a cradle who are already asleep, but who have to be rocked to be kept asleep. They can bear to see tragedy in pictures because it is only a part of a bad dream and they know they will pass right on to more pleasant dreams in the next minutes, but spoken and acted tragedy would be too much of a tax upon them. It might wake them up.

The whole business of tragedy in literature is to wake people up. We all know how kindly we treat with others and what allowances we make for everybody else after we have suffered from a great disappointment or a deep sorrow. We show an added respect for all life for a long time after we have been in the presence of death.

Nothing arouses the sensibilities so

How Shocking.

BLANCHE BATES SCORNS BEAUTY.

Cites Savants of Centuries to Prove Point.

Preaches Gospel of Barrie's New Playlet.

Hopes Los Angeles Agrees With Her.

Since making her vaudeville debut in Sir James Matthew Barrie's playlet, "Half An Hour," in which she appears at the Orpheum tomorrow, Blanche Bates has become a fervent apostle preaching the gospel of Barrie which is in everything the antipodies of the teachings of Bernard Shaw.

Meanwhile Miss Bates is championing the plain woman along the lines followed by Barrie in England, and Emile Faguet, the French Academician in Paris. She is opposed to the cult of beauty. She insists that we are living in the century of the plain woman. She goes further and calls her the homely woman and suggests that she is the solvent of the modern matrimonial tangle.

To prove this thesis, Miss Bates's next play which, will mark her return to the legitimate, will celebrate the triumph of plainess over flaunting good looks. Miss Bates declared that it is neither that she loves beauty less nor ugliness more, but because the merely beautiful leaves so little to the imagination; that man's mental appreciation, the safest and sanest vantage ground on which to analyze a woman, is discouraged if the eye of his imagination cannot be opened. Preaching from the text of M. Faguet, Miss Bates says:

"M. Faguet, and he acknowledges the impeachment, is not the first Frenchman to assert the power of plainness; rank heresy to the beauty, but pure reason to the undowered maiden. La Bruyere, Jean Jacques and Saint Simon have all declared their allegiance to plainness.

DEFINING BEAUTY.

Centuries back men were differing as to the value of feminine beauty. Socrates called it a short lived tyranny; Plato, a privilege of nature; Theophrastus, a silent cheat; Theocritus, a delightful prejudice. Aristotle affirmed that beauty was better than all the letters of recommendation in the world; Homer that it was a glorious gift of nature; and Ovid calls it a favor bestowed by the gods. And now M. Faguet has come along propounding the theory that ugliness is more of a fillip to the imagination than beauty.

"If one may trust this Gallic squire o' dames—and no matter what else he avows himself, he still hugs that sobriquet to his gallant heart—the crudite little love god of the twentieth century no longer turns his inoculative dart toward the beauty; he has learned that the plain woman, possessed of personality, she whom the French so well name la belle laide, is the only satisfactory guardian of man's destiny.

Nor does M. Faguet hesitate to say that the plain woman is healthier than her beautiful sister, who fears to spoil her complexion with too much sunlight and hesitates to harden her graceful forearm into a useful member, or strengthen her spinal column into a backbone which can support its own burden. He likens beauty to an irredeemable promissory note that reveals no funds at the end of thirty days and explains it in this wise:

"The beautiful woman, or even the merely pretty woman, had admired herself from the age of three years and has been aided and abetted in her admiration by doting parents and thoughtless friends until at a marriageable age she has become the spoiled and petted being who sees only her own reflection in the eyes of the world; and the happiness that she might well have bestowed if her character had not been warped by adulation is hers neither to keep nor to share."

"The savant goes on to declare that men are beginning to perceive this false standard, and are admiring from a wise distance, rather than taking unto themselves the beauty, who, scintillating with her midnight quaff, prefer her egotistical morning cup au lit. And the proof of this, M. Faguet announces, is in the instinctive acknowledgment by beautiful women who, instead of flaunting their charm in the eyes of the world, as has been the custom since the world began, are indignantly denying the least claim to good looks. He agrees that this may be in rare instances a result of modesty, but insists that, springing from the common feminine brain, it is a means of self protection against the conscious possession of a beauty which to acknowledge is to avow the possible fear that man will, distrusting her face value by its very beauty, find her wanting in the more vital attributes.

WOMEN'S INTUITION.

"But why is it that women, wiser than men in the ways of love, rarely marry a handsome man?" M. Faguet demands repeating his famous epigram, "Handsome men excite the admiration, but rarely the love of women, while homely men are often the recipients of the most profound passions." He owns to the belief that feminine intuition sees in plainness a promise and even a guarantee of permanent happiness.

"And this instinctive feminine logic is being emulated by men, who, while less intuitive, are more reasonable than the objects of their reasoning. And beauty, still the promise of felicity to the heedless, has bestowed upon the unsightly a suggestive quality of happiness which is the too illusive bluebird of modern snaring. Without doubt there are still many men who, scorning reflection where love is concerned, hover close to the beautiful, but with the advancement of civilization the wise men increase. And according to M. Faguet, the beauty that is expressed through the mind, rather than the body, is attracting the discerning eye of the up-to-date Paris, and I hope that Los Angeles, too, and America generally will come to worship the plain woman who creates rather than the beauty who destroys and consumes."

MUSICAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

CHILD SYMPHONY CONDUCTOR LATEST PRODIGY.

Richard Strauss' Invention of Opera Without Words Latest Parisian Sensation—Local Grand Opera Company Secures Great Singers and Musical Conductors.

From London and Paris comes now the most extraordinary claim ever made for a musical genius.

[illegible] achievements have cre[illegible]ttention in the musical [illegible]ondon, Paris, St. Peters[illegible] several Italian cities. [illegible] widespread appreciation [illegible]ate and sophisticated musi[illegible]ters of Europe indicates that [illegible] Ferrero is possessed of extra[illegible]ary talent, if somewhat sensa[illegible]nal.

From his pictures he looks like a normal child of 8, slender and straight-limbed, with a peculiarly earnest look in his eyes.

This work as the youngest orchestral leader of distinction is the most interesting feature of his existence and demonstrates a memory of phenomenal accuracy combined with a very unusual talent for interpreting music.

Whether Ferrero is really a matured maestro at 8, with superhuman musical comprehension, or is only intensely interesting because of his extreme youth, must for the present remain an open question. But his method of work is certainly new and original for a symphonic conductor.

It is recounted that the boy's first appearance was at the head of a little orchestra in Paris when he was 4 years old. His parents are amateur musicians, but the boy has never been trained in music. He cannot read music, nor can he play any instrument.

Willy's method is described as follows: He first hears a composition played on the piano. If he does not like it he throws it aside. If he wants to add it to his repertoire he has it played once or twice by an orchestra, under the leadership of one of the musicians, who plays the piece in strict time and without shading. Then the boy is ready to interpret it himself in his own way, which he does with the utmost self-confidence and understanding. His repertoire is said to include hundreds of classical pieces, all of which he has learned by heart.

New Strauss Pantomime Opera.

An opera without words is the latest work of Richard Strauss, which had its first performance on any stage at the Paris opera three weeks ago.

Almost universally the production was recognized as one of the highest merit, the music equal to Strauss's best efforts.

The libretto by Count Von Keller and Hugo von Hoffmannsthal, is a remarkably ingenious, if ridiculous, affair. The title is "The Legend of Joseph," and it is difficult to understand why the Biblical story was transferred to old Venice by the writers of the pantomimistic opera.

The only valid excuse for the change was the desire of providing gorgeous and artistic scenic effects.

The rhythmic vibrations of the sensuous melody, enhanced by the chromatic artistry of Leon Bakst, and the intensity of certain passages combine, in the opinion of French critics, to put certain parts of "The Legend of Joseph" among the strongest and most finished of all the Strauss compositions. The beauty of the music redeemed the inanity of the story. The most remarkable novelty was the introduction of Turkish boxers at the feast given by Potiphar. Six boxers without gloves indulged in a combat to illustrative music. The music is said to be less strenuous than that of "Elektra" or "Salome," Joseph's being simple, even naive.

When Joseph leaps from his couch and strives to elude the embrace of Potiphar's wife and draws a garment over his nude shoulders, there was dead silence in the auditorium.

Then, when Joseph's mantle is torn aside and the passion of the woman is transformed into the fury and ferocity of the she-wolf, the public gave vent to an outburst of enthusiasm seldom equalled at the Paris Operahouse.

The strong pantomine, carried further than has ever been attempted before, combined with music of the highest modern character, enhanced by dances more interpretative of the deeper human emotions than even the Russian school has attempted heretofore presented in a scenic frame that Leon Bakst alone can create today, produced a profound impression in Paris.

The reason for this reception is that theatergoers demand something new, more decorative, more intensely natural, yet grandly sumptious than what the operatic art has given up to the present.

Richard Strauss, the intense genius and inventor of new dramatic effects, may have struck a new chord.

National Opera Company Stars.

Carlo Marchetti and Mario Lambardi have just left New York for Italy to recruit operatic stars for next season's grand opera.

A contract with Constantino, the famous artist from the Metropolitan, has been signed. Evelyn Parnel, one of the most popular singers of the Boston Opera Company, has also been secured for the National Company.

Fulgenzio Guerrieri has been engaged as musical director. He was in Berlin and expected to remain in that capital for the coming year but he finally consented to direct the fortunes of the local organization. Dr. Luigi Cecchetti will substitute for the general musical conductor and will also have the charge of the chorus.

A well-known singer who has also joined the ranks of the local company is John Hendricks, a well-liked basso of much talent.

Bertha Vaughn's Recital.

Bertha Winslow Vaughn, the popular soprano of No. 2325 London street, entertained with a recital Friday evening. Eleven of Mrs. Vaughn's pupils contributed to the excellent programme. Ethel Ardin and Pearl Berry sang the duet from "Madame Butterfly." Mrs. C. Brownrigg, Margaret Miller and Mignon Stockman sang as a trio and a delightful quartette was composed of Ethel Best, Mrs. June Barnhart, Mrs. Moyse and Mrs. Isabel Gray. Four selections each were given by Pearl Berry, Eleanor Hornby, Bernice Cass, Mrs. Moyse, Ethel Best, Margaret Miller and at the conclusion of the programme Mrs. Vaughn delighted the guests with two charmingly-rendered numbers. Miss Berry interspersed the vocal numbers with two piano selections. Florence Plumstead was the accompanist for the entire programme.

Fuehrer-Zielinski Trio.

Miss Bessie R. Fuehrer, violin; Miss Lucy Fuehrer, violoncello; Jaroslaw de Zielinski, piano; composing the Fuehrer-Zielinski trio, Miss Mercedes Ciesielska, soprano, assisting, have been heard in recital twice this week.

In Pasadena selections from Rameau Monsigny, Beethoven, Debussy, Faure, Sachs, Sibelius, Glazounoff and Moniuszko were given at the Shakespeare Clubhouse before a large audience, while at Hollywood a different programme of equal merit, but entirely different, presented Eduard Schuett, Cesar Cui, Sigurd Lie, Sjoegren, Pachulski, Arensky, Lehmann and Arbos.

Wessendorf-Schaefermeyer Pupils.

Katherine Meyers, Jessie Stearns, Edith Haggmann, William Stansbary, Myra Watermann, Alice Herron, Edith Germain, Erna Furstenberg, Adolph Geyer, Virginia Hisey, Gertrude Hawkins, Lucile Brady, Margaret Clune, Irma Odemar, Kenneth Whaley, Cecelia Ebe, Myrtle Shumway, Reba Kellner, pupils of Mrs. Wessendorf and Miss Schaefermeyer, will be heard in recital at No. 1036 West Washington, on the evening of June 6.

Ester Stanton Recital.

Mme. Ester Stanton, a well-known eastern mezzo-soprano, will be heard for the first time here in recital, at Blanchard Hall next Wednesday evening in a programme including compositions, by Arthur Penn, Peterson Berger, Lindblad, Salter, White and Luzzi. A series of Swedish folk songs, "Min lilla vra" and "Ver melands visa," will be given. Mrs. W. M. Hepburn will accompany the artist.

Wharry-Heiss Recital.

Splendid artistry distinguished the musicale given in the Hotel Green, Pasadena, by Miss Aurelia Wharry, soprano, and Miss Olive Heiss, pianiste, on Tuesday evening.

Miss Wharry will leave tomorrow for St. Paul, where she goes to visit her parents. Later she will go to New York, where she will coach with Paul Savage, returning here October 1.

Musical Recital at St. Paul's.

Two months ago at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, a musical programme was given, consisting entirely of compositions played by Jean de Chauvenet and Ernest Douglas, assisted by Oscar Werner, violinist. The evening the concert was given proved to be a very rainy one thus preventing a full attendance. Those who braved the storm expressed themselves as being so highly pleased that it has been decided to repeat the same this evening at 7:45 o'clock. In addition to the musical programme Dean MacCormack will give an interesting talk on music, as a great power for good.

Two New Piano Compositions.

Miss Bertha Weber, a young composer of Pomona and now living in this city, has recently completed two compositions for the piano, "Caprice Sylvan" and "Melody in D Flat," which are now being published.

Miss Weber has studied at the University of Southern California and Pomona College and before removing to this city was organist in the Trinity Methodist Church of Pomona.

SCIENTISTS, CHURCHMEN.

Dr. Ira Remsen, president emeritus of Johns Hopkins University, has been awarded the Willard Gibb's gold medal by the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society. The medal is given for achievements in the field of chemistry.

Sherburne Wesley Burnham, professor of practical astronomy for twenty-one years at the University of Chicago, will retire from active service on July 1. Prof. Burnham has had a most interesting career as an astronomer, his first work being done in a private observatory in Chicago. Later he was an observer at the Dearborn Observatory and at the Washburn Observatory of the University of Wisconsin; and in 1879 he was appointed expert commissioner to test the seeing on Mt. Hamilton, Cal., his report resulting in the location of the Lick Observatory. For four years he was astronomer at this institution, and in 1893 he began his service at the University of Chicago, as astronomer in the Yerkes Observatory. The value of his astronomical researches has been recognized by the award to him of its gold medal by the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain, and of the Lalande prize in astronomy by the Paris Academy of Science.

Prof. Karl Langlotz, sole survivor of the faculty of Princeton of fifty years ago, and famed as the composer of the music of "Old Nassau," the battle hymn of the university, is now a hopeless invalid. With his sight almost gone and other infirmities of age crowding upon him, he has been confined to his modest little apartment for nearly two years. He is nearly 80 years old.

One of the few blind men ever raised to the priesthood by the Catholic Church will be ordained next month at Woodstock College, if the plea of Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore and Cardinal O'Connell of Boston is granted by Pope Pius. The cardinals will appear before the Pope and ask that a special dispensation be granted for the ordination of Henry Wessling of Boston, a Jesuit student at Woodstock College. Mr. Wessling became blind when chemicals over which he was working in the laboratory of Canisius College, Buffalo, N. Y., exploded several years ago. He was then professor of chemistry in that institution. Since that time he has gone on studying.

Prince Alexander of Teck, who is to succeed the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General of Canada, is the third son of the late Duke of Teck, and a brother of Queen Mary, wife of the King of England. He will take up his duties in October at the expiration of the term of the Duke of Connaught. The Prince is a keen soldier, but he has had little administrative experience. He is a good organizer. He has done much in the cause of charity, especially on behalf of the hospitals and in the furtherance of cancer research. The Prince is 40 years old.

Tragedy Discussed.

much a stragedy. The stage dares not outgrow it and no playwright has a chance to live who does not succeed at it.

We do not know Synge very well today, but fifty years hence his tiny play of "Riders to the Sea" will be worth more than three thousand of the dramas that will be written in the next year. It is stark and gaunt, but it is lofty tragedy.

The purple of kings is not required for tragedy. John Masefield illustrates this very well by writing a tragedy about a simple English girl whose father has been hanged for stealing sheep and whose mother belonged to the unhappy ones.

Masefield's brief introduction to the "Tragedy of Nan" will be held by some as better than the play.

"Tragedy at its best is a vision of the heart of life," he says. "The heart of life can only be laid bare in the agony and exultation of dreadful facts. The vision of agony or spiritual contest, pushed beyond the limits of the dying personality, is exulting and cleansing. It is only by such vision that a multitude can be brought to the passionate knowledge of things exulting and eternal. Commonplace people dislike tragedy because they dare not suffer and cannot exult. The truth and rapture of man are holdings things not likely to be scorned. A carelessness of life and beauty marks the glutton, the idler and the fool. Our playwrights have all the powers except the power of exultation which comes from a delighted brooding on excessive, terrible things."

I must disagree with his last statement. Such brooding may be poignant, but not delightful. One associates delight with gladness and beauty, but never with terror, never with violence.

There is, of course, an ecstacy of pain and this needs a close watch to save it from the morbid, Masefield, in his "Tragedy of Nan," lifts his story to poesy at the danger point.

After Nan's father has been hanged and her mother is dead, she comes to the home of an uncle whose wife is a shrew.

The shrew has a wicked heart and an evil tongue and is jealous of Nan's beauty of person and loveliness of character. She has a daughter who has been "working out," as we Americans put it, and "in service," as the English say.

When the play opens Nan's Cousin Jenny has come home and, as a sheep died on the place that week, they are giving a party in the girl's honor with a big lamb pie for supper.

You will note the art of this. There is one family held in honor while it feeds its neighbors with a dead sheep and there, on the other hand, is Nan's father, who was an honest man, yet who has been hanged on the word of a liar who himself stole the sheep.

This is tragedy by way of contrast, and the tragedy is doubled on the party night. Nan is in love with the grocer's son and when she answers his knock at the door, he proposes to her and in a rustic love scene, noble and pure, they become engaged. So sweet a picture of stage love-making is seldom offered in modern drama. Jenny's mother comes down and reads Nan's story in her flushed face. The girl's beautiful dark hair is down and in it there is a red rose.

The shrew tells the boy he is to have a partnership in his father's business if he marries Jenny, but that he will be a tramp if Nan is his choice. The false youth, already having the reputation of a flirt, promptly engages himself to Jenny, who has neither brains in her head nor delight in her veins.

The shrew instantly announces the engagement and when Nan appeals to Dick he scorns her before them all. She goes by the fire in the next room to talk with the old fiddler, who loved a lass in his youth and who lived with that memory ever after her death.

"I have her little grave," he says; "I have her little grave to see to, with flowers and that. If I had great sacks of gold I could have a headstone put up. I would have her little grave all carved. I would have posies cut and her face down on the stone. All in white I'd have my flower cut. White stone. There be no kings who would have whiter.

"There were eight maids in white when they carried her. Beautiful they were. Then they grew old. One by one. And their houses were to let, with the windows broke. And grass and grass. They be all gone. When I be gone, there will be none to tell the beauty of my flower."

I have not tried to follow the old English spelling in this quotation. The poetry is not spoiled by the transposition.

While the old fiddler is talking, Nan is planning her death in the sea.

The old man understands.

He calls the rising tide a rider in gold. This is the way he puts it: "She looked out of the wind[illegible] my white flower. She said, 'The t[illegible] The tide. Coming up the river,' and a horn blew. The gold rider blew a horn and she rose up, my white flower, and she fell back, gold hair on the pillow, and blood. The blood of my girl, blood of my flower. On my heart. My white flower lay on my heart. The tide. The tide. The tide coming up the river."

The old man reminds Nan that the moon is full that night. She says "full moon. It come up misty. And red." And he answers, "It was red on the pillow."

With just as much poetry the dialogue proceeds. Both are speaking in glowing prophecy of the night's sad business. While they talk a constable, a preacher and a captain of the army come in to tell Nan that her father's innocence has been proved and they bring her £50 in gold as the government's apology.

Before this has happened, Jenny has come in—Jenny, who pretended to be Nan's friend—and Nan reads her a prophecy of her future.

"I see your life very plain in your pale eyes," she says. "I see a great town, with lamps, and I see you in a public house, Jenny, with red on your white cheeks and your pale eyes swollen with drink, and you've a raggy skirt and you cough and you tremble. That is the pay in this world, Jenny, for a little cold, mean, lying thing. And I see a dirty room with a dirty bed, and you lying dead on it. Your painted cheeks on the pillow. Till the town dead cart come."

Jenny goes into the next room and faints, while the rest are counting the money. Nan's uncle tries to coax it from her as a loan and her aunt threatens to take it from her because she is not of age. Nan passes a handful of the gold to the old man for a tombstone for his flower, and laughs at the others.

"This for a man's life," she says. "Oh, you little yellow rounds that buy things. There was a strong man, a kind man. He was 49 years old. He was the best thatcher in three counties. He was the sweetest singer. I have known teams going to the field to stop to hear my dad sing. And the redcoats came and a liar swore and that strong man was killed. That voice of his was choked out with a cord and the liars, the thieves, the drunken women and dirty gentlemen stood in the cold to see that man choke. They stayed up all night playing cards, so they could hear his singing stopped—and for that I get little round things."

Dick comes in to try to win Nan back again. He pretends that it is because her father has been proved blameless, but Nan knows it is his greed for the £50. She gives him one last test by telling him to turn the gold over to the others and leave with her. He protests and then she sees clearly and does her work well. She stabs Dick to the heart with a big knife lying near and then turns to the tide, knowing that strange fish will be in tomorrow's nets.

Don't Be a Quitter.

We cannot always find the ways
  That lead to waiting treasures;
There must sometimes be dismal days
  That are devoid of pleasures;
The winds that blow so softly now
  Tomorrow may be bitter;
The storms will come, but, anyhow,
  Don't be a quitter.

We cannot always do the things
  We wish we might be doing;
We may not be all dukes or kings,
  Some men must do the hewing;
Some men must plow and some must sow,
  While some in jewels glitter,
But, if your place is high or low,
  Don't be a quitter.

Some men may live in idleness
  On fortunes they inherit,
And some men never may possess
  The sweet rewards of merit;
Some men may ride in lordly state,
  While others bear the litter;
But, rich or poor, or small or great,
  Don't be a quitter.

You cannot win by sitting in
  Your corner, sighing gravely;
Inflate your chest, thrust out your chin,
  And do your duty bravely;
You may have cause to be in doubt,
  Your hardships may be bitter,
But never let the world find out—
  Don't be a quitter!

OVER THE SEA.

M. Bulgakoff, formerly secretary of Count Tolstoy, who has been lecturing on the contents of the great writer's library, says it numbered 10,000 volumes in thirty-two languages. The Russian section comprised 2505 works, the English, 3415; the French, 1045, and the German, 602.

Living up to Hohenzollern tradition, the German Crown Prince is now a tradesman, having adopted the handicraft of a master turner.

Jabez Wolfee, the Glasgow swimmer, famous through his efforts to swim the English Channel, is to make an attempt to swim from the Eddystone rock to Plymouth, a distance of fourteen miles. The swim has never been accomplished, and it is thought impossible of accomplishment, as it is across the tideways.

The French army has admitted to its ranks a youth named Defrance, who, although of the military age, 20, weighs only forty-two pounds and is only 3 feet 3 1-4 inches tall. The medical board found him physically fit in every way. It is understood he will be assigned to duties which will not oblige him to carry the marching outfit of the French soldier.

Among those hard hit by the new land legislation in Great Britain and who, fearing worse to come, have placed their ancestral estates upon the market, is the Earl of Dalhousie, who has offered for sale Brechin Castle, in Forfarshire, which has been in the possession of his family ever since the twelfth century. Lord Dalhousie is known throughout Scotland by the name of the Laird of Cockpen.

MUSICAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

CHILD SYMPHONY CONDUCTOR LATEST PRODIGY.

Richard Strauss' Invention of Opera Without Words Latest Parisian Sensation—Local Grand Opera Company Secures Great Singers and Musical Conductors.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

From London and Paris comes now the most extraordinary claim ever made for a musical genius.

Crowned heads of Europe have attended the Ferrero concerts, have received the 8-year-old conductor, who cannot read music nor can play any instrument.

After the coming of Willy Ferrero, premature genius may well despair of ever obtaining recognition.

The whole matter would at first appear delightfully absurd, if for the last two seasons Willy had not been taken seriously. He actually conducted the new Symphony Orchestra at Albert Hall, London, in compositions of Wagner, Berlioz and Bizet, a few weeks ago.

It would seem, however, somewhat difficult to accept that the boy is really a conductor of merit at the age of 8.

Yet, Willy's achievements have created much attention in the musical circles of London, Paris, St. Petersburg and of several Italian cities.

Such a widespread appreciation from sedate and sophisticated musical centers of Europe indicates that young Ferrero is possessed of extraordinary talent, if somewhat sensational.

From his pictures he looks like a normal child of 8, slender and straight-limbed, with a peculiarly earnest look in his eyes.

This work as the youngest orchestral leader of distinction is the most interesting feature of his existence and demonstrates a memory of phenomenal accuracy combined with a very unusual talent for interpreting music.

Whether Ferrero is really a matured maestro at 8, with superhuman musical comprehension, or is only intensely interesting because of his extreme youth, must for the present remain an open question. But his method of work is certainly new and original for a symphonic conductor.

It is recounted that the boy's first appearance was at the head of a little orchestra in Paris when he was 4 years old. His parents are amateur musicians, but the boy has never been trained in music. He cannot read music, nor can he play any instrument.

Willy's method is described as follows: He first hears a composition played on the piano. If he does not like it he throws it aside. If he wants to add it to his repertoire he has it played once or twice by an orchestra, under the leadership of one of the musicians, who plays the piece in strict time and without shading. Then the boy is ready to interpret it himself in his own way, which he does with the utmost self-confidence and understanding. His repertoire is said to include hundreds of classical pieces, all of which he has learned by heart.

New Strauss Pantomime Opera.

An opera without words is the latest work of Richard Strauss, which had its first performance on any stage at the Paris opera three weeks ago.

Almost universally the production was recognized as one of the highest merit, the music equal to Strauss's best efforts.

The libretto by Count Von Keller and Hugo von Hoffmannsthal, is a remarkably ingenious, if ridiculous, affair. The title is "The Legend of Joseph," and it is difficult to understand why the Biblical story was transferred to old Venice by the writers of the pantomimistic opera.

The only valid excuse for the change was the desire of providing gorgeous and artistic scenic effects.

The rhythmic vibrations of the sensuous melody, enhanced by the chromatic artistry of Leon Bakst, and the intensity of certain passages combine, in the opinion of French critics, to put certain parts of "The Legend of Joseph" among the strongest and most finished of all the Strauss compositions. The beauty of the music redeemed the inanity of the story. The most remarkable novelty was the introduction of Turkish boxers at the feast given by Potiphar. Six boxers without gloves indulged in a combat to illustrative music. The music is said to be less strenuous than that of "Elektra" or "Salome," Joseph's being simple, even naive.

When Joseph leaps from his couch and strives to elude the embrace of Potiphar's wife and draws a garment over his nude shoulders, there was dead silence in the auditorium.

Then, when Joseph's mantle is torn aside and the passion of the woman is transformed into the fury and ferocity of the she-wolf, the public gave vent to an outburst of enthusiasm seldom equalled at the Paris Operahouse.

The strong pantomine, carried further than has ever been attempted before, combined with music of the highest modern character, enhanced by dances more interpretative of the deeper human emotions than even the Russian school has attempted heretofore presented in a scenic frame that Leon Bakst alone can create today, produced a profound impression in Paris.

The reason for this reception is that theatergoers demand something new, more decorative, more intensely natural, yet grandly sumptious than what the operatic art has given up to the présent.

Richard Strauss, the intense genius and inventor of new dramatic effects, may have struck a new chord.

National Opera Company Stars.

Carlo Marchetti and Mario Lambardi have just left New York for Italy to recruit operatic stars for next season's grand opera.

A contract with Constantino, the famous artist from the Metropolitan, has been signed. Evelyn Parnel, one of the most popular singers of the Boston Opera Company, has also been secured for the National Company.

Fulgenzio Guerrieri has been engaged as musical director. He was in Berlin and expected to remain in that capital for the coming year but he finally consented to direct the fortunes of the local organization. Dr. Luigi Cecchetti will substitute for the general musical conductor and will also have the charge of the chorus.

A well-known singer who has also joined the ranks of the local company is John Hendricks, a well-liked basso of much talent.

Bertha Vaughn's Recital.

Bertha Winslow Vaughn, the popular soprano of No. 2325 London street, entertained with a recital Friday evening. Eleven of Mrs. Vaughn's pupils contributed to the excellent programme. Ethel Ardin and Pearl Berry sang the duet from "Madame Butterfly." Mrs. C. Brownrigg, Margaret Miller and Mignon Stockman sang as a trio and a delightful quartette was composed of Ethel Best, Mrs. June Barnhart, Mrs. Moyse and Mrs. Isabel Gray. Four selections each were given by Pearl Berry, Eleanor Hornby, Bernice Cass, Mrs. Moyse, Ethel Best, Margaret Miller and at the conclusion of the programme Mrs. Vaughn delighted the guests with two charmingly-rendered numbers. Miss Berry interspersed the vocal numbers with two piano selections. Florence Plumstead was the accompanist for the entire programme.

Fuehrer-Zielinski Trio.

Miss Bessie R. Fuehrer, violin; Miss Lucy Fuehrer, violoncello; Jaroslaw de Zielinski, piano; composing the Fuehrer-Zielinski trio, Miss Mercedes Ciesielska, soprano, assisting, have been heard in recital twice this week.

In Pasadena selections from Rameau Monsigny, Beethoven, Debussy, Faure, Sachs, Sibelius, Glazounoff and Moniuszko were given at the Shakespeare Clubhouse before a large audience, while at Hollywood a different programme of equal merit, but entirely different, presented Eduard Schuett, Cesar Cui, Sigurd Lie, Sjoegren, Pachulski, Arensky, Lehmann and Arbos.

Wessendorf-Schaefermeyer Pupils.

Katherine Meyers, Jessie Stearns, Edith Haggmann, William Stansbary, Myra Watermann, Alice Herron, Edith Germain, Erna Furstenberg, Adolph Geyer, Virginia Hisey, Gertrude Hawkins, Lucile Brady, Margaret Clune, Irma Odemar, Kenneth Whaley, Cecelia Ebe, Myrtle Shumway, Reba Kellner, pupils of Mrs. Wessendorf and Miss Schaefermeyer, will be heard in recital at No. 1036 West Washington, on the evening of June 6.

Ester Stanton Recital.

Mme. Ester Stanton, a well-known eastern mezzo-soprano, will be heard for the first time here in recital, at Blanchard Hall next Wednesday evening in a programme including compositions, by Arthur Penn, Peterson Berger, Lindblad, Salter, White and Luzzi. A series of Swedish folk songs, "Min lilla vra" and "Ver melands visa," will be given. Mrs. W. M. Hepburn will accompany the artist.

Wharry-Heiss Recital.

Splendid artistry distinguished the musicale given in the Hotel Green, Pasadena, by Miss Aurelia Wharry, soprano, and Miss Olive Heiss, pianiste, on Tuesday evening.

Miss Wharry will leave tomorrow for St. Paul, where she goes to visit her parents. Later she will go to New York, where she will coach with Paul Savage, returning here October 1.

Musical Recital at St. Paul's.

Two months ago at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, a musical programme was given, consisting entirely of compositions played by Jean de Chauvenet and Ernest Douglas, assisted by Oscar Werner, violinist. The evening the concert was given proved to be a very rainy one thus preventing a full attendance. Those who braved the storm expressed themselves as being so highly pleased that it has been decided to repeat the same this evening at 7:45 o'clock. In addition to the musical programme Dean MacCormack will give an interesting talk on music, as a great power for good.

Two New Piano Compositions.

Miss Bertha Weber, a young composer of Pomona and now living in this city, has recently completed two compositions for the piano, "Caprice Sylvan" and "Melody in D Flat," which are now being published.

Miss Weber has studied at the University of Southern California and Pomona College and before removing to this city was organist in the Trinity Methodist Church of Pomona.

SCIENTISTS, CHURCHMEN.

Dr. Ira Remsen, president emeritus of Johns Hopkins University, has been awarded the Willard Gibb's gold medal by the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society. The medal is given for achievements in the field of chemistry.

Sherburne Wesley Burnham, professor of practical astronomy for twenty-one years at the University of Chicago, will retire from active service on July 1. Prof. Burnham has had a most interesting career as an astronomer, his first work being done in a private observatory in Chicago. Later he was an observer at the Dearborn Observatory and at the Washburn Observatory of the University of Wisconsin; and in 1879, he was appointed expert commissioner to test the seeing on Mt. Hamilton, Cal., his report resulting in the location of the Lick Observatory. For four years he was astronomer at this institution, and in 1893 he began his service at the University of Chicago, as astronomer in the Yerkes Observatory. The value of his astronomical researches has been recognized by the award to him of its gold medal by the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain, and of the Lalande prize in astronomy by the Paris Academy of Science.

Prof. Karl Langlotz, sole survivor of the faculty of Princeton of fifty years ago, and famed as the composer of the music of "Old Nassau," the battle hymn of the university, is now a hopeless invalid. With his sight almost gone and other infirmities of age crowding upon him, he has been confined to his modest little apartment for nearly two years. He is nearly 80 years old.

One of the few blind men ever raised to the priesthood by the Catholic Church will be ordained next month at Woodstock College, if the plea of Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore and Cardinal O'Connell of Boston is granted by Pope Pius. The cardinals will appear before the Pope and ask that a special dispensation be granted for the ordination of Henry Wessling of Boston, a Jesuit student at Woodstock College. Mr. Wessling became blind when chemicals over which he was working in the laboratory of Canisius College, Buffalo, N. Y., exploded several years ago. He was then professor of chemistry in that institution. Since that time he has gone on studying.

Prince Alexander of Teck, who is to succeed the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General of Canada, is the third son of the late Duke of Teck, and a brother of Queen Mary, wife of the King of England. He will take up his duties in October at the expiration of the term of the Duke of Connaught. The Prince is a keen soldier, but he has had little administrative experience. He is a good organizer. He has done much in the cause of charity, especially on behalf of the hospitals and in the furtherance of cancer research. The Prince is 40 years old.

Tragedy Discussed.

much a stragedy. The stage dares not outgrow it and no playwright has a chance to live who does not succeed at it.

We do not know Synge very well today, but fifty years hence his tiny play of "Riders to the Sea" will be worth more than three thousand of the dramas that will be written in the next year. It is stark and gaunt, but it is lofty tragedy.

The purple of kings is not required for tragedy. John Masefield illustrates this very well by writing a tragedy about a simple English girl whose father has been hanged for stealing sheep and whose mother belonged to the unhappy ones.

Masefield's brief introduction to the "Tragedy of Nan" will be held by some as better than the play.

"Tragedy at its best is a vision of the heart of life," he says. "The heart of life can only be laid bare in the agony and exultation of dreadful facts. The vision of agony or spiritual contest, pushed beyond the limits of the dying personality, is exulting and cleansing. It is only by such vision that a multitude can be brought to the passionate knowledge of things exulting and eternal. Commonplace people dislike tragedy because they dare not suffer and cannot exult. The truth and rapture of man are holdings things not likely to be scorned. A carelessness of life and beauty marks the glutton, the idler and the fool. Our playwrights have all the powers except the power of exultation which comes from a delighted brooding on excessive, terrible things."

I must disagree with his last statement. Such brooding may be poignant, but not delightful. One associates delight with gladness and beauty, but never with terror, never with violence.

There is, of course, an ecstacy of pain and this needs a close watch to save it from the morbid. Masefield, in his "Tragedy of Nan," lifts his story to poesy at the danger point.

After Nan's father has been hanged and her mother is dead, she comes to the home of an uncle whose wife is a shrew.

The shrew has a wicked heart and an evil tongue and is jealous of Nan's beauty of person and loveliness of character. She has a daughter who has been "working out," as we Americans put it, and "in service," as the English say.

When the play opens Nan's Cousin Jenny has come home and, as a sheep died on the place that week, they are giving a party in the girl's honor with a big lamb pie for supper.

You will note the art of this. There is one family held in honor while it feeds its neighbors with a dead sheep and there, on the other hand, is Nan's father, who was an honest man, yet who has been hanged on the word of a liar who himself stole the sheep.

This is tragedy by way of contrast, and the tragedy is doubled on the party night. Nan is in love with the grocer's son and when she answers his knock at the door, he proposes to her and in a rustic love scene, noble and pure, they become engaged. So sweet a picture of stage love-making is seldom offered in modern drama. Jenny's mother comes down and reads Nan's story in her flushed face. The girl's beautiful dark hair is down and in it there is a red rose. The shrew tells the boy he is to have a partnership in his father's business if he marries Jenny, but that he will be a tramp if Nan is his choice. The false youth, already having the reputation of a flirt, promptly engages himself to Jenny, who has neither brains in her head nor delight in her veins.

The shrew instantly announces the engagement and when Nan appeals to Dick he scorns her before them all. She goes by the fire in the next room to talk with the old fiddler, who loved a lass in his youth and who lived with that memory ever after her death.

"I have her little grave," he says; "I have her little grave to see to, with flowers and that. If I had great sacks of gold I could have a headstone put up. I would have her little grave all carved. I would have posies cut and her face down on the stone. All in white I'd have my flower cut. White stone. There be no kings who would have whiter.

"There were eight maids in white when they carried her. Beautiful they were. Then they grew old. One by one. And their houses were to let, with the windows broke. And grass and grass. They be all gone. When I be gone, there will be none to tell the beauty of my flower."

I have not tried to follow the old English spelling in this quotation. The poetry is not spoiled by the transposition.

While the old fiddler is talking, Nan is planning her death in the sea.

The old man understands.

He calls the rising tide a rider in gold. This is the way he puts it: "She looked out of the wind[illegible] my white flower. She said, "The t[illegible] The tide. Coming up the river,' and a horn blew. The gold rider blew a horn and she rose up, my white flower, and she fell back, gold hair on the pillow, and blood. The blood of my girl, blood of my flower. On my heart. My white flower lay on my heart. The tide. The tide. The tide coming up the river."

The old man reminds Nan that the moon is full that night. She says "full moon. It come up misty. And red." And he answers, "It was red on the pillow."

With just as much poetry the dialogue proceeds. Both are speaking in glowing prophecy of the night's sad business. While they talk a constable, a preacher and a captain of the army come in to tell Nan that her father's innocence has been proved and they bring her £50 in gold as the government's apology.

Before this has happened, Jenny has come in—Jenny, who pretended to be Nan's friend—and Nan reads her a prophecy of her future.

"I see your life very plain in your pale eyes," she says. "I see a great town, with lamps, and I see you in a public house, Jenny, with red on your white cheeks and your pale eyes swollen with drink, and you've a raggy skirt and you cough and you tremble. That is the pay in this world, Jenny, for a little cold, mean, lying thing. And I see a dirty room with a dirty bed, and you lying dead on it. Your painted cheeks on the pillow. Till the town dead cart come."

Jenny goes into the next room and faints, while the rest are counting the money. Nan's uncle tries to coax it from her as a loan and her aunt threatens to take it from her because she is not of age. Nan passes a handful of the gold to the old man for a tombstone for his flower, and laughs at the others.

"This for a man's life," she says. "Oh, you little yellow rounds that buy things. There was a strong man, a kind man. He was 49 years old. He was the best thatcher in three counties. He was the sweetest singer. I have known teams going to the field to stop to hear my dad sing. And the redcoats came and a liar swore and that strong man was killed. That voice of his was choked out with a cord and the liars, the thieves, the drunken women and dirty gentlemen stood in the cold to see that man choke. They stayed up all night playing cards, so they could hear his singing stopped—and for that I get little round things."

Dick comes in to try to win Nan back again. He pretends that it is because her father has been proved blameless, but Nan knows it is his greed for the £50. She gives him one last test by telling him to turn the gold over to the others and leave with her. He protests and then she sees clearly and does her work well. She stabs Dick to the heart with a big knife lying near and then turns to the tide, knowing that strange fish will be in tomorrow's nets.

Don't Be a Quitter.

We cannot always find the ways
  That lead to waiting treasures;
There must sometimes be dismal days
  That are devoid of pleasures;
The winds that blow so softly now
  Tomorrow may be bitter;
The storms will come, but, anyhow,
  Don't be a quitter.

We cannot always do the things
  We wish we might be doing;
We may not be all dukes or kings,
  Some men must do the hewing;
Some men must plow and some must sow,
  While some in jewels glitter,
But, if your place is high or low,
  Don't be a quitter.

Some men may live in idleness
  On fortunes they inherit,
And some men never may possess
  The sweet rewards of merit;
Some men may ride in lordly state,
  While others bear the litter;
But, rich or poor, or small or great,
  Don't be a quitter.

You cannot win by sitting in
  Your corner, sighing gravely;
Inflate your chest, thrust out your chin,
  And do your duty bravely;
You may have cause to be in doubt,
  Your hardships may be bitter,
But never let the world find out—
  Don't be a quitter!

—[S. E. Kiser.

OVER THE SEA.

M. Bulgakoff, formerly secretary of Count Tolstoy, who has been lecturing on the contents of the great writer's library, says it numbered 10,000 volumes in thirty-two languages. The Russian section comprised 3565 works, the English, 3416; the French, 1045, and the German, 602.

Living up to Hohenzollern tradition, the German Crown Prince is now a tradesman, having adopted the handicraft of a master turner.

Jabez Wolfee, the Glasgow swimmer, famous through his efforts to swim the English Channel, is to make an attempt to swim from the Eddystone rock to Plymouth, a distance of fourteen miles. The swim has never been accomplished, and it is thought impossible of accomplishment, as it is across the tideways.

The French army has admitted to its ranks a youth named Defrance, who, although of the military age, 20, weighs only forty-two pounds and is only 3 feet 3 1-4 inches tall. The medical board found him physically fit in every way. It is understood he will be assigned to duties which will not oblige him to carry the marching outfit of the French soldier.

Among those hard hit by the new land legislation in Great Britain and who, fearing worse to come, have placed their ancestral estates upon the market, is the Earl of Dalhousie, who has offered for sale Brechin Castle, in Forfarshire, which has been in the possession of his family ever since the twelfth century. Lord Dalhousie is known throughout Scotland by the name of the Laird of Cockpen.

ley Theater.

The Cloister and the Hearth," one most dramatic, pathetic, and altogether fascinating stories ever written, in fact, the greatest work of that celebrated author, Charles Reade, will be the big film feature at the Woodley theater this wek, beginning Monday afternoon.

Few lovers of intense fiction but are familiar with the adventures of Gerald Eliasson, who, destined for the priesthood by his father, marries, is imprisoned therefore, escapes, and becomes a soldier of fortune.

How, through the perfidy of his brothers, he is made to believe that his wife has died, how he takes the vows, and years afterwards returns to his native land only to discover that she still lives and that he has a son; and his great renunciation, owing to his vows, is all graphically shown.

Teeming as it does with heart throbs, "The Cloister and the Hearth" gives opportunity for some exquisite music, a fact that C. Percival Garratt has not overlooked in preparing his programme, which, by the way, includes some new novelties for the grand piano-pipe organ combination which is quite the harmonic sensation of the town.

Tally's Broadway.

Arnold Daly, one of the most noted character delineators on the American stage, makes his first appearance in motion pictures next week at Tally's Broadway Theater in the photo-play version in four acts of Meredith Nicholson's popular novel, "The Port of Missing Men." As the hero of this great play in pictures he leaves his foreign birthplace, becomes imbued with the spirit of American democracy and outwits the spies of his fatherland's enemies, does great service for the empire, and yet remains loyal to his adopted country, America. The music by the great pipe organ and the orchestra will be a feature of this week's programme at Tally's.

Hamburger's Arrow.

The feature film in the Arrow Theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be a two-reel Victor featuring J. Warren Kerrigan in "The Sheep Herder." Photo-play patrons will be delighted with this production, as it shows that most famous star at his best. The other two films are "When They Grew Jealous," Powers scenic, and "Charley's Waterloo," Crystal comedy, a continuation of the marital troubles of Charley and Vivian, one of those funny, original, clean comedies which pleases alike both young and old.

On the Thursday change will be a two-reel Imp, "His Last Charge," and "Battle Royal," featuring Universal Ike, whom all photo-playgoers enjoy, and a Joker comedy, "Their Vacation," with Ernest Shields and Louise Granville taking the leading parts. The scene is laid at a seaside hotel frequented by the idle rich. Ernest's arrival causes quite a sensation among the marriageable girls, and the arrival of Louise causes no less a sensation among the men, as she is the pink of fashion.

In the events following it is interesting to note the tangle in which each places himself, and which finally unwinds to the satisfaction of all.

Miller's.

The programme for today and tonight at Miller's Theater includes Cyrus Townsend Brady's "The Southerners," which has been made into a real masterpiece three-part photo-play production. Another headliner on the bill is the two-part farce comedy, "Cutey's Wife," and the very latest Pathe Weekly. This edition of the world's news in motion shows Col. Roosevelt on his return from Brazil, and many interesting up-to-the-minute pictures of the Mexican occupation of Vera Cruz and the return of the wounded marines to New York.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday's bill is headed by a dramatization of Booth Tarkington's splendid novel, "The Two Van Revels," and another two-part drama featuring Francis Bushman, who has just been awarded first prize as the most popular moving-picture star. The title of Mr. Bushman's play is "Ashes of Hope," a beautiful drama of modern life. Two comedies, one of them being a further adventure of Wood B. Wedd, is also offered. These whimsical stories are each complete in themselves and each one seems to be more laughable than the preceding adventure.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Frances Spankee, 16, of Ft. Smith, Ark., met her death last week while trying to rescue Mary Oberlee, her 9-year-old companion. The girls were walking over the trestle when they heard the approaching train. Both ran Frances cleared the trestle, but when she looked around Mary was sitting down, her foot caught between the ties. Frances ran back and as she bent to extricate the imprisoned foot, the locomotive struck both girls and hurled them from the trestle. Frances was killed and Mary suffered severe injuries.

A fund of $10,000 was left to promote the welfare and uplift of the boys and young men of Boonton, N. J., by Anna Catherine Lathrop of that town. The fund is left in trust to Marie V. L. Tuttle and John Ely Lathrop, niece and nephew of the testatrix, and it is explained that she desired the boys to be provided with a wholesome place for meeting and directed that the money be expended in aiding their moral, mental and physical uplift.

The donor of the half million cash contribution for the building in Washington of the great cathedral at Mt. St. Alban, is now announced as Mrs. Archibald Douglas Russell of New York City.

"Save a life for $50," was the slogan with which the Health Colony Club of Pittsburgh began its campaign against tuberculosis. With Mary Roberts Rinehart, the novelist, as president, the club has been organized to collect funds for unfortunates who are waiting to receive the benefits of the State tuberculosis sanatorium at Cresson, Pa. So many applications for admission to the sanatorium have been received that the State cannot care for all of them, and the club will care for them until the sanatorium is fully equipped.

The late Miss Mary Van Wogenen of New York City left the greater part of her estate of $125,000 to charitable and religious institutions. The largest gifts were $25,000 each to the general clergy relief fund of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and the domestic and foreign mission societies of the same church. The balance of the estate was divided in sums from $8000 to $3000 each.

A convalescents' home was opened at Sharon, Ct., last July exclusively for patients convalescing after attacks of heart trouble. In addition to receiving treatment they are taught a trade by which they can continue to be wage earners without danger. Patients are chiefly selected from New York hospitals.

Througn the interest and co-operation of Dr. Herbert J. Hall of Massachusetts it has been possible to select a suitable industry, the making of concrete flower pots. A workshop in New York for "graduates" has been opened through the generosity of Rev. Dr. Masterton of All Saints' Church. It is at No. 292 Henry street.

To avoid complications due to competition the man who works two hours gets the same pay as he who works six. Each man's hours are graded to his physical condition.

The men come back from the home looking well and feeling well, and their work agrees with them. They are interested in it.

Jacob H. Schiff, the New York philanthropist, has given $50,000 towards the translation of Jewish classics, which have been a sealed book to everyone but the scholar.

Washington and Lee University is to have a new gymnasium through the generosity of Mrs. Robert Parker Doremus, which will cost about $75,000 and in the nature of a memorial to her husband, who left his whole estate of $2,000,000 to Washington and Lee, with the provision that during her lifetime Mrs. Doremus should receive the income. Mrs. Doremus's gift will come from her own private fortune. The late Mr. Doremus's bequest came as a great surprise, for he was not a Washington and Lee graduate, and no one knew that he had been especially interested in the welfare of the university.

Russian Red Tape.

[Youth's Companion:] Nearly everyone who has traveled in Russia has, at some time or other, run afoul of the official "red tape" of that country. So, at least, had the traveler whose woes are the subject of an amusing story in a London newspaper.

His trunks had been examined, and the traveler was about to pass into the city, when an official, who had been scanning his traveling papers, stopped him.

"These papers contain irregularities," said the official, sternly. "You cannot stay in Russia."

"Very well," said the traveler, "I shall take the next train back to Berlin."

"Good! Let me see your passport, entitling you to leave the country."

"I have none."

"Very well. Then it is quite impossible for you to leave Russia. I will give you twenty-four hours in which to decide what you are going to do."

Making Things Equal.

[London Answers:] Pat and Murphy, since both had fallen in love with the same woman, became involved in a deadly feud. There seemed to be only one way of settling the matter—a duel.

Pistols were agreed upon, at twenty paces.

But when the stout Murphy saw his lean adversary facing him he began immediately to raise objections.

"Bedad," he said, "I'm twice as big a target as he is, so I ought to stand twice as far away from him as he is from me."

Pat's second treated this amazing proposition quite seriously, and for a long while stood thoughtful and puzzled. Then:

"There's no need for that," he said. "Be aisy now. I'll soon put the matter right."

Taking a piece of chalk from his pocket, he drew two lines down the stout man, "Fire away, ye spalpeen, and remember that any hits outside that chalk don't count!"

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

The Painter of Fisher Folk.

(To M. J. Burns.)

He has heard the shriek of the maniac gale
Where it drives the scurrying cloud-rack forth,
Where it seizes and rends the lonely sail
That has dared the wrath of the sullen North.
He has heard the savage sea-fiends roar
And felt their clutch on the trembling bark,
As it drove through the spume toward a deadly shore
In the icy mark of the winter dark.

He has sailed with the gallant fisher folk
Who fight the battle with wind and wave,
The hands of iron and hearts of oak
That conquer the sea or make it their grave.
He has sailed with the fishermen of the deep,
Those stern and silent toilers who grope
For the shining treasures the sea would keep,
The men of the sail and the tarry rope.

With them he has suffered and toiled and dared,
He has known all their joy and their agony,
So wherever his restless feet have fared
He has borne in his heart a song of the sea.
What marvel his brush has a magic, then,
That it paints the wind, that it marshals storms,
That it bares the souls of the fishermen,
That it shapes from the mist their breathing forms?

Oh, painter, where'er your palette lies,
Where'er your brush would a story tell
In forms of beauty unto men's eyes,
Ascend to heaven, descend to hell.
Oh, live, and feel and suffer, to show
That only thus can the spirit know,
That only thus can be brought forth,
The thing that is of eternal worth.

LOU V. CHAPIN.

Portraits in Red Chalk.

One talented young San Francisco artist, Bruce Nelsen, left the Merick-Reynolds gallery, No. 841 South Broadway, on Saturday, to make way for another from the northern city. The new arrival is E. Charlton Fortune, who is exhibiting thirteen portraits in sanguine, sometimes known as red chalk.

Either term, however, sanguine or red chalk, is unadvised when applied to these fine portraits by Miss Fortune, for sometimes red chalk is only slightly and lightly superimposed over darker chalks, and often she uses other colors to suggest the particular temperament and complexion of her sitter.

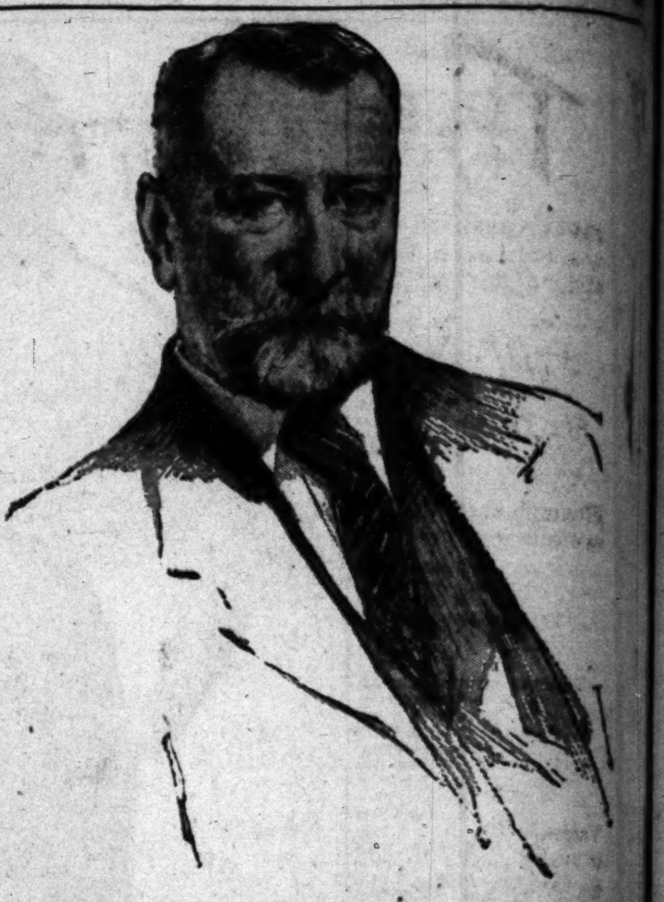
E. Charlton Fortune was born in California. She was educated in Scotland, however, returning to America in time to begin her art studies in San Francisco. From these she graduated to the Art Students' league in New York, remaining for four years, and, incidentally, becoming one of the league's vice-presidents and winning more honors as a student than any one else, who has ever been there. One medal, indeed, was conferred on her by the instructors—the first, last and only medal thus given.

After New York, Miss Fortune went back to Scotland, where she stayed for two years, exhibiting in Edinburgh, in a room devoted to pictures in black and white, among sush great men as Anders Zorn, August Lepere, Alphonse Legros, William Strong, Matthew Maris, Auguste Rodin, Frank Short, etc.—a gifted American girl counted with the immortals. Don't forget that she comes from California. Some famous artist—I forget who—said of Miss Fortune's chalk portrait in Edinburgh, that of Col. E. Ross of Bladensburg, Rostrevor, Ireland, that it was the best thing of its kind that had ever been done by anybody.

From this decided and disinterested praise you will conclude that Miss Fortune knows how to find the character in her models, and that her hand is sure in putting it down. If you make a careful study of the portraits now on exhibition at the Meyrick-Reynolds, you will discover that she goes below the skin, and outward and temporary, and portrays the permanent spirit of the man or woman or child, who sits for her. You will find, too, that her hand is not only sure, but exquisite and delicate.

They believe in her in San Francisco, where she has had a studio for the past two years, and from where many of these portraits come—those of Prof. Charles Mills Gayley, James E. Walsh, Lucia and Louisa Gay, and so on. How completely individualized all these portraits are, how free from the jejune and merely pretty-pretty! Such close psychological analysis and artistic synthesis in one still so young as Miss Fortune is not far short of the marvelous. It argues a perfect balance of intelligence and sympathetic feeling, a fine adjustment of the eye that searches and sees with the hand that records and executes.

Miss Fortune is a strong painter, as well as a draughtsman in crayons and charcoals, and she has even tried her hand at literature. She has made only one attempt as writer, however, and this, an article on "A Royal Scottish Burgh," which appeared in Harper's in 1910, remains her "maiden effort." It is accompanied by four illustrations in charcoal, and these, of course, are her own. The town she wrote about so charmingly, and illustrated so picturesquely, is the Royal Burgh of Crail. "It is built on the edge of the sea," she says, "guarded by the Carr Rock on the north, and the beautiful island of May; it lies dormant like the undiscovered fairy princess, and the tourist guides have not yet awakened its deep sleep."



Portrait of James E. Walsh. By E. Charlton Fortune.

She brought with her from San Francisco only two oil paintings—and I could wish she had brought a dozen, so virile and colorful are the two shown in Merick Reynolds's window. One of them, "The Grape Vine," painted at San Gabriel last year, drips with the sunshine of Southern California; the other, "Fishing Boats," from the pier at Monterey, shows us a green and blue sea that is alive with movement.

Miss Fortune's notable portraits and paintings will remain on view from June 1 to June 13. Don't fail to see them.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

(By Henrietta Housh.)

Now that some of the dreams of the Fine Arts League are being realized, I find myself in an introspective state of mind, superinduced by questions that are asked, as to whether it really pays to try to do public work; whether the public and the artists are sufficiently appreciative to make it worth while to sacrifice one's personal interests and one's time in their behalf.

Those of us who have persistently worked toward the betterment of conditions along art lines have found the way long and difficult, and sometimes it has seemed quite dark and very lonely.

We have remembered, however, that the light keeps shining for those who retain their faith and who travel toward it, ever so little, day by day.

Without the ability to look across the personal and to fix one's eyes upon that which is everlasting, I doubt whether one would be able to rise above the almost insurmountable difficulties incident to the establishment of an institution for which the immediate necessity is not apparent.

We have believed, reverentially, in the power of beauty and in the moral value of a training that will guide the esthetic imagination. We have believed, as well, that our first duty is toward the rising generation. Individuals and associations will have their day and will pass out of existence, but that which is worth putting into the life about us must be a living force, of spiritual quality, that cannot die.

As to the public, I believe that our people recognize the genuine, wherever it may appear, and the artists, almost without exception, have been most appreciative and helpful in their attitude.

It has been fine to be a part of a great uplifting movement; fine to trust, to try, and to see right triumph; fine to help prove that standards and ideals serve as forces, against which that which is material cannot cope.

The experience, psychologically speaking, has been tremendously interesting. There is material for a book or for a problem play. Some day, one or both of these may be written.

As to the splendid creative group of statuary that has just been unveiled: When I first began to say that we could get a beautiful group for the rotunda of our museum, and that Mrs. Wendt certainly must have the commission, there were people who thought that something must be wrong with my head; but a few believed with me and rallied for the struggle. Even Mrs. Wendt had rather lost heart. She didn't think that the people out here would understand anything of this kind, this creative work. But I am of those who believe that the secret of all attainment is the setting of one's face in the right direction, then keeping straight on toward one's ideal until the realization comes. Then, too, this was a part of my suffrage work. I felt that this was an opportunity to furnish an illustration of living up to our principles; to see that something was done to show appreciation of the woman, here in our midst, who had the power to create a monumental and symbolic group. Mrs. Wendt was finally induced to make a model, and we had to get the Fine Arts League board interested.

This we succeeded in doing after a little matter of reorganization. Then we worked to get the enthusiastic support of the board of governors for the museum. Finally all worked together to interest the Board of Supervisors, and they agreed to pay three-fourths of the $10,000 commission, the Fine Arts League, of course, to give the commission, to pay $2500, and to take care of the situation.

Go to the museum and view this powerful piece of work. Remember that it does not belong to the Fine Arts League, and that the Board of Supervisors only hold it in trust for the people; that every man, woman and child in this community has had a part in whatever becomes the property of that great free museum. Then you will be able to judge for yourselves whether it has been worth while to make the effort necessary to get such a commission.

Pictures of Places.

C. P. Townsley's exhibition at the Friday Morning Club may be called one of pictures of places, though, to be sure, there are also some pictures of people, most of these being young women at ease in charming and cosy rooms.

But the picturesque places visited by the artist in his sketching [illegible] seem to be as numerous as they [illegible] varied, extending, as they do, from New York to France, [illegible] and Spain. He has recorded his impressions with happy [illegible] happy, because so many of them [illegible] impressions of bright [illegible] green grass and flickering [illegible] springtime. Only very rarely has he seen fit to tell us of how he [illegible] gray day.

Townsley's sunlight is not the [illegible] radiance of Southern California, [illegible] the paler light of the more [illegible] and northern part of the world. [illegible] shadows are also cool, cool and [illegible] His schemes of color, indeed, are always rather cold, though he [illegible] uses spots of vividly warm [illegible] a strikingly original and [illegible] way, especially in his interiors with figures—for instance, in the [illegible] study of a terra cotta elephant [illegible] a blue Japanese print on the wall behind it, and in the picture of a girl by a table, "Sunshine and Flowers," the girl being dressed in red, the flowers being pink.

There is charming intimacy about his pictures of girls in rooms whose walls almost always have a [illegible] of sunlight to relieve their quiet [illegible]ness. "Marguerite Reading" shows us a girl in a blue kimono against a blue-green wall; "The Practice Hour," a girl before a piano; "Fairy Tales," a mother reading to her little [illegible] whom she cuddles in her arms, both seen in a subdued light against a white curtain delicately painted.

The titles of his pictures of [illegible] are equally attractive, and many of the canvases are full of poetic sentiment. "Lac 'd'Amour, Bruges," the white swans seen on the banks of the lake in the silvery mists of early morning, the sky at the horizon faintly pinkish in tone; "Grant's Tomb, Riverside," "An Old World Village," "Church of Madonna del [illegible], Venice," "Chateau of Charles VII at Esplay," "Summer in the Valley of the Loire," "Canal at Bruges," "The Monastery Garden, Venice" and so on.

The few still-life studies Townsley shows are remarkably well done, a [illegible] of apples and pears on a [illegible] plate, balancing a green ginger [illegible] and a brass teapot, being particularly noteworthy for textures and [illegible]

These pictures by C. P. Townsley with western paintings by [illegible] Hovey Sharpe, will remain at the Friday Morning Club throughout the month of June.

Exhibition at the Normal School.

The six instructors in the art department of California State Normal School will hold an exhibition of their works next Friday and Saturday, the hours being from 10 to 5 on both days. The exhibitors are Nellie Huntington Gere, Anna P. Brooks, [illegible] M. Crawford, Bessie E. Hazen, [illegible] Frear Pinkney and Doris [illegible] The public is cordially invited to attend this exhibition, and to see what capable young women are in charge of the art instruction of the rising generation.

All these young women have been well trained for their work, and are excellent artists, not only in the sense that they understand the [illegible] ous methods of their craft, but in the finer sense that they see and [illegible] a truly artistic way. Moreover, and better still—all are enthusiastically interested in their work of [illegible]

Miss Brooks will show several types and water colors, all [illegible] in feeling. Miss Gere will have [illegible] types and charcoal water [illegible] that is, water-color washes [illegible] drawings in charcoal, [illegible] drawn and charmingly toned. [illegible] Hazen's water colors are [illegible] decorative. Miss Pinkney's [illegible] colors—there will be five or six of them, most of them studies [illegible] Balboa and East Newport—[illegible] Japanese prints in composition [illegible] color, and are therefore [illegible] decorative.

The California landscapes by [illegible] Crawford were recently exhibited [illegible] Pasadena, on which occasion they received comment in this column. [illegible] will show four of these. [illegible] direct and vigorous, sincere [illegible] nature. The landscapes [illegible] Miss Rosenthal, in oil, are [illegible] free in handling, very [illegible] She will show sand dunes and [illegible] mores, with a number of [illegible] panels in water color, all [illegible] effective.

LAURA JEAN LIBBEY TALKS HEART TOPICS.

Following Him to War—The Girl's Question.

"Near the campfire's flickering light,
In my blanket bed I lie,
Gazing through the shades of night
At the twinkling stars on high;
Midst those stars a face I see—
The sweetheart — whom I bade good-by
And her voice comes back to me."

In today's mail I find a very pathetic little letter. It is so stained with tears I can scarcely make it out. The girl writes: "I am the sweetheart of a young man who belongs to the navy. His ship sailed yesterday for Mexico. My heart nearly broke when the moment came to say good-by. It seemed as though I could never unclasp my arms from his neck and let him go! I am an orphan. He is all I have in the world. We were to have been married this June. If anything should happen to him, it would mean the death of both of us. A wonderful idea has come to me—like an inspiration—could I not follow him to the war as a Red Cross nurse? I am 19; know nothing of the duties required, but I would face anything, only to be near him, if he needed me. Please advise quickly.

"A HERO'S SWEETHEART."

This letter and a score or more of almost the same import disclose the bravery of our young girls. Women have always been ready to face any danger for the men they loved.

They are no longer the clinging vines of song and of story, but in the present crisis their plea to follow their lovers into the thick of battle is denied. Although this decree nearly breaks loyal hearts, yet it is wisest and best. Word comes from an official source that only graduated and experienced nurses will be accepted!

The girl who would scream or faint at the sight of bloodshed would be a detriment to the soldiers, instead of an aid. Very young girls have a romantic imagination as to the requirements of the nurse. Their idea may be to smooth his pillow, read poetry to him, or write his letters.

She is sure they would allow her to be near her lover. In war their paths might lie far apart. The trained nurses, the only women who are accepted, while all heart and whose touch reveals a woman's sympathy, must have nerves of steel.

In trying moments of conflict and danger there is no time for romance or to choose which soldier should be ministered to. The husband and the father are as dear to some one woman's heart as is her handsome young lover to her.

She cannot choose her field for alleviating suffering. The inexperienced girl is best off at home. She can help with her prayers, every soldier needs them. Books and papers would be a godsend to the wounded who are able to read them.

She can write encouraging and inspiring letters that would do her sailor lover a world of good; cheer his heart, strengthen his arm. One tender letter from the woman he loves is worth its weight in gold to the soldier or the sailor far away, fighting for his country's honor. When all is over he will hasten back to her with a happy heart, once more to renew their vows of love. For the girls who are left behind—"Wedding bells the sequel tells."

MISS LIBBEY'S REPLIES TO YOUR LETTERS.

Correct name and address must be given to insure attention.

Found His Mistake in Marrying.

Dear Miss Libbey: Having heard of the young man who found out his mistake in marrying, please have my assurance that he is not the first one to say so, and that probably his wife made the same mistake, but did not have brains sufficient to put it in the paper so he could read it.

MRS. C.

The whys and wherefores of such difficulties are not determined easily. There are always two sides to these stories, each supposes he or she is in the right.

Sister Leaves, He Goes Home.

Dear Miss Libbey: I am a young girl of 18, going with a nice young fellow for a year and a half. Evenings he calls to see me. As soon as my sister leaves the room to retire, why, he goes home.

Sabbath evenings when we go to church he will not go in with me, but waits till I come out. Please answer your advice in the paper.

B. E.

As far as I am informed, the young man is putting his best foot forward and winning the respect of all who are near and dear to you in your home. His good conduct will count when you come to decide concerning his future and yours.

Now They Speak and Pass On.

Dear Miss Libbey: I come to you for advice. I am 21, deeply in love with a young man, the same age as one I kept regular company with two years, till August. Seeing we were devoted to each other, he told me his salary wasn't large enough to keep us if we wed, deciding we only be friends in the future. I love him very much. We meet occasionally, speak and pass on. I had other company but do not enjoy myself—my old friend is always first. I love him best of all. What can I do to gain his love and get him back?

BROKEN HEART.

You may be worrying unnecessarily, and not be as far apart as you imagine. At most any time he may become lonesome and, seeing you alone, return to you of his own accord. It is best not to air one's grievances, for you may be reunited.

Facts, Features and Fancies.

BY OLIVE GRAY.

THE GOOD HOUSEKEEPER'S HINT: Bag-shaped covers made from outing flannel are best for your broom, as they are easily washed. Before sweeping, wring these covers out of warm water and they will catch all dust and cleanse your floors to better advantage than if you swept in the ordinary way or used tea leaves, cornmeal or sawdust.

Not long since, I met a most interesting character, a man who does much for the betterment of humanity and who avows that the only way to be free is to be absolute master over one's tastes. "I never allow any habit to take possession of me," said he. "If I find that I am getting in the habit of eating three meals a day, I at once stop eating three meals a day."

Perhaps I looked askance, for he continued: "We eat altogether too much, anyhow. We would all be better if we partook of but a single meal daily. I usually eat late in the day," he said, "and every now and then I have an understanding with myself and go without eating for a week or more. This is the best possible remedy for any sort of physical ill and an excellent preventive of such ills."

"But," I asked, "do you not grow weak? Are you not obliged to forego work?" "Not at all," he replied. "I look upon one's appetite as resembling a family of children. If children are well trained they obey without question, and the same is true regarding one's appetite. That household would be chaotic in which each child persevered in following his own will. Now I long since had it understood that eating, or the habit of eating, should not run me. I refuse to become a slave to 'meal time.' If I take a notion to forget the subject of food, I propose to do so without dictation from hunger."

Do you know, I believe the man was right; for I have often gone beyond "eating time," when deeply interested, and so have we all, I'll venture, and I do not doubt that we could all emancipate ourselves even from the "meal-time" habit—at least to a large extent—if we so determined. I hear a protest from the stout lady who "just cannot diet to reduce;" but, think it over, my friend, and say whether our friend who considers his habits like a family of well-trained children is not, after all, quite right. If your brain is at the head of your bodily family, it should be obeyed, as children should obey the head of the household. Or, as they used to do, before the extreme notions of "children's rights" upset the old-fashioned ideas of discipline. I'm for the old way, in that regard, aren't you?

What Changed Evelyn.

Not long since I met Evelyn and long after I had ceased to speak with her I was haunted with the wondering thought as to wherein she was changed. I felt confident that she had grown much better looking and yet—wherein did the difference lie? I puzzled and puzzled, and not until I again met her and studied her face until almost ashamed, did I explain to myself what it was which had so improved her in appearance. It was that front tooth! I recalled that it had been crooked and elongated—quite disfiguring, in fact, but now it was straight, even, really beautiful. How had the transformation been accomplished. I did not mean to be rude, but perhaps my thoughts translated themselves into my looks, for my ears began to tingle as I realized that Evelyn was saying: "I know you are wondering about my teeth. Do you like them better?" I mumbled, I am sure, but she continued serenely, "I found a dentist who makes a specialty of what he calls 'beauty culture of the teeth' and it was he who set my poor teeth right." I thought that dentist's characterization of his work most excellent, as was the work itself; and certainly Evelyn has occasion to congratulate herself upon the fact that such a dental specialist exists. He should, I think, have an extensive patronage.

A Scarf Lingerie.

One of the girls has made herself (as an article to place in her new "Hope Chest,") a scarf lingerie robe.

It is made from a long scarf of crepe in a lovely shade of rose, and she has doubled the scarf in some quaint and intelligent way, has rounded out an under-arm seam and has thus formed a pretty shoulder sacque with lone, panel ends. Simplicity itself is embodied in this bit of dainty garmentry.

Black and Tan.

"Black and tan" is no longer applied exclusively to "rat dogs." Not by any means, for it is the latest mode in shoes for men. Shoes with vamps of black leather and uppers of tan, or the reverse—this is a striking fashion, recently introduced. Really, these combination shoes do not look as "loud" as they sound; but since they are modest in cut, they are, as a matter of fact, quite elegant, even though a bit extreme.

From Worm to Fabric.

"Made in Los Angeles" is the magic word which endears to us many a production and yet few know that we have here a silk-making plant, where the latest weaves in silk are produced. It is, I am told, a most interesting trip to visit the "wormery" and to watch the process of silk making from its very incipiency to the finished product. In the store which handles this goods exclusively, I saw as many shades and as many qualities of silk as one can find in any similar shop, and I was told some silk facts which were most interesting. Even the taffetas of extraordinary width, which the present styles demand, are to be found among the products of this factory. You know taffetas are said to be the incoming mode for underwear, and in such garments quality will count, even more than it does in garments for outside wear. Then it will behoove us to examine well the weave and to make sure that the silk is new, since silk is apt to deteriorate if kept for long.

A Marathon Race of Sales.

Is not that a clever way of carrying on a great annual sale—making of it a Marathon Race?

I'll warrant there will be a Marathan Race among those who seek bargains, too—for it is well known that the Department Managers' Sale brings forth fine bargains and with the additional interest furnished under this novel plan, purchasers will, I am sure, fairly "sprint" to that big store to avail themselves of opportunity.

Securely Enthroned.

More than ever securely enthroned in the hearts of the girls who are fond of sports and of the great out-of-doors in all its varying phases, is the middy blouse. The season has brought forth many novelties [illegible] for this useful and becoming [illegible] ment. A modification of the [illegible] is the middy with a band [illegible] along the lower edge, and having a convenient pocket inset at one [illegible] of the front. This wee pocket is [illegible] en monogrammed and a present [illegible] is to have hieroglyphs from the Chinese, as an embellishment—[illegible] blems supposed to express [illegible] timent.

Photo Allure.

Two windows which are [illegible] attention from all who pass [illegible] Broadway, are those in which a [illegible] ing jewelry house have placed [illegible] graphic portraits of many [illegible] photo-players of Southern California. Never before has such a collection been exhibited, and the interest [illegible] in photo-players and their [illegible] demonstrated by the immense crowds which gather to dote upon the familiar faces, as shown in so [illegible] a manner, in those broad windows. "I've seen her!" "Don't you remember, when we saw him in [illegible] that!" "Say! But that's a fine likeness of so-and-so!" are [illegible] heard constantly, before those windows. The exhibition will remain in the windows during the coming [illegible].

Coral and lapis buttons [illegible] are charming, especially [illegible] with pearls.

Most of the new fashions are easy for home dressmakers [illegible] out, because fit seems to be the last thing thought about.

The same lack of ceremony marks intercourse with all the leading Swedish politicians. The usual way of making an appointment is by ringing them up on the telephone—everybody in Sweden, of course, has one or two telephones—and the best time to ring up is at 9:30 a.m., when apparently you catch them between breakfast and departure for business.

In conversation they are singularly free from humbug and mystification; and if they don't want you to report something they just ask you to cut it out. The parliamentary manners are equally simple and unaffected. In the Riksdag members behave just like the ordinary rational beings.

Dr. Sven Hedin, the famous explorer, declares:

"It is easy to imagine how Sweden might be dragged into a war between two such powers as Germany and Russia. Recent events have shown what slight consideration the weak receive when they stand in the way of the strong, and how a country is only safe if it knows how to look after itself."

Bribes Wives With Corsets.

A few days ago M. Raymond Bisson, an independent candidate at the forthcoming parliamentary elections at Versailles, was arrested following complaints by a large manufacturer of corsets in Paris. For over a year the business man had been astonished at the way in which whole stocks of corsets had disappeared from his warehouse at regular intervals, and at the fact that supplies of his merchandise sent in response to provincial orders arrived at their destinations considerably impaired as to quantity.

Investigation by the police followed and in consequence Bisson, who was a sort of head overseer at the factory, has found himself in gaol. M. Bisson, so the story goes, has been trying to do better still—to carry on a political propaganda that should be also financially profitable.

It seems that for a long while past M. Bisson and allies of his have been vending beautiful new corsets worth nearly $5 to members of the fair sex for 20 cents. As a political measure it would undoubtedly have been a most profitable idea, but the business became such a habit with M. Bisson that he extended his operations outside his own constituency-to-be.

Bow Window Effects for Men.

In France it is no disgrace for a man to be fat—reasonably fat, that is. Quite the contrary. In France you very seldom talk of a man being fat—"gros." You merely say he is "tres tres fort"—a big fellow—which sounds much nicer. So the new "mode for men" must have originated over here. A French fashion paper says that the facade of every well-dressed man in the coming season will have a bow window effect.

This convex effect is to be obtained thus. The jacket will have but one button, which will be placed very high. The waistcoat will be exceedingly short "so as to display almost in its entirety the abdomen, which will be covered by the trousers alone." At the waist the trousers will be gathered into two transversal pleats which will serve to accentuate the abdominal development. A good many people who will not require these "transversal pleats" to be in the height, or, in this case, the width, of the fashion.

The Kaiser has refused an order worth $20,000 which is leading merchants of Breslau placed with his factory at Cadinen for pottery to decorate a new business establishment.

Attached to the order was the condition that the Kaiser should visit the Breslau shop after the Cadinen decorations were installed.

All orders for the Cadinen factory are inspected by the Kaiser, and he at once ordered this one to be returned with the message that his factory never accepted conditional orders, and especially when the conditions were of such an outrageous character.

At Cupar Neil Smith and Alexander Miller, general dealers, of no fixed residence, were sent to prison for having maliciously broken a large number of bottles of perfume, medicine, and drugs, in Bailie Robertson's chemist's shop in Bonnygate. Smith, on being refused a penny from Bailie Robertson, picked up a lot of bottles containing perfume and medicine and started flinging them about. He practically wrecked the shop. Miller incited Smith, telling him to make a good job of it when he was at it.

In Berwickshire Sheriff Court at Duns, William Lugton, dairyman, Swinton, was fined £3 for selling milk which contained 15 per cent. of added water. He could not buy milk to keep his customers going.

MARCH OR DIE, CRIES GENERAL.

France's Foreign Legion Is Wonder of Europe.

Body Is Just as Romantic as in the Days of Mexico.

Amazing Military Force Is Haven for Wastrels.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALGIERS, May 10.—One of the most interesting and amazing military forces in the world is the Foreign Legion, the proud possession of France, the boast of the earth's wastrels, and the theme of innumerable needy novelists and playwrights. And times does not dim its luster or its value. Today it is just as amazing and as romantic as it was in the balmy times in Mexico.

It was Mahomet's birthday when the writer visited it, and Sidi-bel-Abbes (the headquarters in Algeria of France's famous Foreign Legion) wore festival clothing. One's first impression of the town had to do with its weather. There was no facing the wind's quarter. Under a cloudless sky the dust whirled in through the Tlemcen gateway, between the huge ochre barracks of the Legion and the Spahis, and whirled out into the country by the Mascara gate in blinding clouds. The Oran road was easier, once the persistent young Arab bootblacks were left behind.

An American bar and skating rink by this gate were a sign of Algeria's moving times. So were the garages of this Oran road and the football-playing youngsters on the space before the great mosque here. Arab boys, French boys, and leather-lunged little nigger boys from the northern suburb were all earnestly at it together. The "canaletti" on this side of the town gushed greenish waters through the gardens, and was an older indication of France's wise way with Algeria. There is no desert hereabouts now, as when the Legion first came to Sidi-bel-Abbes, and the men have to go far for foes to kill instead of finding them slinking at the most a stone's throw from the barracks.

In an hour or so the writer worked 'round to the poplars of the Tlemcen road, and got that raging wind from Morocco astern of me. The violets and roses of the gardens passed on the way were powdered thick with the dust, but their perfume came through it. And how the palm trees and poplars did shake their heads! The public gardens were a haven for a few minutes. Then through the gateway and to the flag-draped entrance of the Legion's spacious courtyard.

A parade was in progress. To the eye these men in blue and red were like any other soldiers in blue and red. Behind them were the five tiers of windows of their great dormitories, in which the legionary with an indelible past dreams it over again, and wakes glad to find himself where he is. The Legion has a malady of its own, known as the "Cafard," a sort of frenzied climax to the strain of life, physical and mental. Midsummer is its worst season. The men may be lying down for the siesta when suddenly one of them springs to his feet and attacks his comrades. If his bayonet is handy he uses it.

He may or he may not kill a man or two before he is himself half-killed, mercilessly trussed and bundled into the lockup in a corner of the courtyard. There left, he has his chance of death by suffocation before he is haled out for court-martial and a sentence which may end him in a twelve-month. "The Cafard" sometimes takes a communistic turn. The legionaries of half a company "put their heads together," planning some act of desperation. One time it will be mutiny en masse, at another time desertion in a body. This madness is well known wherever a company of legionaries is stationed.

"Ta-ra-ra!" sounded the bugles and the windowed walls of the barrack threw back the echo bitterly. In the bright spring sunshine and the tonic air, the men all looked fit. The colonel on his horse seemed content with their appearance. This is all France requires of them—to be as fit as fiddles. And then they began to march in the spacious barrack yard. "March or die!" was the order thundered at them by their favorite general, De Negrier, years ago in Madagascar, and the march has been their supreme accomplishment ever since. Long forced marches, however, with a solid 100-pound weight of kit and arms, not mere graceful combined movements on parade.

In the dead of night Sidi-bel-Abbes hears them tramping off on their desperate training trips of 300 or 400 miles, in continuous daily stages of twenty-four miles, thus burdened with but five minutes' halt every six miles. They return to Sidi-bel-Abbes with blistered necks and shoulder blades, inflamed eyes, orchestral coughs, sores on their thighs, limping, "bent well-nigh double, sunk together."

The man who faints or falls has some help given him when no enemy is in the field. A pole is pushed through the sides of a baggage cart at about arms' height, and the legionary is roped to it by the shoulders. "The pole keeps him in a standing position—the cart rolls on. He either has to march or he is dragged along."

Death comes kindly and soon to the laggard who cannot endure much of this mere drill work. But in campaigns the rule of "march or die" is enforced. The weakling is literally left to die. His rifle is taken from him, as being something in that stage of his career more useful to France than his own spent body, and the beasts of the desert, two-legged and four-legged, soon make a skeleton of him.

It is an accepted system. A year or two ago the Socialists in the French Chamber tried to make a public grievance of the death of a legionary named Weisrock, who was thus abandoned on the Morocco frontier. The Minister of War's retort was that the corporal who deprived Weisrock of his rifle did no more than his duty and could not be reproached; and the inquiry was voted down.

De Negrier said of them: "Some soldiers can fight; the legionary can die." Their record shows how well and thoroughly they can die in action. In the Crimea, in Mexico in 1863, and in Spain, three years later, they fell by the thousand. Of 4000 legionaries sent by Napoleon III to aid Queen Cristina in 1866 against the Carlists only 500 returned to Algeria. For them there is no roll of honor. Well enough, if they may echo the last words of the legionary Lieut. Selchemhausen, whose photograph is in this Sidi-bel-Abbes temple: "I do not fear death, for death is my lot. I fear to die in the memory of my brave comrades of the Foreign Legion."

The parade ended. The palms of the Place de la Republique and the stirring mixture of oriental and western humanity thronged the streets. Going with the wind, the writer was soon through the Mascara gate among the Spaniards of that quarter. A turn to the left, and the battalions of dusted cypresses of the Sidi-bel-Abbes Cemetery were there. And then the spell of the foreign legion was cast once more.

It is a French cemetery like any other for its sumptuous little mortuary chapels of marble and stained glass and the beaded wreaths of its graves; but in one respect it is unique. Here rest the host of legionaries who have found Sidi-bel-Abbes and the march too much for them.

A large patch of it is devoted to them. Row after row of uniform little black wooden crosses inscribed "Here lies"—the name "Soldier of the First Legion," and the age. A white tear mark is daubed over the device, two more tears are underneath, and a "p-p-l" (priez pour lui) ends it. To each cross once upon a time was a wreath of beads. "A notre camarade," but time and exposure have crumbled most of them, wiped out names and tears, broken some of the crosses and laid others flat. Any name may serve in the ranks of the legion, and it is only when a private is promoted that he has to reveal his real name.

It is significant that most of the names in the cemetery are German. But the ages of the dead are still more significant. Very few are over 30, and most have gone under in the early twenties. A Spanish grave digger joined me and passed his opinion about them. "All with wrong heads," he commented calmly as he puffed a cigarette in defiance of rules. "Caramba! Yes, they are very cheap soldiers for France!" It was something to learn that annually on All Saints' Day the crosses are straightened.

. . . .

The only other discovery of note in the town was a translation of Norman Angell's exemplary book, "The Great Illusion," in one of its shops. This seemed rather a sardonic end in Sidi-bel-Abbes.

A Faithful Organist.

[Washington Post:] Never to have been late for a service for twenty-five years is the proud record of Prof. J. E. Vernham, the organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's Knightsbridge. "Not only have I never been late," he said recently, "but I have only once been absent through illness since the third week in April, 1879, when I took up my duties here. During that time I have played, I suppose, at 7000 services, including more than 2000 fashionable weddings, which I think is a record."

MEN AND THINGS OVER THE SEA

British Taxation.

Taxes in England are heavy and evidently growing more heavy. The income tax does not ignore all incomes below $3000 or $4000 a year, as ours does. It goes down to incomes of $850 a year. It is not paid by the rich and prosperous alone, but by everybody down to the wage-worker whose earnings are $70 a month or less. It gathers in practically all the professional men and all except the petty traders. To meet the "budget" for the coming year Chancellor Lloyd George proposes an increase of the inheritance taxes under which estates will be taxed up to 20 per cent. and a "revision" of the income taxes under which the maximum will be nearly 13 per cent. He also presented a plan for the higher taxation of "site values" of land as distinguished from "improvement values." This is, of course, on the familiar principles of the "single tax."

Estimating the revenue for the coming year at $1,003,275,000, he placed the necessary expenditure at $1,029,925,000, leaving a deficit of $26,650,000. Nor is this deficit all that the British taxpayer has to face. Mr. Lloyd George further declared that to save various municipalities from bankruptcy there must be "a readjustment in the relations of national and local taxation," which would require the raising of nearly $23,000,000 more.

The Young Czarevitch.

[Philadelphia Telegraph:] Although it is asserted that the Czarevitch, owing to the fact that he is a physical wreck, never will reach manhood's estate, his training for kingship is being systematically proceeded with. Passionately attached to his son the Czar spends every spare moment in his company. The deep love which the Czar and Czarevitch bear toward one another is an idyllic phase of the Romanoff family. The father takes his son with him on his walks and excursions, to military exercises and reviews, and, when he can spare the time, spends three or four hours a day with him in healthy outdoor work, making sand or snow castles, digging trenches, etc.

During the Czarevitch's illness the Emperor passed through a severe mental crisis, which might have taken a tragic turn if the boy had not recovered. The Empress likewise spends her leisure hours in preparing the Czarevitch for his great future. He has three instructors, a teacher of religion, of Russian and of French. These accompany the imperial family everywhere. The Empress herself teaches her son English. Special attention is paid to physical exercise, and for this branch of her son's education the Czar makes himself personally responsible. Two doctors are in constant attendance on the boy.

For his age the Czarevitch is singularly alert and intelligent. Religious study for him has a peculiar fascination, which is counterbalanced by a whole-hearted love of military exercise. He is already familiar with the elements of generalship, and although in his lessons he has no companions, he is permitted a squad of youngsters of about his own age and sons of soldiers with whom to join in his military instructions.

MILLIONAIRES PAY HEAVY TAX.

Some in England Assessed Third of Their Income.

Naturalization Bill Embarrasses the Government.

Rich Seek Bargains from Rag and Bone Men.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, May 16.—Under the new scheme of taxation introduced by David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in his budget for 1914-15, a man having an income from a capital of $5,000,000 will have to pay one-third of his income in taxes.

In the first place he has to pay 28 cents on every $5 in income tax, then he has to pay a similar amount in supertax, and when he dies one dollar on every five of what is left has to be paid for death and estate duties. The total is figured at just under one-third of the income.

This calculation has been made by Sir William Lever, one of the millionaires who will have to pay, but who does not object.

"I like it," he said. "In my view the ideal system of taxation, both local and imperial, is through the income tax, the supertax, death duties, land tax, site value tax, and taxation upon luxuries, such as alcohol, tobacco, etc. Everything else free."

While Lloyd George has followed his predecessors in his system of taxation, except that he has increased the rate of income and supertax and death duties, so that the wealthy have to pay the lion's share, he has gone to other countries for some of his ideas. His taxation of site values is based on the law now in vogue in British Columbia, while he has gone to the American income tax law for the idea of making money accruing to British subjects from investments abroad pay its share of taxation.

In recent years British capitalists have made immense investments in foreign countries. When the income from these investments was brought home to be spent, the government, under the old law, levied income tax on it; that is, when the government could discover it. But when the income was reinvested abroad, the old law did not touch it. Now Lloyd George says all income of British subjects resident in the United Kingdom must contribute to the imperial revenue. These foreign investments are estimated at over a billion and a half dollars, and from this the chancellor hopes to secure $1,250,000 this year, and double that amount next year. The total increase of revenue from income tax and death duties this year will amount to something like $44,000,000.

In spite of these increases, Sir George Parish, editor of the Statist, says the burden of taxation is much smaller than it has been in modern history. In 1880, when the expenditure came to $415,000,000, it was raised out of a national income of $5,000,000,000. Now the national income reaches the enormous total of $12,000,000,000, so it can easily stand the increased expenditure. Sir George argues that England can bear still greater increases in her budget.

"There are good grounds," he says, "for believing that the income and wealth of this country will again double in another thirty years. When it reaches $25,000,000,000, and I have no doubt that it will within a generation, a budget of $2,500,000,000 will be borne more easily than the burden of a million dollars in 1914."

NATURALIZATION BILL.

The imperial government has found itself in a rather embarrassing position in connection with the naturalization bill. Under an agreement made at the last Colonial conference, the naturalization laws in the various parts of the empire were to be so changed that a man naturalized in one of the Dominions should be recognized as a British subject either in the United Kingdom or the other Dominions. It was agreed that uniform laws on this point should be passed, but the Canadians, Australians and New Zealanders insisted that a clause should be inserted which would enable them to exclude Asiatics or any undesirables, even though they had taken out naturalization papers in some other part of the empire. In settlement of this point it was finally agreed that an alien must have, as a consideration of naturalization, "an adequate knowledge of the English language."

The Canadian and Australian Parliaments have passed the bill with this clause, and the measure had also passed the House of Lords and was awaiting consideration in the House of Commons, when the Jewish organizations in London brought up a protest that the clause making "an adequate knowledge of the English language" necessary would operate to the prejudice of large bodies of desirable Jews. Their request that this provision be left out was heeded by the Imperial Parliament, and the whole question of who should be admitted or refused was left to the Home Office authorities. The clause stands, however, in the Canadian and Australian legislation, so the original agreement for uniform laws appears for the time being, at least, to be defeated.

Collectors and bargain-hunters from the aristocratic quarters of the West End have found a new spice of adventure. On a Friday, which is the day the rag-and-bone men of the metropolis display their wares for sale in the old Caledonian cattle market, near Pentonville Prison, in one of the dirtiest slums of the city, wealthy collectors flock there to profit by the wonderful bargains offered.

It is known that many of the articles on sale have been stolen by the rag-and-bone men, but the fact gives all the more impetus to the trade. The haggling between the ragged merchants and their wealthy customers is worthy of an Oriental market. Both men and women are playing the new game with the greatest zest.

The advice which the cotton spinners of England have been giving American cotton planters to improve their methods of packing is beginning to bear fruit. One of the biggest American companies is now sending its cotton to England in neatly-packed bales, thus escaping the great wastage that in years past has resulted from bad packing. Sir Charles Macara, president of the English Federation of English Cotton Spinners, pleased at the progress that the movement for better packing is making, still finds it not so rapid as he would like. "Thousands of pounds," he said, "will be saved every year by good packing, which I trust will ere long be the rule all over the cotton-growing districts of America."

It is estimated that $25,000,000 has been lost by bad packing, the American packers being entirely responsible. The Indian, Egyptian and Colonial packers all send their cotton in well-secured bales, from which there is no leakage.

INCREASED COST OF AEROPLANES.

Price Constantly Soaring Across the Water.

Expense of the Engine Is the Principal Item.

Governments of Europe at the Dealers' Mercy.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, May 10.—Many of the most prominent sportsmen in England today are grumbling at the cost of flying. They contend that no attempt is being made by aeroplane manufacturers to appeal to other purchasers than government and the wealthy, and yet, if the art is to make genuine progress—if every large city is to have its own aerodrome—and if air flight will ever take its share in transportation, the prices of aeroplanes must be substantially reduced.

"I do not believe that there is any ring or combine among aeroplane manufacturers at present," said a prominent official at the British War Office to me yesterday afternoon, "but of course the British government recognizes that such a thing can quickly come into existence. Complaint has been already made to us that the best aeroplane manufacturers hold the governments of Europe in the hollow of their hands and can charge practically what sums they like, so keen is the demand among the fighting forces of the world. But what can we do?

"We dare not strangle this new industry at its birth. We can only wait and watch developments, and if we find the public are being squeezed we shall put our contracts into newly-created concerns that cater for the nations as a whole and not only for armies and millionaires. The youth of the country unquestionably is eager to go aloft, and the authorities recognize that it would be suicidal to quench the spirit of daring which may prove of incalculable service to the empire when danger threatens these islands."

PROJECTS AFOOT.

Various members of Parliament have taken this question in hand, and there are already interesting projects afoot to start a great national and patriotic flying fund with a subscription of $5,000,000, to provide aeroplanes and tuition all over Britain for a huge number of civilian pilots. At the last aero exhibition in London the cheapest machine was a $2775 hydroplane and there was scarcely another machine near it in price. Yet two or three years ago a few low-powered aeroplanes were on the market at prices ranging from $1250 to $2500. What does it mean?

The question was put to a leading manufacturer and he made this excuse. "It is," he said, "possible to buy cheap machines today, but there is no steady demand for them, so we do not build them. We could hire out a much better low-priced machine today than we did three years ago, but we are not asked to do so. We are not to blame."

It is clear, however, that with the enormous progress in aeroplane design during the past three years there has been a distinct increase in the price of the machine. The reason is simple. It is the steady increase in the power of the engine employed. In the London Aero Show of 1910 the most powerful aeroplane was one of fifty horse power. Most of the machines were driven by motors of twenty-five to thirty horse power. There was an Avro biplane of twenty horse power. In the Aero Show this year the lowest-powered machine was one of fifty horse power. There were several of seventy and eighty horse power, and two with 200-horse-power engines. And it is the engine that has most to do with the cost of an aeroplane.

It is possible to fly with very little power. The Wright machine of the early days was driven by a twenty-six-horse-power motor, and it flew extremely well. Wilbur Wright claimed that he could fly with fifteen or sixteen horse power. As a matter of fact, A. V. Roe has flown with twelve horse power. M. Bleriot crossed the channel in 1909 with a very uncertain twenty-five-horse-power motor.

HIGHER POWER USED.

"Higher power is used today," the manufacturer contends, "because it is impossible to secure the superior speed and other flying qualities—the improved and immeasurably safer construction and the relatively comfortable quarters for pilot and passenger—without it. There is some prospect now that single-engine machines of various 'touring' types will soon become standardized and, gradually, cheaper, at the same time improving in quality. There was a time—it seems only yesterday—when the really comfortable automobile cost double as much as the purchaser has to pay for it today. It is not likely, however, that the cheapening process will be so rapid in flying machines, for the demand will not be big for many years to come.

"An excellent seventy-horse-power aeroplane, provided with seats for two, can be bought for about $4000—for less if an engine that does not happen to be enjoying a big vogue be used. This is the lowest price to be considered, and the intending private aviator will be able to choose between that figure and, say, the $10,000, which he will have to pay for a high-powered seaplane, with everything on the most expensive scale."

It is significant that few of the twenty-six aeroplanes at the last London exhibition were marked in plain or any other figures; and some of them are not even priced in the trade catalogues.

OUTSIDE COSTS.

Is it because the cost of running them is beyond the ordinary man's purse? After all, the private owner in England must rent a shed—at the most $500 per annum. His mechanic will cost not more than $750 a year. He must insure against fire, and also against third-party risks, both very small items. As to repairs, they depend entirely upon the man. If he is able to do small repairs himself, and takes a real interest in his machine, he will find it inexpensive and enjoyable to do some of the work himself. A fair parallel exists in auto owning; one man's car costs $250 a year, another $2500. What are known as "running costs," fuels, tires, etc., are less in the case of the aeroplane than in that of the high-power automobile, for with the former there is no expensive tire wear and tear. It may therefore be taken that it need not cost more than $2500 a year to run an aeroplane, this figure being based on the assumption of a total air distance of 6000 or 7000 miles.

Motoring at Sixty Miles an Hour.

At an inquiry held at Aberdeen into the circumstances attending the death of James Smith, chauffeur, Banchory, who was killed in a motor-car accident which occurred near Ballater, it was stated by one witness that in his opinion the car was going at sixty miles an hour when the accident happened.

Soldiers Steal Toffee.

Donald Ross and John Boag, privates in the First Cameron Highlanders, Stobs Camp, pleaded guilty at Hawick to having, from a shop in Allars Bank, stolen a box of toffee. Boag asked for a pennyworth of sweets, and when he was being supplied Rose lifted a four-pound tin of toffee. They were put under the First Offenders' Act, to come up for sentence in six months, if called upon.

Girl Cyclist Shot.

While Euphemia Merry, aged 15, daughter of Charles Merry, retired veterinary surgeon, Irvine, was cycling on the road, she was struck on the head by a flying missile. A wound was caused by a small bullet which had entered her forehead and imbedded itself above the right eye. It is said that the shot came from a rook rifle with which a lad was practicing in his father's garden.

Tying a Pail to Pony's Tail.

At Dumbarton a charge of cruelty to a pony was made against Henry Braid, farmer, Tambowie, it being alleged that he terrified a pony, the property of John Wallace, butcher, by fixing a zinc pail to its tail and causing it to run off a distance of four miles along the road. Accused pleaded guilty, explaining that he only meant to scare off the pony, which was always straying on to the farm. A penalty of £3 was imposed.

No Applicants at £250.

At a meeting of Wigtownshire Secondary Education Committee, Dr. Shaw said that in connection with the appointment of a school medical officer for the county they had advertised but had only one applicant, and he had applied for the combined appointments of school and tuberculosis officer. They had been told that they would not get a man at £250 per annum. It was decided to advertise again for a school officer at a salary of £300 per annum.

Thirty-nine Times a Pauper.

At Glasgow Mary McGuire was sent to prison for thirty days for returning to Scotland after having been removed to the union in Strabace, county Tyrone, and applying for relief to the parish of Glasgow. The accused was 53 years of age and a hawker. She first became chargeable in 1884, and since then she had been no fewer than thirty-nine times chargeable as a pauper in Scotland. Though repeatedly sent back to Ireland and told she would be prosecuted if she returned to Scotland, she contrived to come back.

IN IRELAND.

Gold Seal in a Cow.

A Carrickfergus butcher found in the stomach of a cow, which he had killed, a gold seal with a bloodstone bearing the initials, "F. G. M."

Terra Nova Hero Married.

P. Keohane, a hero of the Terra Nova, of Antarctic fame, was married at Courtmacsherry, county, Cork, to Miss Ivy O'Driscoll, daughter of the officer in charge of the local coastguard station.

Death at the Well.

The body of Denis Murphy, a well-known and popular local trader and farmer of Macroom, was found in the castle demesne. Mr. Murphy had been confined to bed for two days, but insisted on getting up and going into the castle grounds for a drink at a much-frequented spring well. The gate-keeper found him stretched dead on the side of a hill, death being due to heart failure

Afraid to Tell.

A verdict of "accidental drowning" was returned at Waterford in the case of Michael Wallace, a young quay laborer, who was drowned in the Suir and whose body was not recovered till some time afterwards. One witness, a fellow-worker, admitted it was five days later before he told the deceased's sister of the drowning, but said he got such a fright he could not break the news. Two other laborers stated they were also in such a fright that they did not report the matter, one saying he could not break the news to a woman. All agreed that deceased was sober, and said there had been no quarrel, and no compact between them not to tell anybody.

Gardener Twice Shot.

While Joseph Conroy, a gardener, employed by Wilson Lynch of Renmoore House, county Galway, was crossing a stile, three revolver shots were fired at him, one of which lodged in his chest and another went through his arm. He was taken to a hospital. A man named John Lettle was arrested.

Dublin Housing Problem.

The Dublin Corporation had under consideration on Monday two big schemes to provide better dwellings in the city, the estimated expenditure being more than £80,000. The need of open spaces and plenty of room for children to play were urged, and the reports in favor of the schemes were adopted.

Postman's Tragic End.

The body of W. Reardon, a Cork postman, was picked up in the River Lee. He was 45 years of age, thirty of which he served in the postoffice. He had been suspended from duty on account of a missing registered letter. Later the missing letter was handed in to the postoffice, having been picked up in the street.

Bachelor's Miserly Habits.

Thomas Murray, aged 68, was found dead in bed at Ballyglass, near Lanesborough. He was a bachelor, and lived alone. It was stated at the inquest that he was of miserly habits, although in good circumstances. The man being missed, Joseph Murray, a relative, forced the door. Dr. Ormsby stated that death was due to natural causes.

Pearls in a River.

Wilson Lindsay of Ardstraw, recently found a pearl in the River Derg, and has sold it for £20. Numerous pearls have previously been found in the river, the prices realized usually running from 2s. 6d. to £3, but it is about fifteen years since one of equal value to Mr. Lindsay's was discovered. The river runs from Lough Derg, on an island in which St. Patrick's Purgatory is situated.

Fatal Swing for Child.

Ellen O'Neill, the infant daughter of Michael O'Neill, Mullahinch, Aghadowey, was drowned under singular circumstances in a mill lead there. At the inquest Elizabeth Hughes, 13, who was left to care for the child, stated that the latter being restless, she took her out along the side of the mill lead. While swinging the child to please it, the infant fell out of her shawl into the water, and all efforts at rescue failed.

Pig Running.

At Clonmel Sessions a number of pig owners from Killenaule, Littleton, Ballinure, and Fethard districts were prosecuted for causing pigs to be sent from a scheduled area to Clonmel market. Nine cartloads of pigs were stopped by the police about a quarter of a mile outside Clonmel, but the owners refused to turn back, and the police had to get reinforcements to stop them. The magistrates imposed fines of 5s. per pig on the owners.

Soldier Killed on Tramway.

A distressing accident took place at Brittas when Pipe-Mayor Somers of the King's Own Scottish Borderers was killed on the Dublin and Blessington Steam Tramway line. The deceased was coming from Kilbride Camp to take part in a display in one of the Dublin theaters, having booked at Brittas. He ran to catch the tram, when his foot slipped, with the result that he fell between the engine and a wagon of sand. He was killed instantly.

IN TURKEY.

Excludes Christianity.

Curiously little attention is being paid in Europe or America to the new Islamitic University, which is to be founded in the holy city of Medina, although the world of Islam is taking it very seriously.

The Sultan's irade defines the object of the university as "the teaching and spreading of the eminent truths of the religion of Islam." It is to teach agriculture and engineering along with the usual subject. The Central Committee, with its headquarters in Constantinople, is composed in equal numbers of Turks and Arabs, but the control is to be in the hands of a committee at Medina. The instruction is to be in Arabic, and the Wakuf has granted $50,000 a year, together with $400,000 for building and equipment, while all Islam is to be asked to contribute. Particularly significant is the fact that all Christian influence is to be excluded.

The Medina University may, from one point of view, be regarded as the most serious attempt yet made to wed Islam and modern learning, and through the union to give Islam renewed vitality. On the other hand it is notable that this new university is an Arab institution, and the nice question arises whether it will strengthen or diminish Arab separatism.

IN DENMARK.

Solves Hired Girl Problem.

Denmark claims to have solved the manifold mysteries and difficulties of the hired girl problem by means of the Copenhagen Domestic Servants' Union. In 1899, Miss Christensen was employed as a hired girl in Copenhagen, working practically every day from daylight to dark for a meager wage. The daily drudgery did not, however, kill her interest in outside things, and when she had an odd leisure hour she sought means to cultivate her mind. On an evening in 1899 she met some friends also engaged in domestic service and discussed the drawbacks of their occupation with them, and suggested the formation of a union of domestic servants to try to win better conditions of employment.

The others were fired by her enthusiasm, and the new union was born, with Miss Christensen as secretary. Three objects were agreed on as the union programme: Improvement of the wages of servants; fixing of regular hours of work; and raising the status of domestic service. At first progress was slow. Servants, when asked to join, were timid where they were not indifferent; and mistresses showed little disposition to grant the requests put forward by the union.

Miss Christensen and her colleagues did not lose heart. If direct attack failed, they were prepared to adopt indirect means. The meetings of the union were devoted largely to professional training. New members came in for the sake of the instruction, and soon discriminating mistresses discovered that unionist servants were keener and better qualified than the average maid. The union became a kind of labor exchange or registry for domestic employment, and was ready to find suitable applicants for vacant posts on condition that the employer accepted the union conditions.

By 1906 the union had become firmly established. Then it decided on a big forward step. The members recognized that the great danger to the position of the calling was the constant influx of young untrained girls. The union therefore decided to provide facilities for the training of such girls. A house was fitted up to accommodate thirty-two resident pupils, who go through a thorough course of domestic training—cookery, laundry work, and the duties of parlor and house maid.

Miss Christensen became directress of the school, assisted by four colleagues. The fees are very low—only about $3 per month, but an additional income is derived from the restaurant—all the food being cooked in the school kitchen by the girls in training—and from laundry work done for outside customers. Classes are held for the benefit of servants already employed. A small government grant is also paid to the school as an educational institution.

IN ITALY

On Same Libretto.

The announcement that Puccini is composing an opera, the libretto being taken from Ouida's novel, "Two Little Wooden Shoes," has had an interesting sequel. The fact has been disclosed that Mascagni, the popular composer of "Cavalleria," is also at work on a libretto adapted from the same novel.

Mascagni explains that he first read "Two Little Wooden Shoes" when he went to London, about two years ago, to conduct a series of performances of "Cavalleria" at the London Hippodrome. He claims, therefore, priority in his choice. It is understood, however, that, while Puccini's libretto follows on the lines of Ouida's novel to the end, Mascagni has had many new episodes introduced into his libretto, which, in parts, has hardly any resemblance to the original novel.

This is not, of course, the first instance of two composers being simultaneously inspired by the same libretto. Both Puccini and Mascagni have had a similar experience before. The former, having composed "La Boheme," learned with well-justified surprise that Leoncavallo was composing an opera also adaptad from Murger's masterpiece, "La Vie de Boheme." Although Leoncavallo's opera never achieved the enormous success of his rival's work, it was performed for many years in Italy and abroad, and is still being produced in America and elsewhere.

SECRET CENSUS TAKEN IN ULSTER

Seventy Thousand Volunteers in the Organization.

Just What They Will Do Is Still Matter of Doubt.

Some of the Members Seem Slightly Puzzled.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

DUBLIN, May 10.—The British government has just completed its secret census of the volunteers of Ulster who have pledged themselves to fight rather than to submit to the yoke of home rule. They find that these fiery patriots of the "Red Hand" number 70,000, though this would include a large proportion of "slackers" who are never seen on parade.

A further reduction has to be made for those of the effectives, who, while humoring the prevailing mood so long as that merely seems to frighten a government which is already supposed to be in flight, never dreamed of opposing home rule by force of arms. A candid volunteer officer, who seemed to know his men very well, told me the other day that he knocked 10 per cent. off his effective strength for what he called "the weak-kneed." But even with these allowances the force could probably be reckoned at 50,000.

How is it going to be used, and still more important, when is the signal for action to be given? One always hears that the headquarters staff have settled both these questions in an elaborate plan of campaign. One can only say that some of those who might be supposed to enjoy the full confidence of the staff know precious little about it. The rabid Orangeman in the ranks who has an alarming passion for the concrete, gives a very decided answer. Home rule, or no home rule, he is out to hit, and, if he has luck, to kill a Papisher. He will come out whenever Sir Edward Carson tells him, and the commander has shown regrettable weakness in holding his hand so long.

To this primitive type Sir Edward Carson's proclamation posted in all the towns of Ulster bidding the volunteers remember that they have no quarrel with their Catholic fellow-countrymen, and that they must refrain from giving offense, shows an imbecile misunderstanding of the true position. An authentic expression of the feelings of such a one was given to a volunteer officer himself last week. "And if it's not the Papishers we're fighting, who the—is it at all, then?" asked the recruit, as he spelled through the proclamation. It was explained that the real quarrel was with the British government. "But how the—can I hit a government?" came the naive reply. It is a difficult question, more particularly to one who has never sighted his rifle beyond a hundred yards.

POSITION A PUZZLE.

Given a wider meaning, it is puzzling for more thoughtful minds among the Volunteers. The sympathy of the English people is of the first importance. We have been assured that should one Ulster loyalist be shot in a Union Jack overcoat with "God Save the King" on his lips the shock to English feeling would be so great that Mr. Asquith and his accomplices would swing by the neck on the lamp posts of Whitehall. Some of the Ulster volunteers believe it, but to get anything like the full results that are expected the shooting would have to be done in cold blood, and the law of the land does not sanction murder by its servants. An agent of the executive, be he a soldier or policeman, is only entitled to use force when force is used against him, and the answer must be proportioned in degree to the offer. A position of strict defense is all important if English sympathy is to be enlisted.

But look at it as one may, the position of defense is impossible to the Volunteers. Some of them talk of seizing the customhouse and the postoffice in Belfast when the bill becomes operative. The government could probably afford to leave both places in the hands of the rebels for an indefinite period, in the full assurance that by cutting off the communications which nourish its industries Northeast Ulster would starve itself into reason. But the rights of the law-abiding citizens of Belfast, who, even assuming every Protestant to be a rebel, still number a third, would have to be protected from such a usurpation. And the peace of our lord, the King, his crown and dignity, as the legal forms say, would also come into the question. The rebels would have to be turned out by violence if the first offered violence, and English public opinion would hardly wince at a mere recovery of stolen property.

OPPORTUNITY OF CONFLICT.

This would certainly be an opportunity of conflict, but many of the volunteers realize that it would not be a good one. The first elections under the home-rule act are mentioned as another. It is suggested that if Ulster is included in the bill (and there is an increasing disposition to believe that it will be) the volunteers would try to prevent the elections being held by a display of force against those who wished to record their votes.

Here, again, the intervention of the agents of the executive would be necessary, but here again it is doubted whether English public opinion would support the murder of peaceful citizens who were asserting a legal right. One says murder advisedly, because there are both Nationalists and Protestant home rulers in the Orange districts who may be depended upon to carry the assertion of that right to the last point. Finally, among the long-distance shots at revolution the collection of the taxes might provoke an uprising.

The Unionists, it is said, would refuse to pay taxes, and the Volunteers would forcibly oppose restraint. The police or the troops would have to come in, as they often did, to collect private rack-rents from Irish landlords in the old days. But here, again, one assumes that the volunteers would have to fire the first volley. It will be noted in both these last cases that the revolution is postponed till such time as the Dublin Parliament has been actually established. There are a few Unionists who call for earlier action, but it is on no better grounds than that even the righteous may weary in well-doing by word of command, and that unless matters are brought to a head pretty soon it will be impossible to keep the volunteers as an organized body.

GOVERNMENT IS BLIND.

Of the more immediate dangers of conflict there are two, having regard to the blind eye which the government has turned on the preparations for insurrection; the second is not a serious one. The first is a scheme of the provisional government which is supposed to be designed for the purpose of preserving the law and order. A paid force of 5000 volunteers who, it is said, will all carry carbines, is being raised as a sort of civil guard for town's police. According to information, they will be put on the streets of Belfast as soon as the bill receives the royal assent to stop faction fights in the Orange-Nationalist borderland and to act as a flying squadron in regard to police work in any other disturbed area. But though the special service corps is certainly being raised, there is no indication that it is intended for such employment. The other danger has been discounted already. It is contemplated as a possibility in the printed instructions issued to the district commanders of the volunteer force, which were shown without reservation in the country the other day.

This document is interesting because it attempts to define, not very successfully, it is true, the meaning of the word "mobilization," which one had begun to suspect was used in the volunteer force without any meaning at all. Mobilization is to be of two kinds. In No. 1, the force is to parade without arms, but the volunteers are each to "bring a truncheon or blackthorn," and "with arms," but nothing is said about the occasion. There are detailed instructions as to personal equipments in the shape of clothing and rations, and proper provision is made for transport.

PRIVATE ROWS.

An apparently genuine concern is shown lest the volunteers should fall into private rows with their Nationalist neighbors, and the officer is peremptorily reminded that one of his chief duties is to restrain the hotheads. An attempt by the police to search for and seize arms is to be resisted by mobilization No. 1, that is, by truncheon and blackthorn, "by bringing greatly superior numbers against the police," say these instructions, "and by informing them that we do not intend to be deprived of our means of defense, it is hoped the seizure may be prevented without bloodshed." This and the possibility of aggressive action by local Nationalists which is to be met in the first instance by remonstrance and warning, are dealt with under the heading of "Emergencies," but the nature of the greater emergency which is to produce mobilization "with arms" is not stated, and even those who run the county organizations can only surmise what the occasion will be.

OF OTHER COUNTRIES.

Rev. A. Smythe Palmer preached in Wanstead, Eng., a sermon which consisted of 800 monosyllabic words.

Dr. Andreas Villareal, in command of the medical corps of Villa's army of Mexican Constitutionalists, is a graduate of the Johns Hopkins University. Under his command there is a hospital train with a capacity of taking care of 1400 wounded soldiers for forty days. In the train there is a complete field hospital of modern type, manned by a corps of trained nurses.

The Earl of Mar, who has just celebrated his seventy-eighth birthday anniversary, holds one of the most ancient of Scottish peerage dignities, but the vicissitudes of time have robbed the house of all but the shadow of its former greatness. If the past Earls of Mar have competed in power with the Scottish kings, the Earl of Mar probably does not own a single acre in the vast territory over which his predecessors reigned supreme. In 1885 the present Earl of Mar, heir of the line of the old family, got, by special act of Parliament, his title recognized to the Earldom of Mar created in 1404.

Sir William Alexander Smith, the founder of the Boys' Brigade, died in London the other day. He was born in 1854. Sir William visited Canada in 1895 and the United States in [illegible] in connection with the Boy [illegible] movement.

Samuel Young, the Protestant Nationalist, who represents in Parliament the Catholic constituency of East Cavan, Ireland, is a veteran member as well as a veteran in years, having reached his ninety-second milestone. He is the oldest man in the House, and that he is still able and alert is testified to by his readiness to take the floor in debate. Born in 1822, the son of Samuel Young of Dunaghy, Portaferry, he was educated at the old Presbyterian College in Belfast. He was elected for Cavan in 1892 and has been re-elected in 1895, 1900 and 1910.

Gen. Felipe Angeles, whom some consider a strong possibility should Huerta flee Mexico and Carranza fail as head of the government, is a noted artillery commander. For years he was superintendent of the military school at Chapultepec. He was educated in Europe and is well known in this country.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Before her marriage to Vincent Astor, Miss Helen D. Huntington renounced her dower rights to the vast Astor estate, which has been the custom in every instance when an Astor marries.

Miss Kate Grant has been teaching school for twenty-two years in Spokane, Wash.

Mme. Curie, who, with her husband, discovered radium, is the only person in the world to hold two Nobel prizes.

Mrs. Samuel Semple, the only woman member of the Pennsylvania Industrial Board, is inspecting the bakeries in that State.

Miss Katherine Shay, a freshman at the University of Michigan, swings a heavy sledge for four and one-half hours once a week in the engineering department, where she is studying to be an engineer.

Miss Mary Lackay, who has retired after fifty years' continuous service in the St. Louis public schools, never had a sweetheart and says she is glad of it, and that she never had time for a romance.

Mrs. Klotz of Brooklyn, gave a party the other day in honor of her "hired girl," who had completed [illegible] years' continuous service in the Klotz family.

Mrs. Mabel H. Kirk has been appointed psychologist of the [illegible] county (N. J.) courts.

Miss Gertrude Barnum of Chicago has been made a member of the Federal Labor Commission that seeks to arbitrate labor troubles. She is interested in social service work in the work of trades unions and worked with Jane Addams at Hull House.

Mrs. John Walker, Highland [illegible], N. Y., has posted $50 as surety that she won't again cuff the ears of her landlord, Dr. Thomas Shanahan, because he refuses to repaper her home.

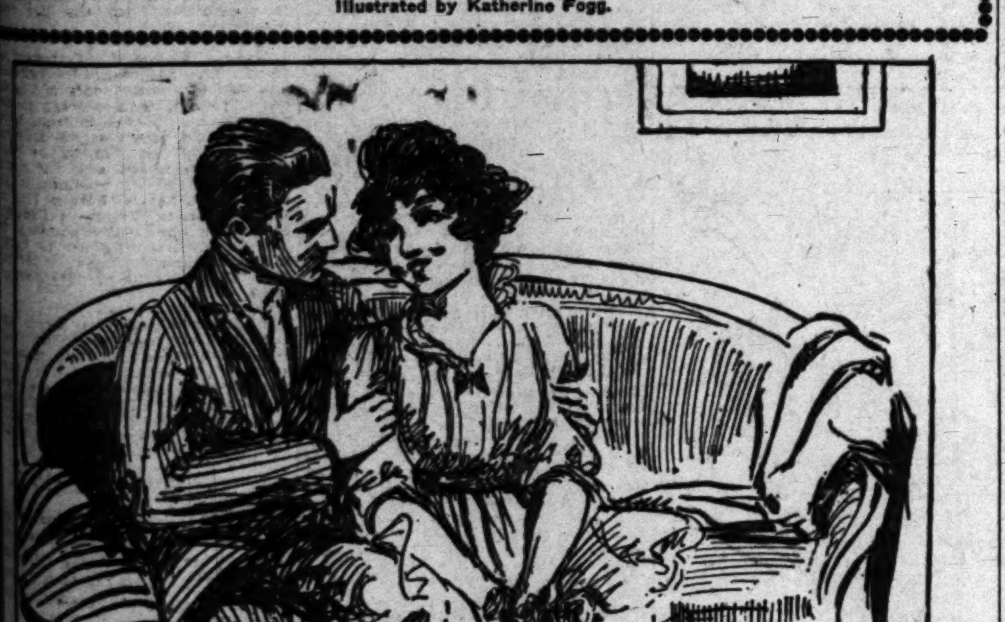
THE MOODS OF GENEVIEVE.

BY GWEN SEARS.

Illustrated by Katherine Fogg.



THE LONELY MOOD.

[illegible] there is a tortuous mood of [illegible] that seizes me unaware, unannounced. It visits me in the yearning [illegible] of the dusk—the hours when [illegible] most longs for—someone. This [illegible] mood that stifles its existence [illegible] the great hurrying masses of the [illegible] that cringes before the happy [illegible] like a skulking fiend, coming [illegible] out in the twilight hours and [illegible] attention.

The darkness folds itself around me [illegible] ever so softly; the opaque outlines of my humble furniture are enveloped in its filmy shadows. The [illegible] tiers of windows opposite [illegible] out in their gloomy framework [illegible] golden oblongs. Outside [illegible] world palpitates with human life—[illegible] activities, which only serves to [illegible] my hungry heart.

The clattering of dishes, the glad [illegible] of children, the ringing of door [illegible], the hilarious returning of loved [illegible], all float into my open window—[illegible] alone.

"[illegible] could have it too, you with [illegible] beauty, your youth, your happy [illegible], you could have someone," [illegible] the Lonely Mood.

[illegible] it is maddening. The Lonely [illegible] doesn't understand; it takes advantage of my impoverished heart. It [illegible] know that I have longed; yes, [illegible] for someone—the real man—[illegible] have never found him. I am not cold, I am not mercenary, I am not critical, but I want love. Love that is real, love that thrills me with its sincerity, its earnestness. Love that has understanding—sympathy. Love that embraces every phase of good comradeship and mental ecstacy.

In desperation, I crush on my hat and rush out into the cold air for a brisk walk. I will get away from the Lonely Mood, I cry. I will mingle with the happy throng along the lighted highway of the great city. I will rub shoulders with humanity, even though I be no part of them.

Even here, keeping step with the shuffling multitude, I catch glimpses of arms linked in arms, eyes that gaze softly into eyes. I hear stray bits of conversation mingled with endearments. Wherever I look, wherever I listen, I hear the cry of a lonely heart for—love.

Slowly and dejectedly I turn away from the endearments—away from the glances—to the sheltered protection of my tiny room. The Lonely Mood tugs mercilessly at my sleeve as I turn on the feeble ray of gas light.

"It's your own fault," it sneers. "You, too, have had chances, but you refused."

"Yes, and I'm glad I did refuse," I rage. "I know that in this great world of humans the real man is waiting for me, and until he finds me I will remain a recluse."

"No lips shall touch mine, no arms shall encircle me—he, the real man, shall find me untarnished by contact with the world."

The Lonely Mood has vanished. In the stillness, with eyes closed, I whisper, "I will be patient, I will wait for you, and you will not be disappointed in me. Seek me, oh, real man; have faith in my existence as I have in yours."

Not a Dull Class.

[Pearson's Weekly:] Dan Everard, the chief of the Follies, told us a story the other night that he said he had just recently heard.

A school inspector was told that a certain class in a school he was visiting was very dull, and he decided to test their intelligence for himself.

Going up to the blackboard, he called to the class to give him a number.

"Forty-nine," said one boy, after a little hesitation.

The inspector carefully wrote "94" on the blackboard, and then looked at the class. The class stared back without offering any comment on his apparent mistake, so he asked for another number.

"Fifty-seven," another boy replied.

Again the inspector reversed the order and wrote up "75" for all to see. Again he looked at them, expecting some protest; but again he was met with the same stolid stare.

"They certainly do seem rather dull," he thought to himself. "I'll try them once more." Then aloud he said: "Give me another number."

After a moment's silence a sharp-faced boy spoke. "Thirty-three," he said. "Nah let's see if yau can muck abaht wi' that!"

PARAGUAY'S CANNIBAD FISH.

They Go in Schools and, Though Small, They Attack Anything Larger Than Themselves.

[Scribner's Magazine:] We caught many fish. They belonged to one of the most formidable genera of fish in the world, the piranha or cannibal fish, the fish that eats men when it can get the chance. Farther north there are species of small piranha that go in schools. At this point on the Paraguay the piranha do not seem to go in regular schools, but they swarm in all the waters and attain a length of eighteen inches or over. They are the most ferocious fish in the world. Even the most formidable fish, the sharks or the barracudas, usually attack things smaller than themselves.

But the piranhas habitually attack things much larger than themselves. They will snap a finger off a hand incautiously trailed in the water; they mutilate swimmers—in every river town in Paraguay there are men who have been thus mutilated; they will rend and devour alive any wounded man or beast; for blood in the water excites them to madness. They will tear wounded wild fowl to pieces, and bite off the tails of big fish as they grow exhausted when fighting after being hooked. Miller, before I reached Asuncion, had been badly bitten by one.

Those that we caught sometimes bit through the hooks, or the double strands of copper wire that served as leaders, and got away. Those that we hauled on deck lived for many minutes. Most predatory fish are long and slim, like the alligator and pickerel. But the piranha is a short, deep-bodied fish, with a blunt face and a heavily undershot or projecting lower jaw, which gapes widely. The razor-edged teeth are wedge-shaped like a shark's, and the jaw muscles possess great power.

The rapid, furious snaps drive the teeth through flesh and bone. The head, with its short muzzle, staring, malignant eyes, and gaping, cruelly-armed jaws, is the embodiment of evil ferocity; and the actions of the fish exactly match its looks. I never witnessed an exhibition of such impotent savage fury as was shown by the piranhas as they flapped on deck. When fresh from the water and thrown on the boards they uttered an extraordinary squealing sound. As they flapped about they bit with vicious eagerness at whatever presented itself.

When an Eskimo Dies.

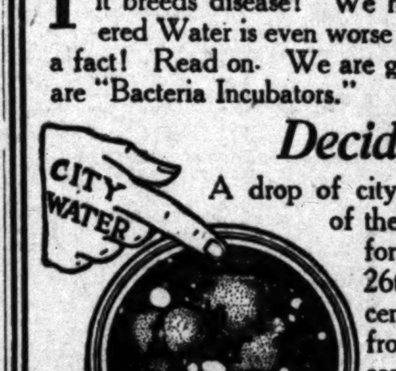
[Wide World Magazine:] When an Eskimo is dying you will notice the inmates of the house moving everything out of doors, otherwise it would be contaminated by the presence of the dead man and rendered unfit for use. Among some tribes the dying man himself is borne outside. He is never taken out through the entrance tunnel, but always through the smoke-hole, or back of the house, and the passage is then closed so that his spirit will not find its way back. The Eskimos appear to have an uncanny presentiment of the appoach of that dread spirit who comes to one and all. When you see them preparing the grave clothes of one of their number who is ill you may know that his end is near. I do not think that they do anything to hasten the end, although they may stab or hang the hopelessly infirm at their own request. It appears to be an instinctive feeling which is common to primitive people, and which is often noticed in the lower animals.

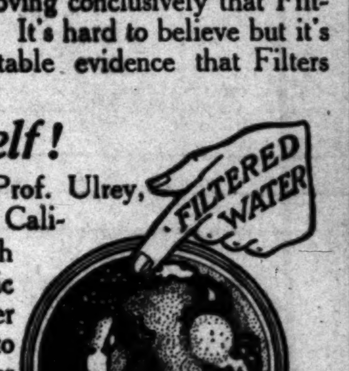
Warning!

Avoid Filtered Water This Summer! It's Dangerous!

IF you have a Filter in your house or your store or office, better get rid of it before it breeds disease! We have a sworn analysis proving conclusively that Filtered Water is even worse than CITY WATER. It's hard to believe but it's a fact! Read on. We are going to give you indisputable evidence that Filters are "Bacteria Incubators."

Decide For Yourself!





A drop of city water was found by Prof. Ulrey, of the University of Southern California, to contain, on March 26th, 1440 bacteria per cubic centimeter. A drop of water from a Filter was found to contain 37,840 bacteria per cubic centimeter. The filtered water contained 27 times the impurities of ordinary city water.

Get this fact firmly fixed in your mind! The filtered water analyzed by Prof. Ulrey had been in the Filter only 8 days. When this water was put in the filter clean, it contained only 63 bacteria per cubic centimeter. So this Filter, a brand much exploited in Los Angeles, bred 37,777 bacteria in every cubic centimeter of water in the amazingly short space of 8 days. If you cannot get anything better than filtered water, then boil ordinary city water, though in that case you will fill your system with dead germs instead of live ones. Either alternative is decidedly undesirable and the former is extremely dangerous. Better avoid both.

None of These Microbes In Puritas Distilled Water

Instead of running the enormous risk of drinking from a Filter; instead of tolerating the alkaline taste of Los Angeles city water, keep PURITAS DISTILLED WATER in your home or office or store or factory. No purer water than Puritas exists. It is distilled by the most scientific processes and sealed in absolutely clean, airtight glass demijohns.

5 Gallons
40 Cents

Puritas Distilled Water, besides being pure and beneficial to the system, has a pleasant taste. It is soft and palatable, refreshing and delightful. The cost of a 5-gallon demijohn, delivered to any address within the city's old boundary lines, is only 40c. Telephone us and let us deliver 5 gallons. Outside towns are supplied by agents.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

LOS ANGELES, May 30.

Oh, Gladys, dear, you are a despicable little thing. Fancy writing me a gushing, effervescent, frivolous, slushy letter like that on a morning when I am all gray-blue. A cold, murky, gray-blue with muddy shadows and a preference for yesterday's bread and weak coffee.

I propose to be as dismal as I like in this letter and get it out of my system—your frisky mood shows plainly that you need the antidote.

I have been horribly mournful all this week. You can tell how bad it was when even the pater left off chaffing me and murmured something about a few new clothes! Clothes, indeed. I have had a wistful yearning to design my shroud, with pale, sweet violets at my breast. I have composed several touching epitaphs and that unfeeling Tom found some of them under my blotter and he started to read them at breakfast—what brutes brothers can be. I have a dreadful premonition that I shall never wear pink again. Pink is such a happy, care-free color, isn't it? I told the mater that I thought it would be a good idea if I had all my things dyed black. She said: "Yes, dear, but wait a few days until the new Paris papers arrive." So you see, even the mater is laughing at me up her sleeve—but it's really very serious to feel as gray-blue as I do—in the heyday of my youth. But I don't feel at all young. I feel awfully old, quite 23, and I shouldn't be surprised if my hair turns gray pretty soon.

That—you know, what you said about Jack—it was awfully cruel. I have made up my mind I shall never marry. Life is very sad. I think I ought to take up a mission in life, be a hospital nurse or something like that. Only I'd be afraid of coming back home after two weeks like Flora did. She said it wasn't noble work at all—just rolling bandages and cleaning up after people, making beds and carrying off soiled bed linen and menial things like that. I don't see how that could relieve a heartache, do you? I know I could shake up the pillows with mournful tenderness and speak words of solace to their fevered brains, besides looking after the flowers and the baskets of fruit, but Flora says most of the patients are very crabby old things and nobody sends them any flowers and the doctors get very sarcastic and talk so rudely to the nurses. She says one doctor actually told her to "Wake up there, nurse—look slippy with that basin and don't stand mooning 'round," in the horridest way. It must make a lot of difference if the doctors are vulgar things like that.

And everybody else seems so happy. There are Clara and Hugh, for instance. Their engagement was announced yesterday, you know, and the wedding is on June 17. The Burns's are going to give them such a pretty home wedding, like Shirley's. They just go about looking as if they could eat each other—radiant love-light in their eyes, and all that sort of thing. We shall go out to the reception on Sunday and of course I shall try to cheer up for their sakes, but I know everyone will be able to tell how sad I am from my eyes. Jack said I had very expressive eyes, but that was before—oh, well, never mind. You wouldn't be interested.

Shirley is coming down for the wedding; she and Guthrie are awfully happy, too—a special secret.

Katherine and Margaret Ramsay have come back; they have been having a fascinating time in San Francisco; and they are both to be bridesmaids at Sally McFarland's wedding next week. There's another ridiculously-happy couple for you. Anyone would think it was the loveliest thing in the world to become Mrs. Grimm. Decidedly a fairy tale come true.

The pater is golfing at the Virginia Country Club this week and took me down two days. Said it ought to cheer me up to see so many nice men all in one place at one time. But I don't care for men any more—especially at a golf tournament. Golf is an awfully dull game and the men that play it are all stupid. Mrs. Goodhue was down in another stunning dress and hat, but she's getting frightfully intellectual and won't talk about anything but advanced literature and woman's vocation. Mrs. Llewelyn Bixby gave a little tea party out at the club—she has the sweetest red hair and so has her little girl. I wish I had red hair—mine's drab, just like I feel. I dreamt I had dimples the other night, and the dream investigators insist that we always dream about what we want most or most fear. How silly!

Oh, yes, everyone is talking about vacations now—half of us seem to be going to Catalina and the other half to Balboa. Balboa is getting quite smart—all sorts of nice people own houses down there now.

No, Sir Thomas Lipton has not decided to plant tea here yet; he is only thinking about it. He has kissed the blarney stone, that celebrated Irishman. It was just lovely to hear him telling each of us how much he adored our country. When talking to us California was his ideal place, especially Los Angeles. But when he was talking to Judge Barry, he would rather live in Killarney than anywhere. The fact of the matter is, he adores all his friends and all their countries, particularly Americans who have a special little weakness in that direction.

He is very shrewd, too. We were so amused when a visitor was announced while we were there—a Countess of ancient lineage. "She'll be wanting something," he murmured with a twinkle, "and it'll cost money. It may be only a subscription to an orphans' home or the loan of a yacht for a Mediterranean cruise. I'm an attractive fellow," he beamed. And, sure enough, after she had been there a few minutes she adroitly led the conversation 'round to her village and her village church. "It needs a new pulpit so badly," she said, artlessly. "There's a chance for you to make a whole village grateful, Sir Thomas." He winked at us solemnly during the eloquent pause that followed.

Oh, dear, I shall get quite cheerful if I start writing about Sir Thomas," and I think it suits me to be sad this week. When one's heart is broken it shows a shallow nature to let oneself be beguiled into cheerfulness. So good-by, Gladys darling.

Your forlorn BETTY.

Duck and Fish at One Shot.

[Philadelphia Record:] Shooting wild ducks and fish at the same time was a feat performed by Orris Detwiler, of Colombia.

He killed two ducks of the fisher variety, unfit for food. From the beak of one he noticed the tail of a fish protruding. With a pair of pinchers he caught the tail and pulled a thirteen-inch salmon from the duck's gullet. The fowl was then opened and from its stomach he took a sunfish four inches long and three inches wide.

Examining the other duck he found in its stomach two fish of the hammerhead variety, each ten inches long; a lamprey eel and two chubs each four inches long. Men who have spent many years on the river say they have never seen anything like this in such small ducks.

MADAM NAON'S BEAUTY WINS.

Wife of the Ambassador from Argentine Popular at Capital.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON, May 23.—With the elevation of Senor Don Romulo S. Naon, the American capital now has the ranking number of Ambassadors serving at any seat of government, eleven the total, as against ten accredited to the other great world capitals, London, Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg and Vienna. The capital city of Rome has but eight diplomats of the first rank and Madrid having recently elevated the representative to Argentina to the rank of Ambassadors, has climbed into the same class as Italy and Constantinople. There are rumors that Chile will soon follow the lead of Argentina making the diplomatists of the highest rank an even dozen, an imposing host indeed and surely indicative of the rapid ascent of the United States into the councils of the nations. In Washington where court customs do not prevail except in the broadest sense, the Ambassadors gain little by their elevation, except the honor of transacting affairs with the Secretary of State in the most expeditious manner. Mr. Bryan is an exceedingly amiable official and few experience any difficulty in getting his ear, if the importance of the topic warrants it. But socially the Ambassadors at Washington form a privileged class. A certain coterie of hostesses pronounce this government as wise and beneficent in thus accepting an added number of celebrities so desirable as lions at banquets and other fetes.

Though a new Ambassador Senor Naon long ago won a high place in the esteem of public men and his wife has secured scores of friends and admirers in residential as well as official circles. Time was, and that not further removed than the Spanish-American war, when this country regarded Argentina as a very indifferent friend, if not an open foe. There were hints of her secret alliance with Germany, of treaties with Great Britain all hostile to this nation, and the Minister from Argentina had as thorny a road to travel as did the envoy from Spain for some years preceding and folowing the Cuban rebellion and its successful termination. Quietly and without apparent effort Senor Naon has changed all this sentiment. Upholding the dignity of his own country in the firmest way, he has deftly and quickly changed public sentiment in both capitals. His conspicuous service in conjunction with the other mediators, the Brazillian Ambassador and the Minister from Chile, has added all the more force to his work here in healing old wounds and in restoring the good will and feeling of confidence so necessary for commercial partners, as the both halves of the western hemisphere must be.

In Madam Naon, a figure seldom seen at close range may be studied with excellent advantage. That distinguished writer on South America, James Bryce, says Argentina is the one country remaining in the world where all that is good and worthy of the feudal system mingles harmoniously with modern progress. So vast are the estates that only feudal ideals could prevail in their management. Madam Naon is like some stately figure of romance in the days when the knights went forth clad in armour to win new tenures or to defend the old. She is simply the grande dame, the chatelaine of a sumptuous home, the mother of many lovely children and the guardian of her husband's happiness in the domestic sense. Like the matrons of the sixteenth century who sat among their handmaidens, robed in velvet, laces and brocade, she is entirely removed from all domestic cares, which even queen and empresses assume in these days of leveling ideals. She is a superbly handsome woman with clear olive skin, soft dark eyes and masses of shining black hair. She is tall and matronly with slow graceful movements and an air of leisure and composure which seems as much a part of her as the tapered fingers or shapely foot. To her husband it would seem inconceivable that she would be troubled with paltry worries like homekeeping or the details of dressing, beyond the mere selections of material or suggestions as to her desires.

The Argentine Legation or Embassy as it is now, is one of the splendid mansions which cluster about Dupont Circle. It is managed with the exactness of a royal palace and Madame Naon is the radiating point for all its activities, but never burdened with its routine. After the new method, coming here possibly first from England, Senor Naon has retained the services of a trained house mother, or a housekeeper graduated from one of the great schools of domestic science and able to cope with every emergency even such a dining as the Lord Mayor of London would give to the populace. Dinners, receptions and tea dances have followed each other, always brilliantly planned and executed throughout the winter, but all that fell to Madam Naon's lot was to be gowned appropriately and to appear at the hour to aid her husband in receiving the guests.

GIVES TIME TO FAMILY.

This charming woman tells hard-pressed friends that in her country other customs prevail. The wealthy land-owning classes would never dream of having the chatelaine of a home other than a queen—to be served rather than to serve. Even the stress and rush of Washington has not wrought even a passing change in this stately lady. All her time is given to herself, her husband and her children, and her own leisure and comfort is the first consideration of the household. Despite all that is said there are still capable servants to be found in the world, if only the head of a great home first finds the absolutely perfect housekeeper. This Senor Naon has done, and as a consequence, no home here not even excepting the President's, is conducted more elegantly and more perfectly. Madam Naon reigns there always fresh and rested, never knowing that nerves exist, filling her many social roles with consummate grace and the enjoyment which comes from such a preparation. American women may possess untold opportunities, but until they learn how to shift their burdens and to rest, they can never emulate the repose and the immunity from nerves and exhaustion which their Latin sister possesses, is the opinion of this gracious lady.

One so far removed from the usual topics of conversation as this beautiful Latin hostess, might be regarded with timidity, yet no member of the corps is more amiable or more interested in vital issues of the present. She could never take a serious view of what is proving so disturbing to the feminine world. Born of opulent parents, descended from an ancient line of the hidalgoes settled in Argentina in the early part of the nineteenth century, Madam Naan accepts without question the traditional duties of her sex, to be religious, to prove capable of all the necessary obligations involved in her marriage and to leave the business of the world in the hands of those who have managed it since the dawn of history. Her children, and there have been eight, with five now living, are naturally her consuming interest, though she takes the same larger view of politics which marks the highly educated Latin. For sociological problems she cares little. It is safe to say that she would be as much a visitor in her culinary department as one of her neighbors would be and the same would hold true of her early life on a splendid estancia near La Plata River, in her home in Buenos Aires as in the Washington establishment. Charity fills an important role with those of her blood and Madam Naon is Lady Bountiful here in Washington. She belongs to many societies formed to aid worthy causes and she is quick to respond to any definite call for aid. As a patroness her name figures on the roles of the many efforts in the way undertaken by the social leaders.

There are three daughters and two sons who are among the best-known foreign children in Washington. The eldest daughter, Isabel, is a pretty dark-eyed senorita almost 15, and with her second sister, Felisa, is getting a peep in the amenities which they extend to girls of their age and in their class. There are [illegible] Houston McAdoo, and Nancy Lane in the Cabinet set, both of whom are neighbors and chummy with the little girls from Argentina. The eldest boy is called for his father, Romulo, and there is another boy of 5 called John Jose. A little maid of 8 is Carlotta, a perfect little witch, who can dance more kinds of Argentine tangos than some of the professionals to whom much fame attaches.

DEMOCRATIC IDEALS.

Madam Naon is rearing her children exactly as her neighbors, on the strictly democratic plan. The girls go to private schools unattended except by some children of their own age going the same way and the boys are in the public schools at present and will probably enter college here before going for that necessary training of the Spanish gentleman, the law course at Salamanca. Though believing fervently in the old traditions Senor Naon is giving his children all the benefits to be derived from modern methods. All are exquisite dancers, as they should be, for their parents are among those who can make even the ridiculous modes popular now seem stately and graceful. The Argentina home is seemingly complete, but there is the addition of a great ballroom extending down a strip of grassy terrace to the left of the mansion. Dancing is now recognized as a necessary part of social life in Washington and to be minus a ballroom is now as impossible as to have no dining hall large enough to seat forty. In addition to their love of dancing they all possess the kindred love of music and no room in the house is lovelier than the music-room furnished in gray with every kind of instrument from a resplendent harp which madam plays with deftness, to the light-stringed lute and zither which even the boy of 5 can manage. The remainder of the mansion resembles some of those elegant chateaux of the French and Spanish Pyrenees, all the equipment being of carved old mahogany and rosewood, with priceless bronzes and ivories, not to mention some rare old canvases of Spain's golden age in art.

Senor Naon is as charming a host as his wife, and they devote their entire winter to discharging their obligations, but with summer, the programme is very different. For years past the Naons seek as quiet a spot as may be found in the mountains about the Blue Ridge, between Virginia and West Virginia and Senor Naon has been fortunate enough to find that rare combination, a home where all the comforts of the city are installed and yet surrounded by miles of woods and parks and far off from even the ubiquitous motorist or fisherman. Madam, when not bound on a visit home, leaves Washington early in May and establishes the family in this remote spot. She has a quiet summer, time to read, to walk, to restore her normal vitality and to grow young. Consequently she is one of the youngest women in the corps and to look young and to keep so after a Washington season is a science requiring strictest application. Senor Naon is chivalrously devoted to his wife. To make her life happy, to remove even a slight pebble from the smoothness of her journey through life is as much his mission as that of diplomacy. This year few of them will get a vacation, certainly not those associated with the United States in placing the affairs of Mexico on a firm foundation of peace and internal order. But madam with the great staff of retainers and the housekeeper, will soon depart for the Blue Ridge and the senor will journey backwards and forwards as often as his cares will permit.

Madam Noan.

Disappointed in the King.

[Pearson's Weekly:] The announcement that King George is to pay one or two state visits this year to some of the industrial centers recalls one of the stories told in connection with similar visits he paid last year.

Just after the motor car containing the King had passed along a street in Blackburn a small boy was seen weeping bitterly on the curb.

"What's the matter with you?" asked a sympathetic passerby. "Didn't you see the King?"

"Ay."

"Well, what are you crying for?"

The small boy sobbed bitterly. "He's nobbut a fella!" he wailed.

Dinner Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Walker of No. 1125 Lake street entertained with a charming dinner dance Wednesday evening, honoring Mr. and Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth, who will leave next Wednesday for a European trip. All the appointments for the affair were in yellow—the blossoms, the place cards and the candelabra—which shed a soft glow over the table. Dancing and cards were the pleasures provided following dinner, and guests included were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Clarke Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Thresher, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Pettigrew, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin M. Seeley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Toll, Mr. and Mrs. Orra E. Monnette, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Millard, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew S. Robertson, Dr. and Mrs. Garrett L. Hogan, Mrs. Edith Harvey, Mrs. Hattie Maloy, Miss Florence Thresher, Miss Helen Thresher, Miss Summers, Miss Ethelyn Walker, Dr. Charles Fish and Messrs. James Fulcher, Arthur Meyer, M. J. Monnette, Ardis Robertson and Robert Summers.

Bride-to-Be Honored.

Miss Helen McCutchan, a very popular bride-elect, is the recipient of much attention before her wedding to Will Johnston, which will occur June 23. Friday Mrs. Carl H. von Breton and Miss Corinne Thorkildsen of No. 918 Burlington avenue entertained with a bridge tea at the home of the former, No. 121 South Commonwealth avenue, for Miss McCutchan. The favorite color of the honoree, pink, was carried out in the appointments—sweet peas and roses arranged in baskets carrying out an effective decoration. Assisting ladies were Mrs. E. J. Stanton and Mrs. Joseph McCutchan. Elaborate refreshments followed the games of cards. Included were Mrs. Ross Neal, Mrs. Harrison McDonald, Mrs. Mamie Young Moore, Mrs. Allan Culver, Mrs. E. J. Stanton, Mrs. Willis Stose, Mrs. W. S. Ball, Mrs. Grant Spears, Dr. Cora Tasker, Mrs. Lewis Stanton, Mrs. Le Roy Stanton, Mrs. Frederick Stanwood, Mrs. William Kelso, Mrs. Charles Stavnow, Mrs. Noble Greenstreet, Mrs. Albert Bailey, Mrs. John Hopkins, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Gregg Lane, Mrs. Fred Sumption, Mrs. Edwin Salver, Mrs. Hortense Barnhart Dorr, Mrs. Jaspar Crandall, Mrs. Roy Zimmerman, Mrs. C. Swanson, Mrs. Oswald Granicher, Mrs. Fred Fitzgerald, Mrs. Mabel Larson, Mrs. John Burrows, Mrs. Philip Colby, Mrs. Ross Heffelfinger, Mrs. John James, Miss Virginia Sanborn, Miss Alice Ammerman, Miss Alice Atwell Flint, Miss Annette Stose, Miss Henrietta Gliseman, Miss Ethel Richards, Miss Alice M. Stanton, Miss May Flint, Miss Willie Kerns, Miss Eva Stavnow, Miss Anna Kellam and Miss Lulu Page.

Another Betrothal.

One of the attractive society events of the week in beach circles was the luncheon given in honor of Mrs. Basil Savage of San Diego at the Merritt Jones Hotel at which the engagement of Miss Buelah Gerard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Gerard, No. 2652 South Fourth street, Ocean Park, to Carl B. Carlson of Los Angeles, was announced.

The luncheon table was a veritable bower of pink and yellow roses and ferns, the centerpiece being two immense baskets of buds with tulle ribbons on the handles and smaller baskets filled with rose petals and a full-blown rose with the name cards concealed in the center. Pink and yellow satin ribbons extended from each basket to the guests' places, and at a given signal from the hostess the baskets were drawn. Those who enjoyed the afternoon were Miss Gerard, Mrs. Savage, Mrs. S. A. Gerard, Mrs. William J. Knox, Mrs. Marshall Wilkinson, Mrs. Innis Kinney, Mrs. Sherwood Kinney, Mrs. George White, Mrs. Elmer Wilson, Mrs. Eddens Darst, Miss Beatrice Oldfield, Miss Frances Wallace, Miss Clara Wilson, Miss Florence Wilson, Miss Marian Gerard, Miss Elizabeth Knox, Miss Dorothy Gill, Miss Helen Haggart, Miss Sarah Gridley, Miss Hallie Best, Miss Omah Anderson, Miss Jessie

A 12 day Merchandising Marathon

I'll-Sell the 1500 In a Day

These 50c Linen Cushion Covers 15c

—If anyone else were to tell me it were possible to secure a 50c natural and cream colored linen cushion cover, complete with fringe, ready for the pillow, at the little price of 15c, I'd be inclined to doubt it. But here they are and, furthermore, they're stamped to embroider.

—Why wouldn't I sell the 1500 in a day? Yes, and they'll go in less than that.

—I've entered this race with the determination to win and the values are even surprising myself.

J. S. Schmidt, Mgr., Art Goods and Pictures.

500 Stamped Guest Towels 5c

Just think of that, also aprons and centerpieces that are stamped ready for the French and eyelet embroidery. I have 500 of them that I am going to throw out at the ridiculous price of 5c each.

Semi-Made Stamped Dresses For Children 15c

—These have belt, in tan color. Sizes 1 to 4 years. Stamped for solid embroidery. 200 of them that I'll place on sale Monday at 15c each.

Art Sheepskin 75c Pieces 35c

—These are in brown, green, natural, red, blue, gray leather, for wall hangings, library tables, for the making of bags. These are priced 75c in the regular way. I've marked them for this sale on the Main Floor, in aisle 5, at 35c.

$1 House Dresses 59c

800 to Sell

—This is sure a startling value. Gingham and Percale House Dresses—300 of them, and they're positively $1 House Dresses at 59c.

—Many different styles, round or Dutch neck, sailor collar and high neck. All sizes. Come to the second floor for these, 59c.

Here's a Dandy!

50c Dressing Sacques 25c

—Short styles—of crepe and flannelette. 300 that I bought special. You'd be glad to pay 50c for them any time. Take them while they last at 25c.

What Do You Think of 500 Framed Pictures to Sell at $1

Regular $2 to $4 Kinds

—If this week is to be the time when "the dollar is to be made nimble" I'll have it running rings around itself.

—Perhaps some of you remember the big $1 picture sale I had some time ago.

—Well, here are 500 pictures that for intrinsic value should outdistance the best sale I've ever had. They'll be $1 a piece.

—You'll want them for the June bride, for your own home, for the school or office.

—Landscape and marine subjects, fruit subjects, copies of the old masters.

—And think of it, there are even oil paintings, genuine carbonettes and imported prints included.

—The frames in most cases worth more. 500 of them while they last, 3rd floor.

I'm Going to Offer

1000 Yds. 25c Damask at 15c

—Do you appreciate the full importance of this?—a 54-inch table damask, perfect goods, cotton of course. In assorted floral patterns. Why, this 1000 yards should fairly fly away at 15c a yard. Think how you can save your good linens with one of these cloths. No phone or mail orders.

50c MERCERIZED DAMASK 39c—Here's 1100 yards of this 58-inch superfine mercerized damask. One case and it's perfect, high satin finish. Dice or stripe patterns, 50c quality for 39c.

10c BATH TOWELS, 9 TO 10 A.M., AT 5c—Think of half price for a splendid Bath Towel and it's only because they were slightly imperfect that they were marked 10c to begin with. Just for an hour, no phone or mail orders. Limit of 5. Out they go, Aisle 6, at 5c each.

65c LINEN DAMASK 55c—64-inch all linen, extra weight cream damask. Snow drop, tulip, poppy and fleur de lis designs. 10c yard I'll save you on this.

50-IN. TABLE PADDING 35c—Medium weight, soft fleeced, 50-inch table padding, suitable for restaurants, apartments or home use. I've reduced it for this sale to 35c yard.

$1.50 ALL LINEN NAPKINS $1.19—17½x18-inch pure white all, linen napkins. Spot and floral patterns. Regular $1.50 napkins for $1.19 dozen.

$1.50 LUNCH SETS $1.19—Hemstitched. Cloth 55x55 and 6 napkins to match. Silver bleached linen and each set put up in nice box. Why, I marked it for a bargain at $1.50. Don't miss it then at $1.19 set.

BED SPREADS 75c EACH—Good size, medium weight, hemmed ends, Marseilles patterns. Extra value at the regular price. I'll sell it for 75c.

BROWN CRASH 5c YARD—1000 yards of this. 14 inches wide and it's twilled.

HUCK TOWELS 78c DOZ.—Size 16x32-inch, plain white or red borders, good weight, soft and absorbent. Regular price 8 1-3c each. This sale 78c dozen.

I've Made Careful Preparation These $6 Gray Switches $3

—And I want to tell you that these gray switches are in the blue white and beautiful shades. The hair is of the first quality and will match the texture of your own hair. —ALSO $6 SWITCHES AT $3—Including browns, blond, drab, etc. The latter ones are triplet switches that may be made up into pretty coil puffs or psyches, as the style demands.

—These you will find on the Balcony, just off the Main Floor, in Aisle 4.

Miss M. S. Arnold, Mgr.,
Hair Goods & Manicuring & Hairdressing Dept.

And $1.50 Club Switch I Will Sell at 75c

—It's 24 inches, 2½ ounces of soft Australian hair.

—I want to impress upon you that although the price is low the quality is high.

—This popular priced Hair Goods department is located on the Main Floor, aisle 3. There is splendid light to match by.

—These Hair Switches at 75c are in all shades, excepting gray.

Take These $1.75 Clothes Baskets 95c

—One of the features I offer from my departments on the Basement Balcony. This Laundry Basket is of heavy imported willow with handles securely fastened to the braided edge of the basket. Why, I'm going to save you 80c on an expenditure of 95c. That's pretty big investment interest. A limited quantity Monday.

W. B. ELMS.

35c to 75c Scotch Madras and Iridescent Drapery 19c

—Light and dark colors, 32 to 48 inches wide. May be used for bedroom curtains and side draperies.

—Sells in regular stock at 35c to 75c. This is a value winner at 19c yard.

$1.35 Sulky 98c

—From the Toy department these Sulkies at 98c, regular price $1.35. They have 10-inch rubber-tired wheels, broad seat and comfortable back.

$2.50 Hammocks $1.95

—These Hammocks are in red, black and white. They have broad pillow with extra deep valance.

—The size of the bed of this hammock is 36x84 inches. 55c you save. Basement Balcony.

$1.75 Dressel Doll $1.25

—Another feature from the toy department. I offer this jointed body doll, in blonde, brunette and brown. These have white shoes and stockings. You save 50c. Basement Balcony.

I'm Going to Sell This High Grade Imperial Sewing Machine for $22.50

—I have only a limited number of them, but I want to say that any woman who gets one of these Sewing Machines at $22.50 will be fortunate.

—In the first place there is a guarantee of 10 years back of every one of them.

—They sell in the regular way at nearly 20 per cent higher and the regular price is a low price.

—High arm, ball bearing family sewing machine, with up-to-date improvements and labor saving conveniences.

—Case of best quarter-sawed oak, hand rubbed finish. It is equipped with a patent steel cable and automatic lever device to raise head to position.

—It makes a perfect double lock stitch. The attachments supplied free of charge are of the best quality and are nickel plated.

—And in addition to the low price I am going to offer them at

$2 Down, $1 a Week—No Interest

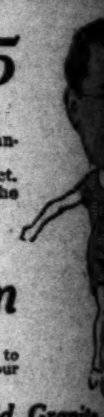
—Beginning Monday, while they last, $22.50. I am out to win this race.

Miss E. M. Augspurger.

Haven't You Paid 25c for

All Linen Handkerchiefs? These Are 10c Ea.

—I have 100 dozen—why, many of them have hand embroidery in the corner. They're perfect, too. I believe it's the most remarkable handkerchief I've ever featured. Limit 5 to a customer. 10c each.



You Can't See Me For Speed

9x12 Axminster Rugs $13.95

$22.50 Quality—Slightly Mismatched

—I bought 50 of these Rugs and I'll place them on sale the first day of this Merchandising Marathon.

—The mismatchings of the patterns are so slight, in many instances, it is hard to detect. There is the same amount of wear, the same quality and heavy pile as you find in the regular $22.50 rug.

—Oriental, floral and small figured designs. I've just unpacked them for this sale.

J. A. Haberbosch, Mgr., Draperies, Rugs, Bedding.

I Bought Half a Carload Linoleum

Slight Mill Imperfections—The Greatest Values I've Quoted

—I've had many a carload sale of linoleum, but in all my experiences I've never been able to name prices like these. If you need Linoleum now or for some time in the future, "let your dollar be nimble" and take advantage of these extraordinary prices.

Printed Linoleum 29c

—This is the usual 55c quality that shows slight mill imperfections. It's a genuine cork linoleum in Mill Remnants 2 to 40 yards. About 400 yards of it at the price—29c sq. yd.

Inlaid Linoleum 69c

—Remnants of the usual $1.25 to $1.35 qualities, slightly imperfect. 3 to 20 yards in a remnant. 69c sq. yd.

Printed Linoleum 48c

—Genuine Cork Linoleum, 70c quality that shows slight imperfections, some hardwood patterns. Full rolls, about 500 yards, at square yard, 48c.

Inlaid Linoleum 89c

—Cork inlaid. Colors through and through. $1.25 quality, slightly imperfect. This sale 89c sq. yd.

Inlaid Granite Linoleum 69c

—A cork inlaid linoleum. The first time to my knowledge that it has ever been sold at such a low figure—69c square yard. It would be if except for the slight imperfection, full rolls at the price.

Pro-Linoleum 25c

—This is something new. 6 feet wide. Mostly hardwood patterns. Between a heavy floor oil cloth and linoleum. 1500 yards, slightly imperfect. I offer it at 25c sq. yd.

Curtain Corners at 79c

That In Pairs Would Be $5 to $15 Pair

—Look at these fine Lacet Brussels and fine Irish Point Curtains that would sell all the way from $5 to $15 in full pairs. Fully one-third represent the $15 quality. I have 300; many mates may be found. At 79c each Monday, while they last.

Half Pair Curtains 50c Ea.

$3 to $5 Pr. Qualities

—If I had to buy these in pairs I would be obliged to sell them for $3 to $5. Nottinghams and cable nets, fine loom curtains, and think of it, I'm going to put them out for the first time—just 88 while they last at 50c each.

Take This 20c Scrim Bordered 10c Yd.

—Plain centers, with small line stripe and with pretty shadow border.

—A reversible scrim that sells in the regular way at 20c. I'm going to place 500 yards of it on sale Monday at 10c yd.

$2.25 Braided Curtains $1.25

—Just 80 pair that I am going to sell at this price. Made of excellent quality net, finished with braid edging, very attractive designs—in white or ecru. $2.25 quality at $1.25 pair.

Half Pairs and Corners 35c Ea. $2 to $4 Curtains (300 Only)

—1¼ yards to 3 yards long. They'd sell at from $2 to $4 pair and many mates may be found. 300 that I've marked 35c each.

What Do You Think of a 40-Lb.

$10 Mattress For $5.95

—A pure layer felt four rows. Imperial Queen edge mattress, guaranteed not to sag or pack.

—Covered with fine art ticking, too. Remember these sell in regular stock at $10. I offer them at $5.95.

AND A 35-LB. $9 MATTRESS FOR $5.50—Four rows, Imperial Queen edge—will not sag or pack. Covered with art ticking, biscuit tufting. Always sells at $9. I offer it at $5.50.

Here's a 40-Lb.

$8.50 Mattress $5.25

—A mattress that will hold its shape, will not sag or get lumpy, and, remember it is covered with good art ticking. Made to fit any bed. Sale price $5.25.

35-lb. $8 Cotton Felt Mattress	$4.95
Reversible $4.50 Mattress	$3.65
$3.50 Cotton Top Mattress	$2.50

I'm "Fitz" The Candy Man

—And I'm going to make it interesting for the others in my class every day, not in the quantity of items I give but in the importance of every item.

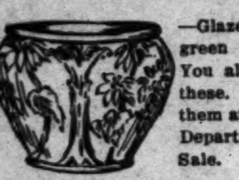
—Here's my big special for Monday—

Crane's 5c Peppermint Lozenges 3c

—You know what these are for quality and the regular price of 5c is also well known to you. I've priced them 3c package for the opening of the sale Monday, aisle 4.

C. H. Fitzgerald, Mgr.
Candy Department.

This Jardiniere 98c Each



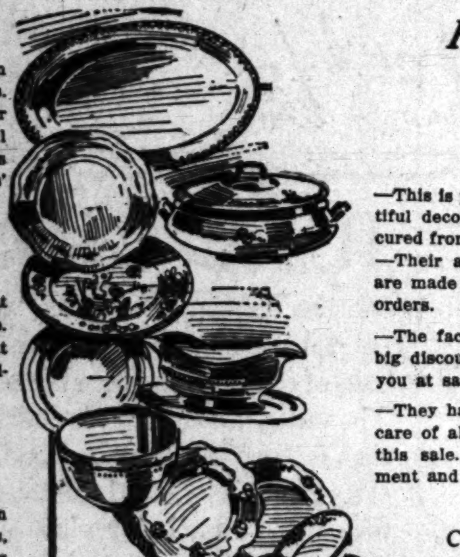
—Glazed jardiniere in green and brown effects. You always pay $1.39 for these. I'm going to sell them at 98c Monday in this Department Managers' Sale.

This Cut Glass Nappy 98c

—Instead of $1.39 I'm going to offer these at 98c. Beautiful cut glass nappy with handle. Made of finest flint glass, highly polished.

Cut Glass Jugs at $3.00

—Whirl design on best of flint glass, highly polished. Not the inexpensive lime glass that you see ordinarily. I've priced them $3 each.



Hurrah! Here in Time—My Great Purchase

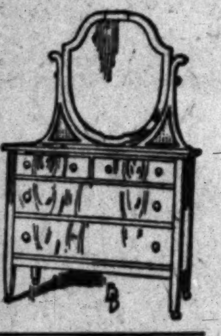
A Wonderful Exhibit of Beautiful, High-Grade, Moderately Priced Bedroom Furniture at Barker Bros.!

We doubt if you will find in any other store in the entire West, as large or as fine a display of bedroom furniture as is shown at Barker Bros. So carefully do we choose our stocks with regard for correct design, best quality and greatest value, that seldom do we fail to please the most exacting and critical buyer.

A bedroom furnished from the great assortment of uniformly GOOD furniture to be obtained at Barker Bros. will be distinctively "different" in appearance. Even without spending a great deal of money one may secure furniture that will look well, furnish well and wear well.

Inexpensive White Enamel Furniture in Wide Variety



We take special pride in showing how economically you may furnish your bedrooms with dainty enamel furniture—not how cheap, but how reasonably priced furniture of the very best possible quality may be obtained here. Those who may think that enameled furniture is for temporary use only should consider that all of our enameled furniture is built of selected hardwood and is intended for years of service and satisfaction.

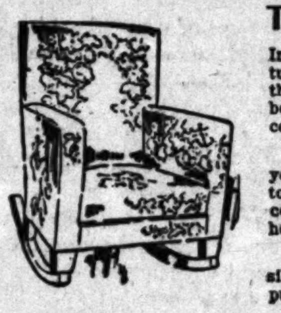
Upholstered Furniture That's Comfortable and Durable

That Has Beauty, Richness, Dignity!



In response to our demand for comfort in upholstered furniture, greater care is being exercised today with reference to the construction of all our furniture, than has ever been done before. Not alone must a piece possess good lines—it must contribute to bodily ease and restfulness as well.

Well made upholstered furniture is good for a great many years of service; it may be re-upholstered from time to time to meet the changing furnishing scheme that develops as necessity demands; it always gives an air of luxury to the home.

The comprehensiveness of our assortment makes possible the ready selection of an upholstered piece for every purpose.

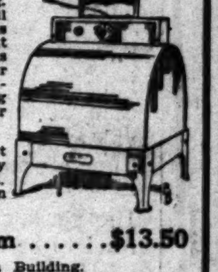
The Truitt Electric Cooker

Shown in One of Our Windows This Week



Here is a practical invention designed to afford greatest kitchen convenience, economy and usefulness in cooking. This little electric cooker works automatically; it does all kinds of baking perfectly; the automatic regulator keeps up an even heat without any attention whatever, so that any required temperature may be maintained. It roasts without driving out the nutriment of the meats; and for boiling meats or vegetables, and cooking stews or breakfast foods it has no equal. Especially adapted for keeping meals warm which makes it very useful in hospitals or other sick rooms.

It is ECONOMICAL—full efficiency of heating element is always obtained. It is light and portable, weighing only twelve pounds complete. Connects with any lamp socket. Made of the best material and sold at a price easily within the reach of every housewife. Two styles:

rty-eight Hundred New Waists $1.45, $1.95 and $2.50

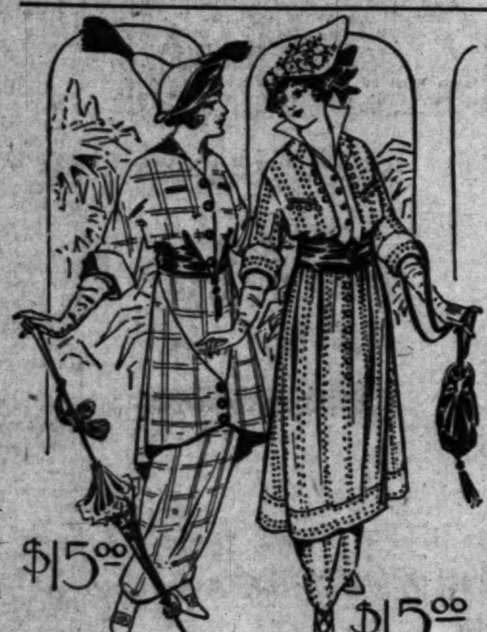
very special purchase of dainty 34 and 36-in. cotton and silk shadow lace allovers possible this very low price—at just the right time for buyers.

laces that women want now for summer blouses and dresses—Pretty floral and conventional designs combined Meshes, White, Cream and Ecru—One of June's big features—1050 yards on Monday at 85c yard—

Now, New Summer Dresses and Suits



—of cotton and linen—First of the new styles for June—Hundreds of them—Such beautiful shades—Such charming effects—And all just out of their boxes for the first great display, Monday—

—Dresses and Suits for Seaside and Outing Wear—

—Suits and Dresses for Morning and for Afternoon—

—Suits and Dresses designed by Fashion to meet the most exacting demands of Fashion—no matter what they may be—

—Suits and Dresses with "the light of Originality in their eyes" fairly sparkling with individuality and difference, radiant with the bewitching coquetry of summertime—

—Hundreds of them in one splendid, magnificent gathering send out a generous, heart-whole invitation to you and to every woman to come and see them, Monday— $15, $17.50, $19.50 and $25.00—

—An event—brilliant with opportunity—An event that will demonstrate again the efficiency of these great new Fashion Salons at Bullock's and the advantages they are winning and offering to their customers—There are style reasons—quality reasons—value reasons why it is important for you to visit Bullock's new 3rd floor on Monday.

Summer Frocks and Dresses, $15.00—Smart, out-of-the-ordinary frocks of plain crepe, novelty crepe with ratine stripes, self-color plaid crepes, plain and mixed ratine, crashy-looking loose woven linen and of plain linen in a wonderfully pretty assortment of colors. Made with simulated, ruffled, flaring or double tunics, some have wide girdles of black or contrasting color. Big loose blouses with unusual vests and collars. Some made quite simply, while others are dressy enough for afternoon wear—$15.00.

Suits of Ratine or Linen, $17.50—semi-dress and sport suits of novelty crepe plaided with self color ratine, in coral, reseda, orange or white; of narrow even striped ratine in orchid, dark tan and white and of imported linens in natural and wood brown. Made semi-Norfolk with wide shoulder collar and flaring cuffs and skirt with half length tunic—Others with Norfolk coat with sailor collar, small over collar, big patch pockets, and Novelty Coatee Suits with Eton front and envelope flap coat, tunic skirt—$17.50.

Exceptionally Stylish Suits, $19.50—Suits of crepe with fine nobby roughish self stripe in rose, tomato red, violet, golden tan and white. Skirts with simulated tunic and graduated circular ruffle. The coatee of the newest and most novel cut—short sleeves, the upper part of coat and deep pointed back panel cut in one, the neck has cowl collar, the point of same and pointed back panel have pendant ornaments of self material.

—Then there are unusual frocks of crepe, unique styles, at $19.50.

Dainty Afternoon Frocks at $25.00—the prettiest semi-tailleur and semi-dressy frocks for afternoon wear—made of novelty crashes, loose woven ratines, granite ratines, crepes and linens in leather, violet, paprika, Dutch blue, biscuit and white—some are combined with flowered crepe or colored coin spot linen. The girdles and touches of color make these the prettiest of frocks. The waists are peasant blouse style, over blouse effects and coatee styles—$25.00.

—The first June news of waists is some of the most important waist news that Bullock's has ever printed. Women all over Southern California should appreciate and enjoy the beauty and values in this great waist event that opens at Bullock's, Monday—and that is so rich in opportunity for every woman—$1.45, $1.95 and $2.50.

—The result of a deliberate plan to make June one of the greatest Waist months in the history of Bullock's. If you have visited Bullock's Waist Store recently you have probably noticed the great growth and development that it has made during the past year. You have probably been impressed with the clean cut individuality of the styles that have been on display—with their difference and unusual value merit—with the neatness and care and order with which they are carried in stock. These features have been cause for favorable comment from scores of buyers, as has the splendid arrangement and extent of the White Store itself—which has already distinguished itself through several really remarkable sales—

—Now comes this great gathering of beautiful new Waists to be distributed at these strikingly low prices—$1.45, $1.95 and $2.50—to be the most remarkable sale of all——The illustration shows just a few of the styles—No woman should fail to see the real brilliance of the offering in the Waists themselves—Ready, Monday, on the New 3rd floor—

—Semi-tailored Blouses of Marquisette and Novelty Crepe—in a bewildering array—A variety so large that every woman should be delighted.

—4800 Waists all told—but to tell of their real worth and unusualness in an advertisement is extremely difficult, so much depends upon the dignity of their style, the splendid character of their design and workmanship—

—Suffice it to say that the plans that were made have worked out most resultfully, and that women who come to Bullock's for Waists on Monday should be greatly pleased with the advantages they will be able to share—$1.45, $1.95, $2.50.

40-in. Silk Brocades at $1.95

—Beautiful Crepe de Chines and Cashmeres—A really wonderful offering—

—Exquisite Brocades—in such shades as mais, corn, ciel, Copenhagen, French blue, peach, sky blue, lilac, amethyst, biscuit, myrtle, navy and rose pink—40 inches wide at $1.95 yard—the merest fraction of worth—A splendid introduction to other great silks for afternoon and evening wear—A sales of sales at $1.95 yard.

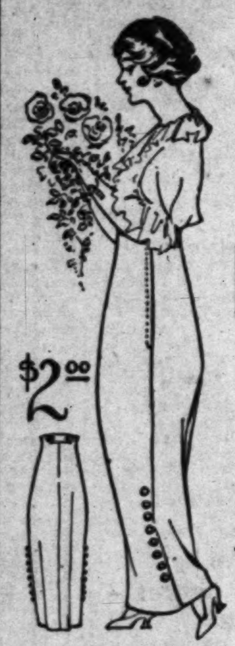
"What! Silk Dresses Like These for $7.95?

Skirts $2!—You'll Doubt It



—Of course you will. Imagine getting skirts of the latest cut, made from splendid quality serge and fancy wool mixtures for $2.

—There isn't one in the lot that isn't worth 50% more—and some of them practically double.

—All splendidly tailored; some of them button trimmed—Wide choice of shades and sizes—$2.00.

$2.95 to $5 Hats $1.95

—The price-break on summer millinery has come—

—Smart tailored and dressy models, flower and ribbon trimmed—hats heretofore priced $2.95, $3.45, $5 are to go out on Monday at $1.95.

$1.95 Hat Shapes 95c

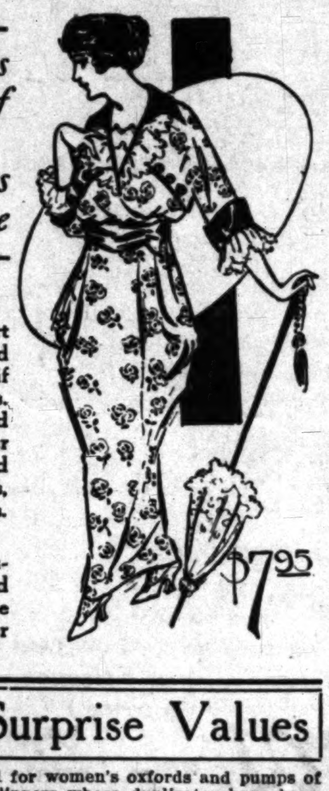
—Even some $2.95 values—probably 15 dozen milan and hemp shapes—the models of today—in white, black, burnt and colors—Plenty of sailor shapes included.

$1.95 to $2.95 Ready-to-Wear Hats $1.00

—Women's and misses' hats for street and motor wear—mostly black milans of soft flexible quality, rosette and ribbon trimmed—And only a dollar!

—"Why, they're practically the same as some we have at half again as much."

—"Yes, and the ones in stock are to come down to this price—$7.95."



—And so on Monday you get smart new silk dresses at $7.95 that would have to bring fully 50% more if Bullock's had paid regular prices.

—Crepes, Foulards, Poplins and other fine silks suitable for summer wear—cut in many new models and very prettily trimmed with frills, pipings, fancy collars and cuffs. Some with vest effects of net.

—Pegged, tiered, puffed and tuniced skirts. Drop shoulders and kimono sleeves. Certainly a rare chance to get a dainty silk dress for little money—$7.95.

Footwear $1—Surprise Values

—An out-clearing of broken lines—$1 for women's oxfords and pumps of patent and dull leathers and satin slippers whose duplicates have been bringing two and three times as much.

—Close to 400 pairs, among which you will find nearly every size—$1 a pair for a record-breaking sale on Monday.

25 Cents For Men's Shirts

—New!—not yet out of their packing cases as this is written—

—Golf shirts with soft cuffs, and summer shirts of soft white and ecru fabrics—shirts of the class you'd expect to find priced at least twice 25c. All sizes from 15 to 17.

Does Tango Reduce Flesh?

The violent movements of the modern dances naturally tend to keep flesh down, but they also tend to put an extra strain upon the vital organs, especially the heart, and so may damage the health more than assist it. Besides, many people do not dance, some people do not believe in dancing, and few people can afford the time to dance enough to really accomplish much reduction. A better way to dissolve fatty tissue easily and quickly without dieting is by taking the parnotis treatment, made at home as follows: Put 4 ounces parnotis (from your druggist's) in 1½ pints hot water and strain when cool. Take a tablespoonful before meals until weight is where you want it. No harm results from the use of the parnotis treatment, and the flesh is left solid and the skin soft and smooth.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double-strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

Beautiful Monday breakfast.

A beautiful 12 o'clock breakfast was given Mrs. William H. Sweet at her handsome Hollywood home last Monday morning, complimenting Mrs. C. C. Snyder of Salt Lake City. The guests were seated at one large table in the dining-room, which was bedecked with pink and white carnations. The same blossoms, arranged with dainty breath-of-heaven, were grouped in a low basket in the center of the table. On the place cards were hand-painted Cherokee roses.

A charming musical programme was given later by Mrs. Mary Belle Hardison, accompanied by Mrs. Lucie Allison Loud and Douglas C. Sweet, young son of the hostess, who gave several violin selections, and Mrs. Snyder, the guest of honor, who delighted the guests with her rich contralto voice.

Responding to the invitation of the hostess were Mmes. C. C. Snyder, George H. Ross, William Kellie, Rollin B. Lane, R. M. Burdick, E. F. Bogardus, Malcom C. Nason, R. P. McJohnston, John Stotle of Santa Monica, M. F. Lewis, George A. Ralph, L. A. Loud, M. B. Harrison, Douglas Sweet and the hostess.

Unique Oriental Dance.

A clever oriental dance was given by Miss Constance Chambers of No. 5348 Russell avenue in compliment to her house guests, Misses Marguerita Dinsmore, Grace Chapman and Marie Briggs. Colored Japanese lanterns, posters, many Chinese decorations and burning incense carried out the unique scheme. The guests came in oriental costume, causing much amusement. Chinese horns and bells were favors of the affair. At midnight, a Chinese supper was served, the guests being seated on mats and compelled to eat with chopsticks. Miss Chambers was assisted by her cousin, Miss Beatrice Chambers. Over twenty-five guests were present.

For New Clubhouse.

The Hollywood Woman's Club will entertain with a large benefit card party at the Hotel Hollywood Saturday afternoon, June 13. The proceeds will be applied to the building fund of the new clubhouse, which is now under construction on Hollywood boulevard, near La Brea avenue.

Next Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock the corner-stone will be laid, when appropriate services will be enjoyed by the members and many residents of Hollywood.

OUT-OF-TOWN-SOCIETY.

Pasadena.

SOCIALLY, Pasadena was extremely dull last week, and daily those who are most conspicuous in social entertaining are leaving Pasadena in great numbers. The only large noteworthy function was the musicale given at the Valley Hunt Club Friday evening by Dr. and Mrs. Charles D. Lockwood of Markham street. Bay trees, palms and giant ferns were used in decorating the entrance hall and ballroom, where the programme was given, and throughout the reception-room and dining-rooms a color scheme of pink and green was carried out with ferns and pink carnations. In the arch between the drawing-room and reception hall a canopy of asparagus plumosus dotted with pink carnations was hung, and here the receiving party stood. Windows were screened with trailing vines of fern with carnations, and the tea tables were ornamented with masses of carnations with all the accessories in pink tulle and fluffy ribbons, with pink flower shades for the decorative candles. Assisting in entertaining were Mmes. Benjamin Folsom, John E. Marble, Henry Vilas, Henry B. Stehman, J. J. Hunker and Benjamin E. Page. The programme was furnished by Mrs. Henly Bussing, soprano, and Alex Simonsen, 'cellist. After the musicale refreshments were served in the two dining-rooms. There were 300 guests present.

One of the delightful affairs of last week was the theater party enjoyed by Valley Hunt Club members, followed by a supper at the clubhouse after the play. "Peg o' My Heart" was the attraction at Clune's, and supper was served in the extension dining-room, where the tables were gay with red carnations and ferns. Violin music throughout the supper added to the evening's pleasure. Those present were: Dr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Holder, Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Meier, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Laws, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Macdonnell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Torrey Everett, Mr. and Mrs. David Blankenhorn, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Miss Lucy Smith, the bride-to-be of Edward Lawrence Doheny, Jr., is being much feted before her wedding day. Friday Mrs. Frederick C. Fairbanks entertained at her home in Oaklawn with a pink luncheon in her honor. The table was decked with roses and lilies and covers were laid for the hostess, the honoree, Mrs. W. H. Smith, Mrs. Edward Lawrence Doheny, Sr., Mrs. J. Clark Smith, Mrs. Anson Lisk, Mrs. Bayly, Mrs. Donald Dawson, Mrs. John Milner Miss Alice Earley, Miss Jennie Earley and Miss Elizabeth Storrow.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. John Milner of Berkeley Square entertained with a luncheon at which Mrs. Donald Dawson and Miss Smith shared honors. The table was charmingly effective with creamy lilies of the valley, interspersed with maidenhair fern. Covers were laid for twelve.

Miss Madeline Harris of South Orange Grove avenue used the pastel tints for the appointments for the luncheon honoring Miss Smith. Small tables were placed for the affair, and each contained as a centerpiece a silver basket brimming in larkspur in the different pastel shades. Each basket was caught with a large tulle bow, on which was resting a bluebird, significant of happiness. Place cards were cupids in pastel shades, caught with tulle bows to which were fastened bluebird pins. At the close of the luncheon, Ulrich Bruner roses were passed each guest, the heart containing a note bearing the name of the charming hostess and Edward Otis Loring of Newton, Mass., the wedding to occur in the fall. Twenty-two guests were included.

A reception and tea was another event for Miss Smith, to which more than 200 invitations were issued, given by her mother and sister, Mrs. J. Clark Smith of South Pasadena, and Mrs. Anson Lisk, at the home of the latter at Beverly Hills. Music was furnished by a Spanish orchestra throughout the afternoon, members of which were in native costume. Wild menulous and sweet peas and pink shaded candles were utilized in the dining-room, and the reception hall was banked with American Beauty roses.

Mr. and Mrs. William Council, No. 1625 Laurel street, are entertaining with a series of dinner parties. The first was held Tuesday evening. A basket of pink rosebuds centered the table, and covers were laid for nine, all old friends. Mr. and Mrs. Martin V. McQuigg of Altadena were the honored guests at the second dinner on Friday evening. The table was aglow with a basket of yellow nasturtians, the vine trailing over the snowy cloth and yellow-shaded candelabra. Harmonizing cards marked covers for Mr. and Mrs. Council, Mr. and Mrs. McQuigg, Lieut.-Gov. A. J. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Bert S. Mull, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fry, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Godfrey, Dr. and Mrs. G. Maurice Crow, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hamilton, Mrs. E. L. B. Godfrey and Mrs. Margaret Reehl. Progressive dominoes occupied the evening, with prizes falling to Mr. and Mrs. McQuigg.

Mmes. Mayo, Reisner, Goodwin, Mrs. M. C. Holman, Mrs. E. Schermerhorn were the luncheon guests of Mrs. F. D. Griffith, Friday at her home, No. 1023 Elm avenue. The table was redolent with American Beauty roses, and the hostess was assisted by her daughter, Miss Blanche Griffith. The day was spent informally.

Mrs. L. R. Garfield and Col. and Mrs. Joseph Rudolph of Buena Vista street, have gone to their summer home in Mentor, O., expecting to return next winter.

MASSES of pink and white sweet peas, Shasta daisies and the softly tufted double marguerites developed a color scheme of pink and white in the decorations for a greatly enjoyed progressive whist party given Tuesday night by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Huff at their beautiful Cypress-avenue home. The lovely flowers glowed from basket and vase and jardiniere. High score trophies were captured by Mrs. Charles Kelley and Ben E. Turner, second prizes going to Mrs. Fred C. Rowland and Hiram D. Connell. The consolation souvenirs were awarded to Mrs. Charles Riggs and Edward B. Trago. Tempting refreshments were served on prettily-appointed small tables following the prize awards. The guest list included Messrs. and Mmes. J. W. Bishop, L. A. Colver, J. I. Clark, J. S. Rice, C. S. Kendall, C. V. Davis, J. L. Tubbs, H. T. Rutherford, F. C. Remsberg, W. E. Winslow, E. B. Trago, C. S. Kelley, Ben E. Turner, F. G. Taylor, P. S. Roper, F. B. Case, F. H. Case, W. H. Malone, George Edgar, Clyde Horton, C. M. Jordan, R. E. Reid, J. R. Porter, R. E. Whitted, H. D. Connell, M. A. Yarnell, S. W. Nau, Charles S. Riggs, W. H. Spurgeon, J. B. Roberts, E. R. Mauzey, J. P. Hatzfeld, F. C. Rowland; Dr. and Miss Boyd, Mrs. Addie Collins, Mrs. Cora Cavins; Messrs. Sam Tustin and George Shattuck.

Miss Grace Roberts and Miss Miller, who soon leave on extended trips, Miss Roberts going to the Orient and Miss Miller to the Atlantic seaboard, were completely and delightfully surprised on Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Neil Beisel, the sister of Miss Roberts. The travelers-to-be were entertained at dinner by Mrs. Beisel, unsuspectingly enjoying a hospitality which she had arranged preliminary to the more pretentious event that followed. After the surprising party had arrived on the scene, the evening was given over to merriment, initiated by a guessing contest, in which Mrs. Rankin and Miss Miller were prize-winners. An informal programme of music and readings followed, and good wishes for delightful journeys and safe returns were voiced. Choice refreshments closed the evening. Besides Miss Roberts and Miss Miller there were present Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Beisel, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]eringham, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible], Misses West, Bowen, Annis, [illegible], Whitaker, Eastmen, Beecher, Lawson, White, Covington; Mrs. [illegible]dict, Mr. Buckles.

Little Miss Betty Hoy celebrated her sixth birthday anniversary on Tuesday afternoon and the W. F. Hoy home on French street was the scene of merry-making when her small playmates responded to "bids" to aid her in its proper observance. Childish games and romps on the lawn were followed by an exodus to the dining-room. It was like a peep into fairyland to see the happy group of children seated around the candle-lighted table that was adorned with red roses, red-shaded candelabra and be-ribboned kewpies standing guard by the beautiful birthday cake with its six tiny tapers. Wee cakes topped with tiny candles and bearing the names of the recipient in chocolate letters were the place cards, and baskets of candies and snappers were also at each place. Wafers, ice cream, cake, bonbons and candies made up the birthday feast partaken of by the small hostess and her following little friends: Margaret [illegible]bon, Helen Hervey, Helen [illegible], Dorothy Clarkson, Clara [illegible], Ethel Smallwood, Juanita [illegible], Mary and Edith McFadden, [illegible] and Eleanor Crookshank, [illegible] Hoy.

The spacious Keech home was thrown hospitably open on [illegible] evening for the entertainment of the track team of the Polytechnic High School with Dana Keech, the captain of the team, as host. His mother, Mrs. E. E. Keech, was hostess for the auspicious event. An elaborately-appointed four-course dinner served at 6 o'clock was resplendent with its decorations of sweet peas, carnations and ferns. Place cards with humorous hints on etiquette marked covers for Coach Walter Hall and E. E. Keech at the ends of the table; Ernest Plavan, Charles Fahey, [illegible]ward Fahey, Beverly [illegible]son, Paul Anderson, Leroy [illegible], Burton Rowley, Henry Forgey, [illegible]bert Dameron, Raymond Adkinson, Russell Adkinson, Leo Keeney, William Graves, and Dana Keech the host. At the close of the delightful dinner Ernest Plavan was elected captain of the team for the ensuing year. Those waiting on the table were Miss Madeline Keech, [illegible] Keech and Percy Kelley.

Mrs. John W. Tubbs gave a charmingly-appointed luncheon and auction bridge on Saturday at her attractive Bush-street home. Sweet peas in pink and white smiled in beauty from baskets tied with fluffy bows of pink tulle, and pink sashes were disported by the coy kewpies into the blance of which the ices were frozen. Luncheon places were marked for Mmes. Clarence A. Gustlin, James [illegible] Rice, Maurice A. Yarnell, Frank C. [illegible] Remsberg, Frank B. Case, William L. Tubbs, Samuel W. Nau, H. Clement Dawes, Fred Parsons, Charles S. Kendall, J. I. Clark, Park S. [illegible], Hiram D. Connell, L. A. Colver, A. R. Porter, Robert E. Reid, A. [illegible] Mauzy, Miss Rosa Boyd. Tables were arranged for bridge following the luncheon, and prizes were won by Mrs. E. R. Mauzy and Mrs. J. I. Clark.

A daintily pretty springtime party was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. P. R. Reynolds, No. [illegible] street, bowls of pink roses and maidenhair fern developing a pink color motif. The same motif was also seen in the delectable refreshments served on small tables after an afternoon of progressive whist. High score with its corresponding prize was won by Mrs. W. A. Huff, second prize going to Mrs. C. S. Kendall, and the consolation to Mrs. M. B. [illegible]. Sixteen tables were arranged in the spacious rooms for the whist players, and the ladies assisting the hostess were Mrs. W. E. Winslow, Mrs. Samuel W. Nau, Mrs. Charles Riggs, Mrs. [illegible] Jerome and Mrs. Robert E. Reid.

Eighty women of the [illegible] school Parent-Teachers Association at a recent meeting were highly entertained by a delightful talk from [illegible] Goldsmithe, who is visiting here, on the "Art of Story-telling." The speaker, whose style is most [illegible], illustrated her talk with an [illegible] story, "The Two Little Pigeons." [illegible] impressive address on the value of story-telling and its vogue in the libraries of the East, will doubtless influence a similar movement [illegible]. The more serious part of the meeting was followed by the serving of tempting refreshments, the hostesses being the ladies of the committee in charge of the programme, Mrs. [illegible] Alexander, Mrs. N. A. Beals, Mrs. [illegible] F. Harvey, Mrs. Clarkson, Mrs. [illegible] Hayhurst.

Orange.

MRS. James Lynn of Los Angeles was the honor guest of an auld lang syne party given recently at the home of Mrs. E. Bussek on [illegible] Maple avenue. The company numbered fifteen and of those present all but two had been in Orange for twenty-five or more years. The exceptions were Mrs. D. C. [illegible], living in Orange for eighteen years, and Miss Lucile Brooks, a [illegible] resident of the city. Gray skies prevailed out of doors but within the cheery rooms were vivid touches of color given by baskets of richly-[illegible] nasturtiums. After reminiscences covering the experiences of a quarter of a century each of them had spent in Orange, the ladies were invited into the dining-room, bright with blossoms, dainty [illegible] spread tables and choice hand-[illegible] china. Delicious refreshments were served on the small tables while interesting talk of old days continued. While still at the table the ladies wrote a toast to Orange as it is in this modern day, and the [illegible] sentiments proved that the [illegible] women are more loyal to the little city of their adoption. [illegible] this delightful meeting [illegible] James Lynn of Los Angeles, [illegible] Margaret Pratt, W. G. McPherson, J. Saunders, Samuel Armor, J. L. Bradshaw, S. McPherson, J. [illegible] Campbell, B. R. Helwig, C. K. [illegible]sier, Charles Baker, R. W. J[illegible], C. Drake, E. Bussek and Miss [illegible] Brooks.

One of the many delightful nuptial parties given for Miss [illegible] Sutton, the bride-to-be of Walter [illegible]ler in the early days of June, was given recently by Mrs. Margaret [illegible]per at her South Orange-street home, alluringly decorated for the afternoon. The pleasures of the afternoon embraced a number of clever contests in which keen wits were brought into play. Mrs. Ina Schmidt and Miss [illegible] Fletcher among the matrons

Santa Monica.

A MILITARY whist party was given by St. Monica's Altar Society Wednesday evening in Columbia Hall. The affair was unique and was carried out humorously by the committee. The large room was decorated with flags from the military service. An atmosphere of discipline prevailed, and yet every one present enjoyed the free and easy way in which the party was conducted. Each table was made to represent a small fort, and many of the large ones were well represented. The players were awarded flags instead of points. Each table had two sides, the defenders and the surrenderers. Ft. Sumpter, guarded by Mrs. John Conley, Mrs. C. Heidacher, Dr. William Whelan and A. S. Georgan, received the first award, a beautiful silk flag. Ft. Vera Cruz, very cleverly gotten up, won second place, with Bombardians Mrs. William Magee, Mrs. St. Johns, Mrs. J. Kirkland and Miss Ada Miller. These people won the consolation prize. Every one brought a knapsack full of luncheon, and the "Java" was cooked in canteens. The chairman of the committee was Mrs. John Barrager.

Mrs. Ray Howard entertained the Kill Kare Club at her Cambridge-street home last Thursday afternoon. This was the last meeting of this novel club until next winter. The members enjoyed dainty refreshments and then sewed during the afternoon. Those present were Mmes. Penhale, Westmeyer, Armacost, Litsey, Smith, Paul Haskell and Ray Howard.

Mrs. W. A. Herdman and Mrs. Gouge were hostesses at St. Margaret's Guild tea Tuesday afternoon, when a special feature, a travel talk by Miss Laura G. Smith, was given. This was the afternoon's best event and was highly appreciated by those present. The tea was given in the parish hall next to St. Augustine's Church. Mrs. Edith Sage McDonald, chief soloist of the First Presbyterian Church of Pasadena, gave several fine selections.

Miss Virginia P. Tufts of Boston is the guest of Miss Grace Adele Pierce at her Third-street home.

Monday afternoon the Women's Club met in regular session and for the purpose of electing officers for the new year. Mrs. D. G. Stephens, who for so long has held the office of honorary president, was elected to take the place of the retiring president, Mrs. F. H. Taft. The first vice-president is Mrs. J. W. Todd; second vice-president, Mrs. Harry J. Slater; recording secretary, Mrs. O. L. Fabrique; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. N. Duckles; treasurer, Mrs. Jessica Clark, and assistant treasurer, Mrs. William McKinley. Mrs. Stephens is the chairman of the Building Committee, one of the most hard-working sections of the club, and has done much for the club in getting the new quarters for the club.

Monday evening a real old-fashioned spelling "bee" was the feature of the entertainment given by the members of the Rebekah Lodge. Attorney W. M. Palmer was the central attraction as the schoolmaster, carrying off his duties to the great satisfaction of all present. During "recess" for luncheon, dainty refreshments were served by the women folk. Mrs. W. G. Fletcher, Mrs. Howard Merrill and Mrs. Mary Hilliard were the members of the committee that had charge of the pleasant evening.

S. A. Wheeler and John Widdicombe were the winners at the card party given Monday evening by Chapter No. 113 of the Eastern Star at the Third-street temple. Ten tables were filled with merry players.

The Tillicum Club met Wednesday afternoon at the Third-street home of Mrs. W. L. Phillips. This little organization is growing, and eenjoyed a most merry afternoon.

AT THE home of Miss Nora Reader on North Hartwick avenue was given a farewell luncheon in honor of her cousin, Miss Mabel Harris, who has been spending the winter here and who is to leave Tuesday for her home in Delaware, Delavan, Wis. The rooms were prettily decorated with pink carnations and roses. The guests were: Mrs. A. L. Magoon and Mrs. E. P. Magoon of Long Beach, Mrs. E. W. Congdon of Garvanza, Mrs. Anna Matthews, Miss Jane Matthews, Mrs. George Fog, and Mrs. Delbert Reader of Los Angeles, Mrs. N. S. MacAlister, Miss Lillian MacAlister and Miss Fannie Congdon of Eagle Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lane of West Sycamore avenue have returned home from their two week's vacation spent at Switzer's Camp.

Mrs. C. Gillette of Beverly Hills is visiting her father, Col. J. W. Eddy, and daughter, Miss Perle Gillette, on West Colorado boulevard.

Miss Josephine Lewis of Long Beach was a guest of Miss Barnett Sunday at their new home on Valley View avenue.

Miss Fannie MacAlister of Spencer, Iowa, visited at the home of Mrs. S. J. Cathcart on Alcatraz avenue, Monday.

Mrs. F. R. Scouten of East Park avenue gave a delightful farewell evening for the former's sister, Miss Flora May Ross, who will leave this week for her home at Portland, Or., on Tuesday evening.

An attractive birthday party was given Saturday afternoon with little Elizabeth Langley as hostess. The house was prettily decorated with Dorothy Perkins roses, smilax and tulle the shade of the roses. Favors and table decorations were all in rose and white. The children enjoyed a number of interesting new games as well as some old favorites. Prizes were won by Mildred Osmun, Florence Allard and Frank Morgan. Those who enjoyed the afternoon were: Dorris and Mildred Osmun, Rosemary Fuller, Wilhemina Koethen, Florence Allard, Neilhuler, Donald Duncan and Frank Morgan.

Mrs. L. C. Kirkes of Acacia avenue delightfully entertained the Presbyterian Missionary Society with a social afternoon on Saturday. The house was decorated with roses. More than fifty ladies attended, a fine programme was given in music. Mrs. Frank Brooks Pierce of Los Angeles sang a solo, Mrs. T. S. Breckenridge of Los Angeles gave two piano selections, Miss Ellen Robinson of Eagle Rock gave two vocal selections and Mrs. Pierce and Mrs. Kirkes sang a duet. All of the numbers were greatly enjoyed. At the close of this programme a very charming parlor play was given, the subject being, "Mrs. Tub's Telegram." Those taking part were Miss Mildred Mason, Mrs. H. J. Lane, Mrs. William Carney, Miss Ellen Robinson, Miss Andrea Kirkes and Master Leonard Kirkes, all of Eagle Rock. A dainty lunch was then served. The ladies from Los Angeles attending were: Mmes. L. S. Breckenridge, F. B. Pierce, G. C. Speer, W. S. Young, E. J. Wilson, E. Beale, Cross, Smiley and Misses Phyllis Speer, Miss Sara Young and Miss Mary Wilson.

MRS. EARL FRASER, who had the beautifully-decorated Australian float in the Empire Day event of the parade was given a handsome silver cup as a reward for her trouble and work in getting up the picturesque float. Owing to a misunderstanding, and failing to instruct the judges who looked at the parade, this unique float was overlooked, and as a result of the bad management, the originator of the attraction was given the extra prize.

Wednesday evening the first of a "Thousand and One Nights" of revelry and merrymaking was a lively one on the plaza, pier, and dancing pavilion. The affair was a costume carnival, and more bright outfits were seen at this carnival than at any heretofore given on the bay. The balconies were well filled with spectators, who watched the gaily-bedecked masqueraders dance, and the standing room on the main floor was at a premium. Everyone had a good time and the evening went speedily. Another such night of fun will soon be given by Manager Monson of this popular temple of dancing.

Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Basil Savage, who have been spending their honeymoon here, left for their home in San Diego. They were the guests of Misses Beulah and Marian Girard at their Fourth-street home. Miss Elizabeth Knox, Mrs. Savage's sister, will remain over for a few days, being one of the out-of-town guests at the Edens Darst party in Venice.

Saturday evening the members of the Breakers' Club enjoyed a lively evening of cards and dancing at the elegant new quarters of the club in the lately-finished Fraser building on the pier. The club members are getting better acquainted and the outlook for the coming season is a bright one, as many of the younger members are planning many delightful functions. Mrs. Earl Fraser is one of the most prominent of the younger members, and promises some merry times for this summer.

Tuesday evening the Piano Committee of the Women's Club piloted a most enjoyable box party at the dancing pavilion. This is the first dance of this kind to be given by these ladies, the first attempt being most satisfactory, both from a financial standpoint and a social view. There were many new dances seen, and all present enjoyed the large floor and fine music.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Cunningham was the hostess at the Breakers' Club card party in the clubrooms on Fraser pier. The afternoon sessions are proving quite interesting, and all members are delighted with the new home of the club.

Mrs. Harry J. Slater of the Women's Club of this beach will represent that organization at the biennial in Chicago, leaving here on the 5th of the coming month.

Wednesday evening D. Swiney entertained the members of the Delta Omega Sigma Fraternity with a box party in the Fraser pier dancing hall. Many clever professional ballroom dancers were seen, and the fraternity boasts of several champions.

The "Gink" Club, composed of a number of young Los Angeles business men, has moved to the beach, having taken a large house at the upper end of Rose avenue, near the Trolleyway. This is the most unique club on the bay, and wherever the members go they are always met with open arms. Those who are lucky enough to belong, and who live at the big house, are always out for pleasure. They are planning some original and unique parties for the summer.

Huntington Beach.

MRS. C. C. RAMSEY and little daughter are visiting their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Blodget of Eighth street.

Dr. Albert A. Clark and Sophia Lange were united in marriage Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. T. S. Uren, at his home at Fourteenth and Orange. The future home of Dr. and Mrs. Clark will be on Dr. Clark's ranch, about four miles in the country.

Mrs. C. W. Williams and daughter, Miss Angelita, of Los Angeles, were week-end guests of E. L. Casswell.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Moore returned Monday morning from Sacramento, where Mr. Moore attended the K. P. Grand Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Dike and family of Redlands, spent Sunday in their cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Porter have taken the house at No. 332 Fourteenth street. Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Heffner and family left Wednesday morning for a motor trip to San Diego; they will visit Warner ranch and other points of interest in the southern county, and will return this evening or Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Farmer had as their guests Wednesday Mrs. Emma Grabach of Long Beach, mother of Mrs. Farmer.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Talbert returned Wednesday morning from a trip to Yosemite Valley and the big trees near Wawona.

The Racquet Club will give a dance at the Huntington Inn Wednesday evening, June 3. The dance will be an invitation affair, and good outside music is promised. Refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm L. Bernie of Eighth and Walnut had as their week-end guests Mrs. Georgia Bevan and Sanford Bevan of Los Angeles.

The eighth grade teachers were entertained by Cecil McCoy Tuesday evening at his home on Twelfth street. The class colors of green and white were carried out in the decorations, and the class banner was displayed in a conspicuous place. Refreshments were served.

A pleasant afternoon was passed at Central Park Wednesday, when the eighth grade pupils were entertained by those of the seventh grade. Games were enjoyed and all went home happy.

A class party was given by Prof. Thomas Hosack at his home in Westminster Friday evening, when the graduating class of the Westminster school were his guests. Those present included Georgis Abbott, Lelia Commons, Clara Fogal, Ethel Fogler, Mary Francis, Violet Gilnes, Effie Twogood, Glenna Wright, Gertrude Roberts, David McFarland, John Murday, Willie Robertson and Arthur Roberts.

Tustin.

FOR the monthly luncheon to which the members of the Ebell Home Economics Club of Tustin treat themselves the home of Mrs. Henry Romer was made most attractive on Wednesday, beautiful Dorothy Perkins roses and ferns being profusely and artistically used. The recipes for the savory dishes conspicuous at the luncheon were unique and especially new to most of the members, Mrs. Romer utilizing some family gustatory treasures in the menu. The first of these was an "appetizer," as she styled it, in which cheese and ham were united in a most pleasing fashion. Thin sandwiches served with German coffee, prepared by Mrs. Romer's sisters, Mmes. Diebold of Los Angeles and Beckman of Tustin, were exclaimed over, while individual strawberry pies made after an original recipe of Mrs. Romer's mother proved to be a triumph of culinary richness. It was with regret that the ladies realized this was the last of similar affairs before the close of the club season. But they submerged their regrets in planning for their annual picnic, to take place in June. Guests at the luncheon were Mmes. Charles Bowman, Cood Adams, B. H. Sharpless, S. W. Stanley, Fred Preble, C. E. Utt, E. J. Cranston, Diebold of Los Angeles, Beckman, Henry Romer, and Miss Minnie Childs.

Very happily surprised recently were Mr. and Mrs. George Prather, Jr., when the girls of the Sunday-school class of which Mrs. Prather, a lately-wedded bride, has been a member. The young women were accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Earl Tingley, and made a merry invading party. The interesting surprise event took place at the home of the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Ann Schwartz, who had aided the young women in their plans by inviting Mr. and Mrs. Prather to be her dinner guests. Those in the party of self-invited visitors were Mrs. Earl Tingley, Misses Avis Smith, Ruth Rawlings, Gertrude Lambert, Emma Thorman, Margaret Tingley, Grace Hatfield, Verda White and Ella Awe.

The crowning feature of a charming little meeting of the Coreopsis Club on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ann Schwartz was the serving of what the hostess styled "Bunker Hill" refreshments, consisting of vanilla and strawberry ice cream served in cunning little canoes from which floated tiny flags, miniature replicas of "Old Glory," which is just now uppermost in the minds of all true citizens as they reflect on Memorial Day and its patriotic significance. Beside Mrs. Schwartz, the ladies enjoying the afternoon together were Mmes. Edward Smith, Daniel Hart, Charles King, Roy Runnells, Charles O. Artz, William Collar, Fenlon Matthews and George Prather, Jr.

Buena Park.

AMONG the brilliant affairs of the season may be numbered the masquerade ball given Friday evening under the auspices of the local chapter of the Eastern Star. The spacious hall had been transformed by the effective use of greenery and flowers and a picturesque setting for the pretty costumes was afforded. Dancing en masque continued until a late hour, after which a delicious collation was served in the adjoining banquet-room. Many were present from out-of-town districts.

Members of the Ladies' Mutual Aid Society were delightfully entertained on Thursday afternoon at the charming country home of Mrs. Edward L. Cole. Roses and ferns were combined artistically in the living-rooms, while the dining-room was redolent with masses of sweet peas. After a pleasant afternoon profitably spent with needlework for the "needy," a delicious repast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Warren returned during the week from an extended tour of the southern part of the State in their automobile. Both Mr. and Mrs. Warren are enthusiastic motorists.

Ontario.

THE annual installation of the officers, who will serve the Shakespeare Club during the ensuing year was marked by a charmingly appointed luncheon Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edgar N. Kinney, No. 504 West A street. Scarlet poppies and Shasta daisies were used effectively in decoration. The luncheon was followed by a musical. The new officers of the Shakespeare Club are Mrs. Howard Montrose Shattuck, president; Mrs. Charles Otis Goss, vice-president; Mrs. A. B. Wyckoff, secretary, and Miss Frieda Graettinger, treasurer. Covers at the luncheon were arranged for Mrs. William P. Rayner, Mrs. Leonard Baugh Fowler, Mrs. Charles Crombie Allen, Mrs. Henry Hamer Dilworth, Mrs. Charles Otis Goss, Mrs. Howard Montrose Shattuck, Mrs. John Stewart Ingalls, Mrs. Carleton Y. James, Mrs. George B. Sell, Mrs. A. B. Wyckoff, Mrs. S. C. Henderson, Mrs. Howard Berg, Mrs. Edgar N. Kinney, Miss Katharine Salter, Miss Frieda Graettinger, Miss Ala Ballou, Miss Ruth Tubbs and Mrs. George Arthur McCrea.

Complimentary to her sister, Mrs. Vernon, the anniversary of whose birth it was, Mrs. Frank L. Shimmin, entertained Friday afternoon at her home, No. 205 West F street, with a charmingly appointed luncheon party. California poppies were used in decoration and place cards were hand decorated. Those who enjoyed Mrs. Shimmin's hospitality included Mrs. Vernon, Mrs. W. H. Monroe, Mrs. William Rolland, Mrs. L. A. Graves, Mrs. R. H. Leeson and Mrs. F. W. Whitney.

Mrs. Samuel H. Gardner, Mrs. Carence Edwin Christensen and Mrs. Frederick Fallis were hostesses Thursday evening at the home of the latter, No. 537 North Euclid avenue to the teachers of the Central grammar school. A color scheme of red and white was carried out in decoration, carnations being the predominating flower. Music and games afforded amusement. The guests included Mrs. Charlotte Reed, Miss Evelyn Stone, Miss Clara Perrin, Miss Emma Miller, Miss Catherine Culbertson, Miss Dorothy Gresham, Miss Esther Hofert, Miss Harriet Cape, Mrs. Elizabeth Noonan, Miss Theodora Wackerman and Miss Lois Christensen.

The final meeting for the season of the Ontario Current Events Club was addressed by Mrs. Miguel Estudillo of Riverside, her subject being "Art." The speaker dwelt chiefly upon American artists, beginning with Benjamin West, and closing with a little talk on the artists of California today, which she illustrated with photographs of their best paintings. In closing the meeting, Mrs. Ross Petch Garbutt, the retiring president, very graciously and in well-chosen words, expressed her appreciation of the work of the retiring officers and committees of the club.

The elementary pupils of Mrs. Florence Cowen Richards, instructor in violin and piano, delighted an audience which filled the Masonic Hall to overflowing Tuesday evening in their annual recital. Tots scarcely able to reach the pedals of the piano [illegible]ered music, which reflected [illegible] credit upon their instructor.

Complimentary to Miss [illegible] Minto Elliot, who has just re[illegible] from an absense of two years [illegible], Mrs. Charles Crombie Allen entertained informally Wednesday afternoon at her home, No. 617 North Euclid avenue. The afternoon was [illegible] at bridge and a collation was served. The guests included Miss Elliot, [illegible] Ala Ballou, Miss Frieda Graettinger, Miss Katherine Salter, Mrs. [illegible] Ray Kennedy, Mrs. William [illegible]buck Fenton and Mrs. George B. Sell.

Mrs. Mary B. Taylor of the [illegible]ver apartments was a week-end guest at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brinkley, and Miss [illegible] Brinkley, the well-known artist, of Glendora. The affair was in the shape of a house warming, the Brinkleys having just purchased a beautiful home in the foothills.

Ontario Lodge F. & A. M. entertained with a dancing party Wednesday evening at the Masonic Temple, about thirty-five couples enjoying the affair. Wilding's orchestra furnished the music.

Claremont.

MISSES MABEL ALLEN and [illegible] Howery assisted Miss [illegible] Humphrey in entertaining at her home last Saturday evening in honor of the High School seniors. [illegible] entertainment was furnished the guests with stunts and games. Decorations in the class colors of red and white were very effective and pretty. The same color scheme was carried out in the refreshments, which bore the class numerals. [illegible] beautiful red carnations were given to each of the guests. Those present included Misses Ruth Richmond ([illegible] class officer,) Helen Overholser, [illegible] Utt, Evelyn Brown, Edith [illegible], Opal Culbertson, Beatrice [illegible], Grace Ingham, Marguerite [illegible], Grace Hoskins, May [illegible] and Helen Powell and Messrs. [illegible] Penrod, Dale Healy, George [illegible], Emannuel Young, Austin [illegible], [illegible] Baughman, Frederick Brackett, [illegible] Hastings, Robert Witter, [illegible] Smith, Robert Hagar, Selden [illegible], Edwin Whitney and Harold [illegible].

Mrs. R. D. Williams was hostess to the Merry Wives Wednesday afternoon, and a pleasant time was spent by the members. Those present were Mmes. J. B. Anderson, L. M. [illegible], J. D. Johnson, Charles Baynham, [illegible] S. Rider, Howard Geer, J. [illegible] Connell, W. A. Hilton, E. E. [illegible], J. R. Bradley, R. D. Chisholm, [illegible] Harwood, C. R. May and H. D. [illegible].

A number of High School students, accompanied by Miss Gertrude [illegible]lows, the instructor in Latin, [illegible] to Alhambra last Friday evening to attend a Latin play given by pupils of the Alhambra High School. The play presented was "A [illegible] School." Among those attending the performances were: Misses [illegible] Parsons, Grace Hamilton, [illegible] Romick, Catherine Rich, Mella [illegible], Mrs. Whitney and Messrs. Harry [illegible] Clair, Howard Parsons, Stuart [illegible]er, Robert Hagar, Clarence [illegible] Allen Blaisdell, Emmanuel [illegible], Edwin Whitney and Frederick [illegible]ett.

The annual senior-sophomore reception, which the sophomores give in honor of the seniors, was held out of doors last Saturday evening in [illegible] wash. A large area near the [illegible] had been fenced in with pepper boughs and oak branches, and [illegible] the green boughs were strewn [illegible] colored flowers made of crepe paper. The grounds were lighted with Japanese lanterns, and the effect of the whole was indescribably [illegible]. The guests as they arrived were given an incense stick by little Japanese boys. With the dancing, twinkling lights, the gay colors and the sweet incense, one could imagine oneself in some kind of a Japanese Fairyland. For entertainment a short play was presented, "[illegible] Bob," which afforded a great deal of amusement with its comic and ridiculous situations. Before and after the play a chorus of Japanese children sang and danced to the enjoyment of the guests. After the performance they mingled with the guests, serving them with dainty pink apple blossoms from quaint baskets. Delicious refreshments were served by little Japanese ladies.

The members of the seventh grade delighted a large audience at the parish-house Monday evening with a repetition of their "Old Folks Concert." The performance was given under the auspices of the [illegible] Club and was well worth seeing. The children were dressed in old-fashioned costumes and rendered their parts exceedingly well. The first number consisted of two songs by the choir, "[illegible] the Firelight" and "Song of [illegible]." Next came a reading, "[illegible] Snooks," by Brother Keith [illegible]. The third number was a duet on the spinet by Spinsters Helen White and Lucy Parsons. One of the most enjoyable things on the program was the song, "Johnnie Smoker," given by a male quartette, consisting of Brothers Charles Daggs, Keith Powell, [illegible]old Lorbeer and George Hamilton. A [illegible] song, "Invitation," by the choir followed, and then Spinster [illegible] gave a reading, "The Volunteer Organist." A vocal solo, entitled "Grandma's Advice," by Spinster Parsons was very good. The song "[illegible]" by the quartette, and "Old [illegible] Home," which everyone joined in singing, completed a very [illegible] entertainment. After the [illegible] refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

Miss Mary Woodford was a charming hostess at her home on [illegible] avenue last Friday evening to a number of her classmates. A delightful evening was spent by the guests. These included Misses [illegible] Clausen, Wilma Andrews, [illegible] Moles, Amy Pefley, Florence [illegible], Helen de Camp, Irene de [illegible], Walker, Velma Woodward [illegible] Messrs. Hugh Clary, Herbert [illegible], Carl Wheat, Val Powelson, [illegible] Wilson, Walter Reeves, [illegible]lette, Will Metz, John De[illegible] Byron Phillips.

And so on for any intermediate or greater amount.

No sum will be refunded in any case in excess of the buyer's ACTUAL OUTLAY FOR TRANSPORTATION to Los Angeles and return, and entries on transportation checks will be limited to the amount of cash paid at time transaction is made.

Important to Visiting Buyers

When you have purchased your goods from the first merchant, ask him to enter the sale on a transportation check. He will do so and give you the check, on which you will have recorded any subsequent purchases you may make in other FREE FARE STORES.

When your shopping is finished, present this check at the refunding office, The Los Angeles Times (First and Broadway) and they will cash it without red tape; delay, or formalities. They will refund the full amount of your round trip fare if your purchases are sufficient; and if not, the percentage to which you are entitled.

The Los Angeles market offers an assortment of merchandise at all times equal in extent and variety to all possible demands of all classes of buyers. Los Angeles merchandise is suited to the special requirements of the people living in Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico. It is sold at prices, quality for quality, at least as low, and in many cases lower, than the same class of goods can be obtained from any other available source of supply. The visiting buyer in Los Angeles will be treated in such a way that he will come again. He will see and examine the merchandise before parting with his money, and a responsible local dealer will be answerable for its quality. The visitor will be considered as under the protection of the merchants whose names appear in this advertisement, and each one of them will see that his visit is made both pleasant and profitable. Moreover, each merchant will be as much interested in protecting the interests of the visiting buyer while he or she is in Los Angeles as the visitor himself could possibly be.

Corns Go, Sure Pop If You Use "Gets-It"

Simple As A B C—It's the New Way of Curing Corns and Calluses.

If you have corns now the chances are you have never used "GETS-IT," the biggest seller among corn cures ever known. It is the new way, does away with all trouble, pain and fussing in treating corns.

Get the Corns Off Your Feet, and the Corn Wrinkles Off Your Face. Nothing Can Do It Like "GETS-IT."

Thousands who have puttered with old corns for years, have gotten rid of them right off, with a few drops of "GETS-IT," applied as quick as you can spell your name. Corns just love to be cut, picked, filed, gouged and pulled. Quit it. You've tried cotton rings that cause shooting corn pains, greasy salves that spread over the toe and make it raw and tape that sticks to the stockings—now try "GETS-IT." It has none of the drawbacks of the old style corn cures, eases pain and never fails on any corn or callus.

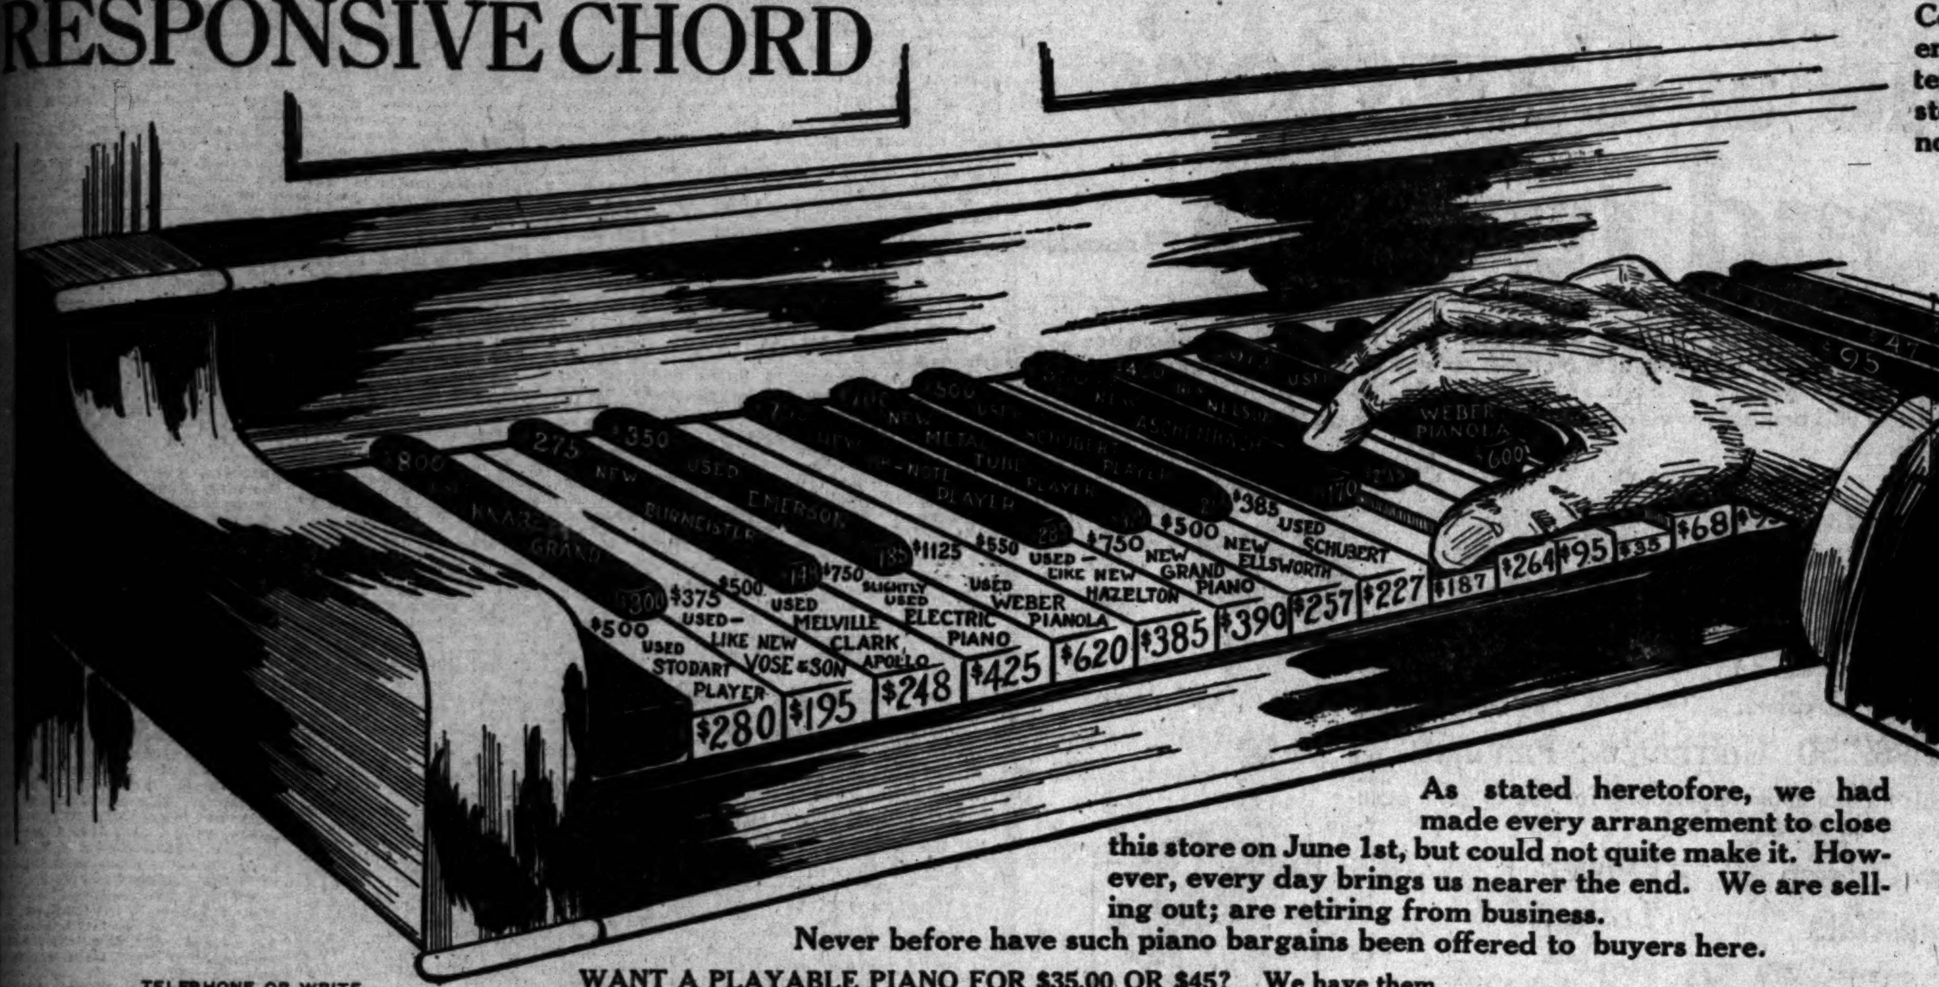
"GETS-IT" is sold by all druggists, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

"GETS-IT" is sold in Los Angeles by The Owl Drug Co.

EILERS CLOSING OUT SALE HAS STRUCK A RESPONSIVE CHORD

Could not quite make it, but the end is in sight. We do not intend to pay another full month's store rent. Everything must go now. Terms no objection.

Every Piano Guaranteed



As stated heretofore, we had made every arrangement to close this store on June 1st, but could not quite make it. However, every day brings us nearer the end. We are selling out; are retiring from business.

Never before have such piano bargains been offered to buyers here.

WANT A PLAYABLE PIANO FOR $35.00 OR $45? We have them.
WANT ONE FOR $95? We have them. Many different makes can be had on $4 monthly payment plan.
WANT A REALLY NICE ONE FOR $145? These are really good ones. $5 a month buys them.

TELEPHONE OR WRITE.

Out-of-town buyers should write or telephone for descriptive lists and numbers. Any instrument sent subject to examination upon deposit of amount stated in this advertisement. The deposit will be cheerfully refuded if the instrument is not found satisfactory. This sale will be continued until every instrument is sold. Remember, every instrument is fully guaranteed, and at these low prices it should find buyers quickly.

At $195 we offer you your choice of slightly used Chickering, Kimball in fancy quarter-sawed oak case, Marshall & Wendell, Lester, A. B. Chase, and many others, on terms of $6 a month; delivery made free to any part of the city.

At $265, we offer you the largest, fanciest and costliest pianos to be found anywhere—the famous Kimball, the good old Weber, the dependable Lester (used.) Also a number of our own "The Eilers Orchestral" in fancy Mahogany. Quarter-sawed Oak, and Walnut cases. All of these fine pianos are marked at one and the same uniform price of $265—terms, $8 per month. Many of these are new. Some have come to us in part payment for our "EILERS DE LUXE" player pianos, and others for our well-known Bungalow player pianos.

At $200 to $336, we offer you a varied assortment of the very highest achievement in the production of true tone quality. Here you will find a magnificent Knabe grand, the regular $850 style, case in satin rosewood, has been used some, but the action and tone perfect. We are offering this Monday at $300, cash or terms. Brand new Baby Grands in beautiful Mahogany cases, the regular $750 kind for $340. The $850 kind at $425, and the regular $1000 Grands at $550. One magnificent Fumed Oak Mission Art Grand, regular $1250 value, is reduced an even $500. We will extend convenient terms of payment on any and all of these instruments. You must see them to appreciate them.

PLAYER PIANOS TAKE FEARFUL DROP—We are now offering new "88-note" or "full scale" player pianos, the kind ordinarily sold for $500, at $235, with free bench and music rolls. The $600 kind in Mahogany and Oak cases at $285, and for $310. We are now offering you the very highest grade 88-note players, ordinarily sold elsewhere for $700, for $320. We are making corresponding reductions on the very best of all, our "Eilers De Luxe" player, also on the famous Kimball Acmelodic and magnificent Decker player pianos. With every player piano we give a suitable player bench and music rolls, and on some of these we will be glad to arrange terms of payment as low as $2.00 per week. "Get that player piano now!"

MOST PROMINENT MAKES INCLUDED—A hurried trip through this big establishment devoted to musical instrument selling, the largest and most varied stock of everything musical on the Pacific Coast, will quickly convince even the most discriminating musician of the quality of the pianos now offered in this sale.

EASY TO PAY FOR ONE—Start with a payment of only $5.00; the rest is easy. Any instrument in this sale may be had on such terms of payment as any home can conveniently arrange. Our new and most liberal easy payment plan places a piano within reach of every child which ought to have a musical education. No home should be without a piano. Payments can now be arranged semi-annually, or even or a one, two and three-year plan.

Anaheim.

MR. AND MRS J. H. ENEARL entertained with a prettily-appointed dinner on Tuesday evening, the occasion being their thirty-fourth wedding anniversary. The house was tastefully decorated with ferns and cut flowers, an effective color motif of pink and green was carried out both in the living and dining-rooms. Covers were laid for the Rev. and Mrs. F. W. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wickett, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bell and Mrs. Raymond.

Members of the Music Lovers' Club were entertained on Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Edna Schlotter. "Music Among the Greeks" was the subject of the afternoon's discussion and the instruments and customs of ancient Greece were an important and interesting feature of the programme. Among those present were the Misses Jeanette Jessurum, Vivian Peterman, Lois Dyer, Margaret Junge, Mildred Rasmussen, Dorothy Garrison, Martha Hilend, Doris James, Fay Kern and the charming little hostess, Edna Schlotter.

Complimentary to Miss Lois Blake, whose engagement to Walter J. Jewell was recently announced, Mrs. W. P. Quarton entertained with a miscellaneous shower on Saturday afternoon. After a pleasant hour of cards and music a dainty collation was served. Hand-etched place cards marked covers for twenty.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Grim have as their house guests Mr. and Mrs. John Boren of Dayton, O. Several social affairs have been planned complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Boren and also for Miss Mary Grim, who, having completed a post-graduate course at the State university, has returned for the summer months

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schindler was the scene of happy festivities on Wednesday evening, when their many friends assembled to surprise Mr. Schindler and assist him in celebrating his birthday anniversary. A beautifully-appointed dinner was served, after which cards and music were features of the evening's entertainment. Mr. Schindler was the recipient of hearty congratulations.

Misses Sophia and Marie Rimpau left on Monday for San Francisco, and there boarded the steamship Sierra for an extensive tour of the Hawaiian Islands and the Australasias.

Members of the senior class of the Anaheim High School presented the drama "Esmeralda" in a delightful manner on Friday evening at the High School auditorium. Each member of the cast was worthy of praise and Miss Veda Walker, under whose direction the play was staged, deserves especial mention.

A recital was given on Saturday afternoon by the students of Miss Stella Schwentker. Among those participating were the Misses Edna Hochull, Lillian Schulz, Nia Tobin, Lillian Zahl, William Bloodgood, Aurora Daniels, Elsa Thompson, Frances Reed, Elsalie Schellens, Theodore Owen, Gladys Thompson and Margaret Bloodgood.

Oxnard.

MR. AND MRS. R. B. HAYDOCK entertained about forty guests at auction bridge at one of the pleasantest evening affairs of the season. Roses, dahlias and Shasta daisies were prettily used in the different rooms in harmonious color combinations. Winners of the ladies' prizes were Mrs. Alvin Rice and Miss Kate Murphy. Messrs. E. H. Wood and H. R. Staples won the gentlemen's prizes.

Mrs. Gerry Driffill entertained a few friends informally at a thimble party in honor of Mrs. J. A. Driffill and daughter, Miss Emma, who have recently returned from the Orient. An interesting feature of the afternoon was an account by the guest of honor of some of the experiences of her trip.

The fifth, or wooden, wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Gilmore was the occasion of an enjoyable evening, when about twenty friends were gathered for an informal good time at their Hueneme home. Gifts, amusing and practical, games and music, with enjoyable refreshments, were features of the evening.

In honor of the birthday of Mrs. Frank Alvos, an enjoyable affair was arranged by Miss Chestina Fish, Mrs. A. Richardson and Mrs. C. E. Richart. The guest of honor, with her husband, was brought to Woodman Hall of Hueneme, where about 100 friends were gathered. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Donlon led the grand march, which formed when Mr. and Mrs. Alvos entered the hall. A competent orchestra furnished enjoyable music for dancing during the evening. Supper was served at tables decorated in Shasta daisies, pink dahlias and English ivy. Ivy was combined with wild carrot, or "Queen Anne's Lace," in pretty decorations throughout the hall. Several vocal and instrumental solos were given during the evening.

The closing luncheon of the year will be given Monday by the Oxnard Monday Club in the clubrooms. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock and cards and music occupy the afternoon.

San Bernardino.

THE announcement of an engagement and approaching marriage, which will alike interest San Bernardino and Los Angeles, was made this week, when the happy secret of Miss Emma Jean Ellis, musical supervisor in the San Bernardino city schools, and Otto R. Benedict of Los Angeles was broken to the public in the formal "declaration of intention" by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Ellis of Effingham, Kan.

The wedding will follow close upon the termination of the school year next month, the exact date of the event being withheld. The bride-elect has been at the head of the musical department in the San Bernardino schools for the past two years, during which time she has become unusually popular with teachers and pupils. She is a graduate of Drake University at

Save Your Eyes

Marvelous Home Treatment Does It.

HEADACHES BANISHED.

TRY THIS FREE PRESCRIPTION.

Do your eyes ache? Do they itch and burn? Would you like to dispense with your glasses? Are you troubled with headaches? If so, here's a free prescription for you.

A New York physician comes forth with the edict that glasses must go. These windows are, in many cases, merely crutches, and you might just as well expect crutches to cure rheumatism as to expect all eye trouble to be cured by glasses. Many wear glasses who would not require them if they took proper care of their eyes.

The simple home remedy will astonish you after a few applications. It is absolutely harmless in every way. You may use it in a baby's eyes without the slightest fear of injury. The eyes need a bath just as do other organs. The eyes are constantly throwing off poisonous matter, and, unless it is washed away, weak, inflamed eyes are apt to result.

We publish this prescription so the readers of this paper may reap benefit. Persons having granulated lids will appreciate the comfort and relief this prescription gives. Inflamed, watery eyes, or eyes which look dull and glassy, will be greatly improved after a reasonable trial of this remarkable remedy.

Do not become a victim of neglect. Cut out this prescription and go to your nearest drug store or to the Owl Drug Company, and get a box of Optona Tablets; dissolve one in a two-ounce bottle of pure water and apply four times daily. Note how your eyes will clear up and how refreshed they will feel. Headaches due to tired eyes quickly disappear.

You will then thank us for calling your attention to this valuable prescription. In the package you will find a valuable, instructive booklet, which gives a vast amount of intensely interesting information pertaining to eye disorders. It should be in every home. Many who are hopelessly blind put off eye protection until it was too late.

Newbro's Herpicide

Is the Original Germ Remedy for Dandruff

WITHOUT dandruff the hair must grow as nature intended, except in chronic baldness, which is incurable. Dandruff is a contagious disease. To eradicate this contagion and keep it out of the scalp, intelligent care and a suitable remedy are needed. We can supply only the remedy which is NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

A Woman to Be Pretty Must Have Pretty Hair

Beautiful locks have a subtle charm, for the poet says, "fair tresses man's imperial race ensnare." The unpoetic and intensely real dandruff contagion makes the hair dull, brittle and lusterless with later dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE eradicates this enemy of beauty and enables the hair to resume its natural luster and beauty.

Almost marvelous results sometimes follow the intelligent use of HERPICIDE. It overcomes excessive oiliness and makes the hair light and fluffy. HERPICIDE contains no grease or dye. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

Discriminating ladies who have used NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE, speak of it in the highest terms, for its almost magical effect upon the scalp, and also for its excellence as a regular hair dressing. It is delightfully fragrant and refreshing.

Send 10 cents in stamps to The Herpicide Co., Dept. 112B, Detroit, Michigan, for sample.

Two Sizes—50 cents and $1.00. Sold and guaranteed at all Toilet Goods Counters.

When you call for Herpicide, do NOT accept a substitute.

We Are Painless Dentists

And yet there are people who go to their dentist, wait in an agony of apprehension for their call to his chair, and sit in justified fear and trembling while he probes and grinds, and cleans and scours and hurts, hurts, HURTS! Simply because they have not been made to appreciate to the full how absolutely unnecessary is any pain. Yale Dentists, 444 South Broadway, Third Floor, Parmelee-Dohrmann Building.

Fels-Naptha Soap eases your work and saves your strength. The old-time way of doing the week's wash meant that women all over the country hated Monday. It is no fun to stand over a tub all day, rubbing your hands sore on a washboard, or keep up a hot fire, with a heavy boiler full of clothes to lift up and down from the stove.

ANTY DRUDGE

Fels-Naptha Soap has changed all this. It works best in cool or lukewarm water; it loosens the dirt, so that no hard rubbing is necessary, and the clothes do not need to be boiled. The Fels-Naptha way is easier on you and on your pocketbook, for it saves your health and it saves your clothes, as well as cleans them.

Every Woman Thanks Anty Drudge

Anty Drudge—"Why, Mrs. Smith; you look much better than the last time I saw you. You were all tired out with your housecleaning then."

Mrs. Smith—"Anty Drudge, I certainly am glad to see you! I never thanked you for telling me about Fels-Naptha Soap. Just step in the house, and when I get these last few pieces hung up I will be in. I never used to get through my wash till suppertime, but since I use Fels-Naptha Soap, and follow directions, the work seems to do itself, and I am so much better and stronger."

Follow the directions on the Red and Green Wrapper.

Eczema Is Only Skin Deep

A few skin troubles originate in the blood. But very few. Dr. Evans, ex-Commissioner of Health and a famous writer on medical subjects, says:

"We shall begin to make headway with skin diseases when we learn two things: first, that skin disease does not come from impure blood; second, that so-called blood purifiers have no such action."

Begin immediately to clear your skin. Stop that itching and burning. Drive out those pimples.

Make up your mind to start now and give yourself a smooth, velvet complexion.

You can do it with the aid of the wonderful D. D. D. Prescription, a cooling, refreshing lotion—not a salve or grease. It soothes your tender skin, opens the pores, drives out the old impurities and gives you a skin like a baby—smooth and clear.

All druggists have D. D. D. We sell it on a positive no-pay guarantee.

You don't risk a cent. Don't suffer another day. Call at our store today. Ask also about D. D. D. Soap—best for tender skin.

SOCIETY.

Des Moines, Iowa, and a thoroughly competent instructor. Mr. Benedict is a well-known automobile man of Los Angeles.

At a quiet ceremony at the home of the bride in Redlands Miss Mary Clem and Millard F. Smith, formerly of this city, were united in marriage Tuesday, and left immediately on an extensive trip in the East before settling in their future home at Winslow, where the groom is division foreman for the Santa Fe Railroad. Rev. H. E. Murkett of the First Methodist Episcopal Church read the service, and the happy pair of lovers were attended by Miss Gurna Smith, a sister of the groom, and Clarence Clem, the bride's brother.

The service was solemnized in a bower of flowers and greenery in the living-room of the pretty Clem home. Mrs. Brown, organist of the First M. E. Church, played the beautiful "Serenade" (Sydney Smith) before the entrance of the party, and as they entered struck the stately chords of the wedding music from "Lohengrin."

Pomona.

JUNE, the month of brides and roses, will bring the consummation of many plans made by Dan Cupid in this city during the past year. Miss Kathleen Thierman will wed Bevan Berryman of San Francisco; Miss Natalie Whitmer will become the bride of Anson Thomas; Miss Grace Moore of Laurel avenue will be wedded to Charles M. Wallace; Miss Helen Reed will marry William Blakemore, and the wedding of Miss Laura Teague and Floyd George will also be solemnized. Miss Marjorie Leadingham, daughter of John Leadingham, will leave soon for Oberlin, O., where on June 18 she will be married to Allen Miller. On June 17 Miss Bernice Gray, formerly of the Pomona Public Library, who recently left for Evansville, Wis., will become the wife of Prof. Frank Wardell of that city. Another prospective bride is Miss Mildred Doutt, who will leave for Elkhart, Ind., on Monday. Miss Doutt's marriage to Albert E. Johnson of Elkhart will be solemnized on June 30.

Miss Bertha Yeend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Yeend of East Holt avenue, left on Thursday morning for New York City, where she will enter the Chalif School for Fancy Dancing for three months.

In honor of Miss Natalie Whitmer and Anson Thomas, whose marriage is to be solemnized in June, a party of young people enjoyed a picnic supper in Live Oak Canyon on Thursday evening.

Mrs. C. W. Woy of No. 633 Alvarado street entertained the members of the Priscilla Club on Wednesday afternoon at her home.

Mrs. Willis Taylor was hostess to the E.O.W. Embroidery Club at her home, No. 240 Jefferson street, on Wednesday afternoon. A number of special guests were present.

Mrs. George A. Hall of No. 168 West Piedmont street entertained the ladies of the New Century Five Hundred Club at her home on Wednesday afternoon. A dainty buffet luncheon was served by the hostess following the game.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hoffmaster of West Seventh street entertained a number of friends informally at a cafeteria supper on Monday evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Fellows and daughters of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Rice, Mrs. Helen Rice and Dr. and Mrs. S. F. Davis and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Auble of East Pasadena street left on Wednesday for a six months' eastern trip. Most of their time will be passed in Akron, O.

Mrs. Catherine Gibler has left for a visit of nine months with friends and relatives in Cleveland and Columbus, O.; Buffalo, N. Y., and Bloomington, Ill.

Mrs. George W. Cobb has left for Independence, Iowa, having been called there by the serious illness of her mother.

The Easter Star Social Club enjoyed its monthly luncheon at the Masonic Temple on Wednesday.

Miss Mildred Whi— has returned to her home, No. 248 Jefferson avenue, from Lindsborg, Kan., where she has been studying voice and expression at Bethany College for the past year.

Duarte.

TWO thoroughly delightful events have been given in May which brought the ladies of the Duarte Reading Circle together under most enjoyable circumstances. The first was the annual meeting held at the home of Mrs. Joseph Towler, when a large number of members were present and enjoyed the readings presented by Mrs. Eugene D. Northup. At the business hour the election of officers resulted in Mrs. L. J. Milliken being chosen president. Other officers are: Vice-president, Mrs. B. W. Gerhart; secretary, Mrs. C. H. Sarwine; treasurer, Mrs. L. G. Cross; librarian, Mrs. E. D. Northup. A prettily-appointed 4 o'clock tea concluded the affair.

Last Tuesday the thirty-five ladies of the club were each privileged to bring a guest with them to the May fete, which was given at the beautiful canyon park at Emerson's Flat. About sixty ladies were present, and after an enjoyable tete-a-tete in the big picnic ground the guests gathered about long supper tables, which were decorated with wild flowers and canyon ferns. The affair was replete with pleasurable experiences and spiced with jollity.

The ladies and gentlemen of the Duarte Five Hundred Club were hospitably welcomed and entertained Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Downe at their pretty foothill home. May flowers and greenery were artistically employed in decorating the living-room, the distinctive flowers being roses. The enthusiastic players who gathered about the card tables were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Rivers, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor Renaker, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allan Munro, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Sarwine, Mr. and Mrs. William Beardslee and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Downe.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hinckley, Mrs. John Dickie and Mrs. Mary Hoagland made up a week-end party at Riverside, where Mr. and Mrs. Dickie anticipate making their home in the near future.

Among Duarteites who have been spending some time in May at various places are Mrs. Thomas Meredith, who returned this week from a ten days' stay at Hermosa Beach; Mrs. Samuel Price is also at home after a month's sojourn in Pasadena, and Mrs. E. S. Hulme is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harold Story Hulme, in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Robert Bihn was the gracious hostess of the twelve ladies of the Foothill Club Monday afternoon between the hours of 1 o'clock, when an elaborate luncheon was served, and 5 o'clock. The table at which Mrs. Bihn presided was ornamented with a pretty arrangement of carnations, and about the table the matrons and maids who form the club spent an enjoyable hour, followed by an afternoon at auction bridge. Those who were guests of the club for the afternoon were Mrs. Frank Neal Robinson of Monrovia and Mrs. H. F. Buffington of Los Angeles. The first prize was won by Mrs. Kenneth Price.

A delightfully informal dinner party was given on Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Chester in honor of Mrs. Hart, who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nehemiah Wade. The affair was in commemoration of Mrs. Hart's birthday anniversary, and other guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine, Mrs. B. M. Blythe, Mr. and Mrs. N. Wade, Miss Mary Gray Wade and Winifred Chester.

The members of the Buena Vista Whist Club, the oldest card club in this locality, met last week (Thursday evening) for a business and social evening with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine at "Oakleigh." Plans are under consideration for a unique forfeit party which will be given under the patronage of Mmes. Arthur Church, L. G. Cross and C. H. Sarwine in the near future.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hagan on the Newhall ranch was opened recently to the ladies of the Christian Church and their friends for a basket luncheon and sewing bee. The ride to the ranch through the orange groves was a pleasant feature of the day, and about thirty friends enjoyed the outing, among the guests being Rev. and Mrs. Clark H. Marsh.

Elsinore.

MISS RUTH FROTHINGHAM entertained Friday evening on the beautiful lawns of Hotel Elsinore, in honor of her eighth-grade pupils, all the children of her room being guests. The trustees of the district were also invited. Games were played and dainty refreshments served.

Hospitality Day was observed by the Elsinore Woman's Club Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Robert H. Kirkpatrick being hostess. Music, Ruben's "King David," by Mrs. Ida Craft, and Act I, of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" will be acted out by the ladies of the club. Each member invites a friend. Light refreshments will be served after the little play.

The Fraternal Brotherhood, one of Elsinore's strongest lodges, held an open meeting Saturday at Odd Fellows' Hall. Fifty or more were present. Light refreshments were served.

Mrs. Frank Williams and her pupils exhibited their China painting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. W. Amsbury, the event being one of note in local society, and largely attended. Punch and wafers were served.

County Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. Raymond Cree are spending a part of the week in Elsinore on school affairs. They were guests at the home of the latter's brother, Floyd Kirkpatrick, and Robert Kirkpatrick.

Miss Jessie Green went to Pasadena this week and will pass the summer with her cousin, Mrs. J. K. Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Burgess, who own a home in Elsinore, are passing two weeks in Long Beach and Los Angeles, their former home.

Thomas Campbell is here from Los Angeles, visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. H. M. Newlon.

Mrs. F. P. Wilson of Los Angeles is making an extended visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. McIntyre, of Machado street. Mrs. Wilson formerly resided here for some years.

Mrs. G. G. Willsey entertained the Aloha Club Saturday. Ice cream and cake and iced tea was served. The next meeting will be held at the Public Park and a picnic lunch enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Marsh have returned to Elsinore after a two weeks' absence. Mr. Marsh was a delegate to Sacramento from the K.P. Lodge and Mrs. Marsh visited friends in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carmody and niece, Miss Mary Carmody, are visiting relatives in Los Angeles this week.

Miss Mattie Himes and Miss Ella Anderson will remain as teachers in the Grammar school next year. The principal, Miss Frothingham, is being urged to say, but has not given her decision. A fourth teacher will also be employed for grammar grades.

Alhambra.

MISS MARY ALPAUGH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Alpaugh of El Rosal rancho, Sunny Slope, has had as her house guest recently Miss Mildred Eygabroad of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clapp, Hampton court, Alhambra, left Wednesday evening for a visit to San Diego. Mrs. Clapp was a guest at the luncheon given by the Wednesday Afternoon Club during the week.

One of the charming social features of the week was the miscellaneous shower given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cameron, No. 315 South Fifth street, complimentary to Miss Jean Anderson, whose wedding will be an event of the summer.

The Alhambra Round Table held its regular meeting at the home of Miss Pearl Turner, No. 110 North Fifth street. An animated literary discussion occupied the afternoon hours. At the next meeting the ladies will enjoy a luncheon at the Union League, Los Angeles.

Lung Trouble Yielded to This Medicine

If you are suffering with serious lung trouble, it will pay to fully investigate Eckman's Alterative, a remedy which has caused many recoveries. One follows:

5323 Girard Ave., Phila., Pa.

"Gentlemen: In the winter of 1903 I had an attack of Grippe, followed by Pneumonia, and later by Lung Trouble. In the winter of 1904 I had a cough, night sweats, fever and raised quantities of awful-looking stuff and later I had many hemorrhages; at one time three in three successive days. Three physicians treated me. I was ordered to the mountains, but did not go. Eckman's Alterative was recommended by a friend. After taking a small quantity I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the first. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until entirely gone. I am perfectly well."

(Abbreviated.)

(Affidavit) ANNIE F. LOUGHRAN.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Sold by The Owl Drug Co. and leading druggists. Write Eckman's Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet of recoveries.

Famous Dancer Gives Complexion Secrets

I've learned the secret of Dolores' entrancing beauty—the wondrous charm that has dazzled the courts of Europe and captivated vast audiences everywhere. The famous dancer abhors rouges and cosmetics. Yet, despite the strenuousity of her life, she retains the incomparable complexion best described as "indescribable." An intimate friend tells me the senorita regularly uses on her face what druggists know as mercolized wax. This is applied at night in the manner cold cream is used and washed off in the morning. It absorbs the dead particles of skin which daily appear, and a fair, soft, fresh, girlish complexion is always in evidence.

Dolores' skin is not marred by a single wrinkle, not even the finest line. She wards these off by daily bathing the face in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. As your drugstores keep these ingredients, as well as mercolized wax (one ounce of the wax is sufficient), no doubt your readers will welcome this information.—Aileen Moore in Beauty's Mirror.

who is soon to be the bride of William Darst. Mrs. Darst will soon start on a happy round of social entertaining for the many Venice brides-to-be of June.

Thursday afternoon the Venice Woman's Club met at the pretty home of Mrs. W. H. Anderson, where they enjoyed an interesting talk on "Panama Canal Tolls." This club is a flourishing organization and is headed by one of the best society leaders of the beach. Mrs. Anderson is the woman who advocates the drinking of the juices of California fruits at afternoon affairs, instead of tea. She thinks it is too foreign to drink the beverage of the old country.

Miss Anna Schofield, who for several months has been efficient secretary of the vacation home, has resigned on account of ill health and her position has been filled by Mrs. T. A. Higgins. The home is busy on its work for this summer and the duties o fthe secretary are quite arduous.

Mrs N. S. Phillips entertained the Tillicum Club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Those present were Mmes. E. J. Vawter, Jr., Wolff, Mellen, Stephens, Girard, Benson, Fox and Randall. There was a delicious luncheon served, and the members enjoyed sewing during the afternoon. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Randall, two weeks from Wednesday.

Manager Harry Middleton of the dancing pavilion is preparing the hall to receive the large delegation of Elks that will visit this place for the coming gambol, to be held for several days, starting the 6th. The big hall is being decorated for the occasion.

Whittier.

COMPLIMENTARY to Miss Genevieve Charles and T. G. Sutherland, whose wedding day is set for next month, 100 friends gathered for a surprise dinner Tuesday evening at the cosy clubhouse of East Whittier. Beautiful decorations, an elaborate dinner, and a delightful programme united to make the evening pleasant.

Mrs. F. M. Gibbs of Litchfield, Minn., left for her home this week after a visit of nearly a year at the home of her son, C. S. Gibbs, of North Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hinshaw of No. 428 North Painter avenue, left this week for a four months' visit at their former home in Indiana.

A unique meeting of the Parent-Teachers' League of the Broadway-street school was held Friday afternoon. The affair was held in Central Park, the speaker being Arthur Cookman, whose subject was "Birds of California." The little folks of the school furnished music by their singing of bird songs.

Mrs. Lucretia A. Keck and Charles C. Paddock were quietly married by Rev. Henry Edwin McGrew at the pastor's reception-room Wednesday evening. After a short honeymoon spent at San Diego the couple will return here to make their home.

The first of a series of functions connected with the closing of the High School year was given at the High School auditorium Friday evening, the affair being the annual recital of the graduates of the oral expression department. The class included Miss Beatrice Duffield, Miss Margaret Edwards, and Mrs. Ruth Cole Racine.

The "Home Makers" met at the City Hall Tuesday afternoon and were addressed by Principal U. G. Durfee of the Whittier city graded schools and Principal O. C. Albertson of the Whittier Union High School. The topic for the day was a consideration of extravagance in dress among pupils. The meeting was the closing one for the year for the "Home Makers."

An automobile party comprising Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Maple, Mr. and Mrs. Gurney Maple and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Gregg left for the Yosemite and other northern points Friday. The party will spend ten days on the journey and in the park.

Miss Edna Thornburg and L. C. Nanney were the guests of honor at a charmingly-appointed dinner given by Prof. and Mrs. J. Clifford Roberts at their home Tuesday evening. The affair was a prenuptial compliment for Miss Thornburg and Mr. Nanney, who are to be married July 9.

The board of directors of the Whittier Woman's Club gave a reception in honor of Mrs. William C. Learmont at the home of the club president, Miss Elizabeth Lum, Wednesday afternoon. The affair was a farewell courtesy to Mrs. Learmont, who left for her new home in San Francisco this week.

A delightful dance and card party was given by the Knights of Pythias at Castle Hall Thursday evening. The affair was under the direction of the Clubroom Committee. Those assisting in receiving were Chancellor Commander Karl Lester and Mrs. Lester, Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Gallup, Mr. and Mrs. Will Ross and Glen Shaw.

The home of Mrs. Emily Lum was the scene of a pleasant reunion of former eastern friends Saturday, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sherbourne and Mr. and Mrs. A. Dunsmoor of Los Angeles, and Fred Dintliff, who is spending some time in the Southland from her home, Minneapolis, Minn.

Miss Hazel Clayton and Mr. Hareld Mann, both of this city, were married at Santa Ana Saturday, the wedding coming as a surprise to their many friends here. Mrs. Mann is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Clayton and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Mann. The young couple will reside in Whittier.

The board of trustees of the Whittier Union High School and Principal Albertson, with their wives, were the guests of the domestic science department of the school at an elaborate dinner Wednesday evening. The dinner was given by the girls of the domestic science course, under the direction of the teacher, Miss Grace Holloway. Those participating in the delightful affair were Messrs. and Mmes. George L. Hazzard, C. L. Edmonston, C. S. Sanderson, Ralph McNees, O. C. Albertson and Mrs. F. E. Frantz.

Mrs. Charles Swain of Rivera will leave with her mother, Mrs. Mary Sanborn, of Los Angeles, early next week for an extended trip to Europe. One of the objective points of the party will be "The Land of the Midnight Sun." Both Mrs. Sanborn and Mrs. Swain have been the recipients of a number of delightful social courtesies recently.

MEN AND EVENTS.

Sewall Maddocks, cashier of the Boothbay (Me.) Bank, can with both hands write separate bills or foot up two columns of figures at the same time.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Exor Matthews of Grand Rapids, Mich., consists, besides the parents, of twelve children, all of whom are either skilled musicians or are taking lessons in the use of some instrument. Each parent is able to play two or three instruments.

Chris Moore, an Alton (Ill.) business man, disclosed recently that his real name is Christos A. Papageorgacoupoulos when he applied for naturalization papers. On account of the length of his name, Chris decided to adopt the name of Moore, and by this name he has been known ever since he came to Alton, about ten years ago.

L. B. Johnson of St. Albans, Vt., generally attracts attention when he drives through the town behind his pair of 2-year-old steers. He has trained them so that they will obey reins as well as a horse.

Unable to find the janitor to open the church, James Hardy of Peoria, Ill., and Miss Sarah Hartie of Canton, were married, standing on the church steps, while a curious crowd witnessed the ceremony.

J. W. Grubb walked into Easton, Pa., and asked the County Treasurer for witness fees due him twenty-six years ago. At the time he forgot them and decided not to trouble until he was again in Easton. He did not come in again until recently, and as the list of witnesses was missing he could not prove his claim and lost his money.

In order to visit her husband, who was ninety miles away, Mrs. Albert Baker of Eugene, Or., recently rode on horseback 180 miles in four days, part of the time riding through a drenching rain. On the way she had to cross the Coast Range Mountains, over heavy, muddy roads, and rarely found houses closer than five miles apart.

CHURCHMEN, EDUCATORS.

Dr. Theobald Smith, professor of comparative pathology in the Harvard Medical School, has accepted the directorship of the new department of animal pathology at the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. Dr. Smith is a distinguished bacteriologist and pathologist. He was graduated from Cornel in 1881 and from the Albany Medical College in 1883. He became chief of the Division of Pathology of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry and a professor in the George Washington University. He resigned these places in 1895 to accept his place in the Harvard Medical School.

Dr. George Brandes, the famous Danish literary critic, who is coming to visit America, is 75 years old and has long held a commanding position in the world of letters. He will tour the eastern and western sections of the country, delivering lectures in English, German and Danish.

Bishop Charles H. Brent, of the Philippine Islands, declined the bishopric of the Episcopal diocese of New Jersey, in a cable message to the Episcopal board of missions. Bishop Brent was chosen by the diocese at the convention in Trenton, and was notified by cable of his election.

Missing a train, which would take him to Quitman, Ga., where he was to preach, Rev. A. M. Rich walked the seventeen miles distance. He arrived ten minutes late, and no one knew that he had walked until after the service.

Dr. George A. Reisner, who has just been appointed professor of Egyptology at Harvard, is a former member of the University of California faculty, and has been at Harvard for some time. For several years he was in charge of the excavations carried on in Egypt by the University of California.

Dr. Wickliffe Rose, secretary of the Rockefeller Sanitary Commission, has started for Egypt, Ceylon and the Malay States, on a campaign against the hookworm.

Bronzed and bearded was the Rev. Father, Goup, superior of St. Isadore Mission at Ft. Smith, on arriving in Edmonton, after a voluntary exile of twenty-two years among the Cree Indians, living north of the sixteenth parallel of latitude. He is on his way to Nantes, France, where he will visit his aged parents.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Pitts Pulsifer of Auburn, Me., has discovered another pocket of very rare purple apatite crystals at his mine on Mount Apatite. The crystals are not cut for gems, but on account of their rarity are placed in museums.

Capt. C. C. Rogers, commandant of the Portsmouth (N. H.) navy yard for the last three years, has been placed upon the retired list with the rank of rear-admiral. He recently failed of promotion from captain on account of physical disability.

F. A. Madison of Savannah, Ga., claims to be a direct descendant of President James Madison, and shows a razor and family Bible which he says the latter used.

George A. Helfert, who has arrived in Panama to assume his duties as instructor to the police of the republic, was formerly governor of the territory of Zamboanga in the Philippines. He will organize a force on the order of the Philippine constabulary, whose duties will be the policing of the interior of the republic.

D. Campbell, for the last thirteen years third vice-president of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, has retired from the active work of his office to engage in the practice of law.

Rear-Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, in command of the Bureau of Operations, which has been fairly busy since the assemblage of American ships in Mexican waters, was navigating officer of the Petrel at the battle of Manila Bay. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1874, followed naval life until he became discouraged with the outlook, and applied for voluntary retirement. Trouble with Spain loomed ominously, and his application was refused. He is known in naval circles throughout the world as an inventor. Today all battleships have an electrical system of interior communication, which is Fiske's. They have a boat-detaching device and electric ammunition hoists and range indicators and battle-order telegraph and helm indicators and a dozen and one other improvements which are Fiske's.

Rear-Admiral Charles J. Badger, commander of the Atlantic fleet, and who is now directing the affairs of the fleet on the Mexican coast, is a native of Rockville, Md., and was appointed to the United States Naval Academy by President Grant in 1869. He graduated in 1873. In 1907 he was promoted to the position of captain, and for two years following was superintendent of the Naval Academy. He was made commander of the battleship Kansas, and in 1911 was promoted to the rank he now holds.

SOMEWHAT PERSONAL.

An unusual plowing scene occurred recently in Orange, when an acre of field was prepared. George P. Sherwin, who is 89 years old, handled the plow, and Dwight Haynes, who is 65, drove the horse. The furrow was nevertheless perfectly straight.

Eugene Arceau, the 19-year-old Briton giant, is already eight feet tall, weighs more than 300 pounds, and is still growing. A curious feature of Arceau's case is that his growth invariably occurs during his sleep, which is apparently natural, but is frequently prolonged to thirty-six hours. On awakening his stature is found to have increased.

Thirteen-year-old Wilbur Anderson of Owensville, Ind., saw a horse protected by leggins, and when he got home tried to put rubber boots on the family cow. The latter objected and kicked Wilbur in the shoulder, throwing him through a picket fence.

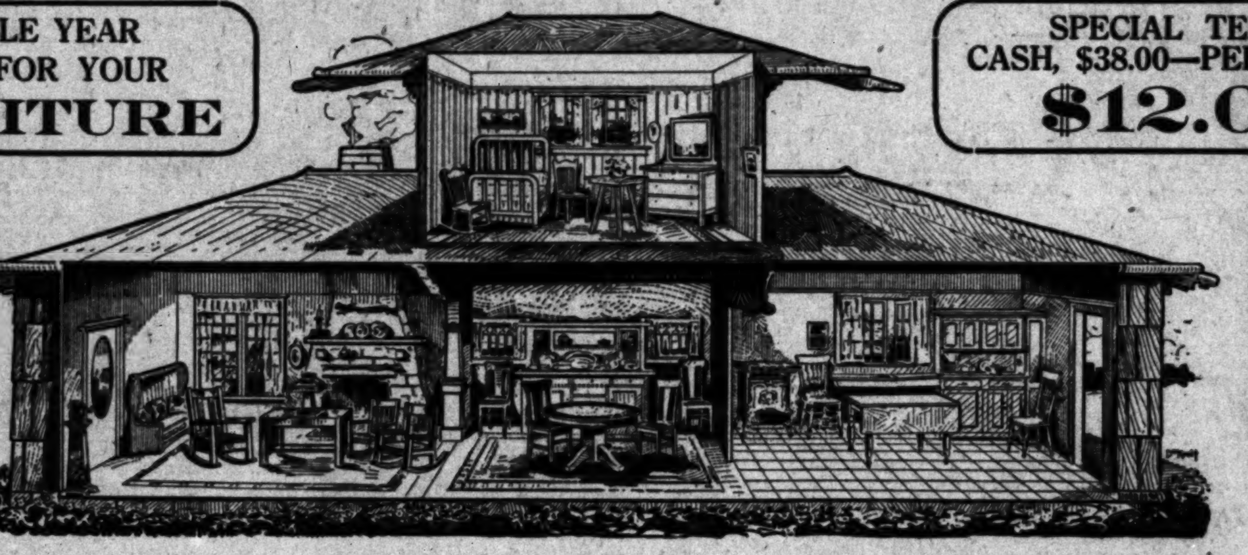
4 Rooms Complete $178



4 Rooms Complete $178

These four rooms are complete, from rugs on the floor to mattress on the bed; complete in every essential piece of furniture, just as you see it pictured above; an outfit that would cost you over $200 if bought piece by piece.

It is seldom you have the opportunity of seeing furniture before you buy all arranged just as it will look in your own home. You are invited to see these beautiful furnished rooms at Colyear's.

The Kitchen

The floor of this kitchen is covered with good heavy linoleum—this goes with the outfit and you have your choice of good patterns in all colors. The two chairs are neat, strong and well finished. The table has two drop leaves and can be used as a breakfast table. And, best of all, there is a 4-burner Garland gas range with extra simmer burner and a good deep oven that will bake to perfection.

Dining Room

The dining table of fumed oak has handsome quarter-sawed top and well-proportioned pedestal and legs. Table extends to six feet.

Chairs are of the best and strongest construction of oak to match the table and have seats of genuine leather.

A splendid Brussels rug covers the floor and you have a choice of desirable rug patterns to harmonize with any walls.

Living Room

The keynote of the living room is a beautiful 9x12 Axminster rug, of which you have a choice of rich designs. The table is of good size and a fitting centerpiece for a beautiful room. Table and rockers are of fumed oak, quarter-sawed, and two of the rockers have genuine leather seats. Rugs and furniture match up to perfection in living and dining rooms. Even the lamp with fumed oak frame and art glass and the fumed oak pedestal in corner are included in this complete outfit.

Bed Room

This bedroom will be the pride of the housewife, with its stylish white enamel furniture and an exquisite rug to blend with walls and draperies. Every piece of furniture is exactly as pictured, and the bed has a superior link-fabric, iron-frame spring and splendid mattress of pure cotton felt with pretty art tick.

Come and go through this whole bungalow with us yourself—you will find it far more interesting and attractive than the descriptions.

3-Room Outfit

This is the outfit that has made famous Colyear's original 3-room bungalow. Complete with rugs, china and a Garland Gas Range. A big $110 worth for $90.

LOS ANGELES STOMACH SUFFERER SAYS MAYR'S REMEDY SAVED HIM

H. W. Hanna Tells How Wonderful Treatment Ended His Troubles.

H. W. Hanna of 618 West Fourth street, Los Angeles, was a sufferer from stomach and digestive troubles. He tried many remedies.

Then one day he took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and found himself on the way to health. In telling of his experience he wrote:

"Your Wonderful Stomach Remedy is all you claim it is, in my opinion. Your medicine cured me."

With just such expressions thousands of users in all parts of the country praise this remedy. The first dose convinces—no long treatment.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from stomach, liver and bowel ailments. Many declare that it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure that it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitators,, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Go to the Owl Drug Co.'s stores and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing—or send to Geo. H. Mayr Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting St., Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments, and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you about its wonderful effects.

A 12 day Merchandising

Merchandise Manager Fires Starting Gun

—I've had the good fortune to see every bit of merchandise that you have assembled for this great sale event. It would be hard for me to conceive a greater or more dependable list of features for a winning sale.

—I want to remind you that this is not a one-day sale—the beginning of this Marathon is to be great, but if you are to win the race you will have to keep going all the time.

—Watch closely your nearest competitor in your class remembering always that it's values that win.

—If you are determined to be in the lead at the finish, put your personality back of the sale. Present to the public every one of the 12 days, items that you know will win confidence and patronage. Now then, are you ready? On your Marks—Go!

Arthur Stresburger, Merchandise Manager.

These $10.50 to $14 Travelling Bags $6.45

Samples—Just 7

—The quantity is so small I almost hesitate to advertise them. 7 sample bags that have been taken from stock. They are marked now $10.50 to $14. I am going to close them out at $6.45.

—These are Oxford bags, tan calf skin, hand sewed, 19 and 20 inch sizes. Full leather lined.

Also 14, 15 and 18 inch bags in black walrus and seal grain leather. They may be slightly shop worn, but it's hardly noticeable. Come quickly to the Basement Balcony, $6.45.

H. L. Weaver, Mgr.

These $1.75 and $1.95 Suit Cases $1.35

Panama and Leatherette

—I want to tell you that these two items will crowd the Basement Balcony, for I never saw better suit cases to sell at such a little price.

—The Panama Suit Cases are made of Japanese paper fiber over wood frame, and bound with buckram. Have metal corners and listen to this—two straps completely around the case. Brass finished hardware and they're neatly lined.

—The Leatherette Cases are finished on the same order but without the straps. There's a limited quantity of these. While they last $1.35.

Basement Balcony.

Men, 'Twill be Great! $20 and $25 Suits $15

Full Line of Sizes.

—I'm banking on the biggest clothing day the Broadway has ever had, and this item will certainly do it. The most remarkable suits that are so splendid at the regular prices of $20 and $25, that there isn't a man but would be glad to pay full price at any time for them.

—I'm going to sell this lot at $15.

—They're hand tailored, the best of lining. In fact, they're the best $20 and $25 suits you will find anywhere.

—There's a full line of sizes in regulars, stouts, slims and shorts.

—The newest patterns, the latest English, semi-English and conservative models.

—I wish this ad were a table, on which I could spread before you men of Los Angeles who need clothing some of these garments that are included in this sale. I know I wouldn't have men enough to wait upon you. I wish you could catch my enthusiasm. This is going to be a great sale for men.

Men's Trousers to go at......$3.25

Should Be $5 and $6

—And you have my word for it, that you can't duplicate them under these prices. I marked them for a big feature at $4, but I'm going to put them out in the Department Managers' Sale at $3.25. I'm after the prize.

—All wool worsteds, blues, grays, brown and tan stripe effects. The season's latest styles.

—All sizes 29 to 44 waist. Watch them go at $3.25.

And Look at This

Men's $1.50 to $2.50 Trousers $1.00

—Trousers that are made right and fit right, of serviceable materials, wool mixtures.

—Have belt loops, hip pockets that button, side buckle straps and there's a choice of gray, brown and tan, mixtures and stripe effects. All sizes 29 to 44 waist measure.

—With this kind of items I'm sure to win the race.

Who'll Beat This?

10 Cent Hose Supporters 3c

—That's the headliner for my great list of startling values in Notions. It's my first appearance in a Department Managers' Sale, but I know that it takes values to win a Merchandising Marathon. I don't believe there has ever been such values given in the Notion department.

—These Hose supporters are in four sizes of strong elastic webb, rubber buttons. There's a choice of black, white and assorted colors. And look at the other great features.

Miss N. C. Dougherty, Mgr. Notions.

SONOMORE SNAP FASTENERS, 2 doz. 5c—All sizes in black and white. Non-rustable fasteners, so desirable for the summer dresses.

5c WEIGHTED TAPE, 2 yds. 5c—Black and white.

Pearl Buttons 5c Dozen

8⅓c to 25c Imperfect Grades

—I have 1600 dozen of these pearl buttons, that I bought at a startling price reduction. Because of slight imperfections I will sell them to you for 5c dozen. In the regular way they'd bring 8⅓c to 25c dozen.

—Plain and fancy filagree, smoked pearl and some colored pearls in the lot. This is a wonderful item, you shouldn't miss it.

And Fancy Buttons for Trimming 5c Dozen

—Trimming buttons in Rhinestone and crystal. All the new colorings. A special purchase lot that I am going to sell at 5c dozen and I want to tell you they are worth two and three times the price.

For a Big Lead I Offer Boys' $4 and $4.50 Norfolk Suits $2.45

—I went into the market purposely to secure merchandise that would put me in excellent trim to win this race.

—I know the mothers of Los Angeles will appreciate buying $4 and $4.50 Norfolk suits at $2.45. I have just 133 to sell at that price. Sizes, 6 to 17 years.

—Neat patterns in grays, browns and tans. Come to the Second Floor for these. $2.45.

H. L. Brooker, Mgr. Men's and Boys' Clothing.

And Boys' $9 to $10 Suits I Have Marked $5.50

—There are 179 of these, the majority of them Norfolks. 60 of them are double breasted.

—These are in sizes 7 to 18 years. They're made of fine all wool worsteds, serges and cassimere. Light and dark grays, blues, browns and tans.

—Remember I said $9 and $10 suits for $5.50.

Boys' 25c & 50c Caps 10c

—Eton, Skiddo and a few Golf Caps that I'm going to sell at 10c. Why they're regular 25c and 50c lines. 20 dozen in all. For boys 2 to 12 years. They won't last long, better come early, 2nd floor.

Boys' 50c Straw Hats 25c

—These are sizes and styles for boys of all ages.

—Rah Rah, Middy and Negligee styles.

Boys' Oneita Union Suits 29c

—They're factory mended garments, short sleeves, knee length.

—I've 14 dozen to offer you at 29c each. Sizes 6 to 16 years.

Boys' Pants 45c

—I've 150 pair to sell at this price. Neat patterns in grays, browns and tans. For boys 6 to 15 years. There will be a rush for these at this ridiculous price. Monday and Tuesday.

Boys' $3.50 Shaker Knit Sweaters $1.95

—Just 78 of them in the ruff neck style. Plain cardinal and oxford. Great for vacation and beach wear. 10 to 14 year sizes. $1.95 each.

And Besides, Men's $6 and $7 Panamas for $5

—And I want to tell you that my Panama Hats have been the talk of the town at the regular prices, so that when I price them $5 for the Department Managers' Sale I know the men of Los Angeles will appreciate it.

—Optimo, racket, trooper, Fedora, and the popular telescopes.

—Some are made especially for turn-down brims, with French bows.

—Styles for young men, and elderly men—becoming shapes for stout builds. This is a remarkable feature, Panamas at $5.

Men's $1 to $1.50 Straw Hats 85c

—Sennet and split braids and medium crowns. China splits in soft negligee shapes, with two heights of crown. Java braids, serviceable light weight hats in four styles. Right in the beginning of Straw Hat time, $1 and $1.50 hats at 85c will attract great attention to my department.

$2 Felt Hats $1.25 More News for Men

—If you prefer felt hats here's an opportunity to buy $2 ones for $1.25.

—There's a good assortment of colors and styles. Flat brims with French bows; rolling brims, creased crown, four-dent and telescope in tan, brown, gray and green. Sizes 6⅝ to 7⅛.

I'll Sell a Pound of Kara Linen Paper 23c

—That's my headliner. I am the new Stationery man, just here from the East. I'm the Dark Horse in this race. Didn't enter even early enough to get my picture. But I'll be here at the finish. Here's the best bet for Monday.

—Kara Linen that sells in the regular way for 35c, I offer it at 23c pound.

E. J. Moriarty, Mgr. Stationery.

10c INK TABLETS 5c—Linen finish. Three sizes, ruled and plain. A special purchase I've been holding for this sale.

15c ENVELOPES 10c pkg. —These are to match the above Kara linen.

75c Gold Initial Box Paper 46c

—I've just 500 boxes of Whiting's high-grade paper and I've made arrangements with an engraver to stamp them in gold from a new set of dies.

—The stock is white, lavender, blue and gray. Plain and fancy weaves. If you want something out of the ordinary here's your opportunity.

A "Walk-Away" for Shoes
Hundreds of the Newest

Pumps and Colonials $2.45

Latest Styles—Perfect

—I've been in long training for this Marathon and I must be naturally built for speed. For if this feature alone doesn't capture first position for me in the first day's running then I miss my guess.

—A wonderful line of the newest and most up to date pumps and Colonials. A big purchase that I secured from a celebrated manufacturer, and to make it even better I took some of the best lines from my regular stock.

—Strap pumps and Colonials in patent and dull leathers as well as satins and velvets, colored suedes, white duck, tango lace effects and patent cravat bow pumps. I can't begin to describe them and pictures wouldn't do them justice. Just think of the newest, best and most up to date oxfords, then come for these at $2.45.

C. B. Short, Mgr. Shoes.

And to Make Success Assured

Pumps, Oxfords, Slippers at 95c That Should be $3.50 and $4.00

—This item is so remarkable that I've turned over the entire Basement Balcony Shoe Section to it.

—Don't confuse them with the sort of shoes you'd expect to find at such a low price. Keep in mind the usual $3.50 and $4 qualities. Remaining lots from a purchase of high grade shoes. Here are patents, tans and brown suedes and velvets, black and colored suedes, tan calf or champagne kid.

—True, you will not find every size in every style, but you'll find there is a wonderful assortment of sizes and widths in the lot. I'd advise you to be early. Basement Balcony.

This Is Positively

The Greatest Purchase of WASH GOODS

I Ever Made—15,000 Yards—It's a Sensation

2 Lots—19c Yard and 39c Yard

Startling 72x90 Sheets 29c Each

9 to 10 a.m.

—Look at the size, and remember these are first quality. 3-inch hem at top, center seam, full bleached, size includes hem. No phone or mail orders, none delivered. I'm going to sell these for an hour at 29c with a limit of 3 to a customer. Can you beat it?

Pepperell Sheets Look!

—Understand these are the genuine Pepperell sheets that I offer, and the prices I quote are less than you can buy them in quantities. Be sure to get in on this—

—72x90 sheets, 57½c.

—81x90 sheets, 62½c.

—81x99 sheets, 67½c.

Pillowcases 7½c Size 42x36

—Of course at this price I won't sell more than one dozen to any one customer. It's really a startling value.

—Made of full bleached muslin. Size 42x36, including hem. None delivered except with other goods from my departments, no phone or mail orders. 7½c each.

36-in. Percale 8 1-3c

—This is a yard wide, dark grounds with neat white figures. While these are in mill remnants, they are good desirable lengths, and I want to tell you it's an exceptional item at 8⅓c.

—Imagine, if you will, 15,000 yards of the newest and prettiest wash goods of the season. Figure that I will be able to sell it to you at from 30 per cent. to 75 per cent. of its real worth.

—Wasn't I fortunate to locate this lot on my Eastern trip. Two of the largest Wash Fabric Converters in the country sold me their surplus lots, and while the majority of it is perfect, naturally some of the pieces may be soiled or have slight imperfections.

—I figure this item alone will win the prize for me.

—Why in the 39c lot alone there are any number of pieces that would sell for $1.50 and none of it that you could buy for less than 60c regularly, and in the 19c lot there are 5000 yards, much of it that brings 75c in the regular way.

—Beginning Monday I place on sale the first two lots—19c and 39c—and later on I will bring out a third lot. The other Department Managers will have to run some to beat me.

Lot 1—Wash Goods 19c

25c to 75c Material

—Enthusiastic as I am, I cannot express the full significance of this item—why, think, here you'll find

—36-inch Silk Ratine
—40-inch White Mixed Voile
—40-in. Rice Cloth, plain & floral
—Silk Bordered Marquisettes
—Fine Poplin
—Crepe Applique
—Jacquard Sylks
—Fine Woven Madras
—Silk Stripe Repp
—Colored Stripe Corded Repp
—36-in. Ratine Net
—Silk Mixed Pique

Lot 2—Wash Goods 39c

60c to $1.50 Materials

—Here you will find the most beautiful wash fabrics, such as —42-inch Duvetyn.

—36-inch Silk Mixed Poplin.
—38-inch Brocade Silk Repp.
—36-inch Silk Stripe Ratine.
—38-inch Silk Mixed Ratine.
—38-inch Fine Ratine.

—High-class fabrics that you cannot secure in the regular way under 60c to $1.50.

—I am out to win and values like this will do it.

T. S. Milburn, Mgr. Wash Goods, Domestics, Linens.

36-in. Natural Dress Linen 17c

—And every thread is pure linen. Full bolts, new and fresh. I've marked this 17c for a startling value, and I know hundreds will take advantage of it.

Floral Crepe 12½c

—They're 36 inches wide, white grounds with dainty rosebuds and floral designs.

—I bought these in 10 to 20-yd. lengths. It's a material that has the call right now, and I predict that it will go with a rush at 12½c.

Think of This Embroidered and Hemstitched Pillow Cases 15c

—My, but these will go in a hurry. Think of it, not only hemstitched, but embroidered as well—and the size, 42x36, including hem. These are first quality. This is the way I've been training for the race, 15c each.

Clear the Track for Me With 19c to 25c Ribbons 10c

—It sounds like fiction but it's the truth, and believe me you'll see things fly around the ribbon counter. In my six years of buying experience, for the Broadway Department Store, I've never offered such ribbons at such prices.

—Indeed, under ordinary circumstances I'd be glad to pay the manufacturer more for them.

—150 pieces, every piece crisp and new, pretty floral effects and light and dark color combinations. Jacquard taffetas, checks, embroidered dots. You couldn't manufacture them for the money. You'll want them for Millinery, for sashes, for hair bows, for girdles and summer dress trimmings. It's going to be a run-a-way race for me with items like this.

W. W. Penry, Mgr. Ribbons, Neckwear, Laces and Embroideries.

Just Look at This, 75c to $2.50

Laces 59c

—I've utterly disregarded their real worth when I marked them 59c, for these are the very laces that are most in demand now.

—Fine Oriental effects in both silk and cotton and silk run effects. Some are of the very finest cobweb texture, others are in the heavier effects.

—White, cream, ecru and two-tone laces. Really, they're beautiful and I wouldn't have a bit of trouble in putting them in regular stock and selling them at regular prices.

—Widths range from 4½ to 15 inches—59c yard.

And Again, 35c to 75c

Fancy Ribbons 25c

—I must have been inoculated with the price cutting spirit, for at any other time I'd mark them a great deal higher.

—I'm going to run a race that will make them all sit up and take notice.

—250 pieces of this beautiful fancy ribbon, not a piece of it ever shown on our counters before.

—Fancy jacquards—Dresdens, both light and dark colorings. Also fancy moire effects.

—4½ to 6¼ inches wide. I expect a rush for these—they're beautiful, 25c yard.

What Do You Think of This?

75c to $1.50 Embroideries for 35c

—That's what they are actually worth. I marked them for a big sale feature at 59c and 69c, but I'm going out after the biggest embroidery day I've had this year, so I'm going to sell them at 35c.

—The widths range from 22 to 45 inches. Remember these are Swisses, crepes and voiles. You need them for infants,' misses' and women's wear. Small dainty patterns or bold open effects.

—I want to tell you this—that when you buy these embroideries at 35c, you are paying less for them than it costs the manufacturer to produce them. Yes, they're new this season. Some "speed" to this item. 35c yard.

This Is Really Startling

75 Beaded Tunics at $5.95 Regularly They'd Be $25 to $35

—I bought a quantity of them and marked them for a big sale at $10.

—All new shapes, choice of white, maize, Copenhagen, pink and fancy mixed colors.

—They were imported by a high-class concern. They wished to close out the balance of their stock and I bought them at a big discount.

—They're made of fine net, covered with beads and Paris bugles. This surely is a remarkable item. They should go flying away at $5.95. Aisle 2.

Will You Believe Me When I Say

$2 to $5 Scarfs & Veils at 95c?

—That's what they are worth under ordinary conditions. I intended to put them over in a great sale at $1, $1.25 and $1.50, but when I got thinking about this Department Managers' Sale, I decided to sell the whole lot at 95c each.

—Here are the finest French face veils in black, white, purple, navy, champagne, red and brown.

—Beautiful chiffon scarfs in Dresden effects for evening wear. Auto veils in different colors; some of these auto veils are slightly imperfect.

—I have 600 to offer, while they last, at 95c each.

I'm Going to

Make a Record with 100 Dozen New Neckwear 50c

—And when I tell you that there isn't a piece in the lot that isn't worth regularly from half as much again up to two and three times the price, you'll be eager to get several pieces.

—I've made this ridiculous price on 100 dozen pieces in order to make this one of the biggest days I've ever had in neckwear.

A Flying Start in Grocery Dept.

—I'm going to make values be the spur that drives me on to victory. This is to be a long race, and I'm going to get in early with this burst of value speed, from the Brightlight Basement.

BROADWAY, FOURTH AND HILL

Prosperity Week
"Make Your Dollars Nimble" 3000 "Smile" Buttons Free

—We are heartily in accord with the Prosperity movement, started by the Sales Managers' Association. Their slogan is "Make Your Dollars Nimble." No reason on earth why California shouldn't be in the midst of its greatest prosperity.

—We've 3000 buttons to distribute—"Don't Worry, Smile." Get one, wear it and join the prosperity band. Distribution begins at 9 o'clock. Aisle 8.

H. E. Miller, Mgr. 4th Floor Cafe.

The Management to Judge

—I'm going to stand by and watch you shatter the sales records of last year. This is to be prosperity week—the Dollars are to be nimble. From what I have seen of the merchandise you should be able to make nearly every dollar increase it's purchasing power in a way that would be hard to duplicate.

—I have only to say this is your last great Department Managers' Sale in the old Broadway Department Store. I'd like mighty well to come to you as judge of the finish, at the end of this race and say—"It's the greatest Department Managers' Sale in the history of the business."

—Your enthusiasm and your energy are back of this Merchandising Marathon. The management has stepped aside with only this caution:

"No matter how low the price, no matter how tremendous the crowds, keep always in mind the satisfaction of your customer—Service and the foundation stones of the business, Truth, Courtesy, Liberality and Value."

Harry Philp, General Manager.

What Do You Think of $19.50 to $25.00 Silk Suits---$14.95 to $19.50 Silk Dresses $9.50

—I've planned a long time for this sale, and in presenting this headline feature I believe I'll create a sensation.

—70 silk suits, right from a high class garment maker in New York. You couldn't begin to equal them under $19.50 to $25.

—Brocaded poplins, taffeta, moires and plain poplin in blue, wistaria, tango, green, biscuit, golden brown, black and navy.

—The very smartest of styles. Think of it! I've priced them $9.50.

A. E. Kretschmer, Mgr. Women's Cloaks, Suits, Waists, Etc.

The Silk Dresses at $9.50 Marked $14.95 to $19.50

—Besides a special purchase lot I've taken a quantity from stock that are marked $14.95, $17.95 and $19.50.

—Think of it, crepe de chine dresses. Taffeta silk dresses.

—Fleu de soie dresses.

—And figured silks, including floral patterns.

—King's blue, black, wistaria, green, navy tango and mahogany are the colors.

—This is a sale that will crowd the department from the opening of the doors.

$1.95 to $2.95 Dress Skirts $1.25

—Some with tunic effects, others in good tailored models, black and white checks, plaids, diagonals, gray and brown, blue and black and brilliantine; also good mixtures.

85c Sateen Petticoats 59c

—These are in green, cerise, tango and Alice blue—with pleated flounce. Well made, sateen petticoats that sell in the regular way at 85c, I offer them at 59c.

200 Silk Messaline Petticoats at $1.15

—Perhaps you'll realize the importance of this item when I tell you I had them marked for a big sale feature at $1.69—and they're worth a great deal more than that. Now, I'm going to place the 200 of them on sale at $1.15.

—Different styles.

—King's blue, tango, navy, green, cerise, as well as black and white.

Wash Dresses $1.95 Marked $3.95 to $5.00

—Here they are—voiles, crepes, ratines and rice cloth. Cleverest new wash dresses in plain white and some in Dolly Varden patterns. Others in combinations. They're prettily trimmed with dainty lace, some with embroidered collars, silk belts, etc.

—I'm going to sell 50 of them at $1.95 each.

100 Chambray Petticoats 39c

—These are chambray. I bought them special and I marked them 49c. For a startling day Monday, they'll be 39c. Have embroidered flounces as well as plain styles. Blue and white and gray and blue.

Women's Suits $3.95 Marked $9.75 to $12.95
9 to 10 a.m.

—Crepe and novelty weaves, in blue, black and mixtures. New Spring styles, others tailored.

—I have 30 that I'll close out the first thing. $3.95.

How's This? Bathing Suits
Reg. $2.50 to $5 Samples

—I was fortunate to make this purchase of 125 Bathing Suits, regular $2.50 to $5 qualities. Of mohair and Panama cloth in black and blue. Trimmed with fancy braid. Have Dutch neck or Sailor collar. Many different styles. Think of it right in the Bathing Suit season, buy these at $1.95. Better be early for this.

H. C. Henshey, Mgr. Second Floor.

Waists! Waists! Waists! I Have Thousands to Offer At 49c, At 85c, At $2.45

—I've just unpacked the most remarkable lot of waists that I've presented this season and you know I've had some wonderful values before.

—If every woman in Los Angeles, who needs a waist, could only see these they'd all go in the first rush. As it is I should sell all of them in at least the first two days.

$1 to $1.50 Waists, 85c

—Dainty voiles and crepes, plain and figured, dozens of pretty styles, a number embroidered, others with dainty lace trimming.

—Just out of the packing boxes to help me win this race, some with colored vests and collars and cuffs, others with tango cord. Oh, they're wonderful. Don't miss it.

And See These at 49c 900 New Waists

—Do you know that I am going to put them out at 20 per cent. lower than I intended to in the first place, because I want your nimble dollars to be more nimble and help me win first place.

—Figured crepes and lawns, prettily trimmed with fine embroidery and tucks, others embroidered. Can you imagine it. 49c.

19 to 20-in. Ostrich Plumes $3.75
SHOULD BE $5 TO $6.

Here's a Burst of Speed

—I've nearly 300 of these beautiful Ostrich plumes that I've priced at $3.75 and I want to tell you that every woman who gets one will have secured a prize, for they are the most beautiful lot of feathers that I've ever had to feature and they're priced so much less than real worth that you can't afford to overlook the opportunity.

—Let me whisper to you—The Fashion journals from Paris say "Plumes will be shown on the early Fall hats." That means plumes will be strong this fall.

—Here's the best part of the news—read the color range.

—Pink, ciel, King's blue, Alice blue, brown shaded, Hello shaded, Tango shaded, Bronze shaded, taupe and white, white, black mixed, besides white or black.

—I've been trying a long while to get these and I know the sales in Millinery will go sailing high.

Alex Stahl, Mgr. Millinery.

And to Cap the Climax
100 Trimmed Hats at $1.45

—But, oh! such beautiful hats. Styles for dress or street wear. The most remarkable lot I believe I've ever had to feature at such a ridiculous price. Why you can't begin to realize what they are until you see them. Small turbans, sailors and bandeau effects.

—Hemp shapes as well as fine Milan. Some of them with novelty ostrich trimmings, others with flowers and ribbons. This includes colors and black.

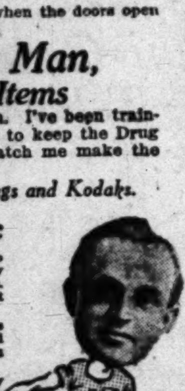
—You can see them in the window. Better be here when the doors open for they will go like a flash.

I Am "Dill," the Drug Man, With a Bunch of Speedy Items

—I'm going into this race in the pink of condition. I've been training for months, securing fast selling merchandise to keep the Drug and Toilet Goods section ahead in the race. Watch me make the dust fly every day.

F. C. Dilberger, Mgr. Drugs and Kodaks.

Large Can Violet Talcum 10c



—This is the so-called pound size, contains from 12 to 14 ounces of fine quality pure white Talcum. Delightfully perfumed. Usually considered an excellent value at 25c. I am offering these great big cans for a speedy value at 10c each. Aisle 5.

$1.25 IDEAL BRUSH, 79c—This is the genuine Hughes Ideal Hair Brush—set with double bristles, rosewood finish back. Sells usually at $1.25. My Marathon price 79c.
LA BLACHE FACE POWDER, 26c—I'll make a speedy race with values like this.
10c CAKE STORK CASTILE SOAP, 5c.
SPLENDID BATH CAPS, 29c.
MALVINA CREAM, 26c.
10c CAN WASH-EZE MECHANICS' SOAP, 5c.
25c PKG. WHITES' CORN PLASTERS, 10c.
25c BOTTLE STICK-EM FAST CEMENT, 10c—Waterproof. Mends china, glass, etc.
1 oz. TINCTURE ARNICA, 2½c—10c size.
1 oz. CARBOLIC ACID, 2½c—10 per cent. solution.
1 oz. PURE CASTOR OIL, 2½c—10c size.

LOOK! EVERY DAY NOW

Free Kodak Developing With Orders For Prints

—Not only on Mondays, as we have previously announced, but every day during this Department Managers' Sale I'm going to give free developing of kodak films with orders for prints.

And a 50c Quality Album For Kodak Pictures 29c

—Size 7x9½ inches. 100 pages, black cloth back, extra well bound.

Crepe de Chine Blouses $2 45

—I believe this item alone should capture the prize, for there's such a wonderful color range. Think of a crepe de chine waist at $2.45. They're prettily trimmed with organdy collar and cuffs, tango cord, some with lace vest and collar.

—Nearly every color you could imagine. King's blue, maize, green, peach, flesh, white, black, mustard, brown.

These Taffeta Silk Parasols Sell at $1.95
$2.50 to $8 Qualities

—I took 100 of them and I said to the manufacturers I'm going to mark them $2.19 and sell them all in one day, and then I thought of the Department Managers' Sale and what it meant, and I said, here goes, I'll mark them $1.95.

—Wait until you see them. They have gilt frame, two large French puffs on inside. Bullet ferrule tips—fitted with long black handles, some with loop cord, some with cord and tassel, and they're made of splendid quality taffeta silk. Remember 100 only, while they last, $1.95 each.

For a Flying Start Kayser's $1.25 Embroidered and Tucked Silk Gloves 85c

—If there's a man in the house that will give a greater value than this, I'd be willing to step aside and let him pass by, but he'll be going some if he does.

—The celebrated Kayser, embroidered and tucked silk gloves, first quality, the kind that sells in the regular way at $1.25 and think of it, I've priced them 85c.

—Full elbow length, two clasps at wrist, double tip.

C. R. Vient, Mgr. Gloves, Handkerchiefs, Umbrellas, Books and Leather Goods.

Here! These $3 Washable Doeskin Gloves at $1.50

—Do you realize what it means—regular $3 Washable Doeskin gloves at $1.50? Why they're the most practical glove on the market. You may wash them in soap and water.

—These are in white, sizes 5¾, 5¾, 6, 6¼, 6½, 6¾ and 7.

—As long as the quantity lasts, $1.50 pair.

The Greatest Lot of Dictionaries at 95c

—To begin with, here's a limp leather, self-pronouncing dictionary—titles stamped in gold, indexed and finished with colored illustrations. I bought the quantity so that I could put it over in this sale at 95c.

And Look at This 69c Pocket Size Dictionary

—This is even more remarkable than the other dictionary, for it contains practically the same as the large dictionary—it's in pocket size, beautifully bound in limp leather. These two items are surely prize winners.

Here You Are—This Way for A Sample Line of Hand Bags from 1-3 to 1-2 Under Price

—I bought them at a big discount from the manufacturer, then I divided them into four lots. Wait until you see them. The most remarkable lot of hand bags I've run across since I've had the department.

—Some 350 altogether, both leather and moire. You'll surely want to get in on this.

—Here's the way I've priced them:

$1.25 & $1.50 HAND BAGS, 95c.
$1.75 to $3 HAND BAGS, $1.50.
$3 to $5 HAND BAGS AT $2.
$5 to $7 HAND BAGS, $2.75.

I'll Take the Lead from the Start
With 600 Corsets at $1. Regular $1.50 to $5.00 Models

—Every woman knows the names "American Lady, Royal Worcester, Bon Ton, Nemo and Lyra." Well, I've taken a number of these corsets, from my own stock, that are now marked $1.50 to $5, and I'm going to place them in the Department Managers' Sale at $1 each.

—Besides these numbers from regular stock, there's a lot that I secured specially from the American Lady Corset Company.

—There isn't a number in this sale worth less than $1.50, and the majority of them $3.50 to $5.

—Listen, these are not old, out-of-date models, but all new up-to-date styles, while you'll not find every size in every style, there are all sizes in the lot. The other managers will have to go some to beat me. Take these at $1 each.

H. C. Henshey, Mgr.
Corsets, Undermuslins, Infants' Wear, House Dresses.

And I'll Sell 300 Regular $1 Gowns for 50c

—And I'll venture to say you'll plan to be here early when you read of these 300 wonderful $1 gowns at 50c. They're made of splendid quality muslin with deep yoke of fine lace, beading and ribbon. Many different patterns. Second floor.

50c Corset Covers 25c

—I have 200 of these, both crepe or muslin. Made with deep yoke, trimmed with lace, beading and ribbon. Many different styles, 25c.

$2.95 Undermuslins to Sell at $1.95

—Fine gowns, combination suits and beautiful skirts. They're marked in regular stock at $2.95 and they're wonderful values at that. Look at the beautiful lace trimming, and beading and ribbon. Just 125 garments that I'll sell at $1.95.

These $1 to $1.95 Children's Dresses 59c

—I have about 240 of these dresses to sell that sell in the regular way at $1 to $1.95. Some $1.25, some at $1.50 and some at $1.75.

—They're made of good percale or ginghams, in pretty plaids or stripes, some trimmed with pearl buttons. Sizes 2 to 5 years.

—I place them on sale at 59c for a big feature.

And $1.25 Dresses 65c For Children 6 to 14 Years

—Mothers, you'll want these for school dresses for the children. The regular marked price is $1.25. There are 200 of them, of gingham or percale; all have new wide belt. Sizes 6 to 14 years. Think of it, 65c.

Children's Undermuslins 25c Regular 50c and 75c Lines

What Do You Think of These?
Thread Silk Stockings 75c
Irregular $1 and $1.50 Qualities

—You know I wouldn't have the slightest trouble of putting these into regular stock and selling them for full price, because these irregularities that I speak of, cannot be detected unless they are pointed out to you. In some places the weaving of the silk is slightly thinner than in others. Gives them a sort of shaded effect. In some of them you can't see any variation. This is the kind of silk hosiery that sells, when absolutely perfect, at $1 and $1.50.

—I have them in black and the most desired colors. 75 dozen that I place on sale marked special at 75c.

—High spliced heel and toe. Some have silk garter welt, others with the lisle. If these don't go with a rush I'll be surprised. Aisle 8.

M. E. Norton, Mgr. Women's and Children's Hosiery and Underwear, Men's Furnishings.

50c Union Suits 29c

—These low-neck, no-sleeve, tight-knee union suits for women sell regularly at 50c. Sizes 4, 5 and 6.

—Watch them go at 29c. Limit 3. Aisle 8.

Look! Silk Plaited Boot Stockings 25c

—They're slightly imperfect, otherwise they'd be 50c. 200 dozen of them. They've all been factory mended. Previous shipments of this class of merchandise have fairly flown away at a higher price even. I'm out after the prize, that's why I marked them 25c.

—Deep lisle garter welt, look like silk and they're wonderful for wear. Sizes 8½ to 10.

Lisle Stockings 12½c Imperfect 25c Line

—These are in black only. They're sanitary dyed. Regular or outsizes. Extra strong heel and toe. The slight imperfections have been mended. I limit 6 pair to a customer. Aisle 8. Marked special, pair 12½c.

Did You Ever See the Like Men's Golf Shirts 19c

—I don't believe I ever remember selling Golf shirts for such a little price. 25 dozen with a limit of 3 to a customer. They're marked special at 19c. Of course, they're imperfect and soiled. If they weren't they'd be 50c. There's going to be great excitement while these 25 dozen last. Sizes 14 to 17, while they last 19c each.

Infants' Stockings 12½c Silk Plaited—250 Doz.

—These show slight imperfections. They're in black or white. They'd be 25c if perfect. I thought first I'd make a big sale of them at 15c, but then I am after the prize in the Department Managers' Sale, so I put them at 12½c. Sizes 4½ to 6.

Men! I Want You Here for
$1.50 to $2 Golf Shirts at $1.10

Men's Golf Shirts That I've Marked 29c

—53 dozen of them. A local jobber's season's end stock. Cream or tan. Have the soft cuff. Coat style. We've made many special purchase lots, but I think this is a winner. 29c. Limit 4.

—In sizes 15 to 17.

Here's Wonderful News Balbriggan Underwear 15c

—Where have you heard of such news. Slight imperfections of a 25c line. Marked special at 19c. 100 dozen in ecru color. Sizes 34 to 46.

—This should crowd the men's department from the first tap of the opening bell until the quantity is exhausted. Limit 4. Aisle 4.

Men's Silk Plaited Socks 12½c

—These are factory mended 25c silk plaited socks that I secured for less and marked for a great sale feature at 19c. But I'm going to win the men in this sale, so I'll sell them at 12½c.

—These are the season's best patterns. They have soft detachable collars and soft cuffs. Coat cut, and I want to tell you it's the biggest shirt value I've presented in many and many a day.

—I took the remaining lot from a local manufacturer. Regular $1.50 and $2.00 Shirts. I want you to see them and you'll be sure to buy them at $1.10 their special marked price.

Work Shirts Will Be 29c Imperfect 50c Line

—But the factory has mended all the imperfections.

—These are in plain blue and a few black sateens.

—Why I marked them special at 39c, and now Monday in this sale I'm going to sell them at 29c. Limit of 3 to a customer. 1200 while they last.

I Bought Sample Line of Barrettes & Combs at Less Than 50c on the $

—And if you don't see activity around my department I miss my guess. Somewhere in the neighborhood of 600 combs and barrettes, and I've grouped them into three lots.

And Besides 3000 Pcs. Sample Line of Jewelry To Sell at 25c and 50c

—My, but I'm glad this arrived in time for the sale. You'll be glad too for here is some of the most wonderful Jewelry that I've ever seen at these prices. Why the lot even includes the new imported Novelty Poiret Jewelry, and besides the Parisian Ivory in imitation Cameo effects. New Beauty Pins, the very best and newest summer jewelry.

—And think of it only 25c and 50c.

At 15c, at 25c, at 50c

—The kind of values that will win the prize for me. For it's a prize offering.

—Plain and fancy Combs and Barrettes, plain and open work and brilliant set. Some with beautiful inlaid patterns.

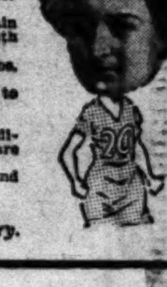
—And a large number of plain Back Combs, too, and Side Combs.

—Being samples, the variety is too extensive to cover every feature.

—The 15c items are worth fully a half more.

—The items at 25c could not be secured ordinarily under 50c and 75c and those at 50c are easily worth $1.

—Come to aisle 3, Monday and Tuesday and share in this great value I'll have to offer.



Miss C. Powers, Mgr. Shell Goods and Jewelry.

Tango and the Complexion

The strenuous exercise of the Tango has the effect of improving the general health and so naturally helps to improve complexions. It has also forced most women to discard face powders because they rub off too readily and fill the pores, making healthy skin-breathing impossible.

If pore-clogging powder were discarded for a plain spurmax lotion, there would be more beautiful complexions, and rough, blotchy, unlovely skins would rarely be seen. This lotion is easily prepared at home—just get from your druggist 4 ounces spurmax and dissolve in either ½ pint hot water or witch hazel, and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. The spurmax lotion is fine for hot days as it will not spot nor streak and one application lasts an entire day, relieving that shiny, oily appearance. This lotion blends so nicely with the skin that it cannot be detected, and it lends an exquisite charm to the daintiest complexion.

MRS. WILLIAM GIBBS M'ADOO.

Bride of the Secretary of the Treasury Who Will Return to Washington During the Coming Week and Take Her Exalted Position in the Cabinet Set.

BY MARGARET B. DOWNING.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Never before in the social history of the United States of America did the daughter of a President wed one of his official councillors and not since Mr. Bissell, Postmaster-General in the second Cleveland administration, has a Cabinet minister wed within his term of office. All through his long service as Secretary of Agriculture were there rumors of the remarriage of James Wilson and of the engagement and expected marriage of Mr. Hitchcock, recent Cabinet bachelor, and of Judge Moody, his remote predecessor in this role, there were furnishes some food for speculation in this line, now that the only other eligible is removed from the reckoning. Ever since the marriage of Miss Jessie Wilson and Francis Bowes Sayre, there were whisperings that the third daughter of the President and the dapper and gallant Secretary of the Treasury were soon to tread the same stately way to the thunder of the Marine Band. But in this case, gossip rested on a more secure foundation than is usual in such prognostications.

President and Mrs. Wilson will give a splendid al fresco fete to the distinguished bridal pair, probably within the next week and then Mrs. McAdoo takes her position in the Cabinet circle and will begin her routine duties. They become the same as those pertaining to the other Cabinet hostesses and one derives no prestige from the fact of being a President's daughter. She is simply the wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, second Cabinet hostess in precedence, fourth lady of the land in the new order which makes the Secretary of State the successor of the Vice-President, and the Secretary of the Treasury the heir apparent of the Premier and so on down the lines of Cabinet ministers. It makes an interesting juncture of affairs and is the first time a President's daughter has played such an imposing role within her father's term of office. There have been sons-in-law of Presidents who have become Cabinet officials and even climbed into higher places. Jefferson Davis for instance who married Sarah Taylor daughter of Zachary Taylor and who was President of the Confederacy after serving Buchanan as Secretary of War. But his honors came long after President Taylor's death. In a special way, Mrs. McAdoo's romance furnishes one of the most fascinating bits of White House history which to be added to its many chapters. It was wholly and entirely a White House wooing, Mr. McAdoo's acquaintance with his bride being so slight before March 1913, that he barely knew her from her other sisters. Likewise the lovely old garden and especially that wonderful chestnut tree so dear to Dolly Madison and under which President and Mrs. Taft stood on the evening of their silver wedding could have proclaimed the news in advance of the social chatter.

The President's third daughter possesses marked characteristics and is perhaps the most accomplished in social graces, or rather it might be said cares for such things more than her two sisters. It was predicted she would have a magnificent wedding something which would make an epoch in history and this might have been the case but for many things. In White House history as in lesser chronicles, it is noteworthy how often incidents repeat themselves. When Maria Hester Monroe, daughter of the Chief Executive whose doctrine is making such a stir in the world just now, married her cousin and her father's private secretary, Samuel Gouverneur, it was planned to have a wedding which would eclipse everything ever environed in Washington or in the White House. Mrs. Hay, elder daughter of President Monroe, ruled at the mansion, for Mrs. Monroe was always delicate and appeared only rarely in the leading role. Mrs. Hay had lived in Paris during her father's term as Minister there and she delighted in the refinements and formality of the French court. So she intended that her young sister should be wed with all the ceremonial which marks a marriage in the Tuileries. But within the month set for marriage Commodore Decatur fell a victim to Commodore Barron's bullet and the entire country was plunged into grief for the hero of the war with Tripoli. President Monroe recognized the unpopularity of great display and instead, he followed the lead, used black on his stationery and kept a flag for weeks at half mast. His daughter was married with only the members of the two families present with the notable exception of the former President and Mrs. James Madison.

Mrs. McAdoo bowed to the feelings engendered by the threatened war with Mexico and also to the desire of her parents and possibly of her husband to have the affair as quietly and simply planned as possible. But as Cabinet lady, one may expect to see all the eminent social talents of the former Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson conspicuously displayed. She has absolutely original ideas about everything and is like her mother, an artist, of far more than mediocre talent. For the present her home will be the handsome residence of another Secretary of the Treasury, Lyman J. Gage, and here she will preside over the amenities of the late spring season. It is more likely that some time in June, she will take possession of a pleasant villa near Marion, Mass., where she will establish the family for the heated term. This is within easy travel either by motor or by water from Newport, where Mr. and Mrs. Francis Huger McAdoo will spend the summer with Capt. and Mrs. Isaac Emerson and where Miss Nona McAdoo will spend the summer.

Mrs. McAdoo is the only one of the President's daughters who does not hold a college degree and this shows her characteristics markedly. Like her mother she is fond of her brush and she did not go in for the higher education except for those things essential to the gentlewoman of today. She attended private schools in Princeton after joining the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts, for several years she made tri-weekly trips to the Quaker City from the Princeton home and at one time she contemplated taking up art seriously. She was always the member of the family who added the last touches to the preparations for a fete. Her dainty little vignettes often figuring as place cards and her talents for arrangement of the commonplaces in food being little short of genius. As one of her friends expresses it, she can make a piece of bread look like a fragile white blossom and she can even take the homeliness out of soup by the artistic surroundings.

Certainly from the standpoint of society activity, the marriage of Mr. McAdoo will prove of telling advantage to the Wilson regime. The wives of the other officials are women past middle life, as a rule to whom social triumphs are an old tale and who have years before won their laurels as successful chatelaines. Young Mrs. McAdoo will give them all a reason to brush up as it were and enter the race for supremacy. She delights to plan everything for her dinners and to effect a color scheme which would be worthy of the creation of a Parisian chef. Mrs. Wilson is an excellent cook and all her daughters know all the mysteries of culinary art. Mr. McAdoo's young wife has a reputation in Princeton for sandwiches and salads, two important accomplishments in the social world just now. She is hospitably inclined and she has now the long list of ante-nuptial amenities to return. Dinners, luncheons and 5 o'clock teas at the McAdoo home will be a continual story until society disperses for the summer.

Added to a supreme talent for planning and executing intricate affairs like large dinners, Mrs. McAdoo has another unique talent, a love for theatricals and patience enough to drill and to perfect all arrangements for them. Her rendition in the bird masque, "Sanctuary," gave her high place in the role of amateurs and had she been of less exalted parentage might have led to serious offers. Mrs. McAdoo has been eminently a leader of the younger set and she does not intend to relinquish her scepter because of her marriage. On the contrary, Washington hopes for a winter which will recall the first days of the Cleveland administration when Mrs. William C. Whitney's love of private theatricals led her to give histrionic fetes as often as other hostesses gave dinners. It was at one of these that the famous Mrs. James Brown Potter astonished Washington by the enthusiasm of her acting and by the unconventional selection of her parts.

Then the marriage has been called a dancing romance, the Secretary finding the President's daughter such a satisfactory partner in the dance that he became consumed with the desire to have the partnership continue for life. Now that the marriage is happily over, it is remarked how often Mr. McAdoo found time to join an impromptu dancing class which Miss Eleanor, as she was then, had formed for afternoons. It was in the spring of last year when everybody was confused about the new dances. Miss Maitland Marshall, now Mrs. John Knapp, had learned all the newest steps during various trips to Paris and she used to come over and practice with the Misses Wilson. Dr. Grayson, aide to the President, and attending physician, was, of course, on hand and he soon took up the practice, too. He mentioned it to Mr. McAdoo also unable to grasp the mysteries and Dr. Grayson invited the Secretary.

After a few rounds there was always tennis and many times did Miss Eleanor pair with Dr. Grayson with her husband as partner of Mrs. Knapp. All which obligations were paid when Mrs. McAdoo acted as bridesmaid at Mrs. Knapp's wedding and Dr. Grayson was best man at the latest White House nuptials. Dancing parties will be another innovation, for Mrs. McAdoo will always hold this exercise as far superior to tennis or golfing as an aid to Cupid.

Last of all Mrs. McAdoo seems to possess in rare quality the gift of joy and her coming is always a signal for merry-making for informal intercouse and for genuine pleasure. When she speaks, she always says something and for a politician to have such a spouse is in itself a hostage to fortune. In the home circle there are many tales of her pranks and practical jokes and there are some very interesting whispers about the uncertainty in which she enshrouded her intentions towards Mr. McAdoo's ardent suit. But now she is seemingly very demure and her exacting role of Cabinet hostess and incidentally to direct a large household and to mother the pretty young daughters of the Secretary has given her dignity and added grace. There are also two college youths in the family, not to mention the married son and daughter and the pretty baby grandchildren. It seems a complicated role to fill, but the third daughter of the President has all the poise and self-control imperative for success.

Mrs. Wilson, who parted with much reluctance from her youngest born, has not lost her in the sense she would if she were to leave the city as did Mrs. Sayre. Last season Mrs. McAdoo and her sisters fitted up studies in the third floor or [illegible] roof of the White House. Miss Margaret practices her music for hours daily. Mrs. Sayre had her work in the sociological line with a large library and the need for absolute quiet. Miss Eleanor paints and sketches daily or at least she had an [illegible] could spare the time from the allurements of Washington society. She had her studio fitted up exactly as it was at the Princeton home in a great room with a north window which looks out on Pennsylvania avenue and here she flitted in and out as she found the leisure. She has left the studio as it was and she intends to continue her work at the White House to the unspeakable consolation of her mother and of her sister, Miss Margaret. As she is constantly painting place cards and dainty [illegible] for her small girl friends, the White House will get at least a weekly visit from its former belle.

Lastly, but perhaps from the feminine standpoint, the most important talent of Mrs. McAdoo is her gift for being well-gowned. She has all the artist's daring in combining colors and she can achieve results in harmony which would seem impossible. Last winter she was partial to the soft colors in pink and yellow so often reproduced in flowers and she would wear gowns of tissue pink over yellow, of pale blue combined with deep purple, recalling her favorite flower, the iris, and she would at once attract the attention of any company in which she appeared. Her trousseau has been planned with all her well-known taste for striking effects and not the least of the interest attaching to her appearance as a Cabinet official's wife is the desire to see the wonderful wardrobe she has selected for her part.

Dream-Wise.

I drank from buds with a [illegible]
And April's sweet enchantment [illegible]
Upon my dream-fast eyes;
Beneath whose spell I saw and [illegible]
Blithe Nature's incantation old
Above her mixing-bowl, the earth,
The while its contents brown and [illegible]
With sunbeam fingers warm [illegible] stirred.

More soft than leafy lullabies
That close the drowsy fledgling's [illegible]
Was Nature's rhythmic chant,
To bending skies intoned low,
"Your tenderest blue, kind heaven, bestow
To dye my fair forget-me-nots,
My hare-bells shy and bluets [illegible]
Bopeeping flowers that star the [illegible]

"Oh, send me, when the sun is low
Its deepest tints of afterglow
To flush with beauty's hue
The flower most loved my kind knows—
The queen of summertide, the rose;
And when the gentle night is come,
Entreat her wandering star-[illegible]
bright
Their sheen to lend for lilies white.

"Mysterious earth-force all [illegible]
Your grasses weave, for carpets [illegible]
To match the emerald seas;
And bid the sun a fringe of gold
To dye for dandelions bold,
The mimicking suns of earth
Which on the greensward [illegible] play
That heaven is not so far away."

From eve till morn the chant I [illegible]
Which Nature's fragrant [illegible] wrought
With leaf and bud and flower;
And far beyond the dawn I [illegible]
My senses still the fay had [illegible]
That I might hear her softly [illegible]
The pixies hang the dewdrops [illegible]
To catch their diamond tints [illegible]

Perchance till now the spell had [illegible]
Which all my wonderment [illegible]
Came not the envious clouds [illegible]
Whose bursting wrath [illegible] break
The charm which fades [illegible]
awake.
Yet memory will hold forever
The witchery of Nature's [illegible]
Which keeps the universe [illegible]

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

at least four centuries women have led the literary profession in France," observed Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, incoming of Ebell in her address before the art and travel section of Thursday morning when the literature of France. "they are producing their in fiction," she continued. French woman writer best in America today is Pierre de of whom a distinguished says, 'No one knows her one reads her here, since she politan and that is a distinction in France.' Her chief charm is her frequent combination of English, French and traits. Her thread of story and her novels are only of impressions. In the case she limits her observation to one particular class—the that thronge the Rue de la Paix Hotel Ritz in Paris; the in London and the Palace at Aix-les-Bains. This type is traveled American who, endowed with sound virtues and independence, is neurotic, fast and even Mrs. de Coulevain herself on the wing, flitting from New to Paris, to London, to Bath. She has therefore opportunity to study the roving fashionables. Her account of the evolution of the 5 o'clock tea in Paris is interesting. She says:

'Formerly Parisians used to take or sandwiches with a glass of at Gage's, or Cuvillier's, or at a 's near the Madeleine. the tea shop is an institution; 5 o'clock' has become a 'custom.' This little evolution, which been without effect upon our has taken place within the fifteen years. It originated in de Rivoli in a shop known Stationers of La Concorde, by two Englishmen—the Brothers. Did they think to undertake a work of piety and profit by their compatriots with national beverage? I do not but there, amid books and behind a screen, on two they began to serve tea and. For the first time Paris the sign 'Afternoon Tea.' and biscuit in a stationers' shop! an English mind could imagine an invention.'

de Coulevain's remarks on Colonial Dames of New York are. She says: 'Instead of an aristocracy of intelligence, knowledge and talent, they aimed at one of birth. By of relics bought in Europe old family Bibles with marriages birth written on the fly-leaf, have rediscovered their ancestors and laid claim to belonging to noble families. They are of being branches of an old tree than the stem of a and vigorous American. Possessed of this fascinating many such parvenus turn church registers and the of the British Museum and, are clever enough, return to with proof of their ancient and sometimes with armorial.'

her best novel, 'L'Eve Victorieuse,' in which the chief heroine is an American girl, Mme. de says that America is the of women and a paradise in Eve is always victorious. She American men as splendid creatures of fine physique, virile bright intelligence and engaging candor. She regrets that conjugal obedience is not expected by husbands, and thinks the make more charming wives French men than to their own whom they dominate.

French folk seem to have that we American women indulged and petted lot. I that Max O'Rell, when lecturing here in Los Angeles years remarked that if he could be again and could choose his condition in life he would cry out with soul, 'Oh, make me an American woman.'"

Interested in Symphony.

That women's clubs are becoming interested in the fortunes of Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra can be no doubt. Ebell took and other organizations are falling in line. Last week Fitzgerald and Dr. Norman who are presenting the subject to the clubs, spoke before the Woman's Club. Dr. in the course of his address, attention to the fact that we annually spend vast sums for foreign talent in the of traveling musical organizations for concerts, theaters and opera of which money goes out State and is lost in our. Grand opera annually takes sums of money out of the that, he declared, could accomplish a musical purpose kept here. He said that Angeles Symphony Orchestra, by of eastern critics, is in the of similar orchestras in New Boston and Chicago, and the above-named cities pay big for the support of their symphony work. Dr. Bridge put in a plea for the maintenance of own orchestra through the cooperation of the women's clubs and public-spirited men and women who love the best music, know its to the public, and who are determined to keep Los Angeles to the of American cities in the finer of western enlightenment. Ebell is taking something than a sentimental interest in orchestra is indicated by the that, at last accounts, some forty seats had been taken by club in the block reserved by club.

Audubon Field Day.

The regular field meeting of the Society will come off next when the morning will be in Laughlin Park. After lunch party will adjourn to Griffith. All interested in bird study are. Take Western-avenue car to street. The meeting with Pasadena society at the residence Mrs. Rosenbaum has been postponed from next Saturday to a month.

French Fashions Taboo?

It looks as if a distinct movement American-designed fashions American women were under observed Mrs. W. D. McCon- in the course of her address on as Dictator of Fashions," given the art and travel section of last Thursday. "Trade journals to textile and women's wear have given pages to the of this topic and two of the fashionable dressmakers in New who have been large importers models have felt the demand strongly that they have come out for American designs and have almost entirely the Paris. The idea is to give designs conservative in style and yet in line that a woman need not change her hat or gown before she has had reasonable wear out of it.

"Where will the American fashions come from? From the same historic sources whence come French fashions. The French dressmakers never originate; they adapt. The Russian dancers make a sensation at the Grand Operahouse in Paris, and we have the Russian blouse. A Balkan War comes on, and immediately there is a Turkish tendency in Parisian styles. The Durbar gives us Oriental designs, and so on. French dressmakers go to their libraries and art galleries, study the designs of a period, adapt them, and lo! we have the source and inspiration of fashion. It is idle to say that this skill of adaptation is impossible to the American, and why therefore should American women longer suffer from the ignominious position of being told what to wear and how long to wear it by people 3000 miles away? It is simply that the Paris fetish has been too long worshipped with indiscriminating devotion. During the past five years we have had it strongly borne in upon us that in the presentation of the grotesque and freakish—always the sure mark of deterioration in any art—Paris fashions are losing their hitherto artistic style. A journal of fashion, dated October, 1913, headed its leading article, "Paris Issues the Decree of 1914." With the American woman's love of freedom and the right to adopt styles that best fit her life and conditions, a new and distinct system of fashion may shortly evolve and the slogan "See America's Milliner First" may be the keynote that shall echo from the lakes to the gulf and from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

In connection with the above declaration of independence, it is interesting to ponder on what would happen to these famous foreign dressmakers if the good American dollars, which have filled their coffers should be kept at home. Those Paris costumers sure do think we American women are dependent on them, as witness the remark of a French dressmaker to a certain Ebell woman, who mentioned this incident Thursday.

"Where do you live, Madame?" inquired the Paris artist as she deftly designed the gown.

"In California," was the reply.

"Oh, Madame, are you not afraid to live so far from Paris?" queried the dressmaker.

Averill Club Committees.

Mrs. F. K. Adams, the new president of the Averill Club, has appointed the following committees for next year's work: Programme—Mmes. G. O. Brewer, A. E. Wheeler, Charles Silk, S. T. Exley and Miss Rilla Reeves. Hospitality—Mmes. E. H. Adams, Charles Young, Henry Crum, G. W. Haigh and George Robinson. Housing—Mmes. L. V. Glasscock, G. E. Averill, J. C. LeMasters, Wardner and M. E. Alexander. Civics—Mmes. J. M. Hale, E. H. Barton, George Powell. Legislation—Mmes. J. J. Still, G. M. McDowell and Walter Veil. Flowers—Mmes. C. P. Dodge, James Somerville and Emma Brown. Printing—Mmes. C. L. Moulton, John Finlay and Frank Pasta.

The annual picnic was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Gail McDowell, No. 946 Mariposa avenue, when more than fifty members and guests enjoyed an elaborate picnic dinner and a pleasing programme of music.

Inning for Father.

The Inglewood Women's Club struck a new note in the way of a final function for the year when they entertained their husbands and masculine friends at an elaborate 7 o'clock dinner last Tuesday night, served in the dining-room of the Inglewood High School. The Social Committee of the club, of which Mrs. J. T. Leftwich is chairman, managed the affair and the girls of the domestic science class in the High School served the dinner under the direction of their instructor, Miss Alexander. Ferns and roses, Shasta daisies (the club flower,) and dainty greenery decorated the tables, walls and chandeliers. Following the dinner the company of ninety repaired to the gymnasium, where old-time games and charades were enjoyed. The members of the club came clad in out-of-date and comic costumes which added to the gaiety of the occasion, and it is needless to say that the men were genuinely enthusiastic over this social event which threw down the bars in their favor.

Mrs. I. K. Wilson, the outgoing president, has the satisfaction of knowing that the past year has been one of the most successful in the history of the club. The membership has grown to fifty-six and rooms have been leased and will be fitted up by the club for occupancy next year, thus doing away with the custom of meeting from house to house as hitherto.

The new officers are Mrs. W. G. Brown, president; Mrs. G. M. Green, vice-president; Mrs. J. T. Leftwich, recording secretary; Mrs. G. R. Westlake, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Francis Blackie, treasurer, and Mrs. Frank Friend, historian.

Sierra Madre Club.

The above club elected the following officers at its meeting last week: President, Mrs. W. J. Lawless; first vice-president, Mrs. F. J. Hart; second vice-president, Mrs. G. Hallett Johnson; recording secretary, Mrs. W. H. Ingraham; corresponding secretary, Miss Annie B. Coffey; auditor, Mrs. L. E. Steinberger; treasurer, Mrs. Louis Deitz; directors, Mmes. E. C. Carhart, W. E. Walker, W. W. Collins and Irving N. Ward.

Mrs. W. E. Keepers of Alhambra read a paper on Oscar Wilde—an appreciation and interpretation of his art. This paper was originally prepared for the Chicago Woman's Press Club, of which Mrs. Keepers is a member.

On Friday evening a dance was given at the clubhouse for the benefit of the club fund. Tomorrow Mrs. Frank Wright, the outgoing president, will give a luncheon at her home on West Highland avenue in honor of the officers and members of the executive board, which will be followed by a business meeting.

Glendale Women's Club.

Last Tuesday the following officers were elected at the above club: President, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones; first vice-president, Mrs. E. D. Goode; second vice-president and chairman of Programme Committee, Mrs. Fred Baker; recording secretary, Mrs. William Ramsey; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. L. Weaver; treasurer, Mrs. Warren Roberts; directors, Mmes. David Black, W. E. Evans and J. W. Usilton.

The club has grown to a membership of 215 and owns two splendid lots, one of which is to be used for a building site. The treasurer reported over $600 net earned for the lot fund during the year. Mrs. Wayland Brown gave a fine programme of readings, a feature of which was a selection from "Tales of a Wayside Inn" with musical accompaniment by Mrs. E. V. Lawton.

The meeting on June 9 will be guest day and a splendid programme has been arranged by Mrs. Freeman Kelly, chairman of music. The last meeting on June 24 will be the annual luncheon given in Masonic Hall when Mrs. Daniel Campbell, chairman of hospitality, and her assistants will be in charge.

College Women's Club.

The College Women's Club has raised some $1300 during the year for a clubhouse fund through the medium of its "get-acquainted sections." Beside the pecuniary result the social activities have been increased and a spirit of comradeship developed.

The June meeting of the club will be a luncheon for members only at the Annandale Country Club next Saturday at 1 o'clock. Hostesses for the day are members representing Vassar, Syracuse University, Columbia, University of Toronto and Mt. Allison University. Miss Ida Pittner is in charge of the affair.

The following new members are announced: Mrs. Ethel Babb Ragland from the University of Chicago, Mrs. Inez Mitchell Brown from Grinnell College, Mrs. Amy Van Deerlin Irish from University of California, Miss Ida I. Jones, and Miss Genevieve Church Smith of Pasadena from the University of Wisconsin.

Cadman Is Feted and Dined.

Charles Wakefield Cadman, who was a guest at the music section of Ebell last Wednesday, is receiving much attention in local musical circles during his sojourn in Pasadena, which will end next month when he returns to his home in Denver. Last Tuesday afternoon he was a guest of honor at the home of the singer, Mrs. Emma T. Makinson, No. 227 North Rampart boulevard, when she entertained the Los Angeles Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Many guests outside the membership of this organization were invited to meet the distinguished composer and Mrs. Makinson, who was the first to sing Cadman's songs when they were yet in manuscript back in Pittsburgh, where both then resided, sang ten of his compositions to his own piano accompaniment. One of these, "At Dawning," which is a favorite wherever his songs are sung, it is interesting to know, yielded sufficient royalties in one year to build Cadman's handsome home at Estes Park in Denver.

At the close of the programme last Thursday at Ebell, Mrs. Makinson sang his new Indian suite from "Wigwam and Teepee," and as an encore that universal favorite, "From the Land of the Sky-Blue Water." It is but four years since Cadman's songs struck the popular fancy and now they are sung the world around.

This evening Miss Fannie Dillon, who has several fine compositions to her credit, will entertain Cadman and Mrs. Makinson, who has been his lifelong friend, at dinner.

Los Angeles Girl for Trustee.

Mrs. S. L. Rios and Mrs. Maude Austin have been elected delegates from La Esperanza Parlor to the Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters which convenes in Oakland June 8. Miss Grace Stoermer, delegate from Los Angeles Parlor, is a candidate for Grand Trustee. She is a native daughter of Los Angeles and will have the entire support of the delegation from Southern California.

South Pasadena Clubs.

Mrs. Frank Stephens, president of the Woman's Improvement Association, entertained with a luncheon at her home, No. 1831 Laurel street, Wednesday afternoon, honoring her executive board and the chairman of the standing committees. The table was abloom with long sprays of Dorothy Perkins roses, and place cards were the hand work of the versatile hostess—roses falling over the brims of hats. Covers were laid for Mrs. W. P. Freeman, Mrs. Jonathan S. Dodge, Mrs. Leo Longley, Mrs. Edward Rust, Mrs. E. L. B. Godfrey, Mrs. George Alfred Miller, Mrs. E. E. Washburn and Mrs. Clara Rathbun, composing the executive board, and Mrs. E. M. Mumford, Mrs. Arthur Walker, Mrs. J. H. Copelin, Mrs. Louis Luckel, Mrs. B. F. Huntington, Mrs. George Crandall, Miss Eva Kerr and Miss Bess Gardner, composing the standing committees. The affair was a business luncheon arranged for the purpose of talking over the plans for Reciprocity Day, which occurs June 17. One of the features of that day will be an art loan exhibit, which has been arranged for by a special committee appointed, consisting of Mrs. C. F. de Witte, chairman; Mrs. Lawrence B. Stevens, Mrs. Franz Bischoff, Mrs. Carl Yens, Mrs. George Minier and Mrs. Frank Stephens.

Mrs. N. Messer, Mrs. G. W. McDonald will be the hostesses at the next meeting of the club, Wednesday.

The annual banquet of the Monday Evening Musical Club was held in this city. Afterward a musical programme was given by Mrs. A. E. Merritt, violin solo; Miss Clara Bosbyshell, piano solo; Mrs. George Crandall and Mrs. Mary Carter McGee of Hollywood, soprano numbers; Arthur Babcock, two baritone numbers, one of which had been dedicated to himself by F. H. Colby; Julius V. Seyler, piano solo; Ernest G. Hesser, baritone solo. Accompanists for the evening were Miss Bosbyshell, Miss Mabel Bishop and Julius V. Seyler.

A curious case of canine kidnaping occurred last week in Haverhill. A small Newfoundland puppy, owned by John Mitchell, escaped twice from its rope, each time returning after an interval. It was found that a full-grown Newfoundland dog living near there gnawed through the rope in order that the puppy might accompany him on a frolic.

What the Painting Was.

[Pearson's Weekly:] Many unkind things have been said about the difficulty of making head or tail of the futurist paintings, but the latest story is positively cruel. It was told the other evening across the dinner table of a well-known caricaturist.

The caricaturist said that he had that day paid a visit with a number of friends to the studio of a futurist painter in order to examine the painting he had prepared for a forthcoming exhibition.

"What a striking piece of work!" exclaimed one of the visitors. "A storm at sea, of course."

"Nonsense!" replied another. "One can see that it's a landscape with the setting sun."

"Rubbish!" snapped a third. "I saw at once that it's a Japanese volcano in eruption."

"It reminds me," murmured a frivolous critic, "of a plate of tomatoes or a lobster struck by lighting. I'm not quite sure which."

"Don't be ridiculous!" exclaimed another. "Anybody can see plainly that it's a naval battle."

The unfortunate artist broke out furiously:

"It's nothing of the kind!" he bellowed. "The picture merely represents a simple country wedding."

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys If Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

THE ADVENTURES OF KATHLYN.

BY HAROLD MAC GRATH.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Kathlyn Hare, believing her father, Col. Hare, in peril, has summoned her, leaves her home in California to go to him in Allaha, India. Umballah, pretender to the throne of that principality, has imprisoned the colonel, named by the late king as his heir, because he fears the American may insist on his royal rights. Upon her arrived in Allaha, Kathlyn is informed by Umballah that, her father being dead, she is to be queen, and must marry him forthwith. Because of her refusal she is sentenced to undergo two ordeals with wild beasts.

John Bruce, an American and fellow-passenger on the boat which brought Kathlyn to Allaha, saves her life. The elephant which carries her from the scene of her trials becomes frightened and runs away, separating her from Bruce and the rest of the party. After many perilous adventures she finds a retreat in the jungle, only to fall into the hands of a band of slave traders, who bring her to Allaha in the public mart. She is sold to Umballah, who, finding her still unsubmissive, throws her into the dungeon with her father.

Bruce and his friends effect the release of Kathlyn and the colonel, and the fugitives are given shelter in the palace of Bala Khan. Supplied with camels and servants by that hospitable prince, the party endeavors to reach the coast, but is overpowered by a band of brigands, and the encounter results in the colonel being delivered to Umballah. Kathlyn and Bruce escape from their captors and return to Allaha, where Kathlyn learns that her father, while nominally king, is in reality a prisoner. Kathlyn's resourcefulness and bravery are the means of rescuing him, and once more they steal away from Allaha, but return broken-hearted when they learn that Winnie, Kathlyn's young sister, has come to India, and had been forced by Umballah to enter the palace and accept the crown of Allaha. One attempt to free her almosts costs Kathlyn her life, but the second plan succeeds.

The people of Allaha at last, weary of Umballah's misrule, rise against him, with Ramabai, whose wife, Pundita, is the lawful queen, at their head, and the colonel and Bruce fighting with him. The revolutionists are being overpowered by Umballah's soldiers when Kathlyn assumes command of the scattered forces. She saves the day for them, and Pundita in placed on the throne. Umballah flees for his life. Through his thirst for vengeance Kathlyn is made to face death by fire. When that disaster is averted death by poison threatens, but a loyal servant sacrifices himself and saves her from the latter danger.

Ramabai has long suspected that the real king of Allaha did not die, as was announced to the people, but is being held in some vile dungeon. When he discovers that his surmise is correct he, the colonel, and Bruce hasten to the hut in which the king has been imprisoned, and the feeble old man is escorted to the palace.

The photodramas corresponding to the installments of "The Adventures of Kathlyn" may now be seen at a number of the leading moving picture theaters. By this unique arrangement with the Selig Polyscope Company, it is therefore possible not only to read "The Adventures of Kathlyn" in this paper, but also to keep pace with each installment of it at the moving picture theater.

CHAPTER XXII.

IN THE rear of the temple Umballah sought was a small chamber which was used by the priests when they desired to rest or converse privately, which was often. The burning temple lamps of brass emphasized the darkness of the room rather than dispelled it. A shadow occasionally flickered through the amber haze—an exploring bat. A dozen or more priests stood in one of the dim corners, from which their own especial idol winked at them with eyes like coals blown upon. The Krishna of the Ruby Eyes, an idol known far and wide but seen by few.

In the temple itself there was a handful of tardy worshipers. The heat of the candles, the smell of the eternal lotus flower and smoking incense sticks made even the huge vault stifling. Many of the idols were bejeweled or patched with beaten gold leaf, and many had been coverted by wandering white men, who, when their endeavor became known, disappeared mysteriously and were never more known in the haunts of men.

A man in tatters appeared suddenly in the great arched doorway. His turban came down almost to his eyes and a neckcloth covered his mouth. All that could be seen of him in the matter of countenance was a pair of brilliant eyes and a predatory nose. He threw a quick, piercing glance about, assured himself that such devotees as he saw were harmless, then strode boldly if hurriedly toward the rear chamber, which he entered without ado. Instantly the indignant priests rushed toward him to expel him and give him a tongue-lashing for his impudence, when a hand was thrust out, and they beheld upon a finger a great green stone. They stopped as suddenly as though they had met an invisible electric current.

The curtain fell behind the man in tatters, and he remained motionless for a space. A low murmuring among the priests ensued, and presently one of their number—the youngest—passed out and stationed himself before the curtain. Not even a privileged dancing girl might enter now.

The man in tatters stepped forward. He became the center of the group; his gestures were quick, tense, authoritative. At length priest turned to priest, and the wrinkled faces became more wrinkled still; smiles.

"Highness," said the eldest, "we had thought of this, but you did not make us your confidant."

"Till an hour gone it had not occurred to me. Shall Ramabai, then, become your master, to set forth the propaganda of the infidel?"

"No!" The word was not spoken loudly, but sibilantly, with something resembling a hiss. "No!"

"And shall a king who has no mind, no will, no strength, resume his authority? Perhaps to bring more white people into Allaha, perhaps to give Allaha eventually to the British raj?"

Again the negative.

"But the method?"

Umballah smiled. "What brings the worshiper here with candles and flowers and incense? Is it love or reverence or superstition?"

The bald yellow heads nodded like porcelain mandarins.

"Superstition," went on Umballah, "the sword which bends the knees of the layman, has and always will through the ages!"

In the vault outside a bell tinkled, a gong boomed melodiously.

"When I give the sign," continued the schemer, "declare the curse upon all those who do not bend. A word from your lips, and Ramabai's troops vanish, reform, and become yours and mine!"

"While the king lives?" asked the chief priest curiously.

"Ah!" And Umballah smiled again.

"But you, Durga Ram?"

"There is Ramabai, a senile king, and I. Which for your purposes will you choose?"

There was a conference. The priests drifted away from Umballah. He did not stir. His mien was proud and haughty, but for all that his knees shook and his heart thundered. He understood that it was to be all or nothing, no middle course, no half methods. He waited, wetting his cracked and swollen lips. When the priests returned to him, their heads bent before him a little. It represented a salaam, as much as they had ever given to the king himself. A glow ran over Umballah.

"Highness, we agree. There will be terms."

"I will agree to them without question."

Life and power again; real power! These doddering fools should serve him, thinking the while that they served themselves.

"Half the treasury must be paid to the temple."

"Agreed!" Half for the temple and half for himself; and the abolishment of the seven leopards. "With this stipulation: Ramabai is yours, but the white people are to be mine."

The priests signified assent.

And Umballah smiled in secret. Ramabai would be dead on the morrow.

"There remains the king," said the chief priest.

Umballah shrugged,

The chief priest stared soberly at the lamp above his head. The king would be, then, Umballah's affair.

"He is ill?"

"He is moribund . . . Silence!" warned Umballah.

The curtains became violently agitated. They heard the voice of the young priest outside raised in protest, to be answered by the shrill tones of a woman.

"You are mad!"

"And you are a stupid fool."

Umballah's hand fell away from his dagger.

"It is a woman," he said." Admit her.

The curtains were thrust aside, and the painted dancing girl who had saved Umballah from death or capture in the fire of his own contriving rushed in. Her black hair was studded with turquoise, a necklace of amber gleamed like gold around her neck, and on her arms and ankles a plenitude of silver bracelets and anklets. With her back to the curtains, the young priest staring curiously over her shoulder, she presented a picturesque tableau.

"Well?" said Umballah, who understood that she was here from no idle whim.

"Highness, you must hide with me this night."

"Indeed?"

"Or die," coolly.

Umballah sprang forward and seized her roughly.

"What has happened?"

"I was in the zenana, highness, visiting my sister, whom you had transferred from the palace. All at once we heard shouting and trampling of feet, and a moment later your house was overrun with men. They had found the king in the hut and had taken him to the palace. That they did not find you is because you came here."

"Tell me all."

"It seems that the majordomo gave the poison to Ramabai, but the white goddess. . . ."

"The white goddess!" cried Umballah, as if stung by a cobra's fang.

"Ay, highness. She did not die on that roof. Nothing can harm her. It is written."

"And I was never told!".

She lived, lived, and all the terrors he had evoked for her were as naught! Umballah was not above superstitution himself for all his European training. Surely this girl of the white people was imbued with something more than mortal. She lived!

"Go on!" he said, his voice subdued as was his soul.

"The white goddess by mistake took Ramabai's goblet and was about to drink when the majordomo seized the goblet and drained the poison himself. He confessed everything, where the king was, where you were. They are again hunting through the city for you. For the present you must hide with me."

"The white woman must die," said Umballah, in a voice like one being strangled.

To this the priests agreed without hesitation. This white woman whom the people were calling a goddess was a deadly menace to that scepter of theirs, superstition.

"What has gone is a pact?"

"A pact, Durga Ram," said the chief priest. With Ramabai spreading Christianity, the abhorred creed which gave people liberty of person and thought, the future of his own religion stood in imminent danger. "A pact," he reflected. "To you, Durga Ram, the throne; to us half the treasury and all the ancient rites of our creed restored."

"I have said it."

Umballah followed the dancing girl into the square before the temple. He turned and smiled ironically. The bald fools!

"Lead on, thou flower of the jasmine!" lightly.

And the two of them disappeared into the night.

But the priests smiled, too, for Durga Ram should always be more in their power than they in his.

There was tremendous excitement in the city the next morning. It seemed that the city would never be permitted to resume its old careless indolence. Swift as the wind the news flew that the old King was alive, that he had been held prisoner all these months by Durga Ram and the now deposed council of three. No more the old rut of dullness. Never had they known such fetes. Since the arrival of the white goddess not a day had passed without some thrilling excitement, which had cost them nothing but shouts.

So they deserted the bazaars and markets that morning to witness the most surprising spectacle of all: The King who was dead was not dead, but alive!

So, in the throne room, later, he gave the power to Ramabai to act in his stead till he had fully recovered from his terrible hardships. More than this, he declared that Pundita, the wife of Ramabai, should ultimately rule; for of a truth the principality was lawfully hers. He would make his will at once, but in order that this should be legal he would have to destroy the previous will he had given to Col. Hare, his friend.

"Forgive me, my friend," he said. "I acted unwisely in your case. But I was angry with my people for their cowardice."

"Your Majesty," replied the colonel, "the fault lay primarily with me. I should not have accepted it or returned. I will tell you the truth. It was the filigree basket of gold and precious stones that brought me back."

"So? And all for nothing, since the hiding place I gave you is not the true one. But of that, more anon. I want this wretch Durga Ram spread out on an ant hill . . ."

And then, without apparent reason, he began to call for Lakshmi, the beautiful Lakshmi, the wife of his youth. He ordered preparations for an elephant fight; rambled, talked as though he were but 20; his eyes dim, his lips loose and pendulent. And in this condition he might live ten or twenty years. Ramabai was sore at heart.

They had to wait two days till his mind cleared again.

His first question upon his return to his mental balance was directed to Kathlyn. Where was the document he had given to his friend, Hare? Kathlyn explained that Umballah had taken it from her.

"But, Your Majesty," exclaimed the colonel rather impatiently, "what difference does it make? Your return has nullified that document."

"Not in case of my death. And in Allaha the elder document is always the legal document, unless it is legally destroyed. It is not well to antagonize the priests, who hold us firmly to this law. I might make a will in favor of Pundita, but it would not legally hold in justice if all previous wills were not legally destroyed. You must find this document."

"Did you ever hear of a law to equal that?" asked Bruce of the colonel.

"No, my boy, I never did. It would mean a good deal of red tape for a man who changed his mind frequently. He could not fool his relations; they would know. The laws of the dark peoples have always amazed me, because if you dig deep enough into them you are likely to find common sense at the bottom. We must search Umballah's house thoroughly. I wish to see Ramabai and Pundita in the shadow of their rights. Can't destroy a document off-hand and make a new one without legally destroying the first. Well, let us be getting back to the bungalow. We'll talk it over there."

At the bungalow everything was systematically being prepared for the homeward journey. The laughter and chatter of the two girls was music to their father's ears. And sometimes he intercepted secret glances between Bruce and Kathlyn. Youth, youth; youth and love! Well, so it was. He himself had been a youth, had loved and been beloved. But he grew very lonely at the thought of Kathlyn eventually going into another home, and some young chap would soon come and claim Winnie, and he would have no one but Ahmed. If only he had had a boy, to bring his bride to his father's roof!

Pictures were taken down from the walls, the various wild animal heads, and were packed away in strong boxes. And Ahmed went thither and yon, a hundred cares upon his shoulders. He was busy, because then he had no time to mourn Lal Singh.

Bruce's camp was, of course, in utter ruin. Not even the cooking utensils remained, and of his men there was left but Ali, whose leg still caused him to limp a little. So Bruce was commanded by no less person than Kathlyn to be her father's guest till they departed for America. Daily Winnie rode Rajah. He was such a funny old pachyderm, a kind of clown among his brethren, but as gentle as a kitten. Running away had not paid. He was like the country boy who had gone to the big city; he never more could be satisfied with the farm.

The baboon hung about the colonel's heels as a dog might have done, while Kathlyn had found a tiger cub for a plaything. So for awhile peace reigned at the camp.

They found the much-sought document in the secret chamber in Umballah's house (just as he intended they should,) and the king had it legally destroyed and wrote a new will, wherein Pundita should have back that which the king's ancestors had taken from hers—a throne.

After that there was nothing for Col. Hare to do but proceed to ship his animals to the railroad, thence to the ports where he could dispose of them. Never should he enter this part of India again. Life was too short.

High and low they hunted Umballah, but without success. He was hidden well. They were, however, assured that he lingered in the city and was sinisterly alive.

Day after day the king grew stronger mentally and physically. Many of the reforms suggested by Ramabai were put into force. Quiet at length really settled down upon the city. They began to believe that Umballah had fled the city, and vigilance correspondingly relaxed.

The king had a private chamber, the window of which overlooked the garden of brides. There, with his sherbets and water pipe he resumed his old habit of inditing verse in pure Persian, for he was a scholar. He never entered the zenana or harem, but occasionally he sent for some of the women to play and dance before him. And the woman who loved Umballah was among these. One day she asked to take a journey into the bazaars to visit the sister. Ordinarily such a request would have been denied. But the king no longer cared what the women did, and the chief eunuch slept afternoons and nights, being only partly alive in the mornings.

An hour later a palanquin was lowered directly beneath the king's window. To his eye it looked exactly like the one which had departed. He went on writing, absorbed. Had he looked closely, had he been the least suspicious . . . !

This palanquin was the gift of Durga Ram, so-called Umballah. It had been built especially for this long-waited-for occasion. It was nothing more nor less than a cunning cage in which a tiger was huddled, in a vile temper. The palanquin bearers, friends of the dancing girl, had overpowered the royal bearers and donned their costumes. At this moment one of the bearers (Umballah himself, trusting no one!) crawled stealthily under the palanquin and touched the spring which liberated the tiger and opened the blind. The furious beast sprang to the window. The king was too astonished to move, to appreciate his danger. From yon harmless palanquin this striped fury!

The tiger in his leap struck the lacquered desk, broke it, and scattered the papers about the floor.

Ramabai and his officers were just entering the corridor which led to the chamber when the tragedy occurred. They heard the noise, the king's cries. When they reached the door silence greeted them.

The room was wrecked. There was evidence of a short, but terrific, struggle. The king lay dead upon the floor, the side of his head crushed in. His turban and garments were in tatters. But he had died like a king, for in the corner by the window lay the striped one, a jeweled dagger in his throat.

Ramabai was first to discover the deserted palanquin, and proceeded to investigate. It did not take him more than a minute to understand what had happened. It was not an accident, it was cold-blooded murder, and back of it stood the infernal ingenuity of one man.

Thus fate took Allaha by the hair again and shook her out of the pastoral quiet. What would happen now? This!

On the morning after the tragic death of the old king, those who went early to worship, to propitiate the gods to deal kindly with them during the day, were astounded to find the doors and gates of all the temples closed! Nor was any priest visible in his usual haunts. The people were stunned. For there could be but one interpretation to this act on the part of the gurus: the gods had denied the people. Why? Wherefore? Twenty-four hours passed without their learning the cause; the priests desired to fill them with terror before they struck.

Then came the distribution of pamphlets wherein it was decreed that the populace, the soldiery, all Allaha in fact, must bow to the will of the gods or go henceforth accursed. The gods demanded the reinstatement as regent of Durga Ram; the deposing of Ramabai, the infidel; the fealty of the troops to Durga Ram. Twenty-four hours were given the people to make their choice.

Before the doors of all the temples the people gathered, wailing and pouring dust upon their heads, from Brahmin to pariah, from high caste matrons to light dancing girls. And when the troops, company by company, began to kneel at the outer rim of these gatherings, Ramabai dispatched a note to Col. Hare, warning him to fly at once. But the messenger tore up the note and flew to his favorite temple. Superstition has won what honor, truth, and [illegible]ity could not hold.

Allaha surrendered; and Umballah came forth.

All this happened so quickly that not even a rumor of it reached the colonel's bungalow till it was too late. They were to have left on the morrow. The king dead, only a few minor technicalities stood in the way of Ramabai and Pundita.

Bruce and Kathlyn were happy one with the other, after the manner of lovers, when Winnie, her eyes wide with fright, burst in upon them with the news that Umballah, at the head of many soldiers, was approaching. The lovers rushed to the front of the bungalow in time to witness the colonel trying to prevent the [illegible] of a priest.

"Patience, Sahib!" warned the priest.

The colonel, upon seeing Umballah, made an attempt to draw his revolver, but the soldiers prevented him from carrying into execution his wild impulse.

The priest explained what had happened. The Colonel Sahib, his friend Bruce Sahib, and his younger daughter would be permitted to depart in peace;; but Kathlyn Memsahib must wed Durga Ram.

When the dazed colonel produced the document which had been legally canceled, Umballah laughed and declared that he himself had found that particular document, that the true one, which he held, was not legally destroyed.

Burning with the thought of revenge, of reprisal, how could Durga Ram know that he thus dug his own pit? Had he let them go he would have eventually been crowned, as surely as now his path led straight to the treadmill.

Ahmed alone escaped, because Umballah had in his triumph forgotten him!

[To be continued next Sunday.]

Where was the document he had given to his friend Hare?

The son of one of the farmers, a clerk with white collar and good clothes, pays attention to Norah—and she comes from him eventually to pass on down until death finds her on a bed in Gourock Ellen's house—Gourock Ellen, who has a body of sin, the face of vice and the generous heart of a child.

Dermod goes forth on the highways and meets his roystering philosophical, fighting pal, Moleskin Joe, who drinks hard, fights hard, gambles hard, does the work of a galley slave and stands by his friends. Dermod glories in his strength and in his fist-fights; the chance comes and he reads books; later he writes a bit of a story on dirty paper, puts it in a dirtier envelope and sends it to a paper. Soon he arrives at Fleet street, but the life of the city is not for him. Again he goes on the open road, and takes up his search for Norah in a city where he has heard that she is. He finds her on the bed in Gourock Ellen's house just before death.

It is passing strange that a man who has lived as Mr. MacGill has lived, should write as he does. The book is without coarseness, the touch of the author is sure, and yet its theme is of the hardest life on the social scale, and at no point does he turn aside from realism.

COMPARISONS—NOT ODIOUS.

AMERICA: Through the Spectacles of an Oriental Diplomat. By Wu Tingfang. Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York.

DR. WU'S observations have the frankness of a child's, but they have something more also, a rare quality—wit. In a genial way he pokes a little fun at us, but never stings—he is not cynical, but good natured. He laughs sometimes and shows us the perspective that made him do so. Often he praises us—more often than he blames. And when something does not appear right, he wonders; as for instance, it is inconceivable to him that a man should ever marry his deceased brother's wife; he is surprised at the silly manner in which our women dress—a thing that occidentals have also remarked!—and calls attention to the much more attractive and convenient mode of dress used by Chinese women.

"I have an impression that in one of my former existences I was born and brought up in the United States," says Dr. Wu (who hopes that many of his readers may believe in reincarnation.) "In saying this I do not express the slightest regret at having been born in Asia. I only wish to give a hint to those white people who advocate an exclusive policy that in their next life they may be born in Asia or Africa, and that the injury which they are now inflicting on the yellow people they may themselves have to suffer in another life."

His native explanation of why so many actresses marry millionaires is somewhat different from that generally accredited among ourselves. He advances the belief that because the actresses make plenty of money they are not willing to marry poor men, and that actresses make fine figures in society with their "supreme courage and daring."

There is no affectation in this book; it is strikingly simple and truly entertaining; it is much as though he had talked to a friend all the way through.

FICTION.

AMONG THE "400."

WHAT WILL PEOPLE SAY? By Rupert Hughes. Harper & Bros., New York.

LET the scoffers and mockers cock their ears and make ready to talk back. Here is a compliment for a "society novel"—a book that looms like an obelisk out of the field of books touching on the affairs and ambitions of America's social set. This is of the ultra crowd, the tangoing, cigarette-smoking, money spenders, and the title is the question that hangs a veritable sword of Damocles above the heads of Mrs. Columbia's wealthy sons and daughters: "What Will People Say?"

This book is on the borderline of the exotic—the picking to pieces of an orchid with a worm at the anther—and is written with mild realism and an etcher's regard for detail. The plot is not big, but its manner of construction has made it so; it is somewhat courageous, and the story flashes with wit, and short sentences of keen philosophy are impregnated in every chapter.

Perhaps it is uncomplimentary to say that Mr. Hughes has "found himself" when he has written almost a score of plays, books of some technical as well as of literary value on musical themes, and other novels. But he has done nothing else that equals this.

When Lieut. Forbes returns from ten years of duty in the Philippines, and has but a few days' leisure on his hands, he is tossed by fortune into the companionship of New York's wealthiest and gayest group, and from that vantage forces his way into the love of Persis. But he has no money, excepting his salary—a mere $2000 or thereabouts per year—and she considers $50,000 poverty. She loves him, but cannot marry him, preferring to be unhappy rather than shabby. She marries a multi-millionaire; but why and how, the situations that lead to this and all that follows after is presented in a remarkable manner.

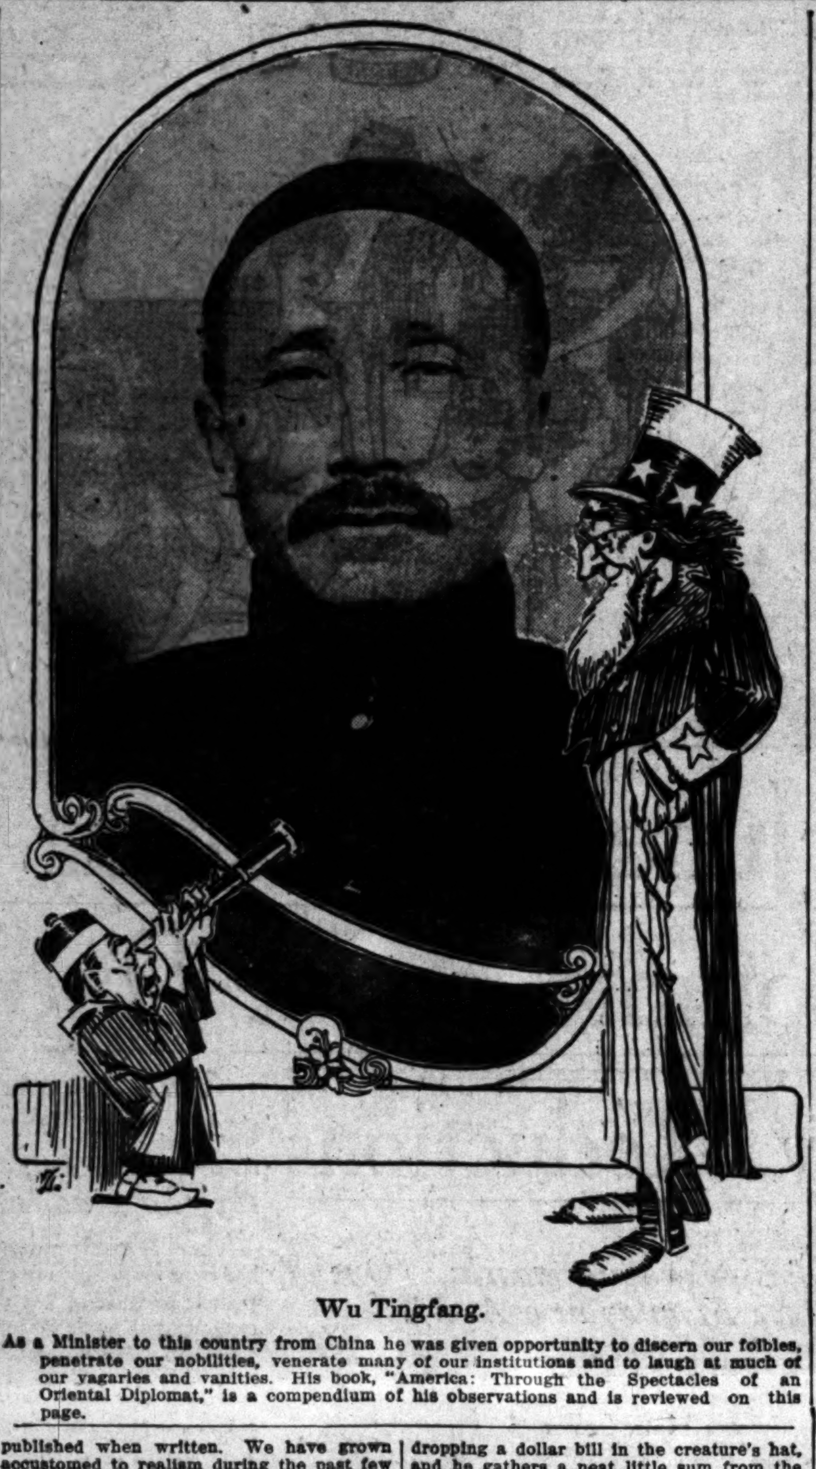
None of the characters in the book are pleasing, but we cannot help but believe they have their counterparts in life. They seem real. The story is very nearly silly when, at the beginning, Lieut. Forbes follows a woman in an automobile, fascinated by her hat and a part of her shoulder. But all that sort of thing is swept aside in the chapters that follow, and with fine skill, and an infusion of fatalistic irony, so pronounced in Russian literature and so rare in her own, the story moves on to a terrible climax.

REALISM OF A DECADE PAST.

VANDOVER AND THE BRUTE. By Frank Norris. Doubleday, Page & Co., Garden City, N. Y.

FRANK NORRIS completed "Vandover and the Brute" in 1895, but he had already supplied his publishers with as many novels as it seemed advisable to bring out. This one was stored in a warehouse and went through the fire. It was discovered some time ago, but the signature had been cut away, presumably by an autograph collector. Eventually the manuscript came to the publishers where it was recognized as a Norris book and later positively identified by his brother.

It is a book worthy of him who wrote "McTeague" and "The Pit." It shows to a pronounced degree the influence of Zola, and we cannot but wonder with what consternation it would have been received if published when written. We have grown accustomed to realism during the past few years, but still "Vandover and the Brute" is distinctive. It lacks the polish that would certainly have been given later by the author, had he lived, but as it stands even its crudities have strength.



Wu Tingfang.

As a Minister to this country from China he was given opportunity to discern our foibles, penetrate our nobilities, venerate many of our institutions and to laugh at much of our vagaries and vanities. His book, "America: Through the Spectacles of an Oriental Diplomat," is a compendium of his observations and is reviewed on this page.

Lust is the Brute that lives with Vandover, and one of the attributes of this brute is sloth. Vandover's earlier experiences are largely those of the average young man who sees the world, has some money and much indolence. He loves art and progresses well for a time in that direction; but dissipation comes frequently and finally he abandons himself and sinks down, down to the depths of self-abasement. The story and every situation in it is signally lacking in glamour—no radiance, no soft light, nothing but the glare of sincerity which illumines it.

It is not a pleasing story; but bears the hallmark of the man who held that the object of a novelist should be to so write that he could say to all the world: "I never truckled; I never took off the hat to fashion and held it out for pennies. By God! I told them the truth. They liked it or they didn't like it. What has that to do with me? I told them the truth; I knew it for the truth then, and I know it for the truth now."

WONDERFUL LADY NOGGS.

THE INTERVENING LADY. By Edgar Jepson. Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

PRECOCIOUS children are usually either tiresome or repellent. Before the reader really becomes acquainted with my Lady Noggs, he may be assailed by the temptation to place her in one class or the other. But she does not remain "placed." She is such an elfin creature, so childish and at the same time so wise, so healthy and full of a great warm heart—although she is strongly averse to emotional demonstrativeness—that the reader's sympathies are with her ere he is aware. Never timid about expressing her opinions—although never intrusive or impolite—she startles the Prime Minister, her uncle, by the accuracy of her summing up of his secretaries, their faults and virtues. She astonishes him one day by bringing home an unhappy little boy, whom, she declares she has adopted. She instructs her governess as to the proper method of teaching. She scours the woods like a boy, and trespasses on a neighbor's property, getting into trouble with his bull. She precipitates an engagement between the parson and the governess. When she grows up she takes a hand in the adjustment of family affairs. In the important matter of romances and marriages she is invariably appealed to by the conclave of titled relatives to prevent mesalliances and promote desirable matches, because Lady Noggs has a quick intuition of character, the keenness of a lawyer, and the unquailing courage of good health. Sometimes she brings consternation upon the family by deciding against them, and promoting according to her own discretion. She is a wonderful Lady Noggs.

A TRANSFIGURATION.

THE MIRACLE MAN. By Frank L. Packard. George H. Doran Company, New York.

A REMARKABLE, really a beautiful story is "The Miracle Man." It commences with the crudest, the worst products of the human family, in a "roost" in one of the wretched neighborhoods of the Bowery, New York. A wretched creature, apparently crippled and misshapen, flops along the pavement through the night, to where a sightseeing car has stopped with a party. A confederate starts the game by dropping a dollar bill in the creature's hat, and he gathers a neat little sum from the good-hearted tourists, but the driver compels the wretch to give up part of what he has begged, and the policemen take the rest, threatening to "run him in." He returns to the den, rehabilitates his joints by a trick of the contortionist, and makes his report.

The leader of the gang, having read of a deaf and dumb healer, who will not take pay for his services to humanity, plans to take his lady and two other confederates to the small town, and reap a harvest. It is the "Flopper," disjointed and repulsive, upon whom the miracle is to be wrought that is to bring the blacklegs a fortune. The plan proves to be an entire success, Helena, the "lady," being installed in the home of the Miracle Man as a long-lost niece. This Christ-like person, in the meantime, loses also his eyesight. And now, it would seem, he is a helpless instrument in the hands of the crooks.

But at this point comes the wonder and the mystery of the story. The purity and nobility of this lofty soul seems to shed an atmosphere in which the unclean cannot long survive. It must be destroyed, banished, or it must become clean. The story wends to a climax where the trapper eventually traps himself, where the arch conspirator, with everything apparently won, finds himself lost—which is an anomaly and an apparent self-contradiction worked out with exceeding cleverness. The story is being dramatized by George M. Cohan, who considers it a "big" novel, and his greatest "find" to date.

A REAL MAN'S LOVE.

AT BAY. By Page Philips from George Scarborough's drama. The Macauley Company, New York.

WITH THIS dramatic story of the unusual episodes in the life of the daughter of a District Attorney at Washington, George Scarborough came into rather sudden prominence. Page Philips has novelized it with much greater success than marks any other novelized drama which has come into the present reviewer's hands. It has escaped the halting quality, the abruptness, the lack of literary unity which marks the majority of the others. The leading male character, Capt. Holbrook, displays all of the charming effrontery and chain-lightning capacity of thought and action in the face of danger of the cultured and high-minded Celt, with his saving grace of humor. The pretty Aline, when a girl at school, has permitted herself to become party to a folly. In some manner the proofs of the occurrence have come into the hands of an unscrupulous blackmailing lawyer, who lures the girl to his rooms at night. The object is blackmail, or personal ruin for the girl, or both. A murder is committed, and the toils begin to wind themselves first about the young captain, and then about the girl. The irrepressible spirits and quick perspicacity of the Irishman go far toward confusing the investigations, and his splendid love for the girl, even after knowing the entire truth, proves the saving element in the final working out of the ends of justice. The charm of the story is in the manner in which a clean-minded, noble-hearted man turns all of the tragic points standing against a girl, and threatening her ruin, to her advantage and the strengthening of his love, without any mock heroics.

STRONG, STUBBORN NATURES.

THE PRIMAL LURE. By V. E. Roe. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.

THIS STORY is written with strength and simplicity, and almost masculine vigor, although we know the author to be a woman. The conception of the character of Lois Le Moyne is something unusual. Severely virginal, reserved, mysterious, unfriendly to those about her, she moves about her duties at the Hudson Bay Company's trading post at Ft. Lu Cerne—a beautiful, silent creature, whose devotion is lavished on her little shriveled old father, who clings to her with the dependence of a child.

Lois, deep in her strange heart, has been drawn to the stern Scotch factor. Pierre Vernaise, a lad of the small community, loves Lois in his simple, devoted way. And there is still another who learns to love Lois—a messenger from the Governor, and in authority, who comes to see if all be well at the fort. He finds Lois thrown into the guardhouse by the factor, accused of having stolen the company's account book, the factor having caught her at dusk of the day upon which the book disappeared, in his private office. The girl denies the charge, but stubbornly refuses to explain her presence at that time. The inspector and nephew of the Governor refuses to believe in her guilt, and orders her released. The factor is forced to comply. But Lois comes forth branded and humilated, with a fierce vindictiveness in her heart. In order to perfect her revenge on the factor she yields to the love pleadings of Sylvester. The young man has a terrible encounter with the factor in which Sylvester's science tells against the other's brute force. After beating the factor to a pulp the latter seizes the throat of his antagonist and almost strangles him. Thus Lois's vindication is delayed, and so the desire of Sylvester's heart.

In the dry heat of summer, the "Sickness" visits the post, and death claims a heavy toll. At this time Lois learns through grief and the steadfast helpfulness of a woman friend, the gentler side of femininity. Previously, the girl, lashed by scandal, the cruelty of careless tongues, has known little love for her kind. She is now transformed into an angel of helpfulness. Furthermore she has been vindicated by the factor's removal from office.

The factor, in his way, is as complex and mysterious as Lois. Scrupulous and severe in the discharge of his duties, he is wrenched to the core of all of his traditions and principles before he awakens to the real call of his life.

There is a terrible encounter with the Blackoot Indians, who demand at the stockade gate a white sacrifice.

Strange, indeed, are the final revelations of the story.

RECKLESS ADVENTURES.

SHEA OF THE IRISH BRIGADE. By Randall Parrish. A. C. McClurg, Chicago.

MR. PARRISH has a predilection for the Stanley Weyman type of adventures—the long sword, the strong wrist, the blustering villain and the pretty woman.

Shea, of the Irish Brigade, is a volunteer lieutenant in the Irish regiment fighting for Louis XV, and flees camp after killing—or believing he has killed—a superior officer in a duel. While hiding in a loft he sees a troop of English approach with a beautiful captive. The officers drink heavily and question and insult her before Shea's eyes. At last Shea leaps to the rescue, and after a glorious fight aids the woman to escape, and takes to the woods himself with the English in full pursuit. He makes his way to the ruins of an old haunted castle, and finds that the woman, who is one of the first ladies of France, has been captured again, but by bandits, and that a number of good men and true are held as prisoners amid the ruins. Bloody work ensues, and after a desperate fight in which the hero displays swordsmanship that would make D'Artagnan envious, the fair lady utters the words "I love you."

As a piece of exciting reading the story is very good.

VALUABLE REFERENCE.

A GUIDE TO HISTORICAL FICTION. By Ernest A. Baker. Macmillan Company, New York.

SOME years ago Mr. Baker published "History in Fiction." With that as a basis he has elaborated and improved the material until now he presents "A Guide to Historical Fiction," which specifies the subjects of the books, often gives the plot, and advises the reader frankly as to the value of the particular book discussed. The arrangement by countries is made simple and easy to use. The books are set out with dates in the chronological order of the events and periods illustrated. The section dealing with American authors is very full. The book is indexed on the same system as an encyclopedia, and offers a reference to fiction of all countries dealing with periods from the prehistoric to the present.

Mr. Baker is entitled to much credit for this book; it is comprehensive where comprehension is difficult to attain, and it is thorough in its classifications; also, gives much information concerning the authors that is interesting and not generally known.

CORRECTION OF INACCURACIES.

THE AMERICAN JAPANESE PROBLEM. By Sidney L. Gulick. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

THE present volume is, perhaps, one of the best and clearest exponents of the American-Japanese problem set forth in literature, from a common sense point of view. The author has himself personally investigated conditions which the anti-Japanese agitators have brought forward as reasons why the brown men should be excluded from our country. He has slighted no facts which might be brought to the support of exclusion, and he has answered them with facts—perhaps in a more dispassionate spirit than that which has been responsible for some of California's State legislation. While admitting the extreme clannishness of the Japanese, he has brought statistics to disprove many allegations against them. He has shown them to be thrifty and cleanly in their home life, and highly intelligent in schools. He has shown that in communities where the Japanese have settled, if the white man has been driven out it is purely through race prejudice. He has proven the Japanese a most efficient employee; that while he resents and becomes stubborn under driving, he will do more than is required of him if treated with consideration and kindness. He has shown that the brown man enters intelligently into whatever work he may engage in, that he masters the details of it, and often is able through resolution and economy to go into the same business for himself. Furthermore the courteous patience with which he receives insults, the result of race prejudice among the lower classes, speaks well for him. Mr. Gulick calls attention to the fact that Japanese leaders in this country have sought to calm the excited feeling in Japan concerning the California legislation, and have advised her to proceed with her part in the Panama Exposition.

The other side of the question is plainly presented—the often brutal and unreasonable treatment of the darker races by the whites. "The yellow press," avers the writer in the concluding chapter, "is the real yellow peril of today."

The book is interestingly illustrated with reproductions from photographs of Americanized Japanese families, the interiors and exteriors of their homes, which bear evidence to the fact that no real American need feel reluctance in neighborly contact with the courteous and amiable Japanese. This is a book which should be read carefully, and its discoveries considered fairly.

THE BONNY GAME.

THE GREEN BOOK OF GOLF. Compiled and Published by Henry Roberts, San Francisco.

CALIFORNIA GOLF has reached the distinction of a green book—a massive and illuminating work of reference to all the golf clubs and the tournaments on the Pacific Coast from British Columbia to San Diego.

But its chief interest to the average golfer will be the system of rating by which every man may know just how high he stands in the game. Alphabetical rating is used—thus our Macbeths, Laphams, Armstrongs, et al., are in Class A, and our Bralys, Williamses, Wrights, etc., are in Class B. Below G they are tactfully silent—the club handicap is published in all its chilly evidence.

The work is liberally embellished with photographs of prominent golfers and we observe that the editor thought so highly of our own Arthur Braly—one of Southern California's shining lights—as to label him R. R. Flint and claim him for Sacramento.

The Green Book is handsomely bound in green suede—as decorative as it is useful.

POLITICAL HANDBOOK.

THE FACTS ABOUT SOCIALISM. By Jessie Wallace Hughan, Ph.D. John Lane Company, New York.

THE PURPOSE of the book seems to be that of supplying a concise handbook favoring Socialism, "The Facts About Socialism" have been presented by an advocate. One of the surprising statements is to the effect that a Socialist may be a millionaire with a clear conscience, adding, "Socialism is perhaps more likely than other economic belief to encourage altruism, but a consistent political Socialist is quite free to practice whatever individual ethics may seem to him best."

The author has taken "the official utterances of the party as found in its national, State and municipal platform" for her authority, rather than the statements and assertions of socialistic philosophers, which may account for the fact that the book resembles an elaborate campaign document.

AMUSING AND INSTRUCTIVE.

LITTLE TALES OF THE DESERT. By Ethel Twycross Foster. Published by the Author.

THIS is a neat little storybook for a child, rather elaborately illustrated, and full of instructive episodes, calculated to give the young reader new ideas concerning a life with which few children have the opportunity to become familiar.

RELIGIOUS.

NEW LIGHT ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

VITAL ISSUES IN CHRISTIAN SCIENCE; WITH FACSIMILE LETTERS OF MARY BAKER EDDY. Prepared Under the Auspices of the New York City Christian Science Institute. Augusta E. Stetson, Principal. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

MRS. STETSON'S purpose in presenting this book is to furnish what she and many thousands of her admirers believe to be the correct account of the proceedings connected with her trial by the directors of the mother church at Boston, where she made her stand for the spiritual interpretation of Mary Baker Eddy's teachings as found in the textbook of Christian Science.

The book has been published at the urgent request of Christian Scientists throughout the world, and many others interested in the Christian Science movement, who have wished for an authentic statement of the controversy which has alienated so many followers of the mother church.

There is no question but that among Mrs. Stetson's followers this book will be regarded as a key to the Mother Church Manual, giving its rules and bylaws, and showing what appears from the arguments to have been the illegality of the action of the board of directors against Mrs. Stetson and sixteen of her practitioners of the First Church of New York.

The stenographic reports of the interviews during this controversy, with correspondence between members of the two churches bearing on this subject, together with facsimile letters of Mary Baker Eddy to Mrs. Stetson are given for the first time to the general public.

Mrs. Stetson holds that she was compelled to withdraw from the mother church because of its materialism, and that her purpose and aim was, and is, to bring about a spiritual awakening in the religious life. And, undoubtedly, the publication of this book is a historic event in the development of Christian Science.

RELIGION DISCUSSED.

THE CHURCH, THE PEOPLE AND THE AGE. By 150 Prominent Theologians, Preachers, Teachers, Writers and Scientists. Edited by Robert Scott and George W. Gilmore, with an Analysis and Summary by Charles Beckwith. Funk & Wagnalls Company, New York.

IT IS significant that all of the contributors to this volume, many of them distinguished and all prominent, admit that there is a striking indifference manifested by the people of this age toward the church. However, they are not agreed as to the cause or as to the remedy. Their opinions are of value to anyone interested in the condition of the church, for they are the opinions of those who stand at the head of various denominations of religion, who are recognized as sociological authorities and are advanced scientists.

The belief is expressed, among others, that the indifference toward the church has grown out of the church's indifference to existing social evils, and its lack of aggression against conditions which are known to be wrong. Many agree that the church leadership must be spiritual and that the agencies of the church must harmonize with such leadership. Some hold that church membership should not be contingent upon the subscription to a particular creed.

Nothing could present more conclusively and forcibly the changed attitude of the church and its leaders from the absolute dogmaticism of a few years ago, to the present broad, tolerant basis upon which practically all of the contributors are willing to rest the modern church.

PERSONAL—

PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,
NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.
STUDIO PARLORS, 621 S. BROADWAY.
A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 30 YEARS.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in ALL AFFAIRS OF LIFE. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, investments, changes, talents, environments, about children, relatives; when and where to travel, what to seek or avoid; when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc.; also your good periods coming—GIVING DATES of these events for the FUTURE. PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Schumann-Heink, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Senator Smoot, Baron Rothschild, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Sembrich, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Capt. Hobson, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, etc. EXPERT PALM READING, READINGS BY MAIL. DR. J. A. LARSON writes: "Your reading was the most satisfactory I ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work the most THOROUGH and RELIABLE of any reader in the United States." PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and in HAND reading has brought him a LARGE and SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention given. STRICT PRIVACY. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years of experience can produce. HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE solicited.
Daily and evenings. Sunday 10 to 4.
STUDIO PARLORS, 621 S. BROADWAY.

PERSONAL— MRS. MASSON, the noted palmist, of London, England, may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST., by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life. Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL. MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.
HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

YOU WANT TO BETTER YOUR POSITION

Or you would not be reading these columns. I want you to better your position; that's why I am spending good money to get your attention. If you are the man I am looking for; if you have a little better than average personality, appearance and good manners, and understand the importance of at all times sticking to the truth, I want to talk with you. I want to show you where other men who are following my instructions are making from $5000 to $10,000 a year. Men all of my own training, who had never sold real estate before, have sold on one subdivision over three hundred lots during the past three months. Connect with a real dynamo. Grab a "live wire." That's what means success. I have been paying both salary and commission for the past three months to the right men. If you are the right man, come in and see me any morning, after 10 a.m.

FOR SALE—

AN AUCTION SALE.

Is seldom a satisfactory method of either selling or buying a used truck or automobile. It does not give either party the time necessary to satisfactorily transact a sale involving several hundred dollars. M. S. BULKLEY & CO. are incorporating and desire to turn over to M. S. BULKLEY & CO., incorporated, as few second cars as possible; therefore, we offer for sale, after a thorough inspection by yourself, the WHOLE of our stock of USED TRUCKS AND PLEASURE CARS at practically YOUR OWN PRICE. Some are GUARANTEED THOROUGHLY and others are only in running order.

In any event we will tell THE TRUTH about each car. Call at our address, "THE AUTOCAR," Cor. 18TH AND MAIN STREETS—pick out your car or truck and after you decide on one, offer a fair price, either CASH OR TERMS.

Moreland, Moore, Rapid, Reo, Chase, Sampson and Van Dyke Trucks—from 1500 lbs. to two tons. From $100 to $1500. Touring cars from $300 to $1000. Come and make an offer—they must go.
Ask for Mr. Maynard, at
M. S. BULKLEY & COMPANY,
CORNER 18TH AND MAIN STS.

THOSE WHO HEEDED OUR CLASSIFIED AD last Sunday were enabled to secure an excellent used-car at the right price.
This week's list is as follows:

FOR SALE—
Attention! Contractors, road builders, lumber dealers and house movers.
I have a Knox Martin tractor that will haul 12 tons of any material with a 20 per cent. overload and will guarantee this Knox tractor to do everything that I claim, by a bond to indemnify any purchaser from loss for one year.
Investigate this before you purchase any trucks, because tractors will haul twice as much material, as the largest truck manufactured at one-half the cost of maintenance. This tractor has an automatic dump body attached.
Terms to suit responsible party or discount for cash. Address BB, box 113, TIMES OFFICE.

OWING TO BOOZE, DEATH OF LEADER, FAILure to agree, lack of money to carry on work, many valuable deeded mines have been allowed to be deeded to the State for non-payment of taxes. We can send you large lists of these mines that you can see, examine and buy from officials under new law. We search out all kinds of State and U. S. lands. Write us what you want. CALIFORNIA STATE LAND INFORMATION BUREAU, 1511 K st., Sacramento, Cal.

PLACER MINE — WANT TO SELL ¼ INTEREST for $2000. Will give security on good close-in business lot, that is clear of incumbrance in every way, to protect you from loss. Need money for less than 7 months and first pay taken from mine will be paid on the $2000 and you still retain the ¼ interest. Will take from $30,000 to $150,000 from mine in the following 6 months and no chance to lose one penny. Address MINER, T, box 411, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

WANTED—PARTNER WITH $1000. I CAN OFFER a one-fourth interest in a fine working gold mine, which will net you over $200 per month after 60 days. We have to increase our production. MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS—
For Sale, Exchange, Wanted.

FOR SALE—
PIANOS, PLAYER-PIANOS,
Both New and Used.
We have several splendid used uprights that have been taken in exchange on player-pianos, and which have been overhauled and guaranteed to be as represented. Among others are an Emerson at $163, a Hardman at $90, a genuine Schubert at $245, a Haynes at $139. Any of them on two years' time. In addition to the above we have sample players as low as $390—and by the way, if you are quoted a less price than $390 put it down as an everlasting fact that the quality has lessened twice as rapidly as the price.
We can't sell $600 pianos for $288, and have too high a regard for the intelligence of the public to make such absurd claims. We do, however, claim to save you money if you are prepared to buy a good instrument on sensible terms.
NEW PIANOS, CHOICE IN MAKES, $150, $175 to $195.
MODERN PLAYER PIANOS $375
SCHUBERT PIANOS $325
SCHUBERT PLAYER-PIANOS ....$585 to $750

FACT AND COMMENT.

The citizens who have responded to the general appeal to "brush up" their premises promulgated by the various newspapers a few weeks ago are, it has transpired, not the only ones who are preparing to impress the hosts of 1915 exposition visitors who will spend a part of their time in Los Angeles. The billboard companies are apparently determined that no mere city beautification programme, even though it be nothing more than an attempt to clean up the weed-choked vacant lots and to gloss the rough places with a little paint, shall be permitted to draw attention away from the superior merits of [illegible]'s baked beans, and A. B. C. knee-length underwear. With a zeal that is ominous for the city presentable movement that was so well started but a short time ago, these despoilers of civic beauty have set out to box in every vacant lot in Los Angeles and to paint a chromo on every bare wall space that isn't already adorned with some such monstrosity. That, at least, would appear to the average observer to be the purpose of the billboard men and of those advertisers who keep the billboard nuisance alive by their patronage.

Never before in the history of Los Angeles has there been such a demand for ground upon which to erect billboards. The leases of space made by the billboard concerns from week to week make a rather respectable volume of business, and the cost of these board and iron structures added to that of the buildings for which permits are regularly issued would go far toward boosting the disappointing construction totals of the present day. The billboard men actually appear to be racing against time in their efforts to get as much as possible of the landscape obliterated before the 1915 crowds begin to arrive. That is the only explanation, at least, that would seem to reasonably account for such a feverish activity in billboard construction as is now to be witnessed in every quarter of Los Angeles.

Up to Council.

Do the city authorities lack the courage to attack this evil? They are apparently willing to legislate on anything else under the sun. The billboards of Los Angeles by the time the expected visitors of the exposition year get here will, if the mileage keeps on growing at the present rate, have filled in nearly every vacant lot of property in Los Angeles, and have made of this city a place hideous to behold. Los Angeles will be disgraced in the eyes of the world. Unless the city flat-footedly puts a stop to the whole disgraceful business, nothing effective can be accomplished. The appeal to civic pride, it is too apparent, has no chance against the argument of the billboard man's cash with most vacant lot owners.

The inconsistency of the average subdivision owner's attitude on the subject of billboards is hard to comprehend. He will put a rigid restriction on his sites, compelling purchasers to build a house to cost not less than a stipulated sum and to conform to certain requirements as to location on the lot and the like, the whole being designed to protect the buyer and builder and to keep out so-called "undesirable" improvements. Suggest to such a tract owner that you wish to build a tastefully planned flat or apartment-house on one of his lots and the horror in his face would freeze any but the hardiest into a state of speechlessness.

The same man, however, will eagerly listen to the proposition of the billboard man and will not only permit the erection of billboards on his own unsold lots, but will allow the individual owners to whom he has made sales to put their unimproved sites to the same use. The mere fact that he is injuring every builder in his tract, defacing an otherwise attractive street, and contributing to the disgrace of the city doesn't appear to worry him in the least.

One Way Out.

There is only one way in which to check the billboard nuisance and that is to abolish it entirely. It isn't fair to let one man enjoy a revenue from the business of defacing his city and to prevent another from doing the same thing. The billboard isn't a thing to be regulated. It must be stamped out.

If no one were allowed to erect a billboard, billboards would cease to be the "necessity" which many advertisers now consider them to be. After all, B, C, and D use billboards only because A does so and because they do not want said A to get ahead of them in any way. The billboard evil is progressive and self-perpetuating. Because one man resorts to them others think they must. Eliminate them utterly and all billboard advertisers will be on the same basis and none will be the loser.

As for the billboard men themselves, they had better be in a nobler calling than that of reaping profit from the city's shame.

FACTORY PLANS TAKING SHAPE.

PLANTS EMPLOYING THOUSANDS OF WORKMEN SOON TO BE STARTED AT TORRANCE.

The merchants and residents of Torrance have adopted the slogan "Torrance—10,000 in 1916," to signalize the opening of a campaign of expansion just launched. The organization of the campaign is in the hands of a local committee of business men. The idea originated in the Torrance Chamber of Commerce.

Coincident with the population increase movement, announcement is made that work will begin shortly on an addition to the mammoth plant of the Union Tool Company in the new industrial city, to provide shop accommodations for the building of the oil-burning Diesel engine. The plan will add 250 feet to the company's main building, making it 1000 feet long, and will give it one of the largest and best equipped engine building shops on the Pacific Coast.

Following close on the heels of this improvement will come the plant of the Llewellyn Iron Works, consisting of seven buildings and costing $750,000. The steel for this plant is now on the way to Torrance through the Los Angeles Harbor by an all-water route. Nearly 1000 workmen will be added to the population of Torrance through the acquisition of this industry.

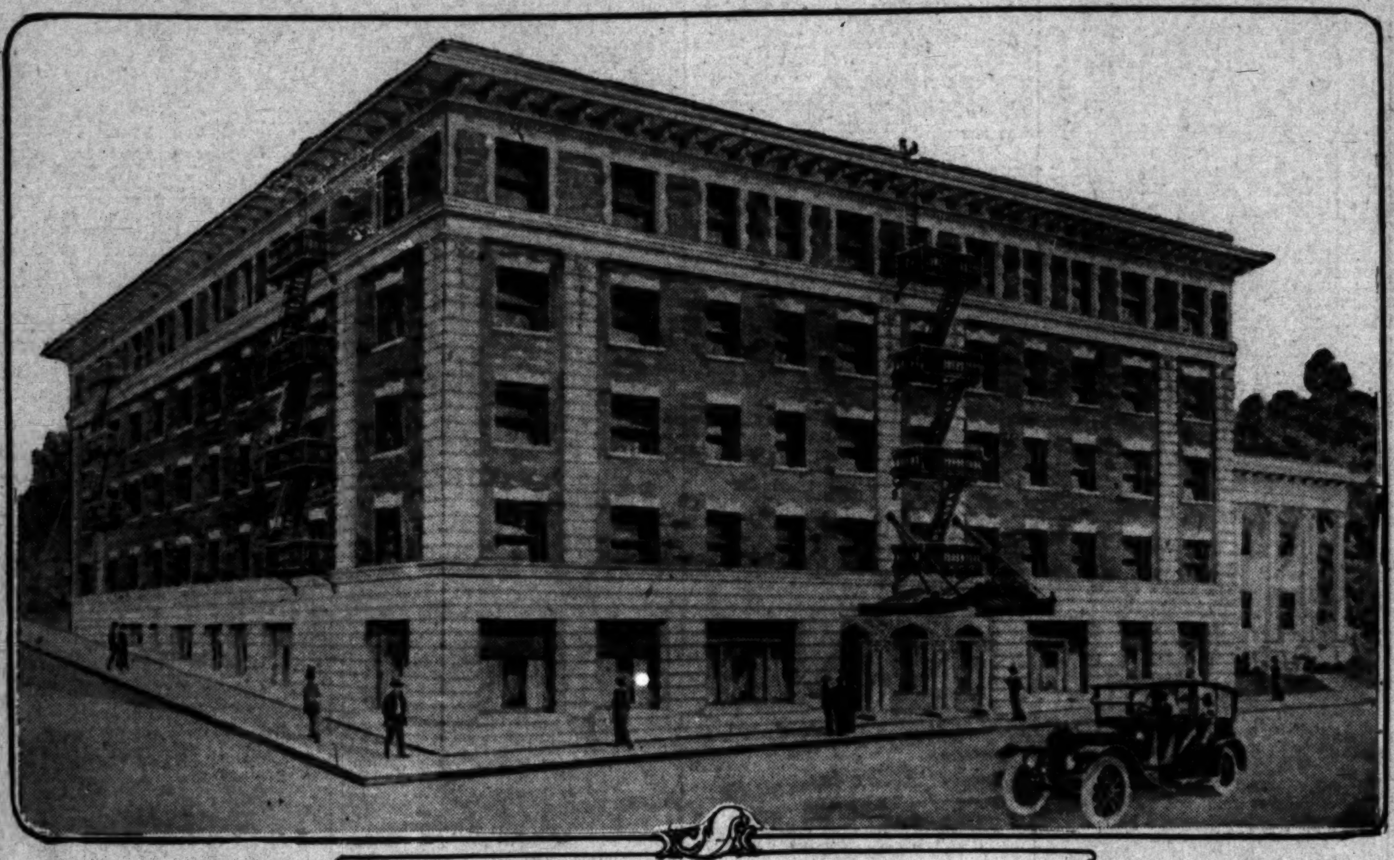
The Acme Brass Foundry is expected to follow the Llewellyn plant, bringing from eighty to 100 workmen and their families. The largest addition to the town's population, however, will come through the establishment there of the Pacific Electric car building shops, where from 1800 to 2000 workmen will be employed. The four enterprises in combination are expected to bring the coveted 10,000 population mark easily within striking distance.

REPORTS EXCHANGE.

The Ryder Realty Company reports the sale for Mrs. Carmen Yglesias to William Goatman of Venice, of the property at No. 1040 Lincoln street, consisting of a ten-room house and a five-room bungalow on a lot 40x140 feet in size. The consideration is given at $10,000. As part payment, the furniture and a paid-up lease for two years on the Bungalow apartments at Trolleyway and Center streets, Venice, was accepted.

The same firm reports leasing for F. W. Wachter to Mrs. Ingerson Webster, a new brick hotel at No. 413 East Fourth street. The property contains sixty-two rooms. The total rental is given at $48,000 for a period of ten years.

For Northwest Corner of Ingraham and Witmer Streets.



Apartments for G. Rupert Johnson.

Attractive improvement that has just been started by the contracting firm of Hubbard & Gardner. Frank M. Tyler is the architect.

TRADES FOR RANCH.

Owner of Santa Monica Mansion Exchanges that Property and Los Angeles Site for Perris Holding.

C. H. Strong has transferred a 480-acre ranch southeast of Perris to George H. Ball, taking in exchange a large residence at the corner of Third and Bicknell streets, South Santa Monica, known as the "Turkish Palace," together with eighty-five feet of business property on East Ninth street, Los Angeles. The consideration on each side is given at $40,000.

Ball, it is said, intends to improve his Perris land by increasing the acreage of alfalfa and will next season plant out part of it to deciduous fruits. D. P. Flory, president of the California Orchard Development Corporation, represented both parties to the transaction.

TO REPAIR DAMAGE.

The damage resulting from the fire which visited the four-story Seligman building at Nos. 631-35 South Grand avenue a week ago, will be repaired at once, according to an announcement made by the owners of the property. The Milwaukee Building Company, which planned and built the structure, will have charge of the work.

ENLARGES STORE.

L. M. Grider, owner and proprietor of "Birdland" at No. 1301 Central avenue, has doubled the capacity of his downtown store at No. 216 Mercantile place by leasing the room at No. 214, adjoining. The whole space is now being fitted up for the sale of birds and animals.

SALES, LEASES AND EXCHANGES.

LOCAL BROKERS REPORT TRANSFERS OF BOTH CITY AND OUTSIDE PROPERTIES.

Whilton & Hahn, hotel brokers, report the following leases, sales and exchanges: To Eugene and Frances A. Severance, lease and furniture of the Dagmar apartments, No. 840 South Hope street, a four-story brick apartment-house and hotel of 118 rooms, erected two years ago by Frank Kern and the Shaffer estate. The property was originally leased for ten years at a given rental of about $100,000. Whilton afterwards selling the lease and furniture to Laura H. Morphy, who in turn sells it to Mr. and Mrs. Severance. The new lessees, it is understood, pay $20,000 for the lease and furniture and assume the balance of the lease.

To J. H. McKnight, for Beach & Fox, lease and furniture of Strathallen apartments, No. 835 West Ninth street, a three-story brick building, containing sixty-three rentable rooms, consideration, $5000. The lease has seven and one-half years to run and calls for a total rental of $35,000. Mrs. Alice Covert is the lessor.

To Fannie Williams, for Carl D. Bishop, lease and furniture of Bernard apartments, southwest corner Third and Bixel, a fifty-room building, reported consideration, $5000. The lease is for a term of ten years. S. M. Bernard is the lessor.

To Mrs. Laura Morphy for Eugene and Frances A. Severance, ten-acre orange and walnut grove on State highway two miles southeast of Anaheim, reported consideration, $15,000. To Laura Morphy, lot 50x100 feet in size in Anaheim, facing City Park, price, $3000; Eugene and Frances A. Severance being the sellers. To Carl D. Bishop, seven-room bungalow, No. 806 East Eighth street, Alhambra, $5000, Mrs. Fannie Williams being the seller.

FLATS EXCHANGED.

Horace G. Hamilton of the Horace G. Hamilton Company, reports the sale of the Woods ranch at Tipton, consisting of 320 acres, mostly in alfalfa, at a given consideration of $75,000. J. H. Packer, the seller, accepted as part payment income properties in Los Angeles valued at $65,000, comprising a nine-room residence and a six-story flat building and store room at Central avenue and Jefferson street, held at $30,000, and an eight-flat brick building on Pleasant avenue, Boyle Heights, held at $35,000.

Up to Date.

FINE DEPARTMENT HOUSE STARTED.

SITE IS AT INGRAHAM AND WITMER STREETS.

Structure to Be One of Largest of Kind in City—Plans Drawn for Attractive Improvements on Lake Near Sixth and at Adams and San Pedro.

Construction has been begun at the northwest corner of Ingraham and Witmer streets upon what will be, when completed, one of the largest apartment-houses in the city. The structure, owned by G. Rupert Johnson, is being erected by the contracting firm of Hubbard & Gardner, from plans drawn by Architect Frank M. Tyler. The cost of the improvement is estimated at approximately $100,000.

The building will be of brick construction, the street fronts being faced with pressed brick. With its unusually high basement, the structure will be practically five stories in height. It will contain, in addition to 170 living-rooms, a large lobby, a reception-room, a billiard-room and a ballroom. The building will cover a ground area of 112x130 feet, having courts on each side.

The apartments throughout will be arranged in two and three-room suites, each with wall beds and other modern conveniences. The floors will be of hardwood and the walls will be papered. The ballroom, 38x46 feet in size, will have a twelve-foot ceiling and will be handsomely finished. The entrance to the lobby will be in marble and tile. Both freight and passenger elevators will be installed.

C. F. Borton completed plans during the past week for a three-story brick apartment-house, which he will erect for Laura Borton on Lake street, just north of Sixth street. The building, which will be 60x140 feet in size, will contain eighty rooms and will cost about $45,000.

Plans for a $30,000 store and apartment building to be erected by A. V. Perkinson at the corner of Adams and San Pedro streets, have been started. The building will be 80x150 feet in dimensions. It will contain eight stores on the ground floor and twenty apartments on the second story.

The Pacific Coast Designing Company has drawn plans for a three-story frame apartment-house to be built at No. 1181 Sunset boulevard by C. P. Schermerhorn. The structure will contain fifty-five rooms.

BUYS EIGHT LOTS.

Denver Woman Makes Extensive Investment at Culver City, Where Several Improvements Are Started.

Mrs. Ida L. Williams, recently of Denver, last week purchased eight lots on Sherman place, Culver City, facing the Culver City Park, the sales being made by the Harry H. Culver Company. The consideration is given at $20,000.

At the same place, John H. Evans has just started a seven-room chalet on Delmas Terrace, John H. Price has plans under way for a two-story business block on Pico boulevard in the heart of the town and J. D. Wollaver, recently of Dundee, Ill., will improve a near-by site with a substantial building.

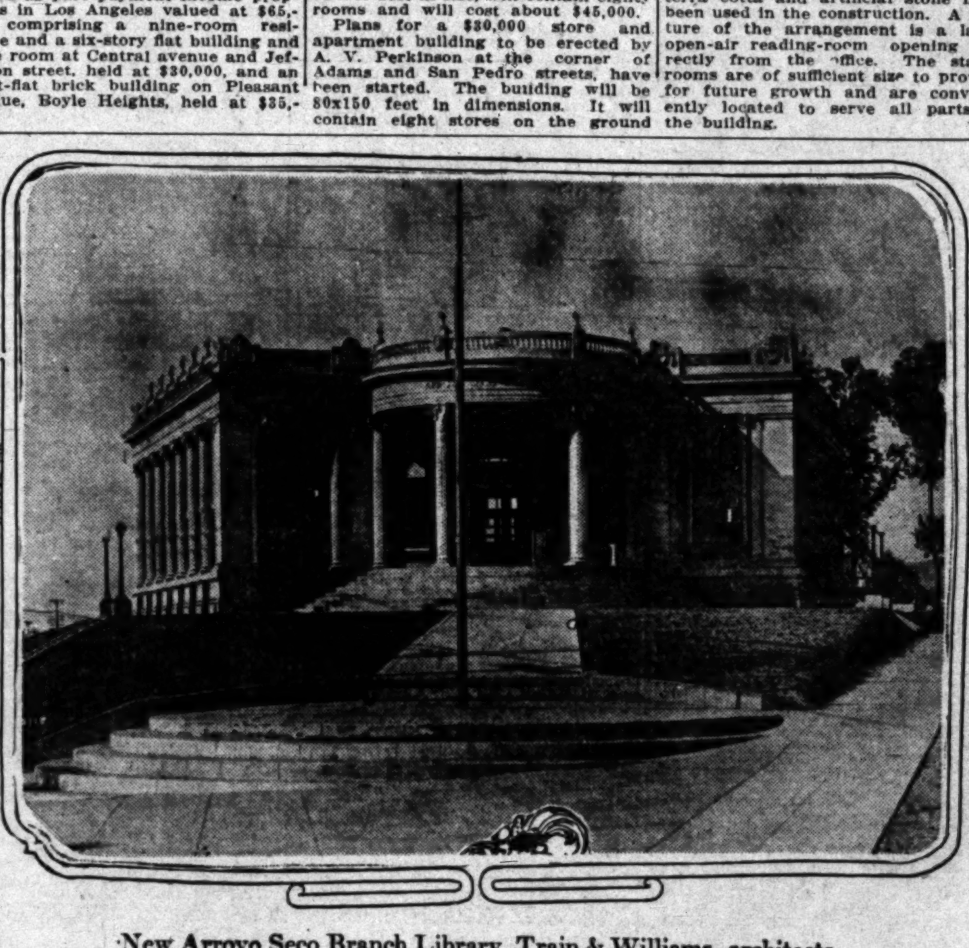
J. M. Ash is reported to be ready to break ground for the first of a series of ten white cement residences, which will be among the attractive homes in the new Short Line place. J. N. Monroe is constructing an attractive colonial residence on Warner avenue between Pico and Hinshaw drive.

PROUD OF LIBRARY.

Citizens of Northeast Los Angeles Now Using Handsome New Public Building on Pasadena Avenue.

The citizens of the Garvanza district of Northeast Los Angeles, are pointing with pride to the recently completed Arroyo Seco branch library at Piedmont and Pasadena avenues. The building, which is one of the handsomest and most up-to-date of its kind in the city, occupies a triangular lot of uneven contour and was planned by the architects, Train Williams, to meet unusual conditions. The result is both satisfactory from a practical point of view and pleasing in an architectural sense.

The structure is classical in design, the street fronts and the back being set off with rows of columns. Brick, terra cotta and artificial stone have been used in the construction. A feature of the arrangement is a large open-air reading-room opening directly from the office. The stackrooms are of sufficient size to provide for future growth and are conveniently located to serve all parts of the building.



New Arroyo Seco Branch Library, Train & Williams, architects.

The owner of a fine, fully improved income ranch of 160 acres, worth $32,000 and clear, will exchange it for an income apartment-house in Los Angeles. He will assume up to $35,000 or $40,000. Submit your propositions to our Exchange Department in person.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY into each home.
It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.
We build homes from the modern five-room cottage, at $900, to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.
We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Hermosa Beach and San Pedro, on easy terms.

THE HOUSE YOU'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR.

$9000. $9000. $9000.

A beautiful, new and absolutely up-to-date Wilshire bungalow, having every modern convenience, and is the very last word in bungalow construction. Situated close in near Westlake Park, on high ground.

The house contains eight nice, airy rooms, with very beautiful decorations. Hardwood floors throughout, servants' room, tile bath, furnace, garage, etc. Absolutely the latest and most modern lighting fixtures and plumbing.

WHY NOT GET THE BEST WHEN IT IS JUST AS CHEAP?

$12,000. $12,000. $12,000.

IN THE HEART OF THE WILSHIRE DISTRICT.

Something so different from the general run of houses we cannot begin to describe this beautiful Wilshire home.

The owner has authorized us to reduce the price for a quick sale and the property can be handled on exceptionally easy terms.

The house contains nine large airy rooms. The first floor contains living room, dining room, den, kitchen, pass pantry, maid's room and bath. Furnace, heater and a large screen porch. On the second floor there are four fine large bedrooms, sleeping porch and two tile baths.

This is located in the very heart of the Wilshire district on an east front lot 60x150. There is also a fine wide driveway and double garage.

If you are really in the market for a bargain and a home with all modern convenience and class—DON'T OVERLOOK THIS RARE OPPORTUNITY. SEE THIS MONDAY.

THIS IS ONE YOU SHOULD SEE BEFORE BUYING.

$12,500. $12,500. $12,500.

PRICE GREATLY REDUCED FOR A QUICK SALE.

An English home, Elizabeth type; first story artistic brick, second story plaster and English timbered, immense plate windows and a general impressive and original design.

Twelve rooms and three baths, marble, shower; finish oak, curly birch and mahogany.

The walls are covered with silk tapestries; breakfast-room and chambers all in hand work. Large outside sleeping-room and attic. Double garage. Gas furnace and automatic heater. Lot 60x154.

The location is the most attractive in the Wilshire Country Club district. All houses in the neighborhood are new and expensive.

As little as $1500 will handle it. If you are seeking a bargain, it will be worth your time to inspect this property.

MAGNIFICENT

AREA OF

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY

ALFALFA LAND

AT $70 AN ACRE.

Three thousand, nine hundred acres of rich alluvial land, on both the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe lines; living stream through the place; 1400 acres now under cultivation. The whole area is rich, tillable lands with practically no waste, no "hog wallows" or hardpan.

An abundant supply of water has been developed at 20 and 100 feet, rising within 8 feet of the surface. Well and pump now in operation. Water rights also in the stream that crosses the place. The cost of developing water for this land is placed at from $1.50 to $3 per inch.

Improvements consist of a good 8-room house, with all modern improvements, large horse barn, modern cow barn with stanchions for 64 head, concrete floor and trenches; tenant-house, bunk house, separator-house, machine sheds, corrals, etc.

This is an ideal stock and dairy ranch, or it is adapted to being divided into smaller holdings. Has been surveyed and staked into forty-acre lots, but the plat has not been recorded.

The price of $70 per acre is for a short time only. The crops now on the land are reserved at this figure. Easy terms will be quoted to responsible buyers.

FOR SALE—

WAKE UP!

TURN OVER!

YOU ARE SLEEPING ON YOUR BACK!

The greatest crop the San Joaquin Valley ever produced is now in evidence. Prosperity is yours if you will only reach out and grasp it. Land values in the State are steadily increasing, and you make a mistake if you do not act now.

We have recently subdivided 1600 acres of our land at Earlimart, Tulare county, into 10, 20 and 40-acre tracts, and are offering it to the public for a short time, at prices from $60 to $100 per acre, on terms of $1 an acre cash and $1 an acre per month, or one-fourth cash and the balance in 1, 2, 3 and 4 years' time.

Water conditions on this tract are perfect, soil ideal for alfalfa and fruit; graded roads and fine alfalfa fields on all sides, and school within half a mile.

Thursday, June 4, we will have another free excursion to Earlimart to inspect this property, and we invite all those who are interested in getting hold of a small piece of good alfalfa land to come in and see us at once, as no reservations will be made after 5 p.m. Thursday. Absolutely no trades considered, as our lands are priced too low to permit it. If you wish any of this land at these prices, you must act at once. Prosperity belongs to us here and now. OPENING MILFORD

IRRIGATION PROJECT.

15,000 acres under $1,000,000 irrigation system.

Water should not cost to exceed 30 cents per acre per year.

On main line of Salt Lake Railroad. Virgin soil, deep, rich, responsive; best alfalfa soil in the U.S.—land that does not have to be reseeded to alfalfa for 25 years or more. Soil perpetually free from foul grass. Dependable irrigation system—water so cheap that its cost is not a real item of expense. An unfailing supply of pure, soft water for domestic use.

A high, healthful elevation, with bracing, invigorating, energy-producing climate. Perfect dairying and hog country—where animal diseases are practically unknown. A 100-per cent. alfalfa, grain, apple and sugar-beet country. Close to a good, live town, on the main line of a great railroad; access to the best educational and social advantages. No isolation or pioneering. Intelligent, well-to-do neighbors. Good roads, quick and easy access to terminal rail markets, also excellent home markets. Price of water $70 a share—12 years' time to pay for it if you wish.

An unusual project for unusual people—designed for farmers who demand the exceptional. Not for "homesteaders," but for those who have already made good, and want an opportunity to do still better. Write for booklet—also testimonials from men who have farmed in this section under "home-made" irrigation systems for 40 years, and have become independent on little tracts of 10 to 20 acres.

ATTENTION

CITRUS NURSERYMEN

We wish to have owners of citrus nursery stock to especially investigate our North Whittier Heights orange, lemon, avocado and walnut land subdivision.

We are making an exceptionally attractive offer to citrus nurserymen and orchardists who wish to secure a choice piece of citrus land on which to plant young trees.

The fact that our property is located on the slope of the Whittier Hills and that some of the most successful citrus people in the State are investing in this property, is an assurance that it has the soil, water and climatic conditions necessary for success, and that the prices are right.

Call at our office and let us tell you of North Whittier Heights and our special offer for those who desire to plant out a young orchard, or, if it is not convenient for you to call, phone or write us for full information and descriptive folder of the property. Will be pleased to show the property any day by appointment.

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY—

FOR SALE—

COME IN AND LET US SHOW YOU HOW YOU CAN BECOME THE OWNER OF SOME OF
THE CREAM OF THE SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY.
DOS PALOS RANCHO.

We offer in parcels to suit, 15,000 acres of the finest lands for the growing of alfalfa, dairying, fruit trees, grapes, olives, nuts and vegetables that can be found in the State of California.
It is located in Fresno county, about 55 miles west and a little north of the city of Fresno, being but three miles south of the station of Dos Palos on the Southern Pacific Railroad, and connected by excellent roads, giving good transportation, freight, passenger and express facilities.
The soil of this tract is ideal in texture, being easily worked at practically any season of the year. It is a rich, deep, productive silt about 45 feet in depth and of great fertility, as evidenced by the native growth, and further proved by the crops we are raising there, and the splendid growth of our planted fruit trees.
There is absolutely NO ALKALI, NO HARDPAN, NO ADOBE, on this tract. It lies as level as a floor with a fall of ten feet to the north and 6 feet to the south, making it ideal for irrigation. The cost of preparing for irrigation is thus nominal. The soil takes water easily, retains it a long time and the water table is low though to insure its never becoming water-logged or sour.
We have a banner stand of alfalfa, planted last April 2, 1913, yielding 7½ tons to date, with another heavy cutting on the way.
Fruit trees of all varieties planted about the same time last year have made a strong, healthy growth.
We have fully demonstrated the water supply as ample as to quantity and excellent as to quality, developed by wells and pumped by electricity.
Experts who have but recently examined our tract report it as one of the finest they have ever examined in California or elsewhere.
We will sell tracts in any size, with or without water development, at very low prices compared with real values.
Call at our office for full information and to see soil and crop samples, or write for descriptive circulars and information.
This property will stand right up to our every representation, and will bear the strictest investigation.
If you are looking for the VERY BEST at today's low prices, on liberal terms, do not fail to look into our offer on this property. We will consider offers for large acreage on a basis that will be satisfactory to you.

INVESTIGATE THIS WITHOUT FAIL.

IT WILL PAY YOU.

YOUR CAREY ACT RIGHT

ACT NOW.

U. S. GOVERNMENT LANDS 50 CENTS AN ACRE. UNDER $1,000,000 IRRIGATION SYSTEM. COMPLETED AND IN OPERATION.

Good, proven alfalfa land at only 50c an acre—State of Utah has limited price of water to $60 an acre, $7 per acre cash and 13 years' time to pay the balance. 25 cents an acre cash for the land—remaining 25 cents an acre in three years. Opportunity may be gone tomorrow—so act immediately.

In a settled district—only 5 hours from Salt Lake City and 20 hours from Los Angeles—good schools, ready markets. Delightful climate and good, pure water. Water from irrigation system ready for delivery to every acre open to settlement. No speculators wanted—come prepared to settle and establish yourself. By actual registered statistics this land should soon pay for itself. 15 tons of sugar beets to the acre have been raised here—as high as 50 bushels of wheat and 100 bushels of oats from land one year from the brush; $75 to $100 an acre netted from alfalfa seed, 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre the first year. Old California ranchers have bought and settled here, stating they would not take $200 an acre for their land. Write or call at once for folder containing detailed information, testimonials, etc. Inquire about the special homeseekers' excursion leaving Los Angeles Wednesday and Saturday mornings at 9 o'clock. Special rates will be given those applying at our offices.

Come into our offices today—you owe it to yourself to investigate this opportunity. Remember—title to land is perfect, land passes from federal government to State and from State to settler. Get testimonials from the men who are living on these lands today.

Easterners Attention.
$16,000—$16,000.
We own a beautiful 2-story residence, located in the choicest part of the Wilshire district. If you are looking for a beautiful home in the cream of the Wilshire district, look this up. House contains 12 large rooms, lower floor furnished in hardwood; living-room and dining-room furnished in imported Tobasco mahogany; hardwood floors throughout; sun parlor, dainty and comfy breakfast-room; artistic lighting fixtures, four large bedrooms, each with full length French beveled plate glass mirror; all linen closets and drawers throughout are made of cedar. Room and bath for maid; two sanitary bathrooms, besides an additional shower bath; furnace, hot water heater, etc.
Terraced lot, 60x170; two-story garage with cement floor; large enough for two machines.
Mortgage $8500.
Will take one or two clear lots as part payment.
Will take clear eastern on which loan of $4000 can be secured immediately.
Property like this is not offered very often for eastern.
What you submit must be good, ours is as good as the best.

FOR EXCHANGE—
Want: Eastern, anywhere, for fine 7-acre, 20-year old orange grove at Colton. Close in, corner two boulevards. Fine grove, nice bungalow, plenty water. Price $14,000; mortgage $5500. Will consider anything that can borrow $1500 on. Must deal quickly.
Want: Residence here for nice $4500 home in Portland, Oregon. Have photo here.
Want: Eastern acreage for fine new apartment-house at Long Beach. Price $32,000; mortgage $9800. Might consider Tulare land to $15,000, and cash.
I want to list your eastern or northern property. Can submit good exchanges.
O. A. NICKERSON, Main 3519; Home A5816. 812 Story Bldg.

FOR EXCHANGE—
Do you want to exchange $25,000 in clear eastern property for a beautiful home in a beautiful orange grove? I own a twenty-acre orange grove, situated only a little way from Los Angeles and a little way from Pasadena. It sold two years ago for $60,000. It is worth that today, but I will take $2250 per acre for it or $45,000 on a cash basis. First mortgage of $20,000 due in 3 years, bearing 7 per cent. It owns one hundred shares of the best water stock, and every kind of fruit that grows in California is now bearing on this grove. I would cash my equity in this for $25,000, absolutely real value; in fact, it was appraised for $50,000 and a 40 per cent. loan obtained on it. If you can guarantee a loan of $10,000 on your $25,000 eastern property, we can do business. This grove is practically city property now, and there are fine homes all around it. You are within 35 minutes by auto of the First National Bank of Los Angeles. Address owner, 1009 UNION OIL BLDG. A4203.

FOR EXCHANGE—ON ACCOUNT OF THE SUDDEN death of my son I have for sale or exchange for California income property two ranches in the famous JUDITH BASIN, MONTANA. WANTED—MONEY—

NEW PLAN MORTGAGE LOANS.

(Indorsed by Bank Experts.)

PAYS 9 PER CENT. A YEAR.

Can be taken in amounts of $100 and $500.

Unusual opportunity to loan any part of $4300 at 9 per cent., for 5 years, $50,000 real estate security, deposited with German-American Trust and Savings Bank. Principal reduced monthly by cash payments puts the actual cash for repayment of loan in the bank's possession long before the five years expire.

INTEREST AND PRINCIPAL GUARANTEED.

Quarterly interest coupons attached to notes and payable on presentation at German-American Trust and Savings Bank.

You are absolutely sure of your interest on the day it is due, and of your principal on the exact day loan expires. You are never sure of either of these on the ordinary first-mortgage loan.

Before calling at bank, see or write

SPECIAL.
Lake View No. 2 Oil Co.'s new "Gusher" has been producing 25,000 to 50,000 barrels a day since May 3, with no signs of diminishing. Company has closed contract for half-million barrels at 55c, and is shipping 20,000 barrels a day, storing balance. Latest report is the new government leasing bill will soon become a law. This will give new life to a great many oil companies now lying dormant, such as Midway Northern, Maricopa Northern and National Pacific. We advise buying these stocks around present market prices.

Geographical Survey Uses Levels in Connection With the tomary Topographic Mapping.

The exact altitudes of about points in Kansas and 350
Nebraska are given in Bulletin sued by the United States Geo
Survey, as determined by spirit run in connection with the topographic mapping. The point in Kansas noted in the is in the Syracuse quadrangle, feet above mean sea level, and highest point in Nebraska is Browns Creek quadrangle, above mean sea level.
The topographic maps published the survey show the elevations points within the areas mapped nearest foot, but those given bulletins on spirit leveling are and are especially valuable to neers and surveyors. Those who occasion to use the bench-mark tions should refer to Bulletin
apply to the director of the Geo
Survey at Washington, D. C., latest adjusted values, using the markings as identification only.
The survey bulletins on spirit
ing, each covering one or more when completed will form a series, because the elevations of the datum points are thousandths of a foot, and the are so described and marked easily identified.

NEW INDUSTRIES FOR THE BLIND.

BENEFICIAL WORK BY THE PENNSYLVANIA ASSOCIATION.

Paper Bags Being Made Which Supplant Importations from Germany, Chocolates Wrapped in Tin Foil, and Wire Goods That Were Formerly Produced Elsewhere.

[Pittsburgh Gazette Times.] Several days ago a letter was received at the headquarters of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, Second and Liberty avenues, from a nearby city asking for data for a paper on "How Do Blind People Think?" This paper it was explained, was to be read at a meeting of a woman's club. Such questions are only a sample of the questions which are often asked of the association officials, but only goes to show how little idea of the capabilities of the blind the public generally possesses. That the blind are actually able to do

NEW INDUSTRIES FOR THE BLIND.

BENEFICIAL WORK BY THE PENNSYLVANIA ASSOCIATION.

Paper Bags Being Made Which Supplant Importations from Germany, Chocolates Wrapped in Tin Foil, and Wire Goods That Were Formerly Produced Elsewhere.

[Pittsburgh Gazette Times.] Several days ago a letter was received at the headquarters of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, Second and Liberty avenues, from a nearby city asking for data for a paper on "How Do Blind People Think?" This paper it was explained, was to be read at a meeting of a woman's club. Such questions are only a sample of the questions which are often asked of the association officials but only goes to show how little idea of the capabilities of the blind the public generally possesses. What the blind are actually able to do practical work toward self-support is known to those who have visited the workshop for the blind in Pittsburgh or its branch in Scranton, or who have seen the handiwork of the women at the various exhibitions and sales conducted by the association in the past.

There is one position in which the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind is unique and that is in its desire to find new occupations for the blind. Broom-making and chair caning are occupations which the sightless have been doing from time immemorial, but since the association cannot put a workshop in every corner of the State, the secretary, Walter W. Stamm, is on the constant lookout for new occupations at which the blind may be put to work, and as a result of his successes other organizations for the blind are copying some of the ideas.

Recently there were put to work at making paper broom bags two blind men and their product has been so worthy that their entire output has been purchased by a dealer in broom supplies. One of these men is totally blind and deaf and is able to talk with the greatest difficulty. He was told what was expected of him by the tracing of letters of the alphabet on his hand by Mr. Stamm. One day last week he received the first money he ever earned in his life and he was mightily pleased.

Recently a member of a firm dealing in brass and copper filings and dust made from these filings asked the association if it would be possible for paper bags of a peculiar design to be made by the blind, which would be so perfectly made that none of the very fine dust would be lost. One bag was to be enclosed in another, and the statement was made that the firm had previously been compelled to buy its bags in Germany at a goodly cost and to pay an import duty. No paper bag manufacturer in the country would undertake to make these bags. One of the blind girls was put to work at making them after special contrivances to prevent mistakes had been made by W. H. Long, the blind director of the workshop for the blind, and by Mr. Stamm. The firm is well pleased with the bags and is now having its entire demand supplied by the one blind girl.

Another local firm had for years been throwing away as waste matter rolls of burlap from sixteen inches to three or four feet wide. The larger castings and machines which this concern made had been wrapped in burlap for shipment, but the smaller widths were of no use until it was shown to a member of the firm that blind women could sew them into small bags into which small castings or bolts and nuts could be placed. Since that time 10,000 of these bags have been made and have given perfect satisfaction.

One of the local chocolate manufacturers gave the sightless an opportunity to wrap chocolates in tinfoil with the result that they were so well pleased that they employed one of the blind girls permanently in their own chocolate works along with seeing girls. She is now making a good wage and is more expert than many of the people who have the advantage of sight.

Painting broom handles, recently tried at the workshop, has proved a success, and already orders have been received from broom supply houses for all that can be turned out by the blind workman who is engaged at that work.

Many a youngster who goes to the kindergartens of the public schools plays with prettily-colored yarn balls which are made by a blind woman from McDonald, Pa. Until recently these balls were made exclusively by others, but the opportunity which the association officials received for the blind woman proved that she was just as capable of making acceptable kindergarten balls as others. In Beaver Falls there is a blind man who has been making wire articles over mandrils and he has been having fair success in disposing of his product, one of the articles being a "star" about which to wind clothes lines.

Just now the association is engaged in a campaign to raise funds for the securing and exhibition of motion pictures showing what the sightless are really able to do. The industrious blind often astound their seeing friends by their ability to do seemingly impossible things, but the public is more accustomed to the blind mendicant than the blind worker. Stamm hopes to have the motion pictures to supplement his lantern slides and will then begin an active lecturing tour all over the State in the interests of prevention of blindness and in the hope of interesting persons in other cities to give the blind a chance by the formation of other branches similar to that very successful branch now in operation in Scranton. Present indications point to branches in Altoona, Johnstown and Harrisburg in the near future.

Renting Natural Scenery.

[Le Cri de Paris:] M. Georges Moreau recently, in the course of a walk at Villiers-Saint Benoist, greatly admired three magnificent oaks which towered from the edge of a field.

"You'll not see 'em much more, citizen," growled the owner of the land. "They make too much shade. I'm going to cut them down."

"What a sacrilege! Cut down those magnificent trees! Better rent them to me."

"What'll you do with 'em?"

"I shall look at them as I pass by. Will you give to me for 15 francs a year the right to admire them?"

"Agreed! It's only a Parisian who could have such a funny idea!"

The story spread abroad, and now whenever M. Moreau takes a walk in that district the peasants hail him with: "Hey, citizen, will you rent those trees there of me? If not I'll cut 'em down. Yes, or no? One, two, three——"

M. Moreau yields and pays to save the lives of the trees that delight his view. The little birds would be ungrateful did they not salue with their most harmonious roulades the preserver of their nests.

Efficiency of Wire Glass.

[New York Commercial:] The amazing efficiency of wire glass is due largely to the difference in expansion between the glass and the steel. When the two are molded together at the melting point of glass and allowed to cool, the wire contracts more rapidly than the glass, and when a crack occurs the tension of the wire tends to draw the broken pieces together and maintain them in position. This is why a broken skylight does not fall or leak, and is why a window, cracked into innumerable pieces by the attack of fire, does not give way, but maintains its position up to the very melting point of the material itself.

HUMAN FLESH PERFECT FOOD.

New Proposition Concerning Appetite and Digestion Which Offers a Chance for Personal Heroism.

[New York Times:] Dean Hugounenq of the faculty of medicine of Lyons, after long studies of food, declares that if we are unwell it is entirely because our food is not proper and that the perfect food for human beings is human flesh. He says:

"It is that which reduces the work of the digestive apparatus to the minimum. This is because the organism absorbs readily cellules like its own."

Le Matin thus comments: "It would be indiscreet and idle to ask by what means the learned professor was able to find this out, but we suppose he did not use the experimental method.

"Beef and mutton are heating, veal fails in nutrition, pork is indigestible, vegetarianism is productive of anaemia and is also unsatisfactory to most persons. Therefore, he says, anthropophagy is the last word in the science of hygiene.

"If the theory propagates itself, if it is proved that the doctor is right, some day, perhaps, there will be a new form of heroism—men sacrificing themselves in the form of steaks to nourish their neighbors. We suggest that the doctor be the first so to devote himself."

Discovered in the Santa Monica Range.

Beds Believed the Oldest on Continent.

A fossil discovery in the Santa Monica Mountains yesterday morning by Milton Carlson and DeMoss Bowers is expected to interest local scientists deeply. In but one other locality in Southern Californa have fossils of the cretaceous game period—the cretaceous—so far been found.

The cretaceous was an era of the geological division known as mesozoic time, the closing part of the age of reptiles, when the Pacific Ocean swept the Sierra Nevadas on the west, New England was a peninsula, and along the eastern base of the Rocky Mountains the Gulf of Mexico met the Arctic Ocean. Southern California was the floor of a tropical sea, while ancient amphibians—great sea scorpions, fish lizards and sea serpents—rushed through the waters, then high above Los Angeles, and battled for the mastery of the deep. On the land roamed formidable monsters, whose enormous size and terrible appearance makes one shudder to contemplate, and great bird reptiles with a wing expanse of twenty-five feet, flapped their way through the air.

In the meantime the shells found in this deposit yesterday were peacefully reposing in some bay or inlet undisturbed by the commotions above and around. The subsidence of the waters or upheaval of vast stretches of the sea floor exposed them and their occupants to the air, life ended, and as ages went by the shells became hardened and turned into stone. Scientists say these fossils existed millions of years ago (the age of the earth being estimated at from 1,000,000 to 6,000,000,000 years) and of course no one can prove the contrary.

OURS THE OLDEST.

As stated in The Times a week ago, prominent western scientists have declared the California deposits older than the beds of the Gulf States, heretofore regarded as the oldest monument of eocene times in America. The deposit now discovered in the Santa Monica Mountains, at an elevation of 1500 feet above sea level, is about 400 feet thick and stands nearly vertical, with extensive sandstone deposits on either side. It may be thicker, for some cretaceous deposits have been found to reach a depth of 30,000 feet. In this instance, the overlying sandstone and limestone is more than 6000 feet thick.

The cretaceous bed of fossils in Orange county attracted the attention of geologists and palaeontologists throughout the country about twenty years ago and yielded many forms of ancient life new to science, through the investigations of the late Dr. Stephen Bowers, a scientist of international reputation.

LARGE AMMONITE.

One of the interesting forms of the cretaceous era is the ammonite, which belongs to the family of cephalopods. The illustration shows one of the largest yet found, it being nearly two feet in diameter and weighing about 100 pounds. The scientific name it bears is ammonites bowersi. Ammonites obtained the name from resemblance to the ram's horn, which adorned the head of the Egyptian sun-god Amen-Ra. It was allied to the nautilus, which is still found in the ocean, but of more than 2000 species known to conchologists, only six are found living. The paper nautilus is found near some of our channel islands adjacent to the coast, and a species with a much thicker shell known as the pearly nautilus, is found near the South Sea Islands. The ammonite, like the nautilus, is chambered within and had a siphuncle extending through the chambers, permitting the animal to rise to the surface of the ocean or sink to the bottom by inhaling or expelling the air, and water.

TRIPS OF DISCOVERY.

Referring to yesterday's find DeMoss Bowers said last night: "Mr. Carlson and I have explored some portions of Southern California and in most of our trips we have learned something. Sometimes we travel by boat and at other times in a land conveyance, but oftener than not, take a twenty or thirty-mile walk. We find fossil elephant teeth and tusks on the islands, many interesting forms of crustacea along the beaches, Indian caves and relics of a vanished race and invariably acquire some information that adds to one's knowledge regarding the earth upon which we reside. We also hunt and fish some.

"Fossil beds on this coast have been familiar to me for many years, but those we found this time are of especial interest because fossils of the cretaceous period are not so common as those of other eras in Southern California. They will be added to the large collection of specimens formerly gathered by Dr. Bowers, my father."

SCENE OF ACTIVITY.

Hundred Carloads of Lumber Arrive at Calipatria for Builders in New Imperial Valley Townsite.

One hundred carloads of material have arrived at the new Southern Pacific station at Calipatria. The lumber companies alone have received thirty-six carloads. Full equipment, including machinery, is on the ground ready for the erection of a cotton gin. Several fine houses are being erected by nearby farmers and building operations in the business district of the new Imperial Valley townsite is going ahead rapidly.

The buildings now in course of construction include one and two-story brick structures owned by T. J. Douglass of El Centro, Hubert Linkletter, H. E. Brackett, Lyons and McCullough, Dr. L. L. Lindsey, J. B. Brackett and others. The building of the First National Bank of Calipatria is now being erected by H. H. Peterson of El Centro.

According to contracts entered into with Carl F. Schader, owner of the townsite, the one-story buildings must be completed by August 5 next, and the two-story buildings by November 5. Seven hundred acres of land, divided in ten-acre tracts close to the town are being cleared for crops. Water is flowing through the town and three more laterals from the No. 2 company's canal will be built soon.

MANY NEW HOMES.

Nearly Four Hundred Building Permits Granted for Private Dwellings During the Month of May.

Building permits to the number of 835, representing new structures of all kinds to cost in the aggregate $1,478,703, were issued by the chief inspector of buildings between May 1 and May 29 inclusively. Of these nearly 400 were for new houses of one, one and a half and two stories.

To date for the year there have been issued 4648 permits, covering the construction of buildings to cost in the aggregate $8,194,739. The totals for the corresponding period of last year were 7477 permits and a valuation of $15,589,006.

FROM SIXTH TO SPRING.

H. G. Holabird & Co. announce the removal of their offices from No. 110 West Sixth street to Mortgage Guarantee building, No. 626 South Spring street, where they will share a suite of offices with W. H. Holabird, receiver for the California Development Company. The Imperial Valley exhibit maintained at the Sixth street address has been removed to the new and more convenient quarters and is to be enlarged in scope. H. G. Holabird & Co. are handling extensive Imperial Valley holdings, especially acreage in the newer north end district. The firm's well-known Imperial Valley information bureau will be continued at the new location.

BUYS IMPROVED LAND.

SAN JACINTO, May 30.—Announcement is made this week of the purchase of the Maple Leaf ranch, five miles west of San Jacinto, by H. H. Hunt of Los Angeles, for consideration of $32,000. The place consists of 160 acres of well improved land. A considerable acreage is planted to alfalfa. Water is furnished from a pumping plant, which supplies about a fifty-inch flow. It is understood that the new owner will stock the place with dairy cows and hogs and feed the crops to his own stock. The C. M. Bussing twenty-acre improved place on West Seventh street, was bought this week by a Los Angeles physician at a reported price of $14,000. On Hewitt street, Raymond Strout has bought of the Crawford estate a number, of lots adjoining his residence property. Hanna L. Sanders has bought five acres of land on State street from F. H. Fowler and Jack Hopkins.

Cephalopods and mollusks of the cretaceous period, found by Angelenos. At the top is one of the largest ammonites known, being two feet wide and weighing a hundred pounds. At the left is a fan-shaped mollusk, and at the right an incomplete specimen of the many varieties of ammonites characterizing the cretaceous era.

Famous Silver-Gold State Has New Sensation

Nevada Packard Mine Has Proven Ore Bodies Of Amazing Size And Value.

For fifty years Nevada has been the great silver-gold State of the Union, having a production record of about one billion, two hundred fifty million dollars in these two precious metals. The State is now producing silver and gold of the value of $80,000.00 per day. Net profits of one hundred million dollars have been made in Nevada Mines during the past ten years.

NEVADA PACKARD

The Nevada Packard mine, located in the Rochester Mining District, is one of the greatest discoveries made in Nevada in recent years. Large bodies of pay ore have been opened up in three or four different veins. The big main ore body has been proven for nearly 1500 feet in length. Its full width has not yet been determined, though in one place it has been proven to be fully 75 feet across without defining either wall. Nearly $50,000.00 worth of ore has been shipped from the Packard mine. A carload of twenty-five tons shipped a few days ago averaged $74.60 per ton. Packard has already been proven to be a big mine, and gives every promise of rapidly developing into one of Nevada's greatest silver-gold producers.

A mill is to be constructed on the Packard mine at the earliest possible moment, and to provide funds for this purpose we are authorized to offer a limited allotment of treasury stock at 22½c per share. June 6th the price will be advanced to 25c per share, and the splendid mine developments will compel further material advances at an early date.

Those who secure Nevada Packard stock now will realize splendid profits in the very near future, and there is every probability that within a year or two this stock will be worth several dollars per share. It is positively one of the greatest discoveries made recently in Nevada.

Call at our office and see samples of the rich ore. If you cannot call at the office, write for full information. This is one of the greatest money-making opportunities ever offered from Nevada. It is a chance to make a fortune from a comparatively small investment. Remember Saturday, June 6th, is the last day upon which this stock can be secured at the present price of 22½c per share.

GROVES TRANSFERRED.

Two Important Sales Announced in Whittier District—One Deal Involves Large Walnut Tract.

WHITTIER, May 30.—Two ranch sales of importance were announced here this week, one involving the transfer of a lemon grove and one the sale of a large walnut acreage. C. A. Carden of this city has acquired a five-acre tract of young lemons in Yorba Linda, the seller being W. A. Brabrook, also of Whittier. The grove consists of three-year-old Eureka lemons, and the price is announced as $1320 per acre. The tract has no improvements other than the trees and the water system.

Another deal makes Oscar Lark, a former business man of this city, the owner of a fine twenty-five-acre walnut grove south of town. The seller is Walter Cole. The price is given out as $20,000. The grove is in bearing and the place has improvements. The new owner will make his home on the ranch.

NORTHWEST SALES.

The R. C. Mitchell Company reports the following recent sales: For J. A. Buck to Oscar Baker, two lots, 50x180 feet each, on Normandie near Melrose, $1150 each; J. A. Buck to J. J. Mach, two lots on Normandie near Melrose, $1150 each; to Mrs. M. F. Cosby, lot in Francisca Park, 60x150 feet, northeast corner Hobart boulevard and Fourth street, $3600; (Mrs. Cosby is improving the corner with a house;) for George N. Stark to Kate M. Baker, lot in Francisca Park, 60x150 feet, Oxford avenue near Third street, $3300; to B. F. Wright, lot in Francisca Park, 60x150 feet, Oxford avenue near Fifth street, $4250. (Wright is improving the property with a residence.)

STREET CONTRACT LET.

The McCarthy Company has let the contract for the grading and street work of three new streets in the Bungalow Home Tract near Main street in the southern part of the city.

Seventieth street will be improved from San Pedro street to South Park avenue, Seventy-first street between the same streets and San Pedro street from Sixty-ninth street to Florence avenue. The property has been on the market about a week.

FIRST TRACT SOLD OUT.

Charles H. Lehman, sales manager for the Western Building and Investment Company, announces that that firm's first subdivision at Oakdale has been entirely sold out and that a second tract, laid out in twenty-acre parcels, has just been put upon the market. The land is all under the Oakdale Irrigated District Water system and is the newest of the San Joaquin Valley holdings to be organized under the Wright-Bridgeford act.

HARBOR ITEMS.

Although today was a holiday, the water front was busy. There was a rush to complete discharge of steam schooners so they could get to sea without losing Sunday time in port. The departures included the Henry T. Scott for San Diego, to load salt for Puget Sound; Olympic for Gray's Harbor, to reload for the E. K. Wood Lumber Company; George W. Fenwick for Astoria in ballast to the Hammond Lumber Company; Francis H. Leggett for Gray's Harbor, via San Francisco; Raymond for Willapa, Noyo for San Francisco and James S. Higgins for Fort Bragg, via San Francisco.

The arrivals of lumber carriers included the William H. Murphy from Eureka with a full cargo of redwood for the Pacific Lumber Compnay; the Bee from Bellingham with cargo for the Consolidated Lumber Company, the Santa Barbara from Redondo Beach with balance of cargo, loaded at Willapa, the Northland from San Diego with balance of cargo, loaded at Portland, and the Caspar with a full cargo, loaded at Caspar.

The steamer Yale, arriving from San Francisco today, had an unusually large number of passengers on account of the excursion rate for Decoration Day. The Governor, from Puget Sound, via San Francisco, also had a good list of passengers. The Governor will sail for return tomorrow. The Yale proceeded to San Diego and will return tomorrow on the return trip to San Francisco. The Queen of the Pacific Coast line also proceeded to San Diego and will return tomorrow, returning again to San Diego.

W. M. Garland & Co. announce through R. A. Morton of the residence-property department the purchase of a seventy-five-foot lot in the Westmoreland Heights Tract by the Cosmos Club, a local literary and philanthropic organization. The lot is on Westmoreland boulevard, between Washington and West Sixteenth streets, and will be the site of an artistic club building to cost about $10,000. The consideration is not given.

Local Stock Market Activities

BY JNO. O. KNIGHT.

Trading continued light throughout the week with a minimum of business in the more speculative issues. Transactions in investment securities were on about a par, however, with the volume of business done during recent weeks. Price changes throughout the list were insignificant.

In spite of the small amount of actual trading, there was better inquiry for all grades of stocks. The public is apparently more analytical than heretofore and wants more thorough information concerning securities before making commitments. This applies particularly to inquiries from outside sections, and in this connection it is interesting to note that the correspondence of Jno. O. Knight & Co. has more than doubled within the last month or two, although the firm's actual business has shown little, if any, increase, during that time. This more apparent interest in local securities should augur well for the near future.

While summer used to be looked upon as the dull season in Southern California, experience shows that this is no longer the case to anything like its former extent. In fact, an actual comparison of the volume of business done in many lines shows very little change between summer and winter. In this connection a comparison of Los Angeles bank clearings for the last twelve months is interesting. The totals for three-month periods beginning with June, 1913, are as follows:

June 30, 1913 ....$314,041,[illegible]
Sept. 30, 1913 ....$277,[illegible]
Dec. 31, 1913 ......$301,[illegible]
March 31, 1914 ....$307,401,[illegible]

It is expected that the Royal Dutch-Shell Petroleum Company will pay dividends this year at the rate of 30 per cent. Trading in the stock has been very active in London. A large number of the London brokers have opened oil departments and some of them have arranged for regular cable quotations on Standard Oil of California, which shows signs of becoming something of a favorite trader in the British metropolis.

Not since the days of the [illegible], perhaps, has there been anything like the wild trading in stocks that is now going on in Calgary, Can., where the whole city seems to have been thrown into a fever of excitement by the discovery of oil prospects in what is known as the Dingman well. Whether oil has really been found in commercial quantities remains to be proved, but in the meantime the drilling of fifteen wells has been started and $500,000 worth of oil stock changed hands in one day recently. Oil promoters ran out of certificates and, after exhausting the supply in Winnipeg as well, frantic appeals were sent to the nearest larger cities for additional blanks. The boom probably reached its highest a week ago, and conditions are now reported somewhat quieter.

is forging ahead at a very rapid pace. Over $200,000 in actual construction of new homes now in process—over $30,000 contracted for, not yet begun.

This splendid achievement merely reflects the public estimation of the attractiveness of this property for residential purposes. SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS are now being offered to those desiring to build homes.

No one can afford to buy any property for the purpose of establishing a home without first investigating and considering the offers which are obtainable from Country Club Park.

A word to the wise is sufficient—"Hard-Time" bargains will not long continue—ADVANCES ARE INEVITABLE, as this great city rolls up its million inhabitants.

Do not buy on MUD streets ten to twenty miles from the city when you can purchase so near the center on ASPHALT STREETS with such improvements paid for, at almost the same money; ONE IS FOOLISH, RISKY SPECULATION; the other is WISE, SOUND, SAFE INVESTMENT; sure to advance in value. Country Club Park's 220 acres are so divided into sections that whether you are contemplating building a $3000 bungalow or a $25,000 residence, you can obtain the best bargain in the city for either purpose. Ask your own agent to show you this property.

You can make an automobile appointment TODAY (only) by calling 73626.

Westward Ho!

BUILDERS FILLING IN LAST OF HIGH GROUND.

Pico, Washington and West Adams Street District Steadily Advancing Toward the Sea—Development Is Now Spilling Over Rim of Hills and on to Lower Ground Beyond Vineyard Junction.

A STRANGER traveling over one of the various beach lines that extend out West Sixteenth street and observing the miles of magnificent residential development stretching along both sides of the tracks between Hill street and Vineyard Junction would probably smile with incredulity if informed that a large proportion of the improvements he so admired had sprung into existence within the memory of many a Los Angeles school boy.

Yet such is the case, and in so far at least as a large part of the high ground of the West Adams-street, Washington-boulevard and Pico-street districts is concerned, the facts of growth are still more astonishing. Along the routes of these thoroughfares are built-up subdivisions, containing in the aggregate hundreds of attractive homes and playing an important part in the city's affairs that five years ago had not been dreamed of. West of the city limits, on lower ground, are highly-developed bungalow subdivisions that many residents whose visits to the beaches are at all few and far between have never laid eyes upon.

The history of the advance of the vast and beautiful district between fashionable Wilshire boulevard on the north and fashionable West Adams street on the south is a record of phenomenal activity and growth. It is a history paralleled only by that of the Wilshire district. The biggest part of that history has been made in a little over a decade.

Twenty years ago the owners of the high and sightly land in this district were more than willing to sell out at $200 an acre or less, and, at that, the figures were held by most people to be purely boom prices. No one in those days wanted high ground, the demand being entirely for low, flat acreage. Even the keenest of the subdividers wanted strictly level lands, and the truck gardeners would have nothing else. As a result, most of the present beautiful residence district lying for ten blocks on each side of Sixteenth street was either in vineyards or wheat, with every prespect, so far as anyone knew, of staying in that condition.

Later on, when land in the district had advanced to $300 and $400 an acre, shrewd investors preferred paying $80 to $100 a front foot on Figueroa street, in the vicinity of West Adams, to "speculating" in the undeveloped mesas to the west. Such illustrations show strikingly how opinions and ideas change in the realty world. The high ground miles to the west of Figueroa is today at a premium, so little of it remains undeveloped.

"OUT IN THE COUNTRY."

The first bold venture westward was made by F. P. Bryan and Wesley Clark in 1902, when the 150-acre Westmoreland tract was laid out. The subdivision was platted out of land that had remained intact in the hands of Bartilo Ballerino since the day when he had acquired it from the government at $1.25 an acre. Clark and Bryan had bought it at $1000 an acre in 1901. The property was bounded on the east by Hoover street, on the west by Vermont avenue, on the south by Pico and on the north by San Marino. It was "out in the country," with little between it and the city proper, and practically nothing but vineyards and wheat fields beyond.

The tract was a success from the start, and in reality started the movement that has made Pico street what it is today. Westmoreland place was put on the market in 1904, with the highest residence restrictions then prevailing in the city, and occupying a large plot of ground adjoining the Westmoreland tract. Today Westmoreland place is the closest in of the aristocratic subdivisions of Los Angeles.

Still later Palm Place, comprising thirty acres, bounded by Pico, Tenth, Alvarado and Hoover, was subdivided, the development farther out offering the impetus. Country Club Park and Westchester Place were the next extensive high-class developments on Pico and both are comparatively recent.

From a strictly residence street Pico has sprung into an important business artery within a very few years, the closer-in portion of the street being given now almost entirely over to stores and apartments. The interest of investors in the street is growing from year to year.

When the Los Angeles Country Club moved from the corner of Pico and Westmoreland to Pico and Western fifteen years ago, its members believed that they had at last found a location that would be remote enough from the built-up districts to suit their purposes for a half century. Today in their new property west of Beverly Hills the club folks are said to be wondering when the relentless westward trend of the city will make still another move necessary. The old club grounds at Pico and Western have been almost swallowed up in the wave of development activity that followed the establishment of the Country Club Park tract.

FROM BARE ACREAGE.

When beachward travelers pass the beautiful La Fayette Square tract they see a property that two years ago was bare acreage. Like much of the property in the same vicinity, the tract had been held intact from the days when it was all in vineyards; awaiting the moment when the residential expansion on all sides of it should have made its development advisable. South of La Fayette Square and extending from Washington boulevard to West Adams street, there is now being laid out what is practically the last of the high ground north of West Adams Heights and east of Vineyard Junction. The history of the one-time despised acreage of the west side of Los Angeles, as acreage, at least, may, therefore, almost be said to have been written.

The whole of the important development between Pico and Washington from a short distance west of Figueroa may, in fact, be said to have been the work of a decade. Ten years ago the thickly-settled district between these streets and around Western avenue was sold as acreage at a figure that would today be considered a mere "song." The original ninety acres of West Adams Heights, where are now situated some of the finest homes of the city, and where frontage prices are prohibitive to all but the wealthiest buyers, changed hands at $1500 an acre less than fifteen years ago.

One fine tract followed another in the westward development once the ball was started to rolling. Following the success of the Westmoreland tract and some of the earlier subdivisions along West Adams street the realty men suddenly awoke in a body to the possibilities of the west end. Berkeley Square, in the West Adams district, and Westchester place, in the Pico district, began to claim the attention of those who had the money to pay for large grounds and exclusive environment. The fine homes

MIDWAY SHOWS GREAT GROWTH.

Forty Per Cent. Increase in Output in Year.

Big Gushers Chief Source of New Production.

Developments in Kern County Oil Fields.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TAFT, May 29.—The remarkable increase in the production of the Midway-Sunset oil district during the past twelve months is one of the most astonishing features of the growth of the oil business in this State. Although the field was recognized as one of the greatest in the world a year ago, hardly any one dreamt that it contained the vast potential production that has since been demonstrated.

The significant fact in the record of increased production is that it has been brought about principally by wells of the gusher type, and not by any greater activity in field development. Considered from a standpoint of actual development carried on, it is generally realized that the past year was a poor one.

During the year the output of the field has increased, however, no less than 40 per cent. It jumped from less than 100,000 barrels a day in April, 1913, to nearly 140,000 barrels a day last month, and May, it is assured, will set up a new high mark in output.

But while the output of the field has increased 40 per cent. the number of producing wells increased only 30 per cent. The Sunset-Midway district in April had only about 300 more wells producing than a year ago, making the total only something over 1300. During March, when the daily average production was even larger the number was less than 1300. Had last year been a favorable one the producing wells might number 1500 or more now.

The average production of a Midway-Sunset well today is over 110 barrels a day, while a year ago it was only about ninety-five barrels. Of course, there are many wells in Midway, which produce many times the amount just mentioned, but by the same token there are by far a greater number which yield less.

It is interesting to note that the production of an average Midway well is more than double the production of the average well in the State.

M'KITTRICK.

OIL ACTIVITIES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

M'KITTRICK, May 29.—Charles G. Whittier has resigned as superintendent of the Hondo Oil Company, which position he has filled for a long time, and will take a few weeks' rest in the mountains. He has been succeeded by Bert Hardison of Los Angeles, who has been connected with interests in the Coalinga field.

F. W. McNear of San Francisco, general manager of the Reward Oil Company, was in the McKittrick field this week, inspecting the property of the concern. The Reward Oil Company, of which P. E. Bowles, Jr., is local superintendent, is busy filling the contract made not long ago to supply the Standard Oil Company with 1,000,000 barrels of petroleum.

The Midway Pacific Oil Company, of which L. C. Aylesworth is superintendent, is drilling well No. 5 on its lease in section 24, 31-22, North Midway district. The well has reached a depth of 1600 feet, and work is progressing favorably. The other wells are producing.

The Olig Crude Oil Company has reached a depth of 800 feet in well No. 1, being redrilled on its lease in the McKittrick district.

The American Gasoline Company, a subsidiary of the Royal Dutch-Shell combine, is receiving large shipments of material for the tank farm near the city. Work is progressing rapidly.

The Jewett Oil Company has about completed the installation of three new gas engines on its lease in the north end of the McKittrick field.

Work on the road constructed by the oil companies and leading from McKittrick to Reward, where it will connect with the county thoroughfare between the latter point and thence to San Luis Obispo, is being prosecuted with vigor. The oil companies have contributed liberally to the good roads movement, and the results already accomplished are excellent.

The road beyond the Kern Trading and Oil Company's water wells and the Santa Fe water wells is in good condition, and when the work now being done has been completed transportation facilities through the field and to the Coast will have been greatly improved.

The Hillcrest Oil Company has purchased the one-half interest of the Scottish Oilfields Company in a pipe line jointly owned by the two concerns. The sale was made at auction in the case of Tracy versus the Scottish Oilfields Company, and the sum realized was $40.

Field Notes.

Work of deepening No. 4 well of the Caribou Oil Company to the gusher sand, is in progress. When the well was tested out it was found to be above the oil sand. The big gusher of the Caribou company continues to flow steadily and has already yielded over $200,000 worth of oil. The K. T. and O. Company's new well which offsets the No. 4 well of the Caribou is producing 500 barrels of oil daily.

The Midway Northern Oil Company's No. 4 well is again producing at the rate of 2000 barrels a day.

The Hazelton Crude is down over 1000 feet, in its test well, No. 2, on section 17, 11-23. Later, well No. 1, which has been temporarily abandoned, will be finished up.

The M. J. and M. and M. Consolidated, has cemented well No. 15, and will wait thirty days before starting to drill to the oil sand.

The Tamalpais Oil Company, on section 25, 32-23, is preparing to abandon well No. 1.

Well No. 1 of the Pyramid Oil Company, on section 28, 32-24, is to be again redrilled. Upon testing the well recently, the operators found that the water was not shut off.

Well No. 3 of the Mocal Oil Company is doing 200 barrels daily. This well is on a lease from the United Oil Company.

Well No. 6 of the Pacific Petroleum Company on section 5, 32-23, has been doing about 200 barrels daily on the beam. The well was drilled into the sand at a depth of 2450 feet.

Work on the No. 1 well of the North American Oil Company, on section 4, 11-23, has been held up because of a lost bit. The well, which is down over 2030 feet, is not far from the Lakeview No. 2 Oil Company's gusher.

Rig irons for a new well for the Dunlop Oil Company are on the ground and drilling will begin at an early date. The lease, on section 26, 32-23, has already seven wells completed, and locations have been made for sixteen.

The J. B. Dabney Oil Company has hauled to its lease on section 26, 31-22, a new seventy-horse-power boiler which will materially increase the power on the lease.

Progress in cleaning out the crater of the old well No. 21 of the Kern Trading and Oil Company on section 27, 31-23, is very slow, on account of the precautions that have to be taken against fire. Pumps are kept steadily at work pumping fresh air to the men in the crater to prevent asphyxiation. From the top of the casing a great rumbling and roaring can be heard at all times.

TO RESUME DRILLING.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, May 29.—The drillers at work on the oil well of Senator Currier on his ranch southwest of here, expect to be able to resume active drilling soon. They have had good success in extracting some broken pipe from the well, which is now down over 2000 feet. There were indications of oil deposits when the trouble was encountered. Currier is prepared to go to a depth of 4000 feet.

SHORTAGE FIRST FOR THIS YEAR.

PRODUCTION DROPS; SHIPMENTS GAIN IN APRIL.

Daily Average Output Shows Falling Off of Nearly Two Thousand Barrels, According to Standard Figures—Shipments Reveal Large Increase.

While during the three previous months this year there was a surplus of production over shipments, a reverse of this condition for April is revealed in the Standard Oil bulletin's statistics. There was an apparent shortage for that month of nearly 7500 barrels, as compared with an apparent surplus for the three preceding months of 11,500 barrels daily average.

Production of oil for April shows an average of 284,701 barrels a day, as compared with 286,591 barrels during March, according to the bulletin. This is a decrease of nearly 2000 barrels daily average.

Shipments were at the rate of 292,108 barrels, an increase of approximately 7150 barrels compared with the previous month. Total crude-oil stocks April 30, amounting to 49,625,570 barrels, compare with 49,847,770 barrels at the end of March. The bulletin states that there was no change in the shut-in production, which is still estimated at 14,000 barrels daily.

Thirty-three wells were completed during April, the same number as in March. Fifty new rigs were up, as against sixty-five, and 254 wells were drilling as against 274, signifying a slight decrease in new activity. The number of producing wells was greater by 103 last month.

The following table gives the output and producing wells for the various important fields for the two months, with the increase or decrease shown:

STEADY INCREASE IN OIL OUTPUT.

STANDARD AND UNION BRING IN NEW WELLS.

Production in Whittier-Fullerton District Shows Increase of Thirty-five Per Cent. During Past Year. Big Gasser on Murphy Property Is Under Control.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, May 28.—The production of the Whittier-Fullerton oil field is constantly being increased by development in La Habra Valley and the Coyote Hills district. Only yesterday the Union Oil Company brought in its No. 15 well, on the Graham and Loftus lease, with a production estimated at 500 barrels daily. The same company about ten days ago finished its No. 19, which is now yielding 250 barrels daily. The oil from these wells is about 22.5 degrees in gravity. The Union's lease is in La Habra Valley.

In the Coyote Hills district the Standard Oil Company has completed its No. 10, which is doing about 1600 barrels a day. Only a few weeks ago No. 5 was brought in with a production of 2000 barrels, and is still reported to be doing over 1000 barrels. The gusher continues to flow more than 5000 barrels daily. The company could also have brought in well No. 1 on the McNally lease, with a production of 400 barrels daily this week, but decided to drill it deeper in the hope of striking a more prolific sand.

On the Standard's Murphy lease well No. 6 is again producing a tremendous amount of gas, but is under control and has done practically no damage to the rig, as on the two previous occasions when it broke loose. This well is expected to prove one of the best producers of the big company in this territory. It is a curious fact that, owing to the care used in controlling the gas from this well, the rumor got started that the company had brought in a tremendous gusher in the Coyote Hills, and was concealing the fact, and that this well was the real cause for the decline in the price of oil. No. 6 is not producing oil in commercial quantities, however, not having reached the sand as yet.

While the wells mentioned are among the most important in which developments recently have occurred, many others in various parts of the two active districts are nearing completion. Especial interest still is manifested in the territory in the immediate vicinity of the Cal-Okla's well, and several new producers soon will be brought in at points near by.

The Amalgamated is keeping six or seven strings of tools operating, about half the number being employed in repair work. The company's well on the eighty-acre tract near the Cal-Okla is the center of considerable interest. The production of the company for this month is expected to register about the same as for April, no particular change in the field situation having occurred.

The effects of the increased activity in the Fullerton field during the past year are more forcibly apparent in the production figures than in anything else. Fullerton field now is producing about 37,500 barrels a day, as compared with 27,500 daily average last year at this time. The increase has amounted to more than 35 per cent., and has been principally due to developments in La Habra and Coyote Hills, supplemented by the bringing in of a few wells in Brea Canyon.

ON HIGH GROUND NORTH OF ADAMS.

WORK PROGRESSING ON FINE RESIDENCE TRACT.

Latest High-Class West-End Subdivision Lies Between Two Magnificent Thoroughfares and Is to Be Made Real Show Place by Its Developers.

Probably the most extensive and important new development work now being carried on in the west side district of Los Angeles is that represented in the plans for the laying out of Wellington Square by a syndicate of owners headed by M. J. Nolan. The property, which lies just south of the Lafayette Square subdivision of the Crenshaw Security, comprises ninety acres extending from Washington boulevard on the north to West Adams street on the south, with a frontage of 2000 feet on each of these thoroughfares. Because the ownership of the two tracts is in part identical, Wellington Square will follow the same general high-class lines as Lafayette Square, its north and south streets being continuous with those of the latter beautiful residence park.

Approximately $120,000 is being expended in the improvement and beautification of Wellington Square. Ten thousand linear feet of asphalt paving are being laid. Palms, cypress and acacia are being planted alternately in the parkings. Plans are now being drawn for what the owners declare will be the finest ornamental stone gateways in the city, as well as for electroliers of special design.

The principal drive will be known as Wellington road and will extend from Washington boulevard to West Adams street, having a width of 145 feet for the whole of its extent. A wide parking will run down the center of this roadway. The other streets, with the exception of Victoria drive, which will be eighty feet in width, will have sixty-foot roadways. Twenty-third street will be the main east and west drive in the tract.

The lots will have a uniform depth of 150 feet and will range in frontage from 60 to 115 feet. The residence restrictions will vary from $3500 to $7500 in different parts of the subdivision, the costliest places being provided for on the West Adams-street frontage and on Wellington road. The improvements are to be in by August 1.

MARKET ALMOST NORMAL AGAIN.

PORTERVILLE DEALERS REPORT GROWING DEMAND.

Large Foothill Ranch Purchased by Business Men—Long Beach Capitalist Buys Alfalfa Tract; Trading in Apartment Property. Other Transactions.

PORTERVILLE, May 30.—While the number of real estate transfers for the past week does not equal that for the same period of last year, there is a distinct tone of optimism in the general realty situation and conditions are rapidly approaching normal. There has been an encouraging activity in all lines and during the past ten days the number of inquiries for property and the number of land seekers have equalled those of the busiest times of last spring.

Quite the largest deal of the week was the sale of the D. A. Vaughn ranch of 2300 acres in the foothills, to Arthur and Chester McFarland, local business men. In addition to the land the purchase includes 120 head of fine steers, farming implements and personal property. The consideration is said to have been in excess of $100,000.

A. D. Hampton of McFarland has bought 120 acres of alfalfa land in the Tipton district from Mrs. H. I. Bettis. The new owner expects to make a model dairy of the place. The consideration was given at $12,000.

One of the large deals of the alfalfa section was the sale of the Kaiser ranch of 460 acres, lying south and west of Lindsay, to William Pierson of Long Beach. The consideration was reported at $100,000. As a part of the purchase price Pierson traded in an apartment-house in the beach city.

Fred Sewanbenlied of Fresno has purchased the Ralph Campbell vineyard of eighty acres in the Alta district for $26,000. The tract includes forty acres of the table varieties of grapes and forty acres in raisin grapes.

One of the large orchard deals of the past month was the sale of the U. G. Hastins orange orchard of thirty acres in the El Mirador foothills to George W. Austin of Oakland for $40,000. Austin also recently acquired a large tract of alfalfa land in the Barstow district.

L. F. Beauchamp of Long Beach has purchased the A. Kerkovean alfalfa ranch of forty acres in the Oakland colony.

Anton Konda, already owner of four business blocks on Main street, this city, has announced the immediate construction of a two-story brick structure on Main at Olive. W. D. Frankum expects to build a two-story brick building to cover half the block at the corner of Hockett and Olive streets. Buildings now under way here include a fireproof garage at Olive and C streets for Anton Konda; a two-story, brick building for V. D. Knupp, Main near Cleveland, and a building for the American Theater Company on Main between Cleveland and Putnam. The new $35,000 I.O.O.F. temple will be ready for occupancy by the lodge within sixty days.

PROBLEMS SOLVED.

Storm Drain, Sewer and Improved Car Service Spell New Era for Large West Side District.

The people in the district between Wilshire boulevard and Pico street, west of Western avenue, are expecting a great forward movement in that part of Los Angeles as the result of the construction of the La Brea storm drain and the Delaware-avenue sewer system. These improvements, it is believed, will result in the speedy upbuilding of all the vacant property in Oxford Square and other holdings of the region.

The recent extension of the Tenth-street car line into the heart of the district has resulted in the development of a great deal of sightly land that until the advent of this service was comparatively isolated. Many homes of the better class are now under construction in the section. The new line runs westward along Tenth street, turning into Oxford Square on Delaware avenue, a palm-lined thoroughfare seventy feet in width.

CELEBRATION POSTPONED.

The free barbecue and carnival which had been projected by Van Nuys and Owensmouth for Saturday, May 30, has been postponed until next Saturday afternoon and evening, June 6. The event will celebrate the completion of over fifty miles of paved highway and the illumination of over thirty-five miles of boulevards in the San Fernando Valley. An elaborate programme of entertainment, beginning at Van Nuys at 2:30 p.m., will be carried out. The barbecue will be given at Owensmouth at 5:30 p.m.

"Ardmore Heights"

Where Nimble Dollars Count

After you have looked at our beautiful addition, you will smile without being urged by the numerous committees which are now being formed.

Two reasons why "Nimble Dollars" count at ARDMORE HEIGHTS. First, the starting of a home that anyone would be proud to live in, both as to location, comfort and a feeling of fast increasing value. Second, if the lot is bought for investment, there is not a place in the city where the "Nimble Dollar" will be as spry and frisky as it will right at this point.

ARDMORE HEIGHTS is located at Normandie and Melrose avenues; Normandie running right through the center of said tract. It is the highest point in the Wilshire district. Take Heliotrope Drive car going south on Broadway and west on Seventh street; get off at Normandie. The car stops in front of our office, on the southeast corner of Melrose and Normandie.

"CHRIST SOON TO COME," SAYS LONDON PREACHER.

G. Campbell Morgan, a Famous London Minister, Believes Satan Is an Evil Person Presiding Over Fallen Angels—Delivered His First Sermon When Thirteen Years Old, Preached to Dolls at the Age of Six.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON, May 16.—A lawyer's lawyer is often to be found in a back office—a grim-jawed man because of the hard nuts brought him by his brethren. A doctor's doctor may never have a large bedside practice, and, dying, leave gain fame or treasure.

There is only one preacher's preacher in the United States and Great Britain, and he is G. Campbell Morgan, of London, Eng. Oddly enough, measuring the cloth by the other professions, he is one of the most popular of living ministers and is as widely known among the people on one side of the Atlantic as on the other.

This great man can fill any church to the doors wherever the English language is spoken. Nor does he preach a word outside the scriptures. He tells no stories; he opens no easy highway to heaven. At Westminster Chapel, in London, his own church, ministers and theological students in large numbers are to be seen taking notes on his sermons.

Last summer 3075 clergymen, even from so far away as California, traveled to Winona, Ind., to hear Dr. Morgan explain the Bible in a series of special meetings. That is his specialty—explaining the Bible. Among his professional colleagues he is called an expositor, or interpreter. All ministers are that to their congregations. But here is a man who is an expositor to preachers. Not a dry and technical dogmatist, sour of countenance, but a man of poetry, pictures and sunlight, and with a mastery of words that is simply marvelous. So he fills churches and halls, and those who stand in the street repeat the choruses of the hymns sung within and patiently wait for an opportunity to see him.

WAS TESTED BY MR. MOODY.

Thus it was in Washington only recently and thus it has been for a long time in American and British cities. Eighteen years ago, Dr. Morgan was "put up" to employ a description of his own, to preach a morning sermon at Northfield. Dwight L. Moody was on the platform. Indeed it was Mr. Moody who had ordered the strange young Englishman to the firing line. Maybe it was a makeshift or, possibly, it was a test. Mr. Morgan (he was not a doctor of divinity then,) preached and immediately departed for Chicago.

"And Moody hearing you then," I said to him, "declared you to be the greatest preacher in the world."

"All of which, in my opinion, is nonsense," Dr. Morgan answered with some trace of impatience. "I do not believe Mr. Moody ever made such a statement."

Anyway Mr. Morgan returned to this country the year following and went straight to Northfield. He preached at Northfield, moreover, every summer until the death of Mr. Moody and thus became known to American audiences. In all, he has visited the United States twenty-two times. A London newspaper not long ago humorously referred to him as one of the three American ministers occupying prominent English pulpits.

Dressed in a cowled robe, a belt and a pair of sandals, Dr. Morgan could pass himself for a monk, even in Spain or Italy. In fact he strikingly resembles the portrait of Savonrola, the Dominican friar, which was painted by Bartholomeo and still hangs in the gallery of St. Marks in Venice. Tall, six feet exactly, with his shoes off, he is as thin and angular as was Henry Irving, the actor. From a distance, because of his white hair, worn in a shock over his forehead, he looks older than fifty, which is his age as recorded in the birth register of Tetbury, Gloucestershire. His brown eyes shade off into gray. A high, aquiline nose, a large mouth and a big chin, give his long, narrow face strength and uncommonness. There is much grace in his many gestures and in his movements across the platform.

PREACHING WITHOUT NOTES.

Whether he preaches thirty minutes or an hour, Dr. Morgan frequently stands up to his work with neither notes nor documents. "I often go into the pulpit," he told me, "without phrasing the sentence with which I mean to begin. There are times when even the substance of the sentence only comes to me when I arise to speak. At most, I never have more than a bare outline on one or more sheets of paper."

And yet the literary quality of his sermons, all other things aside, stamps him as a man of genius. There is perfect workmanship in every paragraph, long or short, and there are flashes of epigrammatic truth which almost compel the pews to stamp their feet and cheer when they hear them. I spoke enthusiastically of his amazing readiness, his superb craftsmanship and his great eloquence.

"I have been preaching steadily," he replied, ignoring my praise, "for thirty-three years."

Doubtless, he meant to say that an experienced man ought to be a master of his business. Still his answer was no answer at all. He did not explain that he has toiled day and night for many years; that he learned outside of a university and a theological school to read the New Testament in Greek; that he has given his whole life to the study of the scriptures to the exclusion, practically, of everything else, and that he never attempts to preach without a most exacting preparation for the effort. Furthermore, he would declare, were one to take up the matter, that he is not a preacher at all, but a teacher.

It was among the Cotswold Hills of Western England that this extraordinary man was born. But he was taken away from Tetbury, the village where his parents had lived, when an infant and never returned until twelve years ago, when he went there to deliver a sermon. His father was a minister, he told me.

"But the statement," he added, "requires some explanation. George Morgan, my father, was a Calvinistic Baptist—a hardshell Baptist, he would have been called in America—and a great and stern character, but with the heart of a woman. He might scold me savagely for a minor error, but if the mistake was grave he would treat me with the utmost tenderness.

MONEY SCHEME THAT FAILED.

"Well, he came to a point in his studies and his understanding of the New Testament when he thought it wrong to accept a stated sum for his services. 'Carry neither purse nor script,' Christ said to His seventy disciples, as set forth in Luke, tenth chapter and fourth verse. The decision of my father in this matter did not make the world any easier for himself or the rest of us."

There were two children in the family of the Rev. George Morgan, a son and a daughter. The father continued to preach, but did not make a living, and was driven into a commercial undertaking. There were days of uncertainty and scant contributions. The sympathy of the son was thus, even in his boyhood, given to those who feel the discomforts and humiliations of poverty.

Long years afterward two men, one in front of the other, had pews in his church. The one had an income of $50,000 a year and gave $10 every Sunday to the Lord. The other, a mechanic, earned $4.50 a week. His contribution each Sunday was 25 cents. "You have no right," Dr. Morgan told him, "to give so much, having a wife and five bairns to support. God does not ask it."

With respect to supporting the church, Dr. Morgan says: "A tithe or a tenth, is all right if it is something you feel. If it is something that puts you in danger of being dishonest (beating the grocer, for example,) it is wrong, and if it is out of harmony with your own success in life, it is absolutely wrong. Yet all that a man has actually belongs to God, every penny of it."

"I remember nothing of the early wanderings of our family," Dr. Morgan said to me while speaking of his childhood. "We lived in many places, and in some only a few months at a time. From England we crossed the border of Wales, going first to Swansea and then to Cardiff. My earliest recollections, as my mind turns back, are of Thomas Jones, the Congregational minister in the latter town. He was known throughout England and Wales as the poet-preacher. Though I was but 6 years old, he made a lasting impression on my mind.

SERMONIZED AT SISTER'S DOLLS.

"I was born into a Christian home, and at some moment and at some place, I am sure I accepted, volitionally, the truth, but I cannot fix the day. Consequently, there are no anniversaries for me in celebration of a new birth. I cannot tell even roughly when I became a Christian, nor do I remember a time when I didn't mean to enter the ministry.

"At 6 I was preaching to my sister's dolls. At 13 I delivered my first sermon. It was in a hall and my father arranged the service. Since the age of 17 I have been preaching steadily.

"We returned to England when I was 10 years old and took up our home at Cheltenham. There I entered Douglas School, the principal of which was Mr. Butler. I have sons at that school now, and, fortunately, they are under the same Mr. Butler.

"I was a frail lad in those days and I was small. I grew two and a half inches after the age of 21. Altogether, I remained at Douglas School for seven years, teaching the last two years and thus paying my own bills. I intended to be a minister, but my father was poor and the way was obscure. Teaching, I thought, might provide me with money for a course at the university. I went to Birmingham, accordingly, and began preparing for a teacher's place in the government schools.

"But I was not physically strong, as I have said, and by the end of a year I realized I had made a mistake. Besides, my parents needed my help. My sister had died when I was only 8, and that was the first great grief of my life. I cannot speak of it now without a keen sense of loss. I was now 17 and obligations were pressing upon me, and the road ahead seemed very dark.

"The Jewish Collegiate School at Birmingham was kept by Edward Lawrence Levy, who was a fine man and in his day a famous athlete. He needed a teacher and I went to him, becoming in a short time the headmaster of his establishment. I put by some money for my course at Cambridge, and then a critical situation overtook my family and I gave my savings to my parents. The days, it appeared to me, were growing blacker and blacker with the ministry vanishing far away in the distance before me.

A CRISIS IN HIS LIFE.

"I remained four years with Mr. Levy, preaching regularly, and, although he was an orthodox Jew, he sympathized with my enthusiasm and my ambition. One day the expected crisis came into my life. As I thought my case over I cried out, in the privacy of my room: 'I cannot afford to cut loose. I must earn money for my parents. If I am to preach, God must show me the way. I leave it all to Him.'

"The next morning I went to my classes as usual. Mr. Levy met me in the hall and said: 'I want to see you when school closes.' He wished to tell me, I soon learned, that the King Edward VI schools in Birmingham were knocking the supports from under all private schools and that expenses would have to be reduced. My work was entirely satisfactory to him, but I was advised to seek another appointment.

"'In your notice,' I told Mr. Levy, 'I see the hand of God. I'll quit at the end of the term. Hereafter I will preach and not teach.'

"Yet serious difficulties arose in carrying out my plan. I had no influential acquaintances. No college was behind me. We had moved so often that we had never formed relations with any particular church or denomination. I was utterly alone, except for Mr. Levy, who was my friend, but a Jew, and without influence among Christians.

"Straightway I sat down and wrote a letter, which I had printed in the form of a circular. I announced that it was my purpose to preach and do nothing else and offered my services as a supply and at special meetings. I would expect a home, my traveling expenses and as much money as God laid it upon the hearts of the people to give. I thought of sending out a hundred circulars. I sent only a dozen, however, for that, I found, was the total number of my acquaintances.

HIS PATHETIC FIRST SERMON.

"The first answer was from a man who asked me to come to his village and preach on Sunday and each day for a week. I went and preached twice every day. At the close of the week, this man gave me a sealed envelope. I tore it open in my room and found $2.50. My train fare to and from the town amounted to $1.25. But I kept on preaching. The Wesleyan Church, which I had by this time joined, refused to accept me as a minister because I wanted a pastorate at once. Then I was called to Hull for a short period. I stayed there thirteen months, working principally, with down and outers, as one would say in America. I saw the most wretched of people die and live. It was a year of sad and hard labor, but it was a year of much profit to myself.

G. Campbell Morgan,

The famous English preacher, who believes that he finds evidence in the Bible to show that Christ is coming soon.

"A Congregational Church, at Stone, in Staffordshire, offered me its pastorate. And that is the way in which I became a Congregationalist. I had preached among many denominations. I do not know what you will think about it, but to me the purpose of God is to be seen in all my comings and goings. I was being prepared, it seems to me, for the work I was later to undertake in Great Britain and the United States. I am at home now in any church and every denomination.

"I studied very hard at Stone and gave up that pastorate for a smaller one not far away so that I might have more time for work and reflection. I was now a married man and my financial burdens were heavier than ever before, but I realized that I needed preparation for the labor I hoped to take up in the future. I pass over these battling years. At the age of 34 I was called to the pastorate of New Court Church in London.

WHAT HE SAYS ABOUT FRIENDS.

"We talk loosely of friends. Once the word friend had real meaning. Now it includes all of one's acquaintances. Let any man go over the list of his friends. He will not require a long sheet of paper on which to write them down. Perhaps the fingers of his two hands will be sufficient with which to count them. 'A friend loveth at all times'—when one is foolish and when one is wise.

"I had a friend in Albert Swift. He came to New York to be assistant pastor at Calvary Church. By and by he persuaded me to take a vacation in America. I had never enjoyed a long holiday in all my life. When I arrived in this country Albert Swift arranged a preaching tour in my interest. So I met Mr. Moody. I have been coming to the United States ever since. In 1904, I became pastor of Westminster Chapel."

"You fill your London church twice every Sunday and on Friday evenings," I said. "What is your advice to the ministers whose pews are never crowded?"

"It is displeasing to talk about one's self. Let me eliminate, therefore, my personality from the answer I give. Men and women, too, need bucking up on Sunday for the problems of the week ahead. In that, as I see it, will be found the power and wisdom of preaching. We need more than anything else today that our preachers shall be messengers of God. Malachi, the prophet, said to the priests: 'Ye have caused many to stumble at the law.' The priests, you see, away back there, had failed to give the people the right conception of the law. There are many types of preachers, but all types can fill their churches if they will tell the people how to meet the questions of life one by one."

"Has higher criticism shaken the faith of the world in the Bible?" I asked.

"Shaken is a well-selected word," Dr. Morgan replied. "No criticism, high or low, has impaired the faith of mankind in the Bible, and only among the young has faith been really shaken. Personally, although I believe in the absolute divine authority of the Scriptures, I welcome scholarly and reverent criticism, but much of the criticism we hear is neither the one nor the other. Learned men once said that Moses could not have written the Pentateuch because no one knew how to write in those days.

PROVED THE CRITICS WRONG.

"Since this opinion was given to the world archaeologists have dug up a great mass of evidence showing that men did know how to write in the age of Moses. Scholarship alone will not do. Critics must also be possessed of understanding and common sense. 'Vanity of vanity all is vanity,' we read in Ecclesiastes. That is a bald statement, standing by itself and interpreted literally. We know that there is much in this world besides vanity and we must remember, too, that those words were the words of a man living away from God."

"Is the world getting better or worse?"

"I will answer you in a paradox by saying that it is becoming better and that it is becoming worse. There is more kindness and there is a larger faith and at the same time there is more sin. And let me add that sin is more masterful, more artful, more persuasive than ever before. We know the truth of God as no age has ever known it, and yet there never was a time when men, knowing and living under its blessings, were less obedient to it than now. And this leads me to believe, along with other signs pointed out in the Bible, that the dawn of God's next great day is very near. The next thing is the second advent of Christ."

"Do you believe in a personal devil?"

"I absolutely do. I believe in a spirit or angelic world. I believe there are fallen angels, and that over the fallen angels is a chief, and that the chief is Satan. I am glad to so believe—otherwise, I should be compelled to think the sin of man, often terrible, is innately characteristic of himself."

BUILDERS TAKE OLD GOLF LINKS.

FORMER COUNTRY CLUB SITE SCENE OF ACTIVITY.

Scores of Fine Houses Standing in Beautiful Mesa Tract Formerly Given Over to Sport—Others Under Way or Planned for Early Construction.

When the Los Angeles Country Club established its links at the northwest corner of Pico street and Western avenue about fifteen years ago there were those among its members who firmly believed that that location, if not actually permanent, at least would be good for fifty years to come. The site, in fact, had been carefully selected with the idea of permanency in view. The club grounds had already been swallowed up in residential development at three other places—first at Pico and Alvarado, then at Burlington and Sixteenth and then at Pico and Westmoreland.

Within a few years after the big westward leap, however, Pico and Western was a center of development that reached in every direction and which was gradually surrounding the club links. The pastoral atmosphere had vanished. Caddies were retrieving balls from people's front yards. Today at Beverly Hills the club folk are again enjoying a breathing spell.

The club members had no sooner made up their minds to move again than a syndicate was on hand to buy the 220 acres that they had been using. Incorporating under the name of "Country Club Park," the purchasers immediately set about to develop fifty acres of the property lying along Eighth and San Marino streets. The club was ready by 1910 to make its greatest hegira and at once the new Country Club Park tract, extending from Western avenue on the east to Fifth avenue on the west, and from Pico on the south to Eighth street on the north, was a scene of tremendous activity.

Approximately $500,000 has been spent in the improvements in the tract, while the sales of lots to date are reported to have exceeded $575,000. The owners of the subdivision estimate the value of the houses built and contracted for since the Country Club moved to Beverly at more than $1,000,000. Of this amount approximately $210,000 is represented by houses now under construction and close to $50,000 by places soon to be started by recent purchasers of lots.

The lots in Country Club Park range in size from 50x140 feet to 70x180 feet, most being of sixty feet frontage. All the utilities are in. The streets are improved with asphalt under city specifications. The houses range in cost from $3500 to $20,000 and over. The tract is one of the largest restricted properties in Los Angeles.

The residences now under construction in the subdivision include attractive houses for Fric Lund on Van Ness avenue; for Walter M. Brunswig, on Wilton near Tenth; for Frank F. Hartigan, on Gramercy near Tenth; for Frank B. Moiso, at Tenth and Gramercy; for J. W. Reed, on Manhattan place north of Pico; for Lyman R. McFie, at Arlington and Twelfth; for W. J. Wisler, at Westchester and Tenth, and for Ellis Brockow, on Wilton near San Marino. Frank F. Hartigan has just completed six houses on Gramercy, and the Cooper-Pyle-Clopine Company recently finished four dwellings in the tract. The latter company is about to start two other places on Manhattan place.

TO WORK FOR BILL.

To prosecute the work of securing Federal support for reclamation work in Victor Valley, the Victor Valley Chamber of Commerce has appointed a special reclamation committee, which is now established at No. 506 Chamber of Commerce building, Los Angeles. The fact that Congressman Kettner has introduced a bill appropriating $15,000 for a preliminary survey of the water resources of the Victor Valley country has made it imperative, according to the members of this committee, to undertake an active and persistent campaign to push the bill through Congress.

MOTOR LINE IS BUILDING.

To Serve Large Ore District Near Bisbee.

Calumet and Arizona Starts Construction.

Large Porphyry Section Is Coming to Front.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE, May 29.—Calumet and Arizona forces have started the construction of the new electric hauling line which is to connect from the Briggs motor line to the Hoatson shaft ore area. The motor line will serve to carry Hoatson ores to the Briggs line and to the Junction shaft for output to the surface. It is probable that this new line will be ready to enter service late in May, 1915, although over a year may be required for the work.

Hoatson has developed a great deal of sulphide ore in the last year. From 1907 until a year ago, this mine had practically nothing but oxides, and little else was expected. At present, however, it is said that there are probably more sulphides ready for mining than oxides. The sulphides run well in copper and with the new smelter at Douglas are very desirable.

CONCENTRATOR.

The Copper Queen's new concentrator is going up rapidly next to the Sacramento shaft, through which is to be made all deliveries of low-grade ores which will be handled by the mill. The latter is largely a test plant. It represents but the first unit of the concentrator which will be put up later.

The low-grade ore which has been developed in the district to sufficient extent to warrant the mill construction, has all been secured in the last year. The porphyry of the camp, long held worthless, is proving of as high, if not higher value than that of most of the recognized porphyry camps from which dividends are being paid in this State, Utah, Nevada and New Mexico.

How much of this low grade there is above the 100 levels, where the work has been confined, is yet to be determined. It is known that a considerable area of low grade is found to reach within a few feet of the surface from the 100 level. In Sacramento hill the churn drills are known to be finding ore down to the canyon level, with the overburden said to be surprisingly thin from the surface. This hill may make a steam-shovel proposition.

The Wolverine Mining Company and Higgins Leasing Company this week started using oil as fuel and will hereafter help consume the California output. Wolverine has enlarged its development area and is meeting with very satisfactory results. The increased output of ore is also being maintained. With oil as fuel it is intended to raise the number of drills operated by power.

Mining men, operators and seekers of investment are in the city at the present time from Sonora and other Northern Mexico States in larger number than ever before. Most of them admit frankly that while they consider that Northern Mexico mining country at this time offers more bargain-counter opportunities than ever in the past the time is, nevertheless, not propitious for the conduct of actual operations nor for the investment of money by others than those who can afford to wait.

NEW VERMONT SQUARE.

Sales of houses in New Vermont Square are reported as follows: Seven-room bungalow, No. 1838 West Forty-third street, for John F. Minter to J. William Howard, $3900, through the agency of H. S. Morrison; six-room bungalow, No. 4174 Van Ness avenue, to J. E. Howard, $3450, through the agency of Lanning & Rogers; H. T. Lucas to G. R. Bolman, seven-room chalet, No. 1748 West Forty-second place, $4250, through Robert Marsh & Co., and R. A. Wilcox to H. W. Wrenn, seven-room chalet, No. 1845 West Forty-first drive, $4600, Jackson & McDowell representing both the buyer and seller.

ADDING TO BATH-HOUSE.

BALBOA, May 30.—Extensive improvements will be made at once on the bath-house and pavilion, at this place, in anticipation of a lively season. Sixty new bathrooms will be added to the present equipment. The dance hall in the second story will be enlarged, and other improvements made at a total cost of about $5000. Final action has been taken by the Trustees of Newport Beach for the improvement of seven streets in Balboa, and the work has been begun.

CIGAR FIRM MOVES.

The Max Roth Cigar Company, wholesale jobbers of cigars, tobacco and cigarettes, has just closed a lease through the leasing department of the W. Ross Campbell Company for the entire ground floor and basement of the Chapman building at Nos. 546-48 South Los Angeles street, for a term of five years. The building is a six-story reinforced concrete fireproof loft structure, and was only recently completed. The cigar company has outgrown its present quarters on West Sixth street, where it has been located for a number of years. The Fowler Company assisted in putting the deal through.

WALNUT PARK.

Kleinberger & Edwards, subdividers of Walnut Park, report the following sales in that tract: Maud L. Peck, lot on Santa Ana street, $675; H. L. Rome, two lots on California street, $2050; Miles Mickell, lot on Live Oak street, $775; Ruby Newby, lot on Grand avenue, $1000; J. S. Raymond, lot on Live Oak street, $850, and L. B. Woodall, lot on California street, $1000.

VISIT FACTORY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 30.—The Trustees of Huntington Beach, accompanied by W. T. Newlands, president of the First National Bank of Huntington Beach, and J. A. Armitage, secretary of the South Coast Improvement Association, paid a visit yesterday to the Brannigan glass factory at West Newport. The visitors made a thorough inspection of the plant. Huntington Beach is perfecting its arrangements for the celebration of the formal opening of the new municipal pier on June 20 and 21. Dr. A. L. Smith of Monrovia, has just purchased ten acres of mesa land close to the city limits and will plant the tract to Avocado pears.

A MOST HUMAN SNAKE.

The Rattler Finds a Friend Who Studies His Nature and Treatment by Various Animals.

[Springfield Republican:] The American rattlesnake is really one of the most human of living creatures, says Prof. Manley, an English naturalist of wide repute. He is a sociable, amiable enemy. But he is also extremely conceited. He knows that he possesses a death-dealing power and is consequently of the opinion that because of this he should be considered the terror of the wilderness. Other animals understand perfectly how he regards himself, the "bad man" of the region, and they recognize his terrible power. For this reason they have had to study his limitations, which he in his egotism is blind to.

The rattlesnake gets irascible on occasions, Prof. Manley goes on to say. He becomes most cross when his vanity has been wounded. But he rarely bites a human being except when he is of the opinion that his own personal safety requires it. Neither does he go out hunting trouble. His social instincts lead him to seek the same comfort with which men surround themselves, and if men would only leave him alone he would not object to their company at all.

Ih he enters a room he immediately seeks a retreat under a stove or a bed or a dresser, and sometimes will work his way laboriously into the very walls of the house and emerge through the ceiling paper, or again will crawl between blankets or under mattresses, not dreaming of the commotion his discovery would cause.

Dogs are perhaps the most dangerous enemy the haughty rattler has to face. Together with hogs they are the only species of animal that are almost entirely immune to the venom of the rattler. Oftentimes a shepherd dog will come out badly bitten and used up from his first encounter with a rattler and have to be taken care of for days by his master. Afterward, though, he becomes wiser, and in due time develops into an adept at the art of killing his enemy.

The cat is by far the cleverest of all at playing with the rattler and outwitting him at his own game. He seems to be aware, too, that puss is making fun of him, and she, therefore, succeeds in working him up into a terrible rage. She has no trouble at all in inducing the snake to coil, and then she cautiously stretches out a forepaw in his direction. He becomes furious and strikes, but her paw is not there, for of the two the cat is infinitely the quicker.

Coyotes are much the same in their dealings with their common enemy, playing on the weaknesses of the snake for their own pleasure for long lengths of time. Horses are not nearly so clever or wise in their dealings. Of course, one reared on the range will avoid a rattler as a mule avoids work, and at the dread sound of the rattles will leap and shy. Eastern horses taken West do not know so much at first, though they speedily learn.

There seems apparently no uniformity in the rattling. If the snake is in a bad humor he will rattle even when there is no sign of an enemy about. Usually, however, he will not rattle unless he is greatly concerned.

CYCLECAR EXHIBITION.

Denver has been chosen as the rendezous for all the cyclecar forces on July 4 and 5, when the Cyclecar Exhibition Association, a New York City organization, will hold the world's first international cyclecar exhibition and race meet at the State Fair Grounds, and on the dirt track. It is planned to utilize three of the exhibition buildings for the showing of cyclecars, etc. The main building will be utilized for the exhibition of typical cyclecars, one of the adjacent buildings for the small cars, light cars and motorette show, and the third building in the group for the exhibition of commercial cyclecars and accessories.

Big Factor.

VAST EXTENT OF OIL PIPE LINES.

Over One Hundred Millions Invested in Them.

Nearly Sixty Thousand Miles Total Length.

Standard Owns Largest Part of System.

Recent estimates go to show that over $100,000,000 is invested in pipe lines, used for the purpose of transporting oil, in the United States. This division of the business has grown to be one of the most important and most extensive.

"Few people realize the magnitude and importance of the petroleum pipe lines of the United States," says the Wall Street Journal in a recent special article. This branch of the business has been one of the greatest factors in the development of the industry.

"It was in 1865 that the first successful pipe line, four miles in length, was built in Pennsylvania. The transportation of crude oil by pipe line since that date has made possible the present remarkably economic and rapid handling of petroleum.

"Since the building of the first small line, a period of less than fifty years, there has been constructed throughout the United States a network of oil pipes. These lines are scattered over every oil producing field and extend to practically every refinery in the country.

"Oil pipe lines range from two to twelve inches in diameter. Small lines running from two inches up, known as gathering lines, are used for the gathering of oil from the wells, while the large lines, running as high as twelve inches, are used as trunk lines.

"The cost of a pipe line ranges anywhere from $500 to $10,000 per mile. These figures are the two extremes. The average cost of a big twelve-inch line is considerably below the high figure given, while that of the smaller lines is somewhat higher than $500, the location and other conditions affecting the cost.

"While no figures are available as to the exact mileage of all the pipe lines, one of the best informed pipe line men in the United States estimates roughly the total mileage at from 55,000 to 60,000 miles.

"Of this total it is estimated that upward of 40,000 miles are owned by former Standard Oil companies, and something like 15,000 miles by 'independents.'

"The total pipe line mileage of the United States compares with 12,935 miles of railroad owned by the New York Central, the biggest system in the country. The total railroad mileage of the United States is placed roughly at 250,000 miles.

"Throughout the oil fields east of the Rocky Mountains, there is an interlocking system of lines supplying the various refineries in the Central West, mid-continent, gulf coast and Atlantic seaboard territories. On the other side of the Rockies, in California, is another chain of pipe lines.

"An idea of the widespread sphere of the pipe lines is given by an instance of the length of one system. The pipe lines included in this system, while joined together, are operated by several companies, but all controlled by Standard Oil and its former subsidiaries. Starting from around Tulsa, Okla., a trunk line runs southeast to the Standard Oil of Louisiana refinery at Baton Rouge, a distance of about 500 miles. Part of this line is operated by the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, part by Oklahoma Pipe Line Company and part by Standard Oil of Louisiana. Extending in a northeasterly direction from Tulsa, Okla., a line of the Prairie runs to Griffith, Ind., a distance of about 700 miles. From Griffith the system extends eastward to the Atlantic seaboard, a distance of over 800 miles. This system, stretching out from Baton Rouge to the Atlantic seaboard, covers about 2000 miles. It is not unusual for crude oil to be transported from the Oklahoma region to the seaboard refineries, traveling something like 1500 or 1600 miles."

FOR MUTUAL BENEFIT.

Purchasers in the North Whittier Heights citrus and walnut land subdivision held a meeting at the tract office of the property during the week and organized the North Whittier Heights Improvement Association. A board of directors and several committees were elected to look after all matters that affect the district generally. Committees on Transportation, Horticulture, Schools and one to make preliminary plans for citrus, walnut and vegetable packing-houses and a cannery were put to work in their respective fields, as were also committees on water runs and one to look after the harmonious planting of ornamental trees in the parkways throughout the property. The owners of the property have already planted this year some 150 acres of budded walnuts, and are now planting a large portion to orange and lemon trees. There are also about 150 acres of the subdivision which are now being planted to orange, lemon and avocado trees by purchasers, and 400 acres of beans and about fifty acres of tomatoes have been planted out by leasers.

COSTLIEST IN CITY.

New Baptist Church in Santa Ana One of Handsomest Houses of Worship in Southland.

SANTA ANA, May 30.—This week the finishing touches are being put upon Santa Ana's newest church edifice, built by the congregation of the First Baptist Church. The dedication is to occur on Sunday, May 31.

In cost, no other church in this city, which is known as a city of churches, is the equal of the handsome new Baptist edifice, which is located at the corner of Church and Main streets. With lot and building an investment of $62,500 is represented.

The new building is of classic architecture. F. H. Eley of Santa Ana is the architect.

The auditorium is fifty-two feet square, with a seating capacity for 496 persons. With Sunday-school rooms and other rooms opened up the church has a capacity of 1000, all within easy sight and hearing of the pulpit.

ADD TO HOLDINGS.

Founders of Seal Beach Acquire Twenty Acres at Anaheim Landing. Will Subdivide Tract.

SEAL BEACH, May 30.—The Bayside Land Company, founder of Bay City (now Seal Beach,) has purchased twenty acres of land adjoining Anaheim Landing. The tract will be subdivided and improved at once, and placed on the market by the Guy M. Rush Company.

Contracts for the cement work in the tract have been let, the total expenditure being said to amount to $15,000. New bowling alleys have just been installed in the Seal Beach Pavilion. It is estimated that fifty houses have already been built, or are under construction, in Seal Beach this season.

BETWEEN HIGHWAYS.

New Tract to West of City Prepared to Take Advantage of all Future Seaward Growth.

Lying between Washington boulevard and West Adams street, the former already a traveled city-to-sea thoroughfare, and the latter marked for similar development, the West Adams and Washington Boulevard tract of the firm of Kleinberger-Edwards, subdividers, is one of the noteworthy subdivisions that have sprung into existence as the inevitable result of the city's westward movement.

The property, which is bounded on the east by Twenty-seventh avenue and on the west by Thirty-fifth avenue, lies just outside the limits of the present-day development of the west side. Its owners annouсe that plans are now shaping for extensive building operations in the property.

TO OWN BUILDING.

W. J. Pearson, who recently purchased the Exchange building, at Third and Hill streets, is moving the offices of W. J. Pearson & Co., and the German-American Mortgage Company, of which he is general manager, to that structure, from the Hollingsworth building. The Pearson offices will occupy more than one-half of the third floor of the building, and this area has been remodeled and refurnished to make one of the finest real estate and financial suites in Los Angeles. The fittings throughout are in mahogany and brass, with attractive leather and tapestry effects. Since the Exchange building changed hands, it announced, new leases have been signed by practically every tenant in the property. The increased demand for offices is such that Pearson expects later to add two stories to the structure.

SIERRA PARK.

Sales in Sierra Park, half-way between Los Angeles and Pasadena, are reported as follows by the Janss Investment Company: Phillip J. Keenan, lot, $800; Myrtle J. Van Housen, lot, $750; E. M. Spaulding, lot, $825; Fannie M. Goodwin, lot, $800; L. J. Kopper, lot, $1300, and G. L. Gregson, lot, $575. Improvements made in the district between Pasadena and Los Angeles, especially along the "short-line" electric road that links these two communities, have, it is said, been effective since the first of the year in drawing many new property buyers in that general direction.

Conspicuous.

BETWEEN TWO MAIN HIGHWAYS.

New West-End Residence Park Ideally Situated.

La Fayette Square One of City's Beauty Spots.

Recent Buyers in Tract Plan Handsome Homes.

Of the many attractive and high-class residence subdivisions that have been developed in that portion of the west side district of Los Angeles lying between Wilshire boulevard and West Adams street, La Fayette Square is one of the most noteworthy. The tract, which is only a little over a year old, comprises eighty acres and was formerly a portion of the historic old Nadeau Vineyard Rancho, having been the last parcel of that [illegible] property to be opened for residence purposes. The Crenshaw [illegible] Company in buying the land several years ago did so with the specific purpose of holding it until the time was ripe for the transformation of the whole acreage into a metropolitan residence park. The wisdom of this policy is evidenced in the [illegible] worth of beautiful homes that have already sprung up in the tract during the brief period of its existence.

La Fayette Square is already one of the beauty spots of Los Angeles. Its general improvements alone are declared by the owners to have cost in excess of $125,000. The approaches from the outside are marked by the handsome gateways of granite carried out in a refined ballustrade of the Parisian type. The lighting system is one of the finest ever installed in a Los Angeles tract, comprising 100 ornamental electroliers, each with a cluster of five lamps. The driveways are paved with asphalt and are lined with wide parkings. An extensive planting scheme has been carried out.

The crowning and central feature of the square is St. Charles Place, a drive planned after the [illegible] Pasear surrounding the [illegible] Municipal at Rio de Janeiro, [illegible]. In the center of this broad [illegible] roadway is a series of park plots set with tropical palms. Bordering the walks at either side are rows of granite posts with light clusters.

The tract occupies high ground and overlooks the whole of the habitable west side. Lying along the west side of Crenshaw boulevard, it is bounded on the north by West Sixteenth street and the right of way of the Venice Short Line, and on the south by Washington boulevard, a main artery of travel between the city and the sea.

South of Washington, [illegible] Square, comprising ninety acres, is being laid out along similar lines, the north and south streets of one being continuous with those of the other. In combination the two subdivisions will constitute an [illegible] residence development of the [illegible] character along Crenshaw boulevard from Sixteenth street to West Adams. Restrictions having a life of fifty years insure the permanency of the development along the lines laid out.

The minimum value of the houses permitted in La Fayette Square varies from $6000 to $15,000, the cost being governed by the location in the tract. The houses thus far erected, it is said, have greatly exceeded the requirements in most instances. The lots range in frontage from [illegible] to 100 feet.

Among recent purchasers in La Fayette Square are T. J. Grier, general manager of the Home [illegible] Mine at Lead, S. D., who not long ago bought a mission residence at the corner of St. Charles place and Buckingham road; Chalmers Kellar, an attorney of the same place, who bought a large building site and who is now having plans drawn for a handsome home; F. B. Clarke, Jr., vice-president of the Lucey Oil Well Supply Company of New York City, who bought 120 feet on Buckingham road and who expects to build this summer; William Wright, formerly of Winnepeg, Can., who bought a [illegible] room villa at No. 40 Virginia road, and Joseph H. Smalles, president of the Atlas Building Company, who expects to build a large colonial home on Wellington road.

INGLEWOOD ACRES.

With the sale last Sunday of [illegible] half-acres in the eighty-acre subdivision added to Inglewood Acres, a [illegible] sales record of 114 out of the [illegible] of 160 half-acre homesites in the property is reported by the James H. Wagner Company.

FINE HOME SOLD.

RIVERSIDE, May 30.—The Martin Chase home, located at the [illegible] of Victoria avenue and famed as one of the show places of the valley, has been sold for $30,000 cash to Mrs. [illegible] C. Arnold, wife of a prominent Chicago attorney. The deed passed [illegible] the National Orange Company, of which Ethan A. Chase is president. The residence has not been occupied since the death of Martin Chase a year ago.

Life and development at the Hub of the Imperial Valley.

There is a big human hive of life and industry in the southern part of Imperial Valley—a phenomenal town, the truth being much stranger than any fiction. This of El Centro—the newest city of Imperial Valley and the county seat.

She is an infant of America's Nile valley country, boasting an unprecedented maturity at seven years of age. El Centro is the home of 6000 industrious and therefore prosperous people, for industry is inevitably recompensed in the Imperial Eden.

In evidence of this the soil-tillers, merchants and manufacturers have now to their credit in the three banks of El Centro a total of $1,200,000, which is almost twice as much as their resources but one year ago.

BUILDING FAST.

As fast as carpenters can nail studding together, the framework of houses are springing up like mushrooms over night. Little by little the long spacious views of the pretty desert country, which used to be had from many places in the town, are becoming scarce because of structure after structure arising on unoccupied land to cut them off.

Already in the business section there are two long city blocks where continuous brick and stone structures form an unbroken skyline and out in every direction new business blocks are rising upward just as fast as the owners dare to raise them.

Fraternal temples, church edifices, public schools, store buildings and homes linked closely together leave no room—not even for the suggestion that seven years ago some desert lands were farmed where El Centro now stands.

It is positively unbelievable. It [illegible] fiction.

Since the first of January, 1914, the people of El Centro have expended the sum of $800,000 for new buildings and municipal improvements in the town. This juvenile municipality has led her sister cities of the Southland a merry chase this year for first place on the list of fastest growing

NEW RAILROADS.

Although El Centro already has splendid arteries of communication with the outside world, her greater future is assured by two new railroads which are to be soon built through Imperial Valley.

El Centro lies on the Southern Pacific Railroad a distance of 218 miles east of Los Angeles. This road affords both local and transcontinental freight and passenger service.

Running across the valley at right angles to the Southern Pacific is the Holton Interurban Railroad connecting El Centro with several towns which the Southern Pacific does not reach. This is a local road and all freight consigned to points outside the valley which the Holton Interurban handles has to be transferred to the Southern Pacific at El Centro.

The San Diego and Arizona is now under construction, being built by John D. Spreckles of San Diego. This road will open up a very expansive new territory tributary to El Centro and give the town direct communication with the city of San Diego, the Pacific Ocean and the State of Arizona.

Added to this encouraging stimulus to commercial interests comes the announcement that a $65,000,000 company is to incorporate for the purpose of building a railroad from Grand Junction, Colo., to San Diego. The company will be known as the Southwestern Pacific. The line will be 1150 miles in length, bringing El Centro 400 miles closer to Denver, opening up the Colorado River basin with its rich iron coal and timber resources. The consummation of this road will make available a bounteous stock of raw material for a wide variety of manufacturing enterprises at El Centro.

To these prospective railroad enterprises must be added a remarkable interest being taken in the valley by the Santa Fe Company. Officials of the Santa Fe have been surprising the local people with repeated visits, recently. These men have been studying conditions very critically, but their exact purpose has not yet been disclosed.

IMMENSE FUTURE.

There is no prophet who can see far enough in advance to even venture a prediction as to what this land will be in the next ten years. Thirteen years ago no man was bold enough, who had looked upon the lifeless expanse of the Colorado desert, to assert that Imperial Valley should have an assessed valuation of approximately $17,000,000 in 1914. Yet, this is the extent of the development which has taken place.

Again, this wonderful development has been accomplished not throughout the entire valley, but only on a fraction of it—perhaps less than one-half of the virtuous lands possible to be reclaimed in the big Imperial basin.

In the vast area of new lands; in the intensifying of crudely developed farms; by the culture of rare fruits which will not grow elsewhere; in a hundred manufacturing enterprises; lies a compression of opportunities.

Today there are 200 miles of roadways in the valley; there are two railroads; there are towns affording all living conveniences; the country is populated with 50,000 people who know and understand it and who can give the newcomer advice which will save him unnecessary experiments. There are luxuries which the early pioneers did not have.

While the hardships of developing the country are being steadily decreased the remuneration for thrift and industry has most steadily increased. The agricultural products of the valley are now known in the leading markets, where their superior quality, their exceptionally early arrival and their rarity command the best prices. As the agricultural output has grown, the facilities for marketing have increased, and a greater efficiency of transportation has been another source of gain to the farmers. In the towns, competition in retail businesses has effected a uniform reduction in the price of commodities; and as the merchants are buying in greater quantities to meet the increasing needs of the population another saving is realized to the advantage of all.

IMPERIAL IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

One of the most important of the recent advantages to be gained by the people of the entire valley was the organization and incorporation of the land owners en masse as the Imperial Valley Irrigation District. The purpose of this institution is to purchase outright all the control of the Imperial Valley water supply now owned by a private corporation known as the California Development Company. The purchase of the California Development Company's interest would give the Imperial Valley land owners entire ownership to all of the great irrigation project.

The Imperial Irrigation District has called for a $3,500,000 bond issue election. Of this amount approximately $2,000,000 will be used for the purchase of the California Development Company's interest, and the remaining $500,000 will be placed as a standing reserve fund of the institution to be used exclusively for emergencies only.

Under the present system of the water distribution the California Development Company carries the water in a system of main canals from a point of intake on the Colorado River near the California-Arizona line and known as Hanlon Heading. The great concrete gates at Hanlon Heading control a supply of 3400 cubic feet of water per second. From this point a large main canal leads through Old Mexico to what are known as the East Side and Sharp's Heading. The East Side heading divides the supply of the main canal by diverting about a third of the entire flow to the east side of Imperial Valley. About four miles north of the East Side heading and just on the American side of the international line is Allison Heading, which further divides the supply of the eastern side of the valley into several large distributing mains.

From the East Side heading the best two-thirds of the water coming from the Colorado River is diverted at a point three miles northwest and known as Sharp's Heading. From Sharp's Heading a number of big supply mains are fed which deliver the water to the central and western portions of the valley.

The service of the California Development Company ends after they have supplied water to all the main canals.

From the main canals the water is further distributed to the individual ranchers by mutual companies. These mutual companies are organized and incorporated bodies of the land owners living in certain districts of the valley. Each land owner is required to purchase stock in the mutual companies, one share being sold for every acre of ground. The money goes to the construction of ditches and laterals that carry the water from the main canals to the rancher's property. The mutual companies are not in business for profit and the ranchers merely pay a small assessment to maintain the system yearly. However, the California Development Company charges the ranchers a flat rate of 50 cents per acre-foot, enough water to cover one acre of ground one foot deep, for all the water which is used.

The irrigation district will eliminate this charge when the California Development Company is purchased. The entire system will then be operated as a non-profit producing corporation. The actual expenses of the system will be all which the land owners will have to meet.

The irrigation district has its offices and engineering headquarters at El Centro.

CITY OF EL CENTRO.

El Centro is a sixth-class city incorporated under the State laws. It is provided with a large number of public utilities, including gas, water, electricity, a sewer system, telephone service and also has a large milage of paved streets and sidewalks. There is soon to be constructed another ten miles of sidewalks and curbing, five miles of asphaltum street paving and seven miles of sewer piping.

The Holton Power Company, which supplies the city and surrounding district with electricity, has recently effected an arrangement with the Southern California Edison Electric Company, whereby the latter company will furnish current to the former at a considerable saving of expense. This may eventuate in an appreciable reduction of the present rates at which current is sold to domestic consumers.

As El Centro is centrally located in the valley it has been the logical situation of the largest mercantile and industrial establishments. Here are found the valley's leading manufacturing industries. Among them are a cotton gin, a cotton seed oil plant, an alfalfa mill, ice plant, soda-pop concern, grain mill, creamery, wholesale supply houses for the mercantile stores, gas-manufacturing plant, electric generating plant and several smaller institutions. A $100,000 soap factory is now in course of organization and a $12,000 bakery is being erected.

The city of El Centro has been bathed in a flood of charming romance since its foundation. Harold Bell Wright has aptly told its historical truth between the pages of the "Winning of Barbara Worth." This is the famous desert metropolis which Jefferson Worth made in the novel. Behind the "mask-like" features of Jefferson Worth in the fiction stands the real personality of W. F. Holt, that guiding genius with a telescopic vision who founded El Centro and who did most to make the whole of Imperial Valley a success. This man is the chief factor behind the Holton Interurban Railroad, the Holton Power and Gas Company, and several other prominent enterprises of El Centro. He started the town by building a row of brick buildings from Fifth to Sixth streets, a large operahouse and a substantial bank. He took most of the initial risks and now that success has been won, that success is being shared not by Mr. Holt alone, but by every one of the 6000 people comprising El Centro's population.

Due largely to the ability of Mr. Holt, El Centro sprang from desert solitude into a city of an assessed valuation of $1,280,269 in the year 1911. The next year showed $1,780,000 worth of assessable property, while in 1913 this again jumped to $2,308,919. It is estimated the present assessed valuation is close to $3,000,000.

While this remarkable growth was occurring in material wealth, the population increased by leaps and bounds until this last year the maximum gain was made, being 249 per cent. increase over a period of twelve months.

In March, 1913, the First National Bank had $379,170 on deposit, which increased to $635,525 by March of this year—a gain of 68 per cent. The Security Savings Bank had $54,343 on deposit in March, 1913, which in March, 1914, amounted to $137,592—a gain of 125 per cent. The El Centro National increased its deposits $100,000 in the same time.

The receipts of the local postoffice show a gain of 65 per cent. for the first quarter of 1914 over the first

NOTICE
To Real Estate Agents

We wish to establish permanent connections in Long Beach and Whittier with some high-grade individual or company, who makes a specialty of farm lands, or one who knows the farm land business thoroughly.

We are now offering the NUEVO RANCH, 20 miles south of Riverside, in parcels of 10 and 20 acres, at $250 an acre. This property is under the most modern irrigating system. It is out of the bonded district.

Our knowledge of farm lands and farm land values satisfies us that this property is one of the most attractive being offered in the valley of Southern California. Those who know values and know good land and good farming conditions will say, when they see NUEVO RANCH, that after finding the man who wants land, you simply have to show the property to sell it.

We believe that we can show as superior a type of buyers as ever went onto a new piece of property. All have improved their property, with two exceptions, and those who are not living on their land are planning to do so in the immediate future.

We will make a first-class contract with the proper man. He must, however, have a good record for getting business and a reputation that will stand thorough investigation.

If times have been quiet for a few months, don't think there is not lots of business in Long Beach and Whittier, and if you are a first-class closer, we will supply the prospects in your city.

Drop us a letter, giving us your experience, after which we shall arrange for an interview.

Ferruginous Quartz.

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Q.: Samples from California. Please tell me something about them. CARL H.

A.: The quartz carries ferrous and ferric oxides, and it would probably be well for you to refer samples to reliable assayers to determine gold and silver values, if any.

Tungsten Absent.

UPLAND, May 11.—Q.: Will you kindly tell me through your column if the sample of rock I am sending you under separate cover contains tungsten, and if so, does the apparent percentage in this sample warrant further investigation of the ledge? H. E. S.

Mines and Mining in the Great Southwest.

California Mines.

"GIANTS" AT YOU BET IN ACTION.

Angelenos' Company Has Work in Full Swing.

New York Syndicate to Reopen Murchie Mine.

Tests at Balaklala Are to Be Suspended.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GRASS VALLEY, May 29.—The You Bet Hydraulic Mining Company, composed of Los Angeles people, has placed two "giants" in action on the old Jerry Goodwin placers, near You Bet. An abundance of water is available, and a force of thirty, consisting of twenty Chinese miners and ten Caucasians, is employed. The mine is the only hydraulic property in operation in this section of California, and for years was a famous producer before anti-hydraulic mining regulations forced cessation of work. The Angelenos secured the holdings about two years ago, since which time the work of placing the property in shape for production has been going on.

A huge dam, composed of masonry and concrete, has been thrown across Greenhorn Creek, which prevents any escape of debris to navigable streams. As the mine is located in a restricted district, the building of costly restraining barriers, and approval of the work by officials of the Debris Commission, was necessary before mining could start.

Production is stated to be satisfactory, and the management is also preparing to work the cemented deposits on a large scale. A gravel mill will be provided to crush the cemented material, and good returns from this source are anticipated. Edgar R. Powers is superintendent.

A syndicate of New York people headed by H. W. Miller is arranging for the reopening of the Murchie mine, at Nevada City. The Murchie years ago was a big producer, but gross mismanagement and shady methods of some promoters, involved the mine deeply in debt and forced suspension of work. The new operators have agreed to liquidate all indebtedness if comprehensive explorations result satisfactorily, and the creditors have empowered them to proceed with the work. The shaft will be sent 200 feet deeper and several hundred feet of laterals will be extended. Henry Fitter is superintendent.

The Tuolumne Deep Channel Mining Company has placed a diamond drill in commission on its placer holdings near Confidence, and plans the drilling of a number of deep holes. A hard lava strata is being penetrated, beneath which pay gravel is believed to exist. The company is largely composed of Los Angeles people.

The Premier Mining Company is contemplating erecting a five-stamp mill at its gold property, four miles from Grass Valley. The owners, consisting principally of Pasadena people, acquired the ground about two years ago, and commenced development of gravel deposits. The tunnel however, intersected an excellent vein of gold-bearing quartz, and a good body of ore has been developed.

FUME CONTROL.

Through its manager, Frank M. Leland, the Balaklala Copper Company announces that no further experiments will be made with the Hall desulphurizing process until it has been developed to a state of actual efficiency, in so far as Balaklala ores are concerned. However, arrangements have been made for further tests of the process at Garfield, Utah, where smelting facilities are superior to those prevailing at Coram.

Manager Leland states the process of itself established its ability to extract sulphur in a commercial form from Balaklala ores, but the Feld washer failed to clean the product satisfactorily. The perfection of an absolutely dependable washer, a mechanical problem, is expected to render the Hall process feasible for control of smelter fumes, and the method will then be installed on a commercial basis at the Balaklala smelter.

Discontinuation of the trials at Coram will have little effect on mine operations. Satisfactory freight rates have been secured for shipment of ore to the Mason Valley smelter, and 100 tons are going forward daily. This will be probably increased to 200 tons at an early date. Nearly 200 men are on the pay roll, and it is officially stated the company is earning good profits each month. The working force will probably be increased in the early summer months.

READY TO PRODUCE.

The Blue Ledge copper field, in the extreme northern portion of California, is on the eve of producing, after long years of development. The St. Albans Company, owning the St. Albans mine, has decided on the building of a $25,000 concentrator, and the use of motor trucks for transportation of concentrates to the railroad, from which point shipments will go by rail to custom smelters.

The Trail Creek Mining Company has placed its mill in commission, and is developing a strong vein of fairly rich ore in the mine, near Cecilville. Work was recently resumed after the winter's idleness.

Asbestos deposits in Shasta and Trinity counties are claiming much attention from eastern people, and a new industry is promised for the northwestern section of the State. Recently the American Asbestos Products Company of Chicago, acquired forty-four claims near Sims, Shasta county, for a good price, and is examining other deposits. The owners of the Sims claims filed on the deposits last fall, and stand to win a large reward for their initiative and foresight.

Within the next two weeks the immediate future of Trinity county dredging will be decided. John Hayes Hammond and associates have completed extensive drilling of a vast area extending nearly nine miles along the Trinity River, and results of the work are being checked up. Options on the various properties expire early in June, and a definite statement from the bonding interests is looked for next week.

The North Star mine at Grass Valley, has distributed a total of $4,136,989 in dividends on an original capitalization of $2,500,000. The management estimates that sufficient ore is blocked out on the 5600-foot level to insure steady operation of the eighty-stamp mill for several years.

Porphyritic Matter.

YUMA (Ariz.) May 13.—Q.: I send some kind of square rock to your department. Will you please inform me what they are? G. T.

A.: Some people, improperly, term stuff like samples as "porphyry." The specimens are feldspar (orthoclase.)

Arizona Mines.

ACTIVE WORK NEAR MIAMI.

International Smelter Well Under Way.

Eleven Millions Invested at Inspiration.

More Capital to Be Put in Big Property Soon.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) May 29.—An immense amount of work is being done around the site of the new International smelter near Miami. Construction will be almost on as large a scale as at the neighboring Inspiration mill. Installation of equipment has been commenced at the boiler-house, where 2000 horse power will be secured through utilization of the "waste" heat of the reverberatory furnaces, handled through seven sterling boilers. The steel of the various buildings will have a weight of 6000 tons.

Up to date the investment around the Inspiration property represents about $11,000,000 and only the slightest of returns have been received from the operation of test mills. There will now be added a bond issue of $4,500,000 the proceeds to be used for clearing away all debt and for the installation of a large supplemental power plant, designed for use in case of the failure of the Roosevelt power system. This last will have a severe test this summer, as there is a prospect that by fall little power will be available if there be no summer floods.

Another large additional expense to be incurred is the full ownership of all railroad tracks and equipment on the property, which will thus be made relatively independent of the connecting road. The intention of the company to increase its mill capacity to 10,000 tons a day already has been noted.

Power from the Roosevelt dam now is passing through Miami and is being utilized for the illumination of Superior camp, at the Magma mine, where the electrical energy will soon be turning the wheels at the mine and in a new concentrator.

Ore shipments from the Arizona Commercial are running up to 7½ per cent. copper. The twelfth level has been drained and drifting upon it has been recommenced to open new stopes on ground already proven.

At Morenci the Detroit company has started operations on one of its old and, for long, unworked properties, reopening the south shaft of the Blue mine, which once was one of its principal producers, with ore much richer than now handled at profit. The mine has workings directly under the town. The old drifts very generally are caved in, and much care and time will therefore be needed in putting the property in shape for renewed production.

FINE ORE.

IN BOX CANYON.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) May 29.—Fine specimens of ore are being brought into Bisbee from the Cochise Queen mine, eight miles from Bisbee, in Box Canyon. The values are mainly silver and lead, though development is expected to find good copper values at depth. The main shaft is down fifty feet, with a showing at the bottom of from six to eight feet of ore.

A carload of $40 ore has been shipped to a Colorado smelter from the property of George Dunn in the Huachuca Mountains. The ore carries silver and zinc, and is from ground that has been worked more than twenty years.

A silver-lead strike has been made on the Leadville property at Paradise, about 100 feet northwest of the old shaft, by G. A. Walker. Ore running 40 per cent. lead, as well as twelve ounces in silver, has been secured. The pay streak on the new find is thirty inches wide, but the mineralized vein is much broader. The ore in the older workings was lost, and it is possible that it has been caught up again in the new shaft.

The Kansas City Company has abandoned the old Soldier mine in the Harshaw district, owned by the Brickwood estate of Nogales.

For debt and expenses the Sheriff has sold to Carroll Allen twenty patented mining claims in Warren district, known as the West Bisbee group.

Fifteen claims in the same district have been purchased of Thomas Hodges by Daniel McKenzie for a consideration not made public.

In the Johnson district the Arizona-Michigan Development Company has bought the Blue Lead Extension claim from J. T. Tong.

In the Little Rincon district the Gold Crown group of eight claims has been purchased from A. C. Simkins by F. C. Alexander.

E. E. and E. C. Rollins have sold two claims in the Swisshelm district to William Rollins.

Bessie E. Miller has bought the Copper King group of three claims in the Cochise district from Samuel J. Miller.

Ben Goodrich has sold to his clients the Tombstone Consolidated Mines, the Apache Chief, Silver Chief and Gen. Grant claims in the Tombstone district, probably in order to clear title in preparation for the sale of the property of the Consolidated company next month.

The Duluth and Chiricahua Development Company has changed its name to the Sullivan Copper Development Company. It has mining property in the Paradise district.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Silica and Carbonate.

ACTON, May 8.—Q.: I am just in receipt of your letter of April 16 regarding some samples of rock that I sent to The Times, and I am much obliged for same. I presume the samples were lost in the mail in some way. I am now sending to you three samples which I would like to know about. Nos. 1 and 2; are these quartz? Are they likely to carry gold? No. 3 is from a ledge, and carries some kind of free mineral; would you kindly tell me what it is? E. H. A.

A.: Glad to hear from you. No. 1 sample is quartz carrying low per cent. hydrous iron peroxide (limonite.) No. 2 is feldspathic rock, but not pegmatite. The sample is mixed albite (soda feldspar,) with orthoclase (potash feldspar,) and in the mass potash mica occurs sparingly. Samples 1 and 2 are probably not worthy of assay for gold. No. 3 is a black-gray dolomite (a double carbonate of lime and magnesia,) "iron carbonate and carbonate of manganese are usually present," in this variety of dolomite.

The sample reminds one of the tellurium ores of Boulder county, Colorado—at sight only, and the microscopical specks of "metalliferous" matter in the mass are those of stibnite (antimony sulphide,) galenite, and arsenopyrite (arsenical pyrite.)

Amygdaloidal Lava.

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—Q.: I am curious to know what kind of rock the (sample herewith) green is composed of? What are the witish pebbles in the rock? There is a whole lot of this in Riverside county. F. W.

A.: Smalt-blue color is that of dumortierite. The "pebbles" are amygdaloidal (almond shaped) and consist of calcedony (quartz.) Mineral represented by the sample is of value to mineral collectors, and it is received gladly (for cabinet collections) by colleges, and so forth.

Altered.

RIVERSIDE, May 8.—Q.: No. 1: This sample of rock comes from a large ledge about five miles from Riverside. Does it contain platinum? If not please tell me what minerals it does contain, and if of enough value to look into further? No. 2: This is from a ledge a short distance from sample 1. Please identify it. What's in it? No. 3: This is taken from near samples 1 and 2, what? No. 4: Found near 1, 2 and 3; describe the samples in "In the Earth" please. A Times subscriber. H. R.

A.: Glad to hear from you. No. 1 carries no platinum. Traces of iron oxides; low per cent. (yellowish) copper-iron sulphide; trace of pyrrhotite (magnetic pyrite) and trace of stibnite (antimony sulphide (all in microscopical forms) present. No. 2 is an altered bronzite; mica and iron oxides present. No. 3 fluor spar sparingly present with quartz and traces of copper (malachite and azurite.) No. 4 altered magnetite; titanic iron present. All of the samples represent ledges of very doubtful values.

Microscopical Forms.

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—Q.: Will you kindly tell me what the white metal is we see so much of in sample I am sending you? S. R. D.

A.: In the banded limestone traces of lead (galenite,) and antimony (stibnite,) appear sparingly. Micaceous iron (hematite) shows up in narrow seams throughout the mass.

Fair Grade Cement Rock.

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—Q.: Please classify enclosed rock which comes from within forty miles of Los Angeles. Does this rock amount to anything in the way of cement, fertilizer, or what? I have one report of a trace of copper. Please tell me if a mountain of this rock is of any value? Kindly give me all the information possible. G. A. R.

A.: That trace of copper is "mighty skeerce." The rock carries suitable proportions of lime, aluminum silicate, silica, and iron oxides to be of certain value in the manufacture of cement. It (the mountain) represents fertilizer of doubtful value if utilized alone for fertilizer purposes.

BUSINESS MAN OF FUTURE AS LONDONER SEES HIM.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, May 16.—"With the telephone and the automobile the man of business will tomorrow carry through six transactions where yesterday he completed one. He will bring to his task freshness, energy, manners, culture, and imagination such as our grandfathers never suspected there could be opportunity for in business life."

Upon this plan H. E. Morgan, the author of "The Dignity of Business," proceeded to construct the dominant business man of the future, before an audience of nearly 2000 businessmen-in-the-making in London the other night.

"The imagination of the business man of the future—one of his prime assets," Morgan declared, "will be of the quality which can construct in advance the probabilities of any situation, and it will be fostered by travel, by literature, by the drama and by pictures, all of which must form a leading part of the education of the coming business man.

"He will avoid stimulants," pursued Morgan, "he will never achieve those freak decisions of the ill-balanced judgment which today have to be put down to indigestion.

"Health, character, imagination and training—all these he will see that he possesses. He will recognize and observe those health conditions that make for the maximum of efficiency, and he will command energy and enthusiasm perennial—not the sort of enthusiasm which is producted by temporary stimulation.

"The business man of the future will direct without being always directing; he will waste less time over board meetings and confer with his employees instead; and, above all things, he will never say to them: 'I am the boss, get on with it.'

"He will sweep all tradition relentlessly away, except in considerations of policy; he will know the last word in the science of publicity and the science of organizing; and, early and late, he will train his mind by persistent application for the purposes of his career."

The Minimum Wages.

As the question of the "minimum wage" is discussed more and more, is it not growing evident that there is more or less buncombe being introduced into a movement which had, at its outset, a very laudable and commendable aim?

In certain lines of industry there are "easy jobs," which do not call for any serious effort or experience. These are chosen by girls or women who have homes of their own and who work mainly for the purpose of getting more spending money than their fathers and mothers, or their husbands, can afford to dole out to them. In other cases the positions are taken by girls who desire to be self-supporting, but who will not take other positions, paying better, because they imagine that the better paid places inspire some sort of social inferiority. There are few occasions where a healthy self-reliant girl, if she is economical and not vain, cannot earn enough to support herself, to put money in the bank, and still have a certain fund left over for dress and for a reasonable proportion of outside recreation.

So long as the idea prevails that there is disgrace in working with one's hands, so long there will be less reason and less sense in demanding a "minimum wage" which is admittedly decidedly above what the labor is actually worth. To say that a young woman of voting age cannot support herself on a certain wage that she receives, does not necessarily imply that the wage is too small, or that it should be made larger by law. The question is rather, can the young woman or the young man who works for a mere pittance, earn more in any other lines of effort? And, if that be the case, the question then appears fair and reasonable: Why does not the underpaid worker take a better line of employment? An admission of false pride, in such matters, does not justify the demand for a "living wage" in such cases. It justifies rather a condemnation of the false pride, says the Boston Advertiser.

Wages Here and Abroad.

Over two million women and girls work in British shops and factories, and at least 100,000 more do piece work in their homes. It is estimated that 300,000 of these earn less than $3 a week, and that some of them earn only half as much. One worker whose testimony was taken, made shorts for 18 cents a dozen. By long hours she and her husband made $2.62 a week, out of which they paid 37 cents for the use of a sewing machine and 45 cents for thread, leaving their net earnings $1.80.

If the militants had any plan which promised to improve this deplorable condition, even militancy might have something to plead in its defense. But they offer no constructive scheme of betterment, for neither they nor Parliament nor British philanthropy sees clearly what to do. All alike are at their wits' end, and it is not apparent how the destruction of many million dollars' worth of property in the year just passed has helped the situation.

The impressive fact to the American artisan, man or woman, must be the difference of the wage scale here and there, and the need of a protective tariff if our wage rate is to be maintained. We can make the coarser fabrics and much else that is wholly manufactured by machinery as cheaply here as in England; hence certain of our industries would flourish under free trade. But the wage cost is an increasing factor as fabrics become finer, more beautiful and valuable, and our industries, which require skilled manual labor cannot but feel the competition in industries in lands where a week's wages for two workers does not equal a day's wage for one American artisan.

ATTACKING SELF-RESPECT.

Result Is a Discrimination Abroad Regarding Purchases of Products of American Companies.

[American Industries:] This country has been suffering during recent years from a deluge of demagogic denunciation. Cussing is the easiest stuff in the world to write and orate, and the public appetite for vituperation seems to be insatiable.

Every established institution of the nation is being attacked. Any shallow doctrine which is new is joyfully acclaimed by the mob, be it good or bad. All that which is established is decried because it offers no novelty.

Is it any wonder that we are little respected abroad when there seems to be no national self-respect at home?

"Recently, before receiving the bid of an American concern for the supply of a large amount of oil the German government required a statement, backed by proof, that the concern had no relations with the Standard Oil Company," says the Saturday Evening Post. "That was discrimination, but in view of all that we have officially said about the oil trust it hardly lies in our mouths to object to it. It appears that a considerable amount of American property will be practically confiscated, but it is the property of or in alliance with the oil trust, and anything we can say in its defense must sound odd in view of all that we have said against it. The Kaiser's ministers had only to quote at random from a whole library of governmental denunciations of the trust at home and ask why Germany should tolerate a concern the United States government repeatedly declared to be intolerable. We can hardly expect to paint our trusts black on the domestic side and white on the foreign side."

The people of this country must awaken to the fact that this is their country. True patriots are trying to make it the best place in the world to live in and to work in, but nothing can ever be done to substantially better the conditions of all so long as the preachings of demagogues destroy that which is built with the infinite labor of thinkers.

NO EXCUSE FOR ANARCHY.

As Workmen Become Intelligent the Red Flag Orators Will Lose Much of Their Influence.

[New York Times:] It is too much to expect the police to discriminate between Socialists, anarchists, and the members of the I.W.W. The great body of the public has stopped trying to do that. Where the Socialists gather the anarchists and the I.W.W. assemble. We know that the theoretical idea of Socialism is to reform society by peaceful means, while the other malcontents openly avow their determination to kill and plunder. But when the Socialists are in mobs they must be judged by the company they keep. For that matter, it is difficult to choose between the methods of a school of Socialism or a school of anarchy when the pupils of both simultaneously break into a prayer meeting and try to convert it into an orgy of agitation.

There is no possible excuse in this republic for the propaganda of anarchy or Socialism. The people who are most strongly influenced by these movements are unintelligent foreigners, who are unfamiliar with American policies and institutions. They will rise superior to their delusions in time if the men and women who are misleading them for profit are checked, as they should be. The best course for the authorities is to prevent incitements to riot and lawlessness. The social discontent which has spread all over the world is not to be ignored, of course. It is a subject for close and intelligent study and wise treatment. The proceedings of the I.W.W. and the other anarchist bodies are coincident with the too general discontent, but are not normally related to it. They mean good for nobody. It is reported that official stenographers will be employed hereafter to take down the utterances of the violent agitators, presumably that their words may be dispassionately weighed thereafter. This will cost money. It would be cheaper to forbid violence. Nothing that can ever be done by officers of the law in the name of the law will satisfy the anarchists.

HUGE STATE DEBTS.

Increase During the Last Decade Has Been Much Out of Proportion to the Change of Population.

[Baltimore American:] The forty-eight States of the Union, at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, 1913, had an aggregate public debt of $419,157,000, according to figures of the Census Office, made public today. Ten years ago the indebtedness of these same States amounted to but $234,909,000. Offsetting the total debt for the last year the States reported $77,033,000 in sinking fund assets, leaving the actual indebtedness $342,251,000.

This is an increase over 10 years ago of $107,342,000, or nearly 50 per cent., and it is in sharp contract with the slightly more than 20 per cent. increase in population in the same period. Between 1880 and 1902 these figures show that the debts of the States gradually decerased while during the last ten years there has been a very noticeable increase.

In 1880 the per capita State indebtedness was $5.48; in 1890, $3.37; in 1902, $2.99, due to rapid increase in population and decrease in debt. In 1913 it has increased to $3.52, due to very rapid increase in debt in contrast with a much slower increase in population. Of the present indebtedness, about $19,000,000 is floating and nearly $400,000,000 funded.

The total debt (less sinking fund assets) for Massachusetts represents 23.2 per cent. of the debt of all the States of the United States. Iowa, Wyoming and Oregon each has less than one-tenth of 1 per cent. of the debt of all the States, while in the case of Pennsylvania the sinking fund assets exceed the total debt.

Vermont, Nebraska and Kansas each has only one-tenth of 1 per cent. of the debt of the fort-eight States. New York enjoys the distinction of having 25 per cent. of the total State indebtedness. The per capita debt in Iowa amounts to only 3 cents, in Oregon, 4 cents. In Arkansas, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Jersey, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming the per capita debt is less $1.

ADMIT JAPS TO UNIONS.

Seattle Central Labor Council's Decision Made in Reply to Sarcastic Letter from Barbers.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) May 30.—The Seattle Central Labor Council voted in favor of the admission of Japanese to membership in all unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The action was taken in reply to a sarcastic letter from Jacob Fisher, general secretary-treasurer of the Journeyman Barbers' International Union, who, after receiving the Seattle council's resolution in favor of organizing female barbers, wrote:

"I would be pleased to hear from your council as to whether they favor admission of Japanese barbers to membership in our organization, as well as into unions of all other trades."

PROHIBITION VS. CIGARMAKERS.

To Make the Country Dry Would Put Thousands of Members of the Cigarmakers Union Out of Work.

[Fresno Labor News:] The problem of the unemployed is worrying the entire country; it is stirring up employers, and menacing the employed. It is of vital interest to business to improve conditions. And on top of a situation already bad, comes the more disturbing movement for Statewide and national prohibition.

The Cigarmakers' International Union of America has just issued a circular showing the effect of prohibition on their trade. These are the facts as given over the signatures of the presidents and secretaries of 136 unions:

"Five thousand six hundred and ninety-one members were employed before prohibition.

"One thousand, two hundred and forty-seven members lost employment during prohibtion.

"Allowing for the natural increase in business, they state that 2505 members really lost employment.

"We are endeavoring to protect the union man, and Statewide and national prohibition can only result in the widespread destruction of industries employing millions of trades unionists.

"It, therefore, becomes our duty to defeat this movement, which would bring suffering, misery and want to our brothers and ourselves."

THE DISAPPEARING FAD.

Building Publication Avows Vanishing Furniture Idea May Yet Result in Vest-Pocket Apartments.

[Southwest Contractor:] Pretty soon, if the present-day fad continues to prevail of trying to confine one's household to one room and that the smallest possible, we shall hope to see inventive genius succeed in developing the completely furnished house or apartment that can be folded up and stuck in one's vest pocket when not in use.

We already have the bed that disappears in almost any conceivable place, in the wall, through the closet door, under a curtain in the room, under the buffet or bathroom floor, and the editor was told the other day of a new bed that is hoisted to the ceiling and eliminated from view. The editor has not seen the latter device but readily sees how some one could conceive the idea of marketing it. Then there is the built-in dresser, the disappearing ironing board, and goodness knows what else that can be put out of the way when not wanted for use.

It seems to be a case of hide-and-seek with pretty much every sort of bulky and in-the-way household furniture and equipment.

Now comes a Los Angeles man with an invention for a disappearing sink equipped with apparatus for lowering or raising it to suit the height of children or adults. This device, it is said, may be raised up if the housewife wants to stand while washing dishes, or lowered when she is tired and wants to sit down while performing the task, or dropped still further if the baby evinces a desire to throw away the crust of its bread.

POSTCARD CAMPAIGN.

West Virginia Unionists Begin Movement to Secure President Wilson's Pardon for Violator.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WHEELING (W. Va.) May 30.—A movement has been started here to have President Wilson intervene for Miss Fannie Sellins, who is confined in Fairmount jail for violating the injunction of Judge A. G. Dayton in connection with the miners' strike at Colliers, W. Va. Twenty-five thousand postcard were sent to union-labor men by the Ohio Valley Trades Assembly, asking them to urge the President to order Miss Sellins's release. Miss Sellins was an organizer of the National Garment Workers' Union, and is said to have worked among the families of the striking miners.

Equal Rights Only.

CAN LABOR WARS BE PREVENTED?

SOME MEANS NEEDED TO SETTLE DISPUTES.

No Man Can Be Compelled to Work Against His Will or on Terms He Is Unwilling to Accept, and Those for Whom He Works Are Entitled to Equal Treatment.

[New York Journal of Commerce:] When workmen in any industry, organized or unorganized, or any other mass of the subjects of law in a civilized country, unite in lawless attacks upon person and property and resist public authority with deadly weapons for any cause or upon any pretext whatever, there is but one thing to do. There is treason and rebellion within the jurisdiction in which such things happen against the constituted authority to which all citizens are bound to submit, and it must be put down without paltering. That is what was going on in the mining districts of Colorado and there was no more propriety in criticising the acting Governor for the use of the militia of the State as it was used than there would be in attacking the President for employing the armed forces of the nation in defending the honor and dignity of the government of the United States when they are unquestionably assailed, or putting down an armed insurrection against its authority. It was the clear duty of the State government to see that person and property were protected against lawless attack, and that the striking mine workers and those who were acting with them were brought into subjection to law and made to keep the peace regardless of the origin or the cause of the strike.

But there ought to be some way of preventing labor disputes going on until they result in such demoralizing warfare. For the participants to be allowed to proceed until they come into violent conflict, with property owners and employers of labor on one side and workingmen in or out of their employment on the other, fighting each other with weapons, and the State has to be called upon to intervene with military force, is an exhibition worthy of a state of barbarism and not of civilized society. It is as inconsistent with well-ordered government as it would be for two rival concerns in business, which got into a controversy over their rights or the terms of their dealing with each other, to resort to violence and get into a fight with deadly weapons. There should be some means of settling disputes and controversies which are liable to lead to such consequences if left unrestrained by civilized methods, as much where the rights or claims of labor are involved as where the interests of capital are concerned. What is meaning of equality before the law and of democratic government, if there is to be such a distinction of classes and difference in the application of law?

Some means must be found for settling disputes over the terms and conditions of employment of labor, in a peaceable and lawful manner, as corresponding controversies over property rights and business dealings are settled, with an authority that is conclusive and binding. If the result is not satisfactory to either party in such a case their continued relations cannot be forced, but each can be made to keep the peace. No man can be compelled to work for any other man or for a corporation against his will or on other terms than he is willing to accept, but those who desire to work where opportunity is presented and on such terms as are offered are entitled to protection in doing so, and those for whom they choose to work are entitled to protection from attack upon their property, their business or those whom they employ. This is elementary and fundamental and should be clearly recognized and maintained in legislation and the administration of law.

There should be some appropriate means of adjudicating disputes and controversies over the terms and conditions of labor employment for the avoidance of strikes. If in spite of the result of such an impartial process there should be a refusal to work by some or all concerned in the dispute, no interference with others, violation of law or disturbance of the peace should be tolerated. From such statements of fact as have appeared there seems to be no doubt that this Colorado miners' strike had for its not yield to the demand that they join the union. Much of the larger proportion of these workmen have refused to join the strike and it is a relatively small minority that has been engaged in the "fight" which culminated in armed conflict with the militia. Such a strike ought to be made impossible by the provision of means for determining the merits of any dispute involving essential rights in the relations of men and by an unflinching support of authoritative decisions upon such merits.

NUEVO RANCHO SALES.

Mrs. F. C. Kingsbury, formerly of Columbus, O., has purchased ten acres of Nuevo Rancho land in the Lakeview-Hemet-Perris district, and will have operated for her an apricot grove. At a later time, she expects, acording to the James R. H. Wagner Company, sellers of the tract, to build a summer home on the land. Elizabeth J. Marshall has purchased ten acres in the same subdivision, her land being partly set to deciduous fruit and partly to olives. A third woman buyer of the last few days was Clementine Babcock, who also purchased ten acres, partly set to fruit. M. B. Read of Santa Ana, bought ten acres of unimproved land, which he will have graded and leveled through the summer, preparatory to setting out trees next winter. Other purchasers, as reported by the Wagner company were R. A. Woods, ten acres; J. L. Abbey, ten acres; S. O. Stearns, ten acres; George S. Cogswell, ten acres, and P. V. Busch, ten acres.

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES AND STRIKERS OF THIS UNEASY WORLD.

GOMPERS is going on another of his wild-goose chases. He is to be in Cleveland, O., on June 1 to fight the Board of Education of that city for barring unions of teachers.

Even though the recently-threatened general strike on the State railways did not come off, the damage to Italy by the threat alone amounts to $12,000,000, according to Il Telegrafo, a Leghorn newspaper. This is based on an estimate that 40,000 tourists left Italy on account of the threatened strike and that at least 20,000 abandoned their intention to visit the country on the same account: that these 60,000 persons would have remained an average of twenty days each and spent an average of $10 a day; that two-thirds of this expenditure would represent a clean net profit to the hotel-keepers, merchants, waiters, porters, cabmen, etc. Under similar circumstances Los Angeles and Southern California—the "Italy" of the United States—would suffer just as badly.

Since the Federal troops entered Colorado the strikers have abstained from riotous demonstrations.

West Virginia coal miners are about to "go out" on a new strike order, in the Paint and Cabin Creek mining regions. Both strikes are against the proposed new wage scale.

The Portland strike of longshoremen is over. The men have gone back to work without what they really struck for—recognition of the union. Their other union demands are to be mediated in joint conference shortly.

Colorado strike leaders are urging the miners to surrender their weapons. The guns are the property of the men.

There is hope that the end of the dispute in the London building trades, which has lasted fifteen weeks, is now in sight. The dispute has cost the unions more than $500,000 in strike and lockout pay, besides costing the men fifteen weeks' wages.

Albany, N. Y., has had its short teamsters' strike, and the men have wisely gone back to work, pending arbitration. The men want more pay and shorter hours.

It is worthy of note that during all the years which the Rockefeller interests have controlled the great Standard Oil Company, with its many ramifications, that company has never had a dispute with its employees.

Members of the Dock Scows Union of New York are on strike for more wages and recognition of the union. Five hundred scow captains are on strike. They are resisting the strikebreakers.

Four hundred miners at Uniontown, Pa., are on strike against a reduction in wages. This particular strike may become general throughout the Connellsville region.

Differences between the Boston and Maine Railroad and its engineers and firemen are likely to be settled without a strike.

Illinois is not to have a coal strike of its own for the present at least. The miners are waiting on the action of the International Executive Committee at Indianapolis as to calling a nation-wide strike because of the Colorado situation.

Employees of the Albany and Troy traction companies are trying hard to effect a new wage agreement without striking. It begins to look favorable that way. They want a raise from 27 cents to 35 cents an hour.

In France the I.W.W. syndicalists in the wine industry put oil in the wine the second day of the strike. This is the organization that is lauded so highly by the American I.W.W.

The I.W.W. leaders "work" the weavers, spinners, miners and other workers, and this is the only real work they ever perform.

The I.W.W. are welcoming Emma Goldman and other anarchists into their ranks—their labor-destroying, wages-destroying ranks.

Referring to the deplorable strike conditions existing in Colorado, the Denver Chamber of Commerce says: "In truth and, in fact, the State Militia have killed no women or children, and none have been killed by any person or persons," lurid newspaper reports to the contrary notwithstanding. Some eighty-five strikers have been killed in pitched battles with the troops, and millions of dollars, many millions, lost in property and wages, with a settlement of the trouble apparently as far off as ever.

After lasting six weeks, the Troy (N. Y.) strike of carpenters has been settled by slight concessions on both sides. The new wage agreement is to run until April 1, 1919. Some 500 men were affected. The settlement was the work of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration. The strike demand was for 50 cents an hour for three years. The men get 47½ cents the first year, 48½ the second year and 50 cents for the next three years. Also time and a half from 5 p.m. to 12 p.m., and double time from 12 p.m. to 8 a.m. They will also get double time from Saturday noon to 8 a.m. Monday and on all holidays.

Some waitresses are on strike in New York for $5 a week and meals. A new rule cut wages and also cut out breakfasts. Both cuts were certainly unfair.

The Ohio coal mine owners closed all mines on April 1, and now (May 18) a general strike was declared. The 50,000 men are out anyway.

The brickmakers strike in Chicago is costing the construction, real estate and other interests of that city $1,000,000 a day. Most of this loss falls upon the workingmen. The 150,000 skilled construction men are losing $600,000 a day in wages, contractors are losing $100,000 a day, and the brick manufacturers, $170,000 a day. Will it pay? No! Decidedly no!

Valencia, Spain, had many labor disputes in 1913, including ten strikes. Out of the troubles has come the formation of an arbitration tribunal—quite a good result.

Boulder (Colo.) county grand jury has indicted more than 100 strikers, including union-labor leaders. The charges are conspiracy to murder or conspiracy to attempt to murder, as the outcome of the Hecla mine conflict, which began April 20, and was fought out for forty-eight hours with rifles and machine guns.

Workers at the University Settlement, New York, are on strike for nothing in particular. Strikes, like measles, are catching.

A bad strike is on at the Wakefield, Mass., furniture factories. Strike sympathizers, mostly foreigners, 1000 men and women, are making riotous demonstrations against loyal workers and strikebreakers. The strike has been on for several weeks. Serious assaults have been made on those who stayed on at work. It is rioters and assaulters like these whom Gompers wants Congress to exempt from prosecution. To get this warrant for license (not liberty) he and other labor leaders are threatening Congressmen with loss of votes. It's outrageous.

The railroad switchmen working in and out of Chicago may strike. If so, it will be a very serious matter. The government mediator is trying to effect a settlement of the disputes. The 5000 switchmen almost unanimously favor a strike. They want more wages and different working conditions.

There will be no immediate strike of the New York City photoengravers. They asked a $3 a week immediate raise, but have settled on $1 more each year for three years.

Five thousand journeymen barbers in New York City have been ordered "out" on a general strike. They want shorter hours and a full day off each week. The strike is to be extended until all the city's barbers are "out."

The United States Department of Labor recently averted two strikes of great importance. The strikes referred to are the Indianapolis street car dispute and that of the tugboat men on the Great Lakes. The first is being arbitrated and the latter has been amicably settled.

To help the striking carpenters of Cincinnati, 5000 union workmen of the building trades are "out" and all building operations are at a standstill. Twenty planing mills have shut down.

The strike of 300 Minneapolis ice wagon drivers and their helpers has been settled. The men are to get about $5 a week more.

Rotterdam, Holland, has a general strike of all the workmen employed by the Holland-America line, says a cable dispatch.

The mover's strike is popular at St. Louis. They are picketing the houses and then moving the goods for nothing in union wagons.

No Reason for Demand.

[New York Journal of Commerce:] No reason can be given why any organization of workingmen, or employees of owners of property, or magnates of business, should be any more free to damage property or property rights or to effect injurious restraints of trade or commerce than any other organization. If this kind of class distinction or special privilege is to be recognized and favored in our legislation, where is it to stop? The "element" which demands it is a small minority even of the workingmen of the country, but it is supposed to sway a certain voting power, which may turn the scale between parties, but probably would not, if it were firmly resisted and made to observe the laws to which all others have to submit. These are dangerous demands to yield to, and it would be an evil day if the politicians who are ready to give way to them should be able to control legislation and the administration of government.

Bars Lifted.

JOBS IN COAL REGION OPENED TO OUTSIDERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TRINIDAD (Colo.) May 30.—The policy of the War Department in regard to the employment of miners by the coal companies operating in the strike districts of Colorado has been slightly modified, according to an official announcement Friday by Col. Lockett, commander of the Federal troops here. The ban on the importation of men will not be lifted, but all vacancies in the working force of the mines may be filled. Men voluntarily seeking employment will not be prevented from going to work.

FOUR-FIFTY PER WEEK DUBLIN LABORERS HIRE.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

DUBLIN, May 16.—It has just been discovered that the average weekly wage of unskilled labor in Dublin—that is, of 24,000 men—is $4.50 each week.

The "typical household budget" of such a wage-earner, who, in the overwhelming majority of cases is a married man with children, is a profoundly depressing document. There is no margin for "hard times," and these are frequent, since both unemployment, the constant dread of casual labor, and sickness, the inevitable result of such conditions, must often produce them.

In other words, a quarter of the people of Dublin are "badly housed, ill-fed, unhealthy, indigent, struggling, hopeless." It is obvious that the provision of better housing, which will make no difference to the household budget, cannot cure all these ills. Only the decasualizing of quay labor, technical education as a means of turning an unskilled into a partially-skilled population, and the creation of manufacturing industries in the city can remove Dublin's excessive dependence on unskilled workers.

Residential Expansion.

FOUR AVENUES TO SEA STIMULATE BUILDING.

Washington and Wilshire Boulevards to Be Supplemented by Well-Paved Thoroughfares from West Adams and Pico Streets—Latter Will Go Directly to Santa Monica, Former to Ocean Park and Venice.

BROAD, attractive boulevards, existing and in definite prospect, from Los Angeles to the sea through the southern part of the west side, have been a strong contributing factor in the activity and rapid development of that territory in the past few months. Wilshire and Washington streets already afford fine avenues to the beaches, with smoothly-paved roadbeds and attractive surroundings.

To these, according to indications, are at once to be added two more. The project to extend Pico street as a 100-foot boulevard to Fremont avenue in Santa Monica is nearing consummation. This will be a highline, airline route, passing in a direct line from the Pico-street extension over the hilltops, entering Santa Monica by the newly-improved Fremont avenue. This route will be shorter by two and a half miles than any existing improved route, will be wider and more beautiful in many ways because it affords a delightful vista of the valley along almost the entire route.

It is now assured that West Adams street is to be another great seaward outlet. This boulevard will connect with Washington street, which leads to Venice, and it is proposed also to extend it to a connection with the National boulevard, with a proposed seaward outlet at Ocean Park.

With all four of these fine boulevards completed, automobilists will have the choice of leaving the city over any one of four excellent paved highways, each with special attractions of its own. Incidentally, the new highways will further stimulate the fine residential territory between the city, Santa Monica and Venice. The Board of Supervisors have consistently encouraged the building of convenient thoroughfares between the city and the sea, and the efforts of interested people to have them built have accomplished much toward fulfilling the prediction that all the territory between Los Angeles and the ocean front will be solidly built up to homes in a few days.

Work has already been begun on the improvements of West Adams street from the city limits to its intersection with Washington boulevard and the county good roads system. About two and a quarter miles of roadway is to be improved at a cost of $20,000, and the work will be done according to good roads specifications. The job is being handled under the road district improvement act of 1907, the county furnishing the rock and oil and abutting property owners paying for the work.

The West Adams-street improvement opens the way directly for a new avenue to the beach. This, in the opinion of many, will be one of the most popular of the beach drives, although it will not be as short as the new Pico-street thoroughfare. Rights of way on the Pico-street extension have been almost all secured, and for a short distance the road has already been improved.

Efforts to secure this direct route to Santa Monica have continued for nearly five years. When Santa Monica first decided to improve Fremont avenue, rights of way were secured through the Wolfskill ranch by Carl F. Schader and others. The Board of Supervisors at that time promised that if the Santa Monica outlet was provided it would arrange for the construction of the boulevard from the Los Angeles limits. The failure of Santa Monica to carry out its Fremont-avenue work delayed the Pico boulevard to the sea until this year.

Now Fremont avenue has been splendidly paved and improved with wide parkways, electroliers and ornamental trees. The work has progressed so far that it will require only a month or two to complete it. With the beginning of work on Fremont avenue, the campaign to improve the entire boulevard was resumed and excellent progress has been made.

In the same connection it is suggested that a "wishbone" connection with Pico boulevard can be built to secure another road to Venice. A substitute for this suggestion is a new Venice boulevard to extend from Pico street at or near the city limits.

READY TO BUILD.

Owners of Lots on Pico West of City Waiting Expectantly for Improvement of That Street.

The present movement for the widening, paving and lighting of Pico street through to the sea has been given an added impetus by the activities of the owners and subdividers who have been devoting themselves to the upbuilding of the district lying along both sides of the Pico extension to the west of the city limits. In this development work W. I. Hollingsworth & Co. have been playing a prominent part in connection with their operations in the Pico boulevard tract, which is one of the principal properties thus far platted in the Vineyard Junction region.

The subdivision has a frontage of over half a mile on the proposed Pico boulevard and has wide, improved streets leading into that thoroughfare. A large proportion of the lots have already been sold and it is stated by the subdividers that the beginning of actual work upon the city-to-sea boulevard will be followed by a notable building activity. The same condition is reported in other tracts of the district.

Last of High Ground.

of Adams, Washington, Pico and the intervening streets crept farther and farther westward. New tracts were always springing up to beckon the builders nearer to the far-out rim of the hills.

Oxford Square, Victoria Park, Arlington Heights, the Crenshaw-boulevard tract, Crenshaw Heights, Arlington Heights Terrace, the Hillcrest tract and the Arlington Heights boulevard tract have all sprung into being within a few years and, with other subdivisions of the district, have filled in the vacant spaces of the old vineyard acres.

Already the subdivisionists have pounced upon the closest-in of the lower ground beyond the mesas. West Adams Park, the Washington-boulevard and West Adams tract and the Pico-boulevard tract, all three infant subdivisions of great promise, mark the advance guard of a further westward invasion of the home builders, an invasion which expert observers believe will not end until all the vast acres along the main seaward boulevards from the limits of Los Angeles to the cities of the Crescent Bay have been claimed for intensive residential development.

IMPROVES OLD PLACE.

Los Angeles Man Spends Small Fortune in Beautification of Historic Estate of Mining Magnate.

POMONA, May 30.—E. J. Marshall of Los Angeles, a large stockholder in the Chino Land and Water Company, and who now owns the old Richard Gird ranchhouse property on the Chino ranch southeast of this city, has expended $35,000 in enlarging the residence on the place and in beautifying the grounds about the locality for a country home. The house is in the midst of a great grove of shade trees and there is a charming suburban rendezvous. There are broad expanses of lawn, grottoes, rustic seats, flower-beds and plots of shrubbery and ferns. A creek courses through the grounds.

The place was the home of the late Richard Gird twenty-five years ago when, fresh from his sucessful operation of mines in Arizona, he opened up the great Chino ranch and brought about the location of the big plant of the American Beet Sugar Company on the property. At one time Gird maintained racing stables on the ranch which vied with the Santa Anita stock, but through vicissitudes of fortune the thousands of acres of now extremely valuable ranch land passed out of his possession, before he could reap the reward of his early investment.

GARDENA ACTIVITIES.

The Hanson realty exchange reports sales in Gardena as follows: To Mrs. Ella Miller, Miss Julia Wright, Mrs. E. F. May and A. G. Breeden, lots in the Saver tracts; to F. B. Peters and Prof. F. C. Hersman, lots on Spencer street, and to G. W. Calton and E. M. Hicks, lot on Palm avenue. The same firm recently sold a Gardena business lot to G. W. Fleer, who is erecting a store building with upstairs living-rooms. In the Broadacres tract of Gardena, the firm recently sold lots to Roy Winkle, L. Blackburn and Prof. J. H. Norton, the last-named buyer exchanging a ranch at Riverside for a home close to the Gardena Agricultural High School.

SCHOOLS, CHURCHES AND SOCIAL.

Aside from the development of the land in Imperial Valley, the settlers have considered education as the most important factor. Every town which has sprung into being has been provided with adequate schooling facilities from the start.

At El Centro there is a beautiful $75,000 High School structure equipped with the most modern of appliances. This is of frame and plaster construction and built along the mission order of architecture. It has only been completed a short time.

The High School curriculum provides courses in practically all of the leading academic and technical branches of education customarily taught in the largest of our State schools. The school has a complete equipment for teaching domestic science, sewing, cooking, manual training and mechanical drafting.

There is a large grammar school in the town and in order to take care of the rapid increase in the enrollment a new $30,000 brick grammar school is now in course of construction. There are some 600 pupils attending the El Centro grammar school.

Furthering the school work as well as providing a place of recreation and education, El Centro has a $12,000 library building, a gift of Andrew Carnegie. This is well stocked with the best works of fiction, science and current periodicals. There are several sets of standard reference works. Books are circulated free to the townspeople upon their making the necessary application.

Several of the leading church denominations have houses of worship at El Centro. Some of the buildings rank among the best of the town's architectural ornaments.

A number of the fraternal orders are represented and several of them have erected big business blocks in the heart of the town.

El Centro has two motion picture theaters and an opera-house as well as assembly halls and other places of social rendezvous.

The business men are banded together in an organization known as the El Centro Chamber of Commerce to further their interests and to protect their members.

El Centro is also the headquarters of the Imperial Valley County Chamber of Commerce, an organization representing the county's commercial interests and exploiting its agricultural and horticultural resources.

The town has two daily papers. The El Centro Progress is a breezy little sheet having the Associated Press service and printing its reports every morning. The Valley Press is an evening paper with the United Press service.

STATE EXPERIMENT STATION.

About six miles east of El Centro in a district called Meloland is an agricultural and horticultural experiment station conducted under the supervision of the University of California's College of Agriculture. The station is in charge of Walter E. Packard, M.S., who has been making a very close study of the conditions affecting the growth of vegetation in the El Centro district. The experimental farm consists of a $10,000 plant including forty acres of ground and equipment. The purpose of the institution is to develop economical methods of irrigation, and cultivation and to develop new varieties of fruits which might be especially well adapted to the local conditions. The ranchers of the valley have access to the station's library and can call for assistance from the station in the investigation of plant diseases on their farms.

Much attention has been given date culture at the experiment station. Mr. Packard is trying to secure a good commercial variety of the date, suited to local conditions from a number of seedlings which are growing on the farm. These will come into bearing shortly.

The soil and climatic conditions surrounding El Centro are well suited to dates. There is one date grove of nine-year-old trees to the southeast of El Centro which has returned $500 per acre to the owner.

Alfalfa is the leading crop and grows with an astounding rapidity. It seems well suited to nearly every variety of soil in the valley. It is this crop which furnishes the basis for a large cattle and dairying industry which ranks as one of the best paying farming pursuits. Alfalfa raising is also a foundation for hog raising. Hogs have been one of the best money "getters" for the last four years.

The almond seems to grow well, but this tree has not been planted extensively as yet. Some of the apricot growers have been clearing as high as $400 per acre for their early fruit shipped to the East. The Newcastle and Royal are popular varieties. The artichoke grows splendidly, but is not raised on any large scale. Asparagus has been yielding very large returns.

Experimental plantings of sugar beets show that beets can be grown testing 20 per cent. saccharine matter. This should soon become one of the leading industries. Many varieties of blackberries are successfully grown and winter cabbage produced around El Centro cannot be excelled anywhere.

CANTALOUPES, COTTON, GRAPES.

The cantaloupe is eminently adapted to this region, as is also the watermelon. Last year 182 cars of cantaloupes and twenty-seven cars of watermelons were shipped from El Centro. The important point in this culture is that the melons ripen very early and are ready for shipment long before the fruit of any other district. Some of the melon growers have cleared as high as $300 per acre, while the average profit of the majority is about $100 per acre.

Every year a larger and larger acreage is being planted to cotton and the profits obtained in this industry have been very good. For some time the industry was handicapped on account of a lack of facilities, but since cotton gins have been erected in all the leading towns of the valley many thousands of acres have been planted to this crop.

A few of the most successful cotton growers have produced as much as two bales to the acre. However, there is hardly any land in the valley which will not produce one bale and from that on up to a bale and a half and two bales, according to care and experience of the man who is growing the crop.

Both cotton and cantaloupe crops are irrigated and there is no doubt that much greater yields can be obtained under irrigation. The favorable climatic conditions in the Imperial Valley contribute a great deal to make the cotton a very superior product. The dry summer air is a great contrast to the southern humidity, where moisture is supplied by rainfall. Both the texture of the cotton, as well as the size of the crop, is greatly improved under the conditions of the Imperial.

Cowpeas and spring cucumbers grow well in gardens about El Centro. Dewberries, eggplant, eucalyptus, all varieties of figs and grains are grown with exceptional success.

One of the leading crops is grapes. All grapes ripen from two weeks to two months earlier than the same varieties grown in other parts of the State. Imperial Valley grapes command the very highest market prices on this account. One man in the El Centro district has cleared $400 on an acre of the Persian variety. There are no wine grapes grown in the valley. The Thompson seedless and the Sultana grapes are the first to ripen, generally in the latter part of May or early in June. Soil and climate are ideal for grapes and the vines are remarkably free from diseases and pests. Crops are unusually heavy.

Hemp has been found to grow thriftily. Kaffir and Egyptian corn grow remarkably rapid, with very heavy heads, and mature early.

The Eureka and Lisbon lemon are grown to some extent about El Centro. The Valencia and navel orange are produced in commercial quantities. This country is pre-eminently adapted to the pomolo or grapefruit. The fruit has an unusual amount of saccharine matter and can be eaten when picked from the tree without the addition of sugar. One man having a ranch three miles northeast of El Centro realized $750 per acre gross for his crop of grapefruit last year. This fruit is a splendid shipper.

Lettuce produces satisfactorily in the spring and fall. The licorice plant has been found to do well, as do also loquat and mulberry trees.

One of the most promising industries is olive culture. The trees are free from scales and diseases, produce exceptionally early and have very abundant crops. Some 7-year-old trees near El Centro produce as heavily as 10-year-old trees in many parts of the State.

Onions are a money producer in the Imperial. The peanut is adapted to local conditions, but is not grown commercially as yet. This also applies to chili and red peppers. Persimmons succeeded well and have been grown to some extent and the pomegranate finds a congenial home in the valley.

Pumpkins, quince, radish, rhubarb, spring spinach, squashes, strawberries, sweet potatoes, spring and fall tomatoes, beans and cauliflower can be grown commercially and to a big profit.

Some experiments have been conducted with rice culture, Australian salt brush, tobacco and sugar cane, and it is believed that these crops will be produced on a remarkable scale before very long. They have all been found to grow well with proper treatment.

Added to the commercial crops must be mentioned the fact that Imperial Valley grows a thousand varieties of beautiful ornamental trees. Flowers blossom in every garden where they are planted. The people are beginning to lay out lawns in front of their homes and the country is soon destined to become a spacious garden of luxurious trees and flowers.

A METROPOLITAN HOTEL.

The city of El Centro is soon to have a building which will eclipse any structure in the valley for its size. This is the new Barbara Worth Hotel, which is under construction and which will be completed by October 15, of this year.

Robert M. Taylor, the architect, has designed a unique building in the Barbara Worth Hotel, after a prolonged study of the conditions of the valley. Among the special features which he has introduced is an elaborate cooling system for the entire plant, which will allow the management to guarantee a uniform temperature throughout the house of 70 degrees, irrespective of atmospheric temperatures outside. There is also to be an ice manufacturing plant in the basement, with a capacity for making twelve tons, daily. Ice water will be piped to every room in the building for drinking purposes. An adequate telephone service will also be installed between the guest rooms and the office.

The Barbara Worth will be a four-story structure and will have a basement. It will contain 123 guest rooms, each room to have a bath adjoining.

Among the other structures are a spacious ballroom and a beautiful roof garden. On the second floor an elaborate interior patio will be built having an artistically laid-out flower garden, with a pretty water fountain and statuary.

A sum of $5000 is to be spent for the decoration of the walls in the lobby of the hotel. The walls are to be painted with beautiful scenes taken from the famous novel, "The Winning of Barbara Worth," written by Harold Bell Wright. The hotel is named after the heroine of the story; and the popular author, himself, is a stockholder in the company erecting the building.

INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES.

There are several enterprises needed in El Centro which would add to the development of the city. In any of these an outside investor should realize a large percentage on the capital he would invest.

In the first place houses are urgently needed. Houses to rent and houses for sale are in great demand. There is a wonderful opportunity for money to be made in this business.

There are very large quantities of scrap iron which are continually being collected and which are going to waste about El Centro and it is considered that a small foundry erected for the purpose of utilizing this material in the manufacture of window weights would find a profitable business.

A small machine shop is also needed. There are several garages which are greatly inconvenienced by having to send to Colton and Los Angeles to get their machine work done.

It is affirmed that a sugar factory established at El Centro or elsewhere in the valley would encourage the planting of thousands of acres in sugar beets. The only reason sugar beets are not grown to a very great extent is because the nearest factories are nearly two hundred miles away.

The raw product is available for a vinegar and pickling works.

A cannery is one of the dire necessities of the community, both fruits and vegetables suitable for canning purposes are grown in quantities about El Centro.

It is thought that a cheese factory would find a profitable business in the district.

A condensed milk factory should find inducements here for starting their operations.

Some think that it is not too early to advocate a rice mill. A mattress factory and a broom factory have also been suggested.

BOOSTERS.

Among the following names will be found some of the best thinkers of El Centro and her leading property holders. They invite the correspondence of the stranger who desires to secure further information on the town and district. They will be pleased to furnish accurate and reliable information regarding the local conditions and give their honest advice to prospective settlers. These people are enthusiastic up-builders who desire that a conservative, rapid and steady progress be maintained in the district. They do not wish to encourage a man to come into the country and see him fail by taking hold of a business where the local conditions are misrepresented. Every successful man in the Imperial Valley is a booster and the valley needs more of them:

MARKED SUCCESS FROM THE START.

WEST ADAMS PARK ONE OF LIVEST BUNGALOW TRACTS IN LOS ANGELES.

When Robert Marsh & Co. put the West Adams Park tract on the market two years ago there were many who believed the development of this sightly lower ground to the west of the main body of the fashionable West Adams street improvements premature and who predicted a slow and halting growth for the subdivision. As it turned out, however, the development was a timely one. West Adams Park from the day of its opening has been a scene of activity, presaging what is believed will be a steady and substantial growth of the residence district along the line of West Adams street west of the present city limits.

The tract, which is at the terminus of the West Adams car line, comprises ninety acres lying along the south side of West Adams street from Twenty-third avenue to Twenty-eighth avenue. It has for a background the Cienega Hills.

With the now assured improvement of West Adams from the city limits to its juncture with Washington boulevard, the former thoroughfare will become one of the most important links in the county good roads system and a main highway to the ocean. This is expected to have a stimulating effect upon the development of not only West Adams Park, but of other tracts, both subdivided and unsubdivided, in the same vicinity.

Thirty houses have already been completed in West Adams Park and twenty others are to be started at once by the subdividers of the property. Moderate-priced homes prevail.

Big Meet.

CORNELL WINS I.C.A.A.A. MEET.

California Finishes in Sixth Place.

Luther Nichols Stars in High Jumps.

Two Intercollegiate Marks Shattered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) May 30.—The University of Cornell's great track team literally walked away with the eastern intercollegiate championship meet today, scoring 43 points, the highest number ever made by one team. Pennsylvania came second with 31 points; Michigan third, with 29½, and Dartmouth fourth, with 23.

The University of California team finished sixth with 18 points, which is considered a splendid performance for the boys from the Pacific Coast under adverse circumstances. Nichols, the California freshman, was the star of the westerners, with a tie for first place in the high jump, and fourth in the pole vault. He cleared 6ft., 2in., in the high jump, tying with Oler of Yale.

Preble took second in the high hurdles with only several inches separating him from the winner. Coolidge placed second in the hammer throw, Bradway took third in the broad jump, and Maker placed fourth in the high jump.

J. S. Hoffmire of Cornell won the two-mile run, breaking the intercollegiate record. He covered the distance in 9m., 23.4s. Caldwell, another Cornell runner, won the half-mile run. This was the big surprise of the day, as Brown of Yale and Ted Meredith of Pennsylvania, holder of the world's record, were doped to fight it out for first place. Hoffmire's time of 1m., 53.2s., breaks the intercollegiate record and ties the American record.

A record crowd saw the meet, which was one of the best in years.

The summary:

Mile run—Speiden, Cornell; Madeira, Pennsylvania; MacKenzie, Princeton; Poucher, Yale; Hanson, Dartmouth. Time, 4m. 20 1-5s.

Shot put—Beatty (Columbia,) 46ft. 4in.; Whitney (Dartmouth,) 46ft. ½in.; Harbison (Yale,) 45ft. 6¼in.; Dorizas (Pennsylvania,) 44ft. 6⅜in.; Kohler (Michigan,) 44ft. 3⅜in.

The 440-yard dash—Meredith, Pennsylvania; Barron, Harvard; Jansen, Michigan; Wilkie, Yale; Bingham, Harvard. Time, 48 3-5s.

The 120-yard hurdles—Braun, Dartmouth; Preble, California; Brodt, Cornell; Hammitt, Pennsylvania State; Ferguson, Pennsylvania. Time, 15 3-5s.

The 100-yard dash—Bond, Michigan; Reller, Cornell; Seward, Michigan; Ingersoll, Cornell; Smith, Michigan. Time, 10s.

Two-mile run—J. S. Hoffmire, Cornell; McCurdy, Pennsylvania; Potter, Cornell; Coop, Brown; Lee, Johns Hopkins. Time, 9m. 23 4-5s. A new intercollegiate record.

Running high jump—Oler, Yale, and Nichols, California, tied for first at 6ft. 2in.; Davey, Princeton, and Morrison, Cornell, tied for third at 6ft. 1in.; E. Maker, California, fifth, 6ft.

Pole vault—Camp, Harvard; Miller, Cornell, and Buck, Dartmouth, tied for first at 12ft. 3in.; Nichols, California, and Carter, Yale, tied for fourth place at 12ft.

The 880-yard run—Caldwell, Cornell; Brown, Yale; Meredith, Pennsylvania; Capper, Harvard; Hayes, Princeton. Time, 1m. 53 2-5s. New intercollegiate record and equals American record.

Broad jump—Norcell (Dartmouth,) distance 22ft. 8in.; Brodt (Cornell,) distance 22ft. 4¾in.; Bradway (California,) distance 22ft. 2⅝in.; Laflamme (Pennsylvania,) 21ft. 6¼in.; Ferris (Michigan,) 21ft. 4in.

The 220-yard hurdles—Ferguson, Pennsylvania; Braun, Dartmouth; Shelton, Cornell; Shedden, Yale; Mason, Princeton. Time, 25 1-5s.

The 220-yard dash—Seward, Michigan; Smith, Michigan; Lockwood, Pennsylvania; Bond, Michigan, and Van Winkle, of Cornell, tied for fourth place. Time, 22s.

Hammer throw—Kohler (Michigan,) distance 157ft. ½in.; Coolidge (California,) 151ft. 4½in.; Loughridge (Yale,) 154ft. 1in.; Murphy (Pennsylvania,) 152ft. 6in.; McCutcheon (Cornell,) 151ft. 10½in.

Final score—Cornell, 43; Pennsylvania, 31; Michigan, 29½; Dartmouth, 23; Yale, 22; California, 18; Harvard, 11; Princeton, 4½; Columbia, 5; Pennsylvania State, 2; Brown, 2; Johns Hopkins, 1.

TIGERS BEAT YALE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW HAVEN (Conn.) May 30.—After Yale had played an uphill game and tied the score in the eighth inning today, Princeton came to bat in the ninth and batted in two runs, winning the first game of the annual series, 3 to 1.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—Smashing all Speedway records, Rene Thomas, driving a French mount, the De Lage, won the fourth annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this afternoon, in the remarkable time of 6 hours, 3 minutes, 45 99-100 seconds, or an average of 82.47 miles per hour for the entire grind.

Approximately seven minutes later, the smallest car of the three French Peugeots, driven by Duray, came thundering under the wire, the winner of second place.

Thomas's team-mate, Guyot, driving a De Lage, nosed out Jules Goux's Peugeot for third place, the winner of the great gasoline derby of last year taking fourth money.

OLDFIELD IN THE MONEY.

Fifth place went to Barney Oldfield, driving a Stutz, the first of the American cars to cross the tape inside the money.

In many respects it was the greatest of all the international events held at the Speedway. The closeness of the contest, in which first one driver would make a spurt to overtake Thomas in his flying De Lage, and then another, held the crowd in a high state of excitement throughout.

BOILLOT WRECKS CAR.

Boillot, the king of the European drivers, in his Peugeot, made a great effort to overtake Thomas's De Lage after the 300-mile mark. Boillot's car had moved up to second, and he managed to pull into the lead at 350 miles, closely followed by Thomas. On the 147th lap the terrific strain told and Boillot's car was out of the race with a broken frame.

The Peugeot, with Duray driving, led at the 150-mile mark, with the De Lage, driven by Guyot, a close second. The close race between these cars stirred the blood of the speed fans. The best time for 150 miles was 1 hour, 46 minutes, 20 40-100 seconds, an average of 84.63 miles an hour. At the 150th mile, the Mercer, Bragg driving, was third, and the De Lage, which Thomas was driving, fourth.

The time for 175 miles was 2 hours 3 minutes and 59.5 seconds. The two De Lage cars were leading again, Guyot holding the lead. The Peugeot, driven by Duray, was third.

BREAKS TETZLAFF'S RECORD.

Thomas, in a De Lage, broke Tetzlaff's record of 2h. 25m. and 59.52s. for 200 miles by making the distance in 2h. 23m. and 57.1s. Duray, in a Peugeot, was second; Wishart, in a Mercer, third, and Boillot, in a Peugeot, fourth, and Christiaens, in an Excelsior, fifth.

The average speed for 200 miles was 83.36 miles per hour.

The best time for 225 miles was 2h. 43m. 28.5s., a rate of 82.58 miles an hour. Thomas (De Lage) was leading Duray, in a Peugeot, was second; Boillot, in a Peugeot, was third; Wishart, in a Mercer, fourth, and Christiaens, in an Excelsior, fifth.

The Peugeot cars were making a hard fight for first and second place.

Records were shattered as fast as cars could cross the wire. At 250 miles it was practically a neck and neck race between the two rival French cars, with three Americans close upon their heels. At that point the time for the distance had been cut nearly eight minutes by the winning De Lage.

WONDERFUL SPEED.

Its time for the 250 miles was 3:00:48. The former record was established by Tetzlaff in 1912, the time being 3:7:94-100. At the 250-mile mark Thomas was running practically neck and neck with Boillot in his Peugeot. Close behind them came three Americans, in the following order: Wishart, driving a Mercer; Klein, in his King, and Bragg, driving a Mercer.

Thomas's De Lage established another track record for the 300 miles, making the distance in 3:00:37, and a fraction. Best previous record was made by Dawson in 1912, 3:48:47 and a fraction.

Closely pursuing Thomas was Boillot, in his Peugeot, and following him in the order named came Wishart in a Mercer, Duray in a Peugeot, Cooper in a Stutz, Guyot in a De Lage, and Bragg in a Mercer.

Immediately after this announcement was made, the further announcement came that Cooper in the Stutz and Bragg in a Mercer were out of the race.

AMERICANS DROP OUT.

Another announcement was made that brought more gloom to those who had been hoping an American car would win, when it was given out that the Mercer car driven by Wishart had been compelled to withdraw on the 122 lap. At the time

NEW RECORD FOR SHOTPUT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—At Celtic Park, Long Island, today, Patrick J. McDonald of the Irish-American Athletic Club made a new world's record by putting the eighteen-pound shot 46ft. 2 3-4in. The former record of 45ft. 5 3-4in. was made by the late Ralph Rose of California at San Francisco on February 23, 1913.

FIRST YACHT RACE AT CORONADO.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, May 30.—Great interest attended the opening races of the season held by the Coronado Yacht Club today. Twenty-five yachts started and hundreds of sailing and power boats were in the bay with spectators. The winners were: Class B—O. Lehua, George Gay. Time, 1h., 12m., 35s.; class C—Restless, George Leovey. Time, 1h., 5m., 7s.; class D—Flirt, H. L. Mebius. Time, 1h., 9m., 5s.; class E—Junior, Ed Seiller. Time, 1h., 19m., 7s.; class F—Kid, Walter Williams. Time, 1h., 26m., 49s. A six-mile course was covered by the sailing boats.

MERCER FIRST IN SANTA ANA RACE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, May 30.—It is estimated that 2500 people saw the twenty-five-mile free-for-all auto race here, won by Charles Wilson in a Mercer, time 29m., 35s. Gene Roe, in a Ford, was second. Wilson had a walk-away. Clapp, in a Detamble, had trouble with his cooling system. He drove a plucky race, but had hard luck in this event and in the fifteen-mile light-car race, which was won by Baker in a Metz, time 21m., 10s. Roe finished second in this race.

Three motorcycle races were staged and these furnished a number of thrills.

OVERALL SAYS HE'S THROUGH.

All doubts regarding the intentions of Orval Overall were removed yesterday.

"I have given up the idea of playing any ball this season," he declared. "I will continue in my present position with Maier."

Until this week, Overall had been seriously thinking of getting back in the game. If he stays out this season, it probably means that he is through for keeps.

OAKS-TIGERS BREAK EVEN.

Powell Hangs Up His Second Shutout.

Ramey Beats the Tigers in Afternoon.

Fans "Ride" Leard for Alleged Interference.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

The honors were hacked in half, Venice and Oakland breaking even on yesterday's two-ply attraction.

Hogan's men bumped Devlin's party in the frontispiece 4 to 0, Jack Powell hanging up his second shutout of the season.

In the afternoon the Oaks scattered considerable sorrow through our fair, young city, taking the chaser bill 5 to 2, it being a sulphurous session witnessed by one of the largest and most rabid gatherings of the year.

This places Venice under the painful necessity of taking both spats today in order to get an even break on the eight-game series. These Oaks are proving tougher than a boarding-house steak.

It was an exciting afternoon for Bill Leard. Bill got in bad with part of the population for interference with Ramey at second in the third. Bill said that he didn't mean to do it—that Ramey merely tripped over the bag. Many refused to accept the explanation, and booed every time Bill showed his head. Bill simply shook his fist a couple of times and went on sawing wood.

Fleharty was hit in eleven places, two triples and three doubles standing out with prominence. Ramey was invincible until the sixth, when he was found for a double, scoring two runs. Right after that he was yanked for a pinch hitter, and Christian pitched no-hit ball. Three bingles was the Tigers' lean total for the game.

Hetling's scratch hit, a passed ball and Fleharty's wide throw to third gave Oakland a run in the second.

Ramey tripled over Carlisle in the third, Walt slightly misjudging the lick and was nailed on a hopeless attempt to score off Middleton's grounder to the alert McDonnell. In rounding second, Ramey tripped. McCarty held that Leard had interfered and sent him on to third.

A crash of doubles by Guest and Alexander gave the Oaks their second run in the fifth.

After Kaylor had been retired in the fifth by Kane's great running catch, Zacher singled. Hetling was

7-Bearing Crank Shaft

The Packard seven-bearing crank shaft is a factor in the smooth running and long life of the car.

A rigid crank shaft is a feature of special interest to experienced motorists. In the Packard it measures up to the standard and strength which is built into every part and which distinguishes the car.

RECORDS FALL AT FORD HOME.

Large Shipment for Dealers of This Section.

High-Water Mark Reached in Assembling.

Arizona Claims Attention and Orders Stack.

Seventy-six cars left the Los Angeles Ford plant Friday morning in one shipment. These machines were all consigned to Ford agents throughout Southern California, and were driven out to the dealers.

Out of the record shipment, cars went to San Bernardino, Redlands, Riverside, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Pasadena, Long Beach and Van Nuys.

Thursday was also a record day at the local Ford establishment. Thirty-one cars were assembled. This is the greatest number ever put out in one day by the Los Angeles branch.

There were 1076 Ford machines sold in California last month. It is claimed that more than 60 per cent. of this number went into Southern California territory. The output of the assembling plant located here was 800 cars for the month. A great number of these went into Arizona, as the plant here is supposed to supply the demand of Southern California and Arizona, but, according to B. L. Graves, the local manager, orders are piled up weeks ahead.

LITTLE AUTO WINS TROPHY.

AUBURN MEN FIRST OVER HIGH SIERRAS IN METZ.

More Than Three Days of Hard Travel Required to Make Run to Truckee Through Snow and Rain to Win Tahoe Tavern Cup Offered for First Car Over This Year.

The first automobile to cross the snow-capped peaks of the Sierras this season reached Truckee last Monday morning and won the Tahoe Tavern cup. The car was a little Metz, driven by Howard Davis and Dr. J. G. Mackay of Auburn, Cal.

The parties who won the cup last year and the season before were but five hours behind the winners in the Metz.

Snow from one to five feet deep was encountered for six miles on the west side of the summit from Tamarack to Soda Springs. Mackay and Davis left Auburn Friday morning of the previous week, taking more than three days to make the trip.

Snow and rain continued to beat in their faces. The running boards of the machine had to be cut off in order to drive it through the subway under the snowsheds at the summit.

It is claimed that it will be at least ten days before the road is open to automobile travel.

TEN ELECTRICS ON LONG DRIVE.

RECORD TOUR FOR BEARDSLEY PLEASURE CARS.

First Electric Series Runs Now in Progress and Fleet of Cars Makes Stop at Mission Inn at Riverside After Sixty-five-Mile Run Over Boulevards from Los Angeles.

Ten of the new Beardsley Electrics and a party of thirty persons left Los Angeles yesterday morning on the first of a series of electric tours which are to be fostered by the Beardsley company.

The tour now in progress is said to be the longest electric pleasure-car tour on record. The run was to Riverside. The party left Los Angeles early in the morning. The first stop was at the Royal Hotel, Ontario, where luncheon was served. The fleet of electrics arrived at Riverside about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Glenwood Mission Inn was selected for the headquarters of the tourers. The run to Riverside is approximately sixty-five miles.

On the return trip today the Beardsley party is to come over the Foothill boulevard through Glendora, Azusa, Monrovia and Pasadena, arriving in this city early in the evening.

The names of those who are on the electric tour are: Dr. and Mrs. Richard Garton, Miss Grace Pease, R. H. Miller and wife, Miss Easterbrook, Mrs. J. U. Wayland, Miss Lillian Wayland, John Gossal, A. Carman Smith, Mrs. Jessie R. Barnhart, Mr. and Mrs. Volney S. Beardsley, Mr. and Mrs. Niles Pease, Miss Anne Pease, Clifton C. Edwards, S. L. Palmer and wife, Miss Palmer, J. W. Munroe and wife, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Jenks and John T. Shannon.

MOTOR HIGH JINX IS CLUB FROLIC.

Members of the local University Club are to stage a reliability run to Laguna Beach and back, June 6, in which the clubmen are to drive their own cars.

The affair has been arranged as a "high jinx" celebration, and will consume two days. This is the first time that the local club has entered the motor field and broken away from the usual indoor "jinx" programme.

CAR SOLD EVERY TWO HOURS HERE

"Figures are interesting things," says F. S. Howard who handles the reins at the local Buick Agency, "and perhaps the best means of showing the magnitude of Buick business for Southern California during the current season is by giving a few actual totals.

"Since we began delivering 1914 Buicks at the beginning of the season, the Los Angeles agency has averaged a 1914 model every two hours for every working hour during our current year. While the Howard Auto Company's contract with the Buick Motor Company calls for 10 per cent. of the entire output, the 1914 season has so far exceeded our allotment."

In Southern California alone during the 1914 season 1200 Buicks have been sold.

NEW TRAFFIC REGULATIONS.

Rules for Driving Embodied in Traffic Ordinance 29,826, Prepared for The Times by Lieut. Butler of the Los Angeles Traffic Squad. The New City Traffic Law Goes Into Effect June 6.

Drive with due regard for the safety and convenience of others.

Keep to the right when meeting other vehicles.

Travel as near the right curb as possible.

When overtaking vehicles pass to the left.

Keep slow-moving vehicles near the curb on the right.

See that you have room to make a turn in safety before attempting to make it, then give a signal to other drivers of your intention to turn. Such signal may be made with hand, whip or device attached to vehicle.

In turning a corner to the right keep near the curb.

In turning a corner to the left, go beyond the center of intersection before turning.

Stop with right wheels to curb and not more than two feet from same.

Cars cannot be backed up to the curb for parking purposes on any street in the congested district, or on any street where street cars are operated outside the congested district.

If standing at the curb, give way to any vehicle desiring to pick up or put down passengers or freight.

Enter alleys in business district from the north end and leave via south end.

Give warning before backing.

REAR OF CARS.

Stop ten feet in rear of cars loading or unloading passengers and remain standing until all passengers are safely on or have alighted. This does not apply in the business district between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. of any day.

When passing a standing car in the business district keep all vehicles four feet from car steps.

Place danger sign on all loads or parts of loads, such as pipe, lumber, etc., which project more than four feet over the vehicle at the rear.

Turn animals at right angles to vehicles backed up to curb.

Crude oil wagons not permitted in congested district between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m., except Third and Eighth streets.

Penalty for driving while intoxicated: First offense, $50 to $200 fine or 5 to 180 days in jail; second offense, 10 to 180 days in jail.

Cut-outs prohibited in city limits.

Minors under 16 years must not operate motor vehicles.

It is a misdemeanor to permit minors under 16 years of age to operate motor vehicles.

Do not drive unbroken or dangerous animals on the streets.

RIGHT OF WAY.

At crossings where no traffic officer is stationed, when two vehicles arrive simultaneously, the one approaching from the right has the right of way—i.e., always give the right of way to the vehicle approaching from your right.

Give police vehicles, fire apparatus and ambulances the right of way; pull into the curb and stop when they approach and remain standing until they have passed.

Do not unnecessarily delay any street car.

Do not cut through any funeral procession.

Look for signs on electroliers in business district and do not stand between the sign and the corner.

Do not leave a vehicle unattended within twenty feet of a fire hydrant.

Do not, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. allow animals or vehicles to stand for more than twenty minutes on the following streets, viz.: Main and Spring from Second to Seventh street; Broadway from Second to Ninth; Hill from Third to Seventh; Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh from Main to Hill; all alleys in the district bounded by First; Los Angeles, Eighth and Hill streets.

Between 4 and 6 p.m. the standing time limit on these streets is ten minutes.

STAND LIMITS.

Do not, between 8 a.m., and 6 p.m., allow animals or vehicles to stand on the following streets for more than forty-five minutes:

Los Angeles street, First to Seventh street.

Main street, Second to Commercial.

Main street, Seventh to Tenth.
Spring street, Second to Temple.
Spring street, Seventh to Ninth.
Broadway, Second to Temple.
Broadway, Ninth to Main.
Hill street, First to Second, (East side only.)
Hill street, Second to Third.
Hill street, Seventh to Tenth.
Olive street, Sixth to Seventh.
First street, Hill to Los Angeles.
Second, Third, Fourth, Winston, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh, Main to Los Angeles.
Fifth and Seventh, Hill to Olive.
Sixth, Hill to Grand.
Eighth and Ninth, Hill to Los Angeles.
Tenth, Hill to Main.

The forty-five-minute restriction does not apply on Sundays.

Do not leave animals unhitched on the street.

Do not leave vehicles within twenty-five feet of the entrance to any hospital or within ten feet of the entrance to theaters during performances. This does not include picture shows.

The speed limit in the district bounded by and including, Temple, Main, First, Central avenue, Pico and Figueroa streets is twelve miles per hour, and ten miles per hour on crossings, except crossings in the business district, where the limit is six miles per hour. Also certain important crossings outside this district where signs are posted to that effect the speed is limited to ten miles per hour.

SPEED LIMIT.

The speed outside the above district is limited to twenty miles per hour, with a jail sentence for exceeding thirty miles per hour.

Speed in passing school buildings and grounds, twelve miles per hour.

Speed in tunnels, eight miles per hour.

Display a white light towards the front and red light towards the rear of all vehicles, implements or machines on the streets at night. All lamps to be placed to the left of the center of the vehicle. This does not apply to certain vehicles transporting products of petroleum.

Automobiles must show two white lights toward the front and a red light towards the rear, while on the streets at night. Colored lights prohibited on front of vehicles.

Motorcycles must show a white light towards the front, while on the street at night and have a red light or reflex mirror at the rear.

All horseless vehicles must be equipped with suitable warning signals capable of warning pedestrians and drivers of the approach of such vehicle.

Do not use such signals unnecessarily.

Drive quietly in passing hospitals.

Do not stop vehicles on cross walks so as to inconvenience pedestrians.

THE WHISTLES.

One blast of the whistle stops north and south-bound traffic and allows east and west-bound traffic to move.

Two blasts of the wistle stops east and west-bound traffic and allows north and south-bound traffic to proceed.

Street cars turning from north to south, to east or west do so on one blast of the whistle.

Street cars turning from east or west to north or south do so on two blasts of the whistle.

When a street car takes a curve, vehicles should stop until given a signal by the officer.

Three blasts of the whistle signifies danger, all traffic should stop until released by the officer.

Drivers and motormen must comply with all signals or instructions given by the traffic officer.

When stopping at intersections leave a space of six feet between your vehicle and the one ahead of you.

Move your vehicle when requested by a police officer.

It is unlawful to deface, injure, move or interfere with any sign, post, standard or device placed for the purpose of directing traffic, or to fail or neglect to comply with any direction or instruction displayed on such sign, post or device.

It is unlawful to throw anything into the street which is likely to injure a vehicle tire.

In case of accident to animal, vehicle or person, report same to policeman or at police station immediately.

MONEY WRENCH IS SELF-STARTER.

Leon T. Shettler tells, in a sedate hour, of a circus monkey which had enjoyed cranking an Apperson Jack-Rabbit car at every opportunity offered during the last annual tour, but which nearly threw a fit when his friend, the driver, brought round a self-starting machine for this year's cruise.

Brother Monk occupied the attention of several attendants until pacified by instructions on up-to-date starting, after which he stuck to the driving seat like a wad of chewing gum.

Cadillac Standard of the World

No Sane Man Will Deliberately Throw Away Money

Not to consider the element of economy in the purchase of a motor car is to throw away money.

Cadillac economy begins when you buy the car. It gives you more real automobile, more service, more comfort, more endurance for a dollar than any other car at any price. The experienced car owner realizes the facts in Cadillac Economy and cannot be blinded to them by talk of other things.
The heaviest expense in motoring is depreciation of the car. Of all cars the Cadillac shows the least depreciation. It's true whether you figure in dollars or percentages. Any old Cadillac is always a serviceable car—look up the prices of 2, 3, 5-year-old Cadillacs—or ASK ANYBODY.
In tires, gasoline and oil the Cadillac is remarkably economical. Ask owners—no competitors—and get the truth. All tire makers guarantee their tires on Cadillacs the same as on other cars, and the tires average more than the guaranties. The Cadillac will run farther on a gallon of gasoline than any car of its power. Its average of 100 miles on a pint of lubricating oil is not equaled by any other car ever built. So in running expense, too, the Cadillac owner has all the best of it.

HIGHWAY EDUCATION BY AUTO LANDMARK CONTEST.

Motorists Enthusiastic Over Auto Club's Campaign Which Is to Cover All Scenic Roads of Southern California and Prepare Local Automobilists to Direct Visiting Motor Parties from the East Next Year.

THERE is no place like home to tour.

Officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California have learned that Southern California motorists are enthusiastic supporters of home touring.

With the increasing interest in the Auto Club's landmark contest, letters have been received at club headquarters endorsing the movement to interest local automobile owners in scenes and roads close to Los Angeles.

"Why go abroad?" they say, "when we have such splendid roads right here south of the Tehachepi?"

ANSWERS FILED.

The Landmark Contest Committee in conference has determined to preserve on file all answers to the contest for future reference in the growing enthusiasm throughout the southern part of the State in touring conditions and the development of good roads.

Letters pouring into the committee request representation of new territories, until the automobile editor of The Times is at a loss to find opportunity to show different cars in all of them. As many of the requests as possible will be granted.

One enthusiastic local motorist has asked that all issues of The Times carrying landmark pictures in them be forwarded to the East, where he is spending a vacation, so that he may keep in touch with the road progress in Southern California.

Another suggests that pictures of all the missions be run in connection with the landmark contest, showing well-known cars at their gates so that Californians will be prepared to answer all questions in 1915 on the historical landmarks of the State.

"For instance," he points out, "how many motorists can off-hand, tell me the location of the Santa Ynez mission, or the Mission San Jose? Not one out of twenty. The auto club is doing so much good work it might incorporate in its plan of educating the motorist some such education on the name and location of all the missions so that each resident of the State will be a walking information bureau in the Exposition year."

The Contest Committee is considering some such plan at the present time, and as a result of the popularity of the landmark contest may continue the idea in a general campaign for the education of the automobile owners in the natural history of California so that each will be prepared to assist the auto club in its work of directing the traveler from the East next year.

IMPERIAL, TOO.

Plans are being made at the present time for giving the Imperial Valley representation in the landmark contest, and a special car will be soon sent to the valley to gather data and take pictures of well-known spots for use in the contest.

It is planned by the committee to incorporate pictures of new roads which have been opened recently, so that motorists will learn where they are and travel over them instead of limiting his Sunday trips to the same prescribed territory each week.

"We want all automobile people to become interested in the work which the State Highway Commission and the County Supervisors have been doing in opening new territory," said Secretary Mitchell yesterday. "By doing this we feel that each picture is a boost for Southern California."

Motors Score.

TIME SAVED ON SCENIC YOSEMITE VALLEY ROAD.

A GREAT victory for modern auto passenger traffic was scored when the old style horse stage on the twelve-mile scenic road from El Portal, Yosemite Valley Railroad terminal, was replaced by the modern motor stage.

The ingoing time from the park line to the valley has been cut from four hours to one and one-half hours, by the motor stages. This eliminates layovers and brings the Yosemite Valley several hours nearer to Los Angeles.

The train schedules of both the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific Valley lines have been revised to meet the improved condition brought about by the auto stage service.

The government has spent thousands of dollars in installing a new road sprinkling system and improving the road bed for the motor stages now in use. Comfort, safety and convenience have been effectively safeguarded in perfecting this artery of passenger traffic that connects the scenic beauties of the high Sierras with the lower altitudes of the State.

Easy Money.

LITTLE SPENT KEEPING AUTOMOBILE RUNNING.

WHEN JOSEPH DOLE placed a deposit for a Chalmers light six with F. M. Headlee of the Chalmers Los Angeles company last week, he also placed in Headlee's hands a statement showing the exact cost of running a 1911 Chalmers that he has been driving for the past three years.

This data showed that for three years the entire cost of operating the Chalmers had been but $13.80 a month.

The motorist claims that the motor car was one of the best investments he ever made. The car has been a source of enjoyment to the Dole family at all times. Dole says that he attributes his wife's good health largely to the outdoor life they have been able to enjoy with the car. . .

"Before we had our car," says Dole, "we would put off making trips to the mountains or beaches on account of the trouble of getting there and back. With the motor car, the means is always at hand. We commenced taking long trips and I was surprised to find that instead of the novelty wearing off, we get just as much enjoyment out of motoring now as we did the first month we had the car."

The Dole family is planning a trip into the Yosemite in the new Chalmers. The tour is then to be continued up to San Francisco and will consume about six weeks in all.

Long Journey.

EXTENDED MOTOR TRIP FOR AUSTRALIAN DRIVER.

A VACATION tour, which is to last eight months, is now being enjoyed by Walter M. Baer, an Australian cattle king, who left Los Angeles last week in his Winton "Six."

The tourist is a native-born American. Twenty years ago he went to Australia and engaged in cattle raising. A short time ago he wrote to H. L. Sweeney, Pacific Coast distributor for the Winton, to have a Winton "Six" equipped and ready for a world tour when he reached San Francisco.

The plans called for a body especially built for touring purposes.

The first stop was made at Los Angeles after the drive down the coast route. From here the Winton party started east over the southern route.

Baer was accompanied by Kelly Grant, a prominent Melbourne attorney, and Wallace Wright of Cleveland. It is planned to make a stop of several weeks in Cleveland, where Baer spent his boyhood. They are to leave for Europe later in the summer.

Three-wheeled machines have effected a lowering of the taxicab in Goteborg, Sweden. So far seven cars are in service, operating for fares 25 per cent. less than those charged by the four-wheeled taxicabs.

HUPMOBILE WINS STIFF HILL TEST.

Bob Greer lately carried a passenger up the Palomar Mountain grade in a little Hupmobile, landing him at the top without stop or hesitation.

After negotiating this most difficult of San Diego hills, the demonstrator was surprised at the statement of the pleased guest that three different high-priced cars had failed in attempts to take him to the summit. The customer straightaway did the proper thing by purchasing a four-passenger Hupmobile.

Wise buyers know there are only two or three full sized, first-class Sixes in the market today that will stand the test and can be sold for less than $2000. Of these, the LEWIS Six stands foremost—the BEST BUY in Los Angeles at $1750: It's a $2250 car.

MANY MOTORS NOW IN JAPAN.

Yokohama Dealer Is Visitor to Los Angeles.

Nippon Auto Club Is Strong Touring Body.

Cars Gain Great Popularity in Short Time.

Henry W. Andrews, Yokohama agent for Cadillac cars and one of the motor pioneers of Japan, is visiting in California.

Two years ago there were not more than 100 cars in the empire. The sight of one, in any but the largest cities, brought whole towns into the streets, and often the drivers were stoned, so great was the aversion of the people to the self-propelled vehicle. But today there are more than 1500 automobiles in Japan.

The roads, not only near Yokohama and Tokio, but in outlying parts, are being repaired to meet the requirements of automobile traffic. The Nippon Automobile Club has been organized. Many government officials are members of the organization. The club issues road maps and is engaged in placing sign posts.

The good roads movement is popular. One stretch of 167 miles from Yokohama to Nikko has been macadamized. Most of the improved highways are being constructed of macadam.

Military roads across the island are being constructed to aid in transportation of soldiers, which heretofore has been one of the big problems in army maneuvers.

Gasoline is supplied in all the large cities and most of the small towns at 32 cents a gallon.

High Climber.

MACHINE SOLD AFTER HARD DEMONSTRATION.

A CAR was sold last week by W. A. Hoblit of the local Franklin agency after a convincing demonstration.

W. G. Drew of this city called at the Franklin agency and was given a demonstration in the Franklin Six-Thirty. W. G. Hoblit was the salesman on the job and he first drove out West First street where the bumps and ruts will do justice to a neglected country lane. Hoblit says this street is a disgrace to the city, but a good place to demonstrate a car.

The car was driven over the rough places at a speedy clip and the prospective purchaser was well satisfied. He called at the agency again the following day and asked for just one more test. He wanted to see the car climb Mt. Wilson.

With five passengers the little machine was driven to the top of the mountain in one hour and five minutes. The engine was not stopped on the run, although it was low gear work most of the way.

At the top Hoblit placed his cheek and then his tongue against the engine hood to prove that it was not over-heated.

That was just about enough. Hoblit presented Ralph Hamlin with the check signed by W. G. Drew that evening as the result.

NEW LINE TAKEN ON BY THE MISSION COMPANY.

THE Mission Motor Car Company has taken the Southern California agency for the Glide car. The Glide is built at Peoria, Ill., and while little is known of this car here, it is built by one of the oldest motor car factories in America.

For the past twelve years, this factory has been marketing cars and in the past two seasons the production has been increased until the concern is in a position to take care of more territory. R. A. Whitney, one of the veteran automobile men of the country, was sent out from the factory and placed in charge of the sales on the Pacific Coast.

After investigating conditions in Los Angeles, the factory representative concluded satisfactory arrangements with the Mission Motor Car Company for the Glide agency for all of Southern California. A full line of parts and supplies will be carried by the local distributors.

Recently the Mission concern was reorganized. G. P. Fallis is now president. H. L. Palmer is secretary and manager. The interests of these two men were purchased from Y. R. del Valle. E. E. Battey has also become interested in the company, and is to devote his entire time to the handling of Glide cars.

The Glide factory representative is making his headquarters at the new agency on South Grand avenue.

The Mission company will continue to handle the Detroiter cars and Kohler trucks.

A series of five lectures on the care and operation of the automobile is being given in thirty cities in Iowa by R. E. Davis, in charge of this special branch of the engineering extension department of Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa.

"Nonolio"---a Real Polish---Demonstrated

DAMON'S NONOLIO

Damon's "Nonolio," a new body polish that contains no oil to gather dust, gets its first public demonstration in Bullock's Auto Supply Section on Monday.

—It has been tried out privately—as is evidenced by its use by 19 of this city's foremost distributors of automobiles.

"Nonolio" gives a high and lasting luster to which dust will not adhere.

—That's a strong statement. But the maker of the polish will be here on Monday to prove it—prove it to you on your own car.

The Auto Coat Sale Continues---$1.95

—Those wonderful R. and W. auto coats of khaki for $1.95—high collared, long sleeved, loose fitting coats that were made to sell at ever so much more—

—The great distribution will continue on Monday. Come to Bullock's for your new auto coat at the ridiculously low price of $1.95—1st floor.

Better Roads.

MOTOR TOURING ROUTES TO BE IMPROVED SOON.

THE STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION is planning, through the cooperation of Sacramento, Yolo, Napa, Sonoma, Marin, El Dorado, Solano and Contra Costa counties, a paved east and west highway which will improve touring conditions between San Francisco and Lake Tahoe.

Clarence Smith, president of the Automobile Dealers' Association, and local Peerless agent, who has recently returned from San Francisco, brings news of the proposed improvement and declares that it will greatly increase the enjoyment of touring throughout Central California.

One of the difficult engineering feats of the proposed road is a 16,000 foot causeway, a motor road on stilts, which will be built across the Yolo bypass, giving an approach to Sacramento which will connect at Davis with the highway along the western side of the Sacramento Valley.

This great trestle is to be built almost entirely of concrete. Bids for the construction will be received by the State Highway Commission June 8.

A scenic drive through Contra Costa will be part of the east and west road.

A proposed improvement which will greatly benefit Sonoma, Marin and Napa counties is an air line into Sausalito, which will greatly shorten the distance into San Francisco. This cut-off will serve to open the rich Sonoma and Napa valleys and will form part of a delightful around-the-bay tour. Napa, Sonoma and Marin counties have agreed to pay bonuses totaling $175,000 for the construction of the road.

CITY CLEAN-UP BY MOTOR POWER.

Culver City has planned a city clean-up.

The Chase motor truck agency is to operate a gasoline tractor over every unoccupied piece of property in the town. Each lot is to be graded and surfaced by the tractor until all that is needed for the lawn is the seed.

TRAILERS SAVING.

Truck trailers are materially decreasing costs of moving materials, particularly in construction lines. The Dale Engineering Company, using a Peerless truck and trailer in building roads near Auburn, N. Y., save $44.10 daily, equivalent to half the amount of horse service.

Overland

Prices, f. o. b. Toledo.

$1200 worth for $950

—And a better car in the bargain

ALL values are judged by comparison. You size up the worth and quality of any one article, by comparing it with several other similar articles. Then, and only then, you are in a position to make the most practical, intelligent and economical choice.

Therefore, before you choose your automobile, carefully compare the specifications, quality and equipment of the $950 Overland with the description of any of the $1200 cars. You'll find no material difference.

For instance:

The $950 Overland has a wheel base of 114 inches. A good many $1200 cars have even a shorter wheel base than this.

The $950 Overland has a thirty-five horsepower motor. Do you know of any $1200 car that can give you more power?

The $950 Overland has 33 inch x 4 inch tires. Again the same—in both size and quality—that you find on most $1200 cars.

The $950 Overland has electric lights throughout—exactly the same as any of the highest priced cars.

The $950 Overland is as roomy, comfortable and as luxuriously finished as any $1200 car.

The Overland equipment is just as complete, and of just as high a quality as the equipment of any $1200 car.

The steels used in the Overland are of the very highest grade; in fact the metals and materials used in the Overland are of the same quality as those found in the most costly cars in the world.

The Overland is just as accurately and precisely produced as any car on the market—regardless of price.

The more you compare this $950 car with cars costing 30% and even 40% more—the more you are brought to realize that to pay more than $950 for this type of car is absolutely unnecessary.

The Overland costs you less, because of our greater production.

Other manufacturers must charge you more, because of their smaller production.

And that is why the Overland is outselling every other similar car made. We are delivering 5000 Overlands a month right now.

Telephone our dealer for your appointment.

Moonlight Stuff.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN IS POPULAR NIGHT TOUR.

WITH many motorists night touring is a popular sport. There are many excellent roads for moonlight tours in Southern California, but one of the most beautiful night rides for the motorist is up Lookout Mountain.

Hundreds of drivers have climbed the mountain back of Hollywood in the daytime; but have overlooked the trip after dark.

Last Thursday night Cecil Smith of the Moreland Motor Truck Company drove his Hupmobile up the mountain road. He was accompanied by Gene Doyle and Harry Cline and the members of the party all pronounced it a better trip at night than in the daytime.

The lights of Los Angeles appear below like jewels. The whole city is spread out at the foot of the mountain. The beach cities and towns along the Foothill boulevard are all plainly visible.

The winding mountain drive is a feature of the trip and not at all dangerous with an experienced driver at the wheel. Lookout Inn is located at the summit, 1500 feet high. The top of the mountain is just eleven miles from the Times Building, according to the speedometer of Smith's Hupmobile. The roads are good all the way.

G. D. Bailey, who owns Lookout Inn, is well prepared to take care of automobile parties. He has a dance floor and makes a specialty of night motor crowds.

SESPE RIVER ROAD SOON TO BE BUILT.

Within a few days George J. Henley will have the automobile road completed to Henley's Camp. At present the road is finished to within a few hundred yards of the camp.

Henley is supplying the funds for rebuilding the road, which was washed out by the winter rains. The storms damaged the road to such an extent that it was at first believed that it would be impossible to repair it.

The Sespe Canyon is known to be one of the beauty spots of Southern California. The river is very clear at present and much lower than it was a month ago. Some excellent trout catches have been reported during the past week.

WHITE TRUCK SALES.

Eleven White trucks have been delivered to the Los Angeles Brewing Company by the Pioneer Commercial Auto Company within the past six months, the last being a five-ton vehicle with stake body. Combination passenger and freight trucks have also been sold to the county of San Bernardino for use of its surveyors.

GREAT LOCAL TIRE FIELD.

Pasadena Has the Largest Agency for One Brand.

Record Deliveries Made With Motor Trucks.

Three Months' Supply Held at Branch House.

Pasadena is a great [illegible] tire field.

The monthly order from the Firestone agents alone is from [illegible] 500 tires. The monthly shipment from Los Angeles Firestone [illegible] which was delivered on a G.M.C. truck last week, represented [illegible] than $12,000 in rubber.

The Penn Oil and [illegible] Company, Pasadena Firestone agents, maintains the largest exclusive Firestone agency in the State, according to A. T. Smith, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company.

It is not necessary for the [illegible] agents in the surburban towns to carry a large supply of tires in stock. With the two motor trucks, operated by the local branch, deliveries can be made on short notice. Quick [illegible] are made all over Southern California with the company's trucks and the agents are compelled to carry only a small amount of rubber in stock.

A supply sufficient to last [illegible] months is carried at the Firestone branch. This represents about [illegible]000 in tubes and casings, [illegible] in solid rubber truck tires, [illegible] in fabric and about $2000 in [illegible] bands, special tire goods and other supplies.

Every month 1600 Ford tires [illegible] leave the Firestone branch.

Another important department of the company's business here is the solid tire service station. Workmen are kept on the job day and night. A truck brought in by 5 o'clock in the evening is ready to go out at 7 o'clock the following morning, requiring no loss of time for the operator.

FAST COURT PLAY ON Y.M.C.A. FIELD.

The principal attraction, [illegible] as there were only a couple of [illegible] matches scheduled, at the [illegible] tennis tourney at the Y.M.C.A. [illegible] was the appearance of Tom [illegible] national doubles champion.

The crowd went away disappointed, however, because Tom didn't have to show a thing to win. He [illegible] both of his matches in hollow [illegible] and contented himself for the [illegible] part of the time with trying [illegible] strokes. His two victims were [illegible] (½-30,) who went down 6-2, 6-[illegible] Mundy (½-30,) who was a [illegible]ler, as Bundy was warmed up, the score this time being 6-0, 6-2.

The first set Sinsabaugh took [illegible] a mighty struggle, 8-6, and [illegible] came back with a terrific [illegible]ing the second set 6-1 and [illegible] the first three games in the [illegible] set. Right there the veteran called a halt. About two or three [illegible] which found the net were [illegible] to get Mr. Warren's temper [illegible] goat, and the result was that Sinsabaugh had an easy time of it, [illegible] the match out with six straight [illegible].

A big surprise of the tourney was pulled off rather early, when [illegible] Johnson, hailing from [illegible] School, defeated Jessie Grie[illegible] year's champion. The complete score was 6 2, 1-6, 8-6.

The results of the day's play [illegible]

Women's singles: Miss [illegible] (½-15) defeated Miss [illegible] (scratch,) 6-2, 1-6, 8-6; Miss [illegible] (½-30) defeated Miss Arms[illegible] 6-1, 8-6.

Men's singles: Barber [illegible] defeated Shook (15,) 7-5, 6-[illegible] (½-15) defeated Goodwin [illegible] 6-1; Sinsabaugh (scratch) [illegible] Warren (½-15,) 8-6, 1-6, 6-[illegible] sha (30) defeated Jackson [illegible] 6-4; McCormick (scratch) [illegible] Byers (½-30,) 6-2, 6-2; [illegible] defeated Sindorf (15,) 6-2, [illegible] Horrell (½-15) defeated [illegible] 6-3, 6-3; Huse (30) defeated [illegible] (½-15,) 6-3, 6-1; Mundy [illegible] defeated Weller (15,) 6-1, 6-[illegible] (½-30) defeated Barker [illegible] 6-1, 5-7, 6-2; Bundy (scratch) defeated Belden (½-30,) 6-[illegible] ker (½-15) defeated Donley [illegible] 6-1, 6-1; E. Opening.

NEW BLOOD IN AUTO CIRCLES.

Don Carlton Joins Ranks of Motor Dealers.

Two Lines to Be Handled by the Concern.

Well-Known Racer Has Interests Also.

With the formal opening of new quarters at Tenth and Hope streets tomorrow, the Fiat and McFarland lines pass into new hands in Los Angeles.

The newly-organized Carlton-Faulkner-Bowles Company has taken over these agencies. The new building has been completed and the newcomers in motor trade circles start business in one of the best adapted motor establishments in the city.

The cars are displayed in a room entirely separate from the garage. In this case the garage and shop are on the second floor, and are reached by a large freight elevator entered from Tenth street.

The first cars seen on the floor will be the late McFarland models, but there is a shipment of Fiats on the way. These should be here next week. Their arrival should be an event in motor circles.

Don Carlton, Al G. Faulkner and A. [illegible] Bowles compose the new firm. Carlton is head of a large oil company and is one of the best-known young business men in California. He will take an active interest in the new firm.

Faulkner is known throughout California as an automobile man of ability. He has been connected with leading firms in the capacity of sales manager, and is also known as a race driver of nerve and ability.

He went into racing purely for the love of the sport, and won himself a place in a short time. He will be active in the management of the new company.

Bowles is the Pacific Coast manager for the Dixon Crucible Company, and makes his headquarters in San Francisco. He is a man whose hobby has always been high-grade motor cars.

Whether or not the Fiat will continue to be prominent in racing circles Faulkner is not ready to say, but it is a safe prediction that it will be seen as usual in all the Coast events.

Efficiency.

MANY SERVICE STATIONS OPEN.

BRANCH OF INDUSTRY IS WELD DEVELOPED HERE.

Mechanics Are Trained by Service Manager and Repairs or Adjustments May Be Had Throughout the City by System Made Necessary by Increasing Number of Autos.

One of the most extensive service systems in the West is maintained here by the Studebaker corporation. There are just thirty-six Studebaker service stations within the city limits of Los Angeles.

The Studebaker service system was inaugurated January 1, of this year. There were twelve stations installed at that time. Previous to that date, there was one central service station with a fleet of service cars.

These stations are all controlled by the corporation, and located throughout the city so as to be convenient for the owner.

During the guarantee period, cars may be taken to the nearest station for adjustment and the owner will receive the same attention as at the main service station. After the guarantee period, the same rate will be charged at any of the corporation's stations. The bills and charges made at all stations are audited and work inspected regularly by L. J. Wagner, local service manager for the Studebaker concern.

Before a garage owner can have his place become a Studebaker station he must first have the service manager spend ten days at his place, instructing his men in the care of cars of this make. Many of the mechanics are trained at the main Studebaker plant on East Seventh street.

Following is a complete list of the Studebaker service stations in Los Angeles:

Vermont-avenue Garage, Vermont avenue and Fifty-fifth street; Shannon's Machine Shop, Thirty-fifth and [illegible]; Woodward's Garage and Machine Shop, Pico and Alvarado; Pico-[illegible] Garage, No. 4158 West [illegible] street; West Adams Garage, No. [illegible] West Adams street; Tunnel [illegible] West [illegible], No. 920 West Second street; [illegible], No. 715 West College [illegible]; Park View Garage, No. 2416 West Seventh street; Russell Motor Company, No. 1321 West Washington street; Huntington Park Garage, No. 211 North Pacific boulevard; Euclid Heights Garage, No. 2931 [illegible] avenue; Wall-street Garage, No. 624 Wall street; Eagle Rock [illegible], No. 222 Colorado boulevard, [illegible]; Western-avenue Garage, No. [illegible] South Western avenue; A. L. [illegible] Motor Car Company, No. 6658 [illegible] boulevard; Spark's Garage, No. [illegible] West Pico street; Bunker [illegible] Garage, No. 126 North Grand [illegible]; E. D. Nutter, No. 119 West [illegible] street; Normandie Garage, No. [illegible] Normandie avenue; Sixth-street Garage, No. 1330 West [illegible] street; P. N. Hansen, No. [illegible] East First street; American Auto [illegible] and Repair Company, No. [illegible] North Main street; Pasadena-avenue Garage, No. 2616 Pasadena avenue; Sunset Garage, No. 2112 Sunset boulevard; Ziegler's Garage, No. 611 [illegible] Western avenue; Clemm Garage and Repair Company, No. 3056 [illegible] Pico street; Arlington Garage, No. [illegible] West Washington street; L. [illegible], No. 2924 West Pico street; [illegible] Garage, Vermont and Hollywood boulevard; Highland Park [illegible], No. 6028 Pasadena avenue; Broadway Garage, No. 2213 [illegible] Broadway; Acme Auto and Repair Company, No. 5106 Central avenue; Campbell Garage, No. 8611 [illegible] Main street; University Garage, No. [illegible] Vermont avenue; Johnson [illegible] Stephenson Garage and Machine [illegible], No. 1121 West Ninth street; [illegible] Repair Shop, No. 1840 [illegible] Main street.

The new McFarlan Six.

Don Carlton driving, accompanied by Al G. Faulkner, in latest model McFarlan "Six." Carlton and Faulkner are officials of the concern which has just taken over the agencies for the Fiat and McFarlan lines.

SHOWS BUSINESS.

The local Fisher Manufacturing Company, which makes a rim-grip subcasing for automobile tires, uses a ton of Firestone fabric each week and the local Firestone branch keeps several tons of fabric in stock for this concern.

GREATER SPEED.

Manager Jenkins of the Master Carburetor Company received the report of a recent Master test in Europe last week, and with the Los Angeles-made carburetor. The Mercedes racer on which it was used showed six miles an hour added speed.

CAR MARATHON.

In Los Angeles, where virtually all delivery is by motor cars and trucks, the Studebaker delivery car of Morris Green has accumulated a speedometer record of 19,500 miles in thirteen months, and is still running on its second set of pneumatic tires.

NEW AGENCIES ARE PLACED BY DEALER.

Charles H. Thompson, local Jackson agent, has been busy lining up agents throughout Southern California.

In San Diego the Jackson will be handled by the Baers Garage Company. In Fullerton Sitton's Garage has taken the agency, and in Santa Ana the Thielan machine shop and garage will be the representatives in that territory. Rieckhoff's Garage secured the contract for Riverside.

Last week Thompson made a roundup of all the agencies, driving a Jackson roadster that has already traveled over 70,000 miles over California and Arizona roads.

FAST CARS FOR SIOUX CITY MEET.

A number of fast foreign cars are practically assured for the 300-mile sweepstake on the Sioux City speedway, July 4.

A purse of $25,000 is offered for the 300-mile race and a like sum is offered for the sprints and other events which are to be a part of the Sioux City race programme. This amount should lure the fast foreign racers.

W. F. Bradley, foreign representative for the Sioux City speedway, is confident that the Belgian Excelsior and German Bugatti will be among the starters.

Preventive Ounce.

SAVE TIRES BY BULLETIN GOODYEAR COURSE STUDY.

PROPER tire use and preservation is covered in a series of eighteen bulletins issued by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, all indexed under appropriate heads.

Under-inflation, cuts, jolts, repairs, tubes, sudden starts or stops, wheel alignment, French talc, scraping ruts and curbs, car tracks, chains, sharp obstructions, grease, oil and acids, rim rust and uncovered tubes or tires are all treated from the points of long experience.

Car owners cannot fail of benefit which is the object of the pamphlets.

In line with the movement inaugurated by the Motor Truck Club of America, a motor truck association has been organized in Philadelphia. Twenty of the twenty-six motor truck concerns in the city are members.

Much Thicker Tires

You get out of a tire in real wear just what the manufacturer puts into the tire.

Actual measurements of cross-sections of the leading makes of rough tread and smooth tread tires prove that the tread of "Nobby Tread" Tires is very much thicker than other tires.

This unusual extra thickness in addition to the extra thick, strong shoe underneath means just so much more real tire wear.

This is one of the reasons why experts call "Nobby Treads"

Business Basis Tires

Automobile owners everywhere are rapidly learning to buy tires on a real business basis, viz:—the basis of ultimate economy.

And remember this—investigations prove that with "Nobby Tread" Tires punctures are 90% less than with the average tire.

These are the reasons why "Nobby Tread" Tires are today the largest selling high-grade anti-skid tires in the world.

Based upon their remarkable mileage records

"Nobby Tread" Tires

are now sold under our regular warranty—perfect workmanship and material—BUT any adjustments are on a basis of

5,000 Miles

Thousands upon thousands of veteran motorists now use "Nobby Tread" Tires on their front and rear wheels through all seasons, because they give real anti-skid protection and the lowest cost per mile.

Tires at One-Half

The One-Time Price for Goodyears

In 1909, No-Rim-Cut tires sold at nearly twice the prices of today.

Rubber cost has dropped since. But the great fact is that last year we made eleven times as many tires. In some single days we now build more than 10,000 motor tires.

This great demand has cut factory cost immensely. And our profit last year averaged only 6½ per cent.

16 Higher Prices

Now 16 makes of tires will cost you more than Goodyear prices—up to one-half more. And you are told, of course, that they are "quality tires."

But what is a quality tire?

It must, in these days, be a tire that can't rim-cut. And we control the only way to make a satisfactory tire of that type.

It must minimize blow-outs. We alone use the "On-Air" cure—at an extra cost of $1,500 daily. That's the only way to save the countless blow-outs due to wrinkled fabric.

It must resist tread separation. We alone use a patent method which reduces this danger 60 per cent.

And it must be efficient as an anti-skid. The most efficient is our double-thick All-Weather tread. And that alone gives an anti-skid all the smoothness of a plain tread.

This is Really the Quality Tire

Because of these features, No-Rim-Cut tires used to sell much higher than other standard tires. Because of these features, they have come to outsell any rival.

They hold top place in Tiredom. And this matchless prestige, after all these years, marks them the quality tire.

No tire is worth more than a Goodyear. In four ways—the four we mention—no tire is worth as much. Ask any user—he'll gladly confirm this.

That Junior Race.

FUTURE SPEED MARVELS OFFER CLASSY NUMBERS.

A NEW kid speed king was unearthed at Ascot Park yesterday afternoon. Just about 12,000 motor-race fans saw the finish of the forty-mile Junior Sweepstakes race, which was won by Harry Hartz. His time was 50m. 27 2-5s.

Mott Hains, driving the Baby Mercer No. 4, finished a few seconds ahead of Hartz and was thought to be the winner until the time was figured. The Baby Buick was in the lead at the thirty-first mile, when a front tire came off. Walter Mushrush finished the race on the rim, but he was gradually forced back with his crippled car and took a place well down the list.

The two Baby Stutz cars did not start. During practice a few hours before the race both cars were wrecked. Jimmie Woodward in No. 3 went into the fence and narrowly escaped serious injury. Alex Pabst in No. 8 turned over on a turn and broke about everything on his car except the name.

The Baby Maxwell also failed to take the track. An accident just before the race kept the fast little machine out of the contests.

Forty cars lined up for the start. When the young drivers started their motors, it sounded like an overstocked managerie and smelt worse. Leonard Jones flopped the flag, and there was action.

BUICK CLIMBS.

The three Mercers and the Buick began to crawl up on the rest of the sputtering speeders. For several laps the Buick and Mercer No. 2 battled even and then the Buick climbed out in the lead.

Little attention had been paid to Harry Hartz in his D.D.D. car, a low, red creation with big black wheels. The Lincoln Bullet, was lapped a few times and one by one the rest of the fast little cars were passed. Mott Hains in his Mercer put up a great fight, but was passed.

The big fight was with the Buick. The two cars came down the straightaway together and held to the pole. On the turn the two machines brushed and the Buick went about two feet in the air and skidded across the track. That gave Hartz the lead which he held to the thirtieth mile, then he went bad.

MERCERS WIN.

Fifth place was what the D.D.D. had when she finally came around. Then the Buick chucked a tire and lost out. The Mercer dropped a belt and the D.D.D. out from behind and finished with a few seconds to the good.

It was in the fifteen-mile event that the little Mercers did the cleaning. Mott Hains and Harold took first and second in two Mercer modelettes and Homer Lodenclaus in the P.C. car, took third. Hains's time was 18m. 34 3-5s.

The ten-mile single-cylinder-car race was won by Shirley Williams in a Theim. The Brockway was second and Conway Barbour in his Great Western landed third. The time for the Thiem was 26m., flat.

THOMPSON WINS IN SOUTH ON FOUL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, May 29.—George Thompson, local bantam, won from Danny Lyons of Los Angeles on a foul in the third round of their scheduled four-round go here tonight. Thompson had the best of the going up to the time the low blow was struck, and battled Lyons all over the ring in the second.

It appeared as though a knockout were imminent in that session, but Lyons came back strong in the third.

In the second round Lyons unintentionally hit Thompson low and Referee McMahon cautioned Danny. In the third they were exchanging a volley of lefts and rights to the body when Lyons again hit low and was cautioned. This punch appeared to hit George in the groin. A second later Danny shot a hard right swing which caught Thompson on the hip and groin and McMahon stopped the go.

Kid Julian knocked out Gene Rado in round two with a left to the stomach, followed by a right cross to the jaw. Julian won all the way. There were three other preliminaries.

DOWNS AND HARLEY IN HEAD-ON RACE.

Leo Downs, a Hupmobile enthusiast of Los Angeles, who is recuperating from injuries received in the wreck at Vineyard last year, and Jack Harley, owner of a high-priced machine in Ione, N. Y., have agreed upon a novel transcontinental race between their cars.

Simultaneously starting early in June, from their respective homes, the two friends aproach each other at their best speed, each carrying as passenger a judge representing the other party. The loser in elapsed time pays all expenses of both parties entirely across the country.

OHIO GOOD ROADS.

Ohio is building annually 300 miles of improved highways, about equally divided between brick and concrete construction. Brick is most expensive, costing $1379 for each strip one foot wide and a mile long, or about 50 per cent. more than concrete.

BEST MOTOR FIELD HERE.

Hamlin Brings Report from Eastern Factory.

Visited Plant After Shrine Conclave Gathering.

Sells More Cars Than Other Dealers of Line.

Southern California is the best territory for the Franklin car in the United States. More machines of that make are sold here than in any other territory and the line is represented by the oldest exclusive dealer in this section. R. C. Hamlin has been handling the Franklin exclusively in this territory since the spring of 1904.

R. C. Hamlin visited the Franklin factory before returning to Los Angeles from the Shrine conclave at Atlanta and returned with the belief that America's leading Franklin dealer is located in Los Angeles.

The factory is turning out more cars than ever before and the plant is operating more successfully than ever before, from the efficiency standpoint. This is said to be due to the fact that the concern has made a special of the six-cylinder model this season.

Hamlin returned to find just one car on the floor of his salesroom. A car load each week since the opening of the season is the record of the local agent and he is doubling up on his order for June.

KNOX COMPANY IN THE GAME.

BUSINESS AFFAIRS ARRANGED SATISFACTORILY.

One of Oldest Motor Car Manufacturing Companies in United States Reported on Way to New Plane of Prosperity Which Will Re-establish Line Throughout Country.

Friends of the Knox Automobile Company have been pleased that the final outcome of the company's affairs has been so satisfactorily arranged.

The Knox Company was one of the old original automobile manufacturers in the United States, putting out its first car in 1899. Its product early found its way into every State in the Union and into a large number of foreign countries.

The recent sale of the property to E. O. Sutton of Springfield, Mass., which has been confirmed by the court, has placed it in the hands of parties who will take up the active promotion of the company's business and extend it on a much wider scope of national standing than it has ever enjoyed before.

Present indications point to the early placing of the Knox Company upon a new plane of prosperity that will undoubtedly make it one of the strongest automobile concerns in the East.

SPARK PLUGS SHOW GROWTH.

AUTO INDUSTRY CALLS [illegible] ACCESSORY SUPPLY.

In Four Years Factory [illegible] Until Output of One Day Is More Than That of Entire Month in Days When Company Was Young and Autos Were Not So Numerous.

With the announcement that it is now turning out an average of 24,000 spark plugs a day, the Champion Spark Plug Company of Toledo, O., has given another striking illustration of the marvelous growth of the automobile industry.

For a concern engaged in the manufacture of a small, but important part of an automobile, this company's rise in the industry has been a wonderful demonstration of business development.

Four years ago the company began the manufacture of its product in a little dingy factory in Toledo. The efforts of officials and workmen combined to bring about the production of about 400 plugs a day. Now, with a daily production of 24,000 plugs the company produces more plugs in nine hours than, in the old days, was manufactured in a month.

The Champion is now used in the factory equipment of Ford, Overland, Maxwell, Studebaker, Metz and more than sixty other cars.

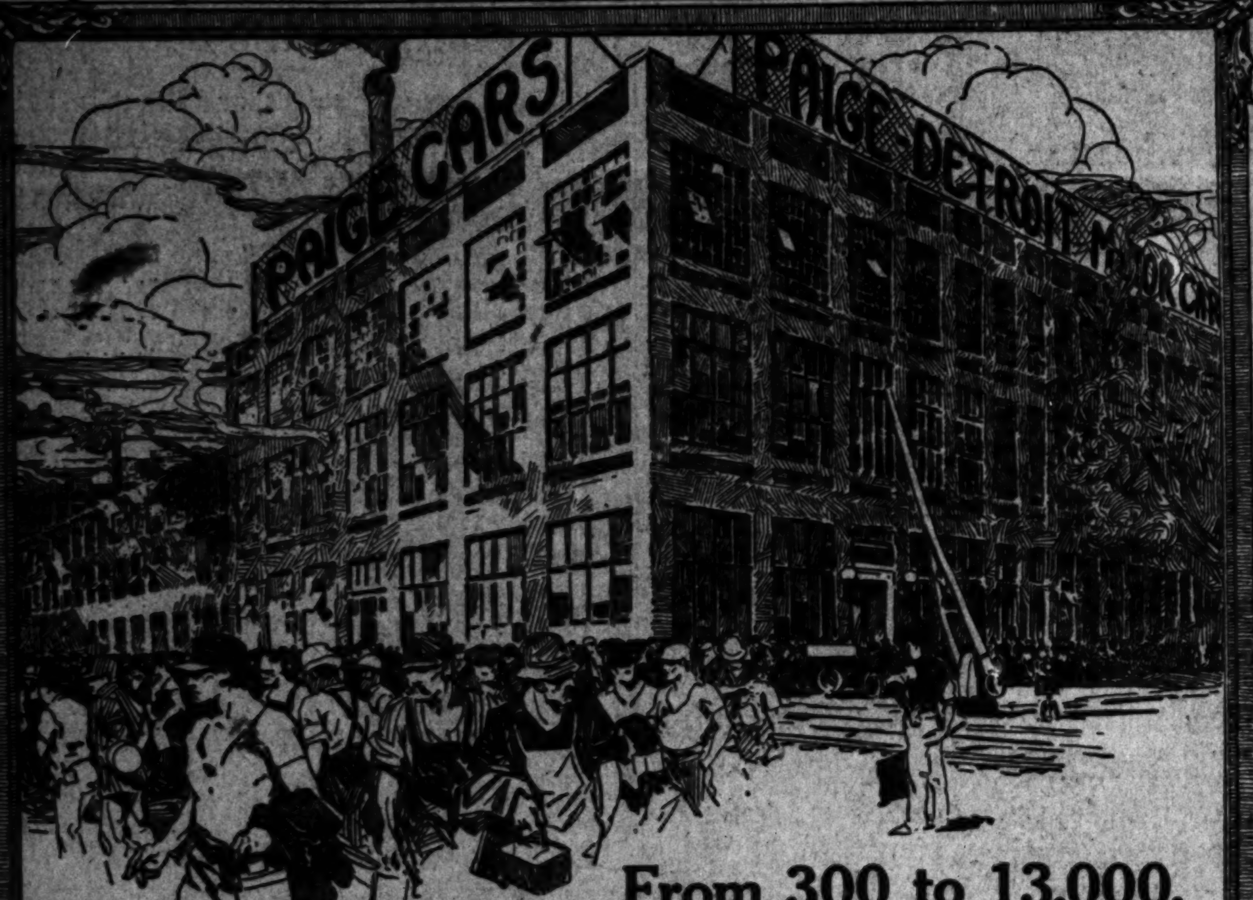
RAYFIELD GIVES WONDER SERVICE.

Rayfield carburetors have recently recorded over twenty-four miles per gallon of gasoline on cars tested in different sections of the country.

One Chandler car made 24.4 miles per gallon on an official road and hill test, another 24.3 and a third [illegible], all being six-cylinder machines.

NEW WHEELS FOR LITTLE MOTORS.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company is putting out a new wheel for Ford cars equipped with demountable rims. The complete set of four wheels with one extra rim is sold for $30. According to officials of the Firestone company, 1600 Firestone tired Ford cars are sold in Los Angeles every month.



From 300 to 13,000.

Three years ago, the output of the Paige factory was only 300 cars. Now, we build 13,000

Just consider these figures for a moment.

From 300 to 13,000 is a tremendous stride. Reduced to terms of men and human activity, these figures become an inspiration that must seize upon the imagination of every American man and woman. Three years is but a short time. Yet—within this period—the Paige has sprung from nothingness into the very front rank of a national industry.

The public has demanded more and more Paige cars each year. And step by step with this increasing demand has come the expansion of the Paige Company.

Public demand has moved us bodily from a small tumble down building into the present mammoth Paige factory.

Public demand has replaced a small handful of workmen with a veritable army.

Public demand has increased our sales organization from 39 to 1026 Paige agencies.

Public demand has absorbed Paige cars in every State of the union—and many lands oversea.

Public demand has increased Paige sales from $44,000 to more than $1,250,000 a month.

As you consider this three year record, one perfectly irresistable conclusion will begin to lodge in your mind. Such a tidal wave of public appreciation must be based upon something more substantial than mere fancy. Paige value must be unusual value. Paige cars must have earned their reputation of "preferred investments" with the motor buying public. The answer must be in the car itself.

Make it a point to investigate Paige Cars—get acquainted with the Paige dealer in your community and approach this investigation from any angle that you will. Then—beyond any question of doubt—you will understand the motive which has prompted so many hard headed men to stake their faith and money to the extent of more than a million and a quarter dollars a month.

"36" Glenwood Model—116-inch wheel base—left side drive center control—multiple disc cork insert clutch—silent chain drive for camshaft, pump, generator and magneto—fully equipped, including Gray & Davis large unit electric starting and lighting system. $1275

Paige "25"—110-inch wheel base, fully equipped, $900—with electric lighting and starting—$975.

The Middleton of today certainly is not inferior to the Coy of 1912. Zacher, in center, continues to loom as a grand ball player.

Cook has improved 50 per cent. in the last two years. Hetling is still a star in his position, but is not as sensational as in 1912.

GOOD FIRST SACKERS.

Gardner and Ness appear to make the club stronger at first base than in 1912, for the reason that Sharpe played in less than half the games.

Alexander is a superior aid to Mitze than Rohrer, which means that the Oaks are much better fortified behind the bat. Aleck is one of the best young catchers in the country, and ranks with the star first string men of the league.

Now that Ables is back in the fold, the club has all the pennant-winning pitchers of 1912, with the exception of Gregory, Parkin and Pernoll.

The holdovers are Killilay, Malarkey, Ables and Christian. Tack on to these, Pruiett, Prough, Barrencarp and Geyer, with Crabb thrown in, for full measure, and you have some pitching staff. Wait until they get up a full head of steam.

No, the Oaks of today do not suffer by comparison with their fore-runners of two years ago.

But they are up against a stiffer game.

STANFORD IS CLOSE SECOND.

CHICAGO WINS BIG MISSOURI VALLEY CONFERENCE.

Stanford Boys Take Four Firsts and Numerous Seconds—Murray and Bonnet Lower the Conference Records in Low Hurdles and Half-Mile Run—Fast Time Made.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—The track team from the University of Chicago defeated eleven other universities and colleges in the Mississippi Valley Conference track and field meet here today, winning the meet with 44½ points. Leland Stanford, Jr., University came second, with 34, and Colorado third, with 15.

No world's records were broken in the meet, but six conference records were eclipsed and two others were equalled.

The first conference record to fall was that for the 440-yard dash, which Cowman of the Missouri School of Mines, Rolla, Mo., eclipsed by 1 2-5s. Cowman's time was 48 2-5s.

The 220-yard low hurdles next yielded a new conference record. Murray of Leland Stanford lowered the mark one-fifth of a second, making the hurdles in 24 4-5s.

Bonnet of Leland Stanford took a second off the conference record for the half-mile run, covering the distance in 1m., 56s., and Thatcher, the Missouri star, raised his own record of 126ft., 5 2-4in. in the discus throw. Then Barancik of Chicago took a fifth of a second off the conference record for the 220-yard dash.

The University of Chicago clipped 1 1-5s. from the conference record for the half-mile relay, and R. D. Boyd of Chicago raised the conference record for the running broad jump by 7½ in. Total points:

University of Chicago, 44 2-3; Leland Stanford, Jr., 34; Colorado, 15; Nebraska, 13½; Missouri, 12; Kansas, 12; Northwestern, 12; Kansas Agricultural, 6½; Missouri School of Mines, 6; Drake, 5; Ames, 4 1-3; Washington, 0.

SUMMARY.

The 100-yard dash—Knight (Chicago) first, Barancik (Chicago) second, Cline (Colorado) third, Cowan (Rolla) fourth; time, 10s. flat, equalling the conference record.

The 120-yard high hurdles—Hazen (Kansas) first, Ward (Chicago) second, Norton (Stanford) third, Vincent (Colorado) fourth; time, 15 2-5s. Equals conference record.

One-mile run—Wilson (Stanford) first, Fleming (Colorado) second, Leroy Campbell (Chicago) third, Credse (Nebraska) fourth; time, 4m.22 3-5s.

Pole vault—Beavas (Nebraska) first; Crohn (Stanford,) Thomas (Chicago) and Lindstrum (Nebraska) tied for second, splitting points; height, 11ft.9in.

The 220-yard low hurdles—Murray (Stanford) first, Norton (Stanford) second, Ward (Chicago) third, Hazen (Kansas) fourth; time 24 4-5s., breaking conference record by one-fifth second.

Running high jump—James (Northwestern) first, Frizzell (Kansas Agricultural) and Myers (Nebraska) tied for second, Burrus, Ames and Whiting (Chicago) tied for fourth; height, 5ft.9 5-8in.

Half-mile run—Bonnet (Stanford) first, Osborne (Northwestern) second, Carlson (Colorado) third; S. J. Stegeman (Chicago) fourth; time, 1m.56s.

Two-mile run—Moss (Missouri) first, Stout (Chicago) second, Teeter (Kansas Agricultural) third, W. T. Maakestad (Aames) fourth; time, 4m.48 4-5s.

Shotput—Bedeau (Stanford) first, John Reber (Kansas) second, Thatcher (Missouri) third; distance, 42ft.2 3-8in.

Half-mile relay—Chicago first, Drake second, Nebraska third, Kansas fourth; time, 1m.29 3-5s.

Discus throw—Thatcher (Missouri) first, Desjardien (Chicago) second, Simons (Drake) third, Meyers (Nebraska) fourth; distance, 126ft.11in., breaking Thatcher's own conference record of 126ft.5¾in.

The 440-yard dash—Cowan (Rolla) first, Campbell (Stanford) second, Chance (Stanford) third, Iverson (Ames) fourth; time, 48 2-5s., breaking conference record by 1 2-5s.

The 220-yard dash—Barancik (Chicago) first, Knight (Chicago) second, Cline (Colorado) third, Kaiser (Ames) fourth; time, 21 4-5s. 1-5s under conference record.

One-mile relay—Colorado first, Kansas second, Chicago third, Ames fourth; time, 3m.27s.

Running broad jump—Boyd (Chicago) first, Holt (Kansas Agricultural) second, Campbell (Stanford) third, Shearer (Drake) fourth; distance, 23ft.6in., beating the conference record held by Wilson (Kansas) by 7½in.

The Eastern Yacht Club of Boston has accepted a challenge from the Kaiserlicher Yacht Club of Germany to compete at Kiel in June in the 1915 sixth international sonder yacht series of races. Trial races for the American defenders will be sailed at Marblehead next July. The series now stands 4 to 1 in favor of the United States.

Good Stunt.

U.S.C. WILL HAVE SUMMER FOOTBALL TRAINING CAMP.

RALPH GLAZE, the new U.S.C. football coach, is going into the season next fall with a campaign that will get results. Glaze wrote to the athletic manager urging the necessity of having a training camp the latter part of the summer.

Glaze will arrive in Los Angeles the middle of August and he will then gather the available football material and go to one of the beaches for several weeks conditioning before the regular season starts. Redondo Beach is the probable location of the training camp. With a splendid beach and good bathing it makes an ideal place for the fellows to work out.

The U.S.C. football men realize that they have a long, hard climb into the championship and they will back Glaze to a man on the early training start. Several years of Rugby has taken the American skill away from the men and a good many of them have never played anything but the English game. In his letter Glaze said:

"I want to get the men together and have them learn the rudiments of the game thoroughly before the season starts. We will be under an awful disadvantage for the simple reason that a majority of the men will have to unlearn the Rugby way of doing things and learn the American way. Three weeks of good hard work at the last of the summer will prepare us to step right into the regular training season ready to take up finer points of the game.

"From your letters about the beach it appeals to me as a great place to have this summer training camp. The men will have little chance of getting injured in light scrimmage work on the sand and it is a good place to practice falling on the ball, tackling and so forth."

This is a splendid idea and it indicates that Glaze is a hustler and is out to win next season in spite of the handicaps he will be under.

Glaze, who is now pitching great ball for the Topeka team in the Western League, is already drawing up plans for the coming season and keeps in touch with Capt. Tommy Davis on local developments.

With the material that is out at U.S.C. Glaze should be able to do wonders in the three weeks pre-season training at the beach. The squad should step into the regular season in great shape and ready to be molded into a fighting machine that will win games.

Another big question at U.S.C. is the Thanksgiving game and who will meet the varsity. The original plan left this date open, but the alumni set up such a howl that a game is necessary. Many of the graduates who work will only have this chance to see the team in action. Bovard has offered the date to Whittier and if they do not accept a big team from the Rocky Mountain region will come west. The University of Utah or Colorado School of Mines team will come and both are anxious for the date. All three teams are exceptionally strong and will put up a hot battle so that the alumni will have a chance to see the varsity in a rattling good game.

Hannes Kolehmainen, the great Finnish runner, who established new records up to ten miles in his year and a half in competition around New York, and who recently returned to his home in Finland, is matched to race Jean Bouin, the French champion, ten miles, at Marseilles, in June, after which Kolehmainen will go to Stockholm to try and better the one-hour running record, held by Bouin. Kolehmainen will return to this country.

D. BAYLESS REIGNS AS KING OF CLEAN-UPPERS.

Venice Captain Has Driven in More Runs Than Any Other Player in the Coast League—Leard and Carlisle Both Score Heavily—Ellis Propels Thirty-one Tallies Across the Plate.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

DICK BAYLESS maintains his proud position of the league's leading clean-up hitter.

Admitting that Hogan has good pitchers and catchers, sterling infielders, star outfielders, and remarkable utility men, still the fact remains that much of the club's strength, especially on the offense, is contained in the stocky form of der Capt.

In the first eight weeks of the season the Venice club scored a total of 231 runs. By means of safe hits, sacrifices, or infield drives that left no chance for a play at the plate, Bayless has driven in 44 runs. And he scored 26 himself. A home run counts as a run driven in and also as a run batted in by a player. Bayless has made six circuit shots. Deducting these six from the total of runs scored or driven in, Bayless has figured directly in the scoring of 66 of the 231 runs that his club scored in the first eight weeks. With Bill Leard and Walter Carlisle running up around the top of the list as leading run-makers of the league, it is interesting to wonder how long they would maintain that position without the power of Bayless's bat behind to drive them around the circuit. For Bill Leard, with 20 runs driven in, is the nearest rival to Bayless in this department of the Venice club.

Bayless has been most effective against Sacramento, either scoring or driving in 18 out of the 48 runs that Venice has scored against the Wolves. Bayless figured directly in the scoring of 14 of the 54 runs the Tigers have made against Portland; 14 out of 68 runs against Los Angeles; 9 out of 32 runs against San Francisco, and 8 out of 29 runs against Oakland.

Jerry Downs of San Francisco, with 32 runs driven in, and Rube Ellis of Los Angeles, with 31 runs driven in, are the nearest rivals to Bayless for the first eight weeks. The only other players in the league who drove in more than 25 runs were Kores, Portland, 29; Schaller, San Francisco, 27; Tennant, Sacramento, 26.

Classified by clubs, the players who drove in five or more runs in the first eight weeks of the race are as follows:

Los Angeles—Ellis, 31; Maggert, 24; Abstein, 23; Page, 18; Wolter, 17; Johnson, 14; Brooks, 10; Metzger, 5; Moore, 5; Meek, 5.

Oakland—Ness, 20; Zacher, 19; Cook, 17; Hetling, 15; Quinlan, 12; Murphy, 10; Middleton, 9; Kaylor, 8; Mitze, 7; Guest, 7; Alexander, 7; Gardner, 5.

Portland—Kores, 29; Ryan, 22; Rodgers, 19; Doane, 16; Fisher, 13; Derrick, 11; Davis, 10; Lober, 7; Krause, 5.

Sacramento—Tennant, 26; Coy, 18; Shinn, 16; Mohler, 14; Hannah, 11; Hallinan, 10; Moran, 10; Van Buren, 10; Young, 8; Klawitter, 6.

San Francisco—Downs, 32; Schaller, 27; Corhan, 24; Howard, 20; Mundorff, 18; Tobin, 15; Fitzgerald, 6; O'Leary, 5; Schmidt, 5.

Venice—Bayless, 44; Leard, 20; Elliott, 16; Meloan, 15; McArdle, 15; Borton, 15; Kane, 13; Litschi, 13; Hosp, 8; Carlisle, 7; Bliss, 6; McDonnell, 6.

But as mighty as he has been with the maple, Dick has not been greatly successful on the bases. His record of four stolen bases and ten times thrown out, makes him low man among the regulars in this respect.

In the first eight weeks Bayless registered his four stolen bases against Catchers Schmidt, Fisher, Brooks and Lynn. He was twice thrown out by Alexander, and one each by Clarke, Schmidt, Rohrer, Hannah, Boles, Mitze, Fisher and Yantz.

Bill Rodgers of Portland, although tied with Pep Young of Sacramento for stolen bases, has the best base-stealing record in the league, having stolen 17 bags and been thrown out only once. Young has stolen 17 bags and been thrown out twice. Nig Clarke is the only catcher who has thrown out Rodgers, turning the trick on April 12 at San Francisco. Rodgers has stolen three bases each off Bliss, Elliott and Mitze; two off Rohrer and one each off Hannah, Schmidt, Alexander, Brooks and Boles.

Young was thrown out by Mitze of Oakland at Sacramento, April 12, and by Elliott of Venice on April 16 at Los Angeles. Young has stolen three bases each off Elliott, Brooks, Arbogast and Boles; two off released Catcher Haworth of Portland, and one each off Alexander, Schmidt and Clarke.

Walter Schmidt of San Francisco has the next best base-stealing record, having stolen 14 bases, and been thrown out two times. Schmidt was once thrown out by Elliott on April 4 at San Francisco, and once by Alexander of Oakland on April 21. Twice Schmidt has stolen three bases in one game, the only player to perform this trick this season—the first time against Elliott of Venice on April 4, and the second time against Haworth of Portland on April 12. He has stolen three bases off Hannah and once each off released Catcher Perkins of Portland, Brooks, Meek, Boles and Alexander.

Of the regular catchers, Boles of Los Angeles has the best record, having allowed only 30 steals and having thrown out 29 men, more than any other catcher has thrown out. Boles has found most of his victims in the Venice club, and his smallest number in the Sacramento club. Eleven Ventians have been thrown out by Boles; 9 Seals, 4 Oaks, 3 Beavers and 2 Sacramentans. Of the 30 bases that have been stolen against Boles, 8 each have been credited to the San Francisco and Venice clubs, 8 to Sacramento, 4 to Portland and 3 to Oakland.

With 87 stolen bases, Los Angeles leads the clubs in total steals, and with only 46 men thrown out stealing, the Angels have the best club record in the percentage of successful starts. Of the 87 Angel steals, 23 have been recorded against Venice, 21 against San Francisco, 19 against Sacramento, 15 against Portland, and 9 against Oakland. San Francisco catchers have thrown out more Angels than the catchers of any other club. Seal catchers have thrown out 15 Angels, Sacramento and Venice catchers have thrown out 9 Angels each; Portland catchers have thrown out 7 Angels, and Oakland catchers have thrown out 6 of the Dillonites.

The complete base-stealing records, showing the number of bases stolen and the number of times players have been thrown out, with the rating based on the percentage of successful starts, follow:

By rating the clubs on a percentage basis in base stealing, instead of merely on the total number of stolen bases, there are several shifts in the order. San Francisco, second in the ranking on a basis of total number of stolen bases, ranks sixth on the percentage basis, the percentage representing the division of successful steals by the total number of starts, this total number of starts being determined by adding total steals and total men thrown out. Los Angeles, first on the basis of total steals, retains first place under the percentage system; Portland, third under the old system, is second under the percentage system; Portland jumps from third to second place, etc. The figures follow:

Club—	S.B.	T.O.S.	P.c.
Los Angeles	87	46	.654
Portland	61	43	.587
Sacramento	52	38	.578

Tom McCarey's "Velie,"

On the back seat of which most of the big boxing matches of the United States have been arranged. From right to left, are T. J. McCarey, Johnny Coulon, bantam champion; John Weske, his manager, and Sammy Harris, manager of Kid Williams, who is to fight him for the championship.

Where Bargains Are Made.

TOM M'CAREY VELIE IS CAPITAL CITY OF SPORT.

SOME of the most important treaties of the sporting history of this generation have been signed on the back seat of Tom McCarey's Velie.

And yesterday, it was the scene of another little drama when Sammy Harris, the manager of Kid Williams, and Johnny Coulon fixed up the preliminaries for the fight, which is to settle the bantamweight championship of the world.

It was hard to shut the doors against the curious fans, so McCarey quietly slipped the whole party into his car and they settled all the questions involved while touring [illegible]

This is but one of [illegible] treaties to be closed in McCarey's car, which has been called by facetious fans the "capital of sport."

McCarey acquired his Velie [illegible] two years ago and ever [illegible] been a devotee of motoring. [illegible] finds that many acrimonious discussions in his office are smoothed out by a little ride to cool off the [illegible] managers. Many a hard [illegible] which seemed impossible of settlement in his office has been settled in the back seat of his car, [illegible] along some of the oiled boulevards of Southern California.

VAN COURT'S VERDICTS.

CHAMPION JOHNNY COULON started his training yesterday out at Jack Doyle's training camp.

There will be more interest taken in the training of both Coulon and Williams for their coming contest than any that ever took place in the southern country.

Johnny claims he is back into his old-time form again and never would have consented to meet the tough Williams unless he was.

If he makes good, it will be interesting to hear some of his knockers explain the reason for their knocking when the little champion was a sick boy.

Kid Williams has decided to train at the Western Athletic Club instead of Jack Doyle's.

A few days ago, Jim Jeffries paid Charlie Eyton the highest compliment as a referee.

Jeffries, Jimmie Dime and several other friends were fanning over the Chip-Petroskey contest and boxing in general.

Jeff asked Dime what he thought of Eyton as a referee. "I think he understands his business all right, and from what I have seen of him, think he is one of the best I have ever seen," said Dime.

Jim broke into the talk again and said: "We all make mistakes, and so does Eyton occasionally—he would not be human if he did not—but they can all say what they like and criticise Eyton as much as they like, but I believe he is not only the best referee in this country, but the best in the world. We are sure he is honest, he is cool and calculating in his work, and while I thought Petroskey was not hit low, even if he was and Eyton saw it, he used exceptional judgment in acting as he did.

"Deciding fouls, as well as [illegible] else that may happen during a contest, lies in the judgment of the referee, and it would be unfair [illegible] contest against any boxer who committed an unintentional foul [illegible] no damage, and it was right [illegible] that Eyton proved his cool [illegible] judgment in deciding as he did. [illegible] I am for Eyton every time."

Now that Jimmie Dime [illegible] the management of Babe [illegible] should make big strides [illegible] championship. About the [illegible] lacking in Babe was a hard [illegible] and if there is a man in the [illegible] that can develop that, it is [illegible] Dime.

Dick Curley, manager [illegible] Kline, who boxed out here [illegible] years ago, writes that he is [illegible] the trail of Johnny Kilbane [illegible] match. Curley claims that [illegible] has sidestepped the hard-hitting [illegible] several times, but is willing [illegible] $1000 as a guarantee for a [illegible] time Jimmie Dunn will [illegible]

Packie McFarland's judgment [illegible] not far off when he said that [illegible] White was cleverer than [illegible] Ad Wolgast, Leach Cross [illegible] the other lightweights in the [illegible] and also that if White [illegible] the going to Ritchie, he had a [illegible] chance to win. Packie [illegible] en White some good advice [illegible] contest, judging from the [illegible]

It takes clever boxers [illegible] takes in other clever [illegible] Packie's judgment brings [illegible] Ritchie-Rivers contest again.

While Rivers carried the [illegible] Willie he had things [illegible] way, but just as soon as he [illegible] back up and cover up he [illegible] ed to him. Willie is a [illegible] aggressive boxer than a [illegible] and it was right there that [illegible] land based his judgment.

Some Team.

L.A.A.C. TO HAVE A GREAT FOOTBALL TEAM

JACK D'AULE will have a rattling good team at the L.A.A.C. if all the players he has lined up put in an appearance. He has a horde of stars gathered in from all parts of the country, and they should form a team that will be a big stumbling block in the travels of the southern colleges.

D'Aule is going to use several styles of attack, seven to be exact, and four different defensive shifts. He will combine the powerful Michigan attack with a stone wall Harvard defense, and, mixed with clever trick plays, the team will play a brand of football hard to beat. Speed on the offense and sure tackling on the defense is the big things Jack will work for.

The game against Occidental College is to be the big affair at the L.A.A.C. schedule. D'Aule and his men figure that Oxy is the team they will have to beat for the southern title, and they go into that game with blood in their eye.

The tentative line-up of the L.A.A.C. team is enough to send a chill into the college camps around this end of the State. The back field will be a wonderful combination of speed, line plunging and brilliant defense. The line will be a mighty affair, fast, heavy and sure. The team will average about 174 pounds.

Ramey, who is now pitching with the Oakland club in the Coast League, is the man that is liable to play full-back, and he is one of the best ever turned out in the West. His sensational playing for Oregon several years ago will never be forgotten in the Northwest. "Bullet" Smith, late of the University of Colorado, and Aldridge, all-Indiana half in 1910, will probably play the halfs, though "Peppy" Brooks, the [illegible] may figure. Mason of [illegible] lege, or Lee, the Colorado [illegible] fight it out for quarter.

"Skinny" Munn, all [illegible] tain end, and Brownell, a [illegible] College star, look good for [illegible] positions. Backus is another [illegible] date for an end position. [illegible] are not certain yet, but [illegible] men will be out for each [illegible] "Bull" Finch may be on one side of the line.

Ed Durbin, another [illegible] Mountain man, that [illegible] well over the 200-pound [illegible] make a strong bid for [illegible] while Vic Davidson, from [illegible] High, is after the other [illegible] tion.

The center proposition [illegible] doubt, but D'Aule hopes to [illegible] use some of the college [illegible] they will be ineligible for [illegible] teams in their first year. [illegible] from San Diego, is a [illegible] try for the place. [illegible] San Diego boy that [illegible] team a lot.

These are but a few [illegible] that will be on hand to [illegible] when the squad is [illegible] gust 15.

Thomas made one stop at the pits, Duray two and Guyot one. In the first 100 miles some drivers stopped on almost every lap. The race began to settle down after the 100-mile mark was set and the average speed increased.

QUAIL PLENTIFUL NEXT OCTOBER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, May 29.—Quail have mated more frely this year than in several years, and there is every indication that the summer will produce a good crop of birds ready for the hunters next October. In dry years, the quail by instinct seem to know that water and feed will be scarce and that the effort to raise young is not worth while. Last winter was wet. Quail can develop coveys in parts of the hills where there was no water for them last year or the year before.

County Game Warden Robinson stated today that all of the old coveys are broken up into pairs.

demand for the high-grade going to be phenomenal in according to the official. This is partly due to the large number of motorists who have been using the medium-priced cars and are now ready to graduate into the higher-priced class.

Long tours also are becoming more common. Tours across the continent are now as frequent as trips across a single State two seasons ago. The universal demand for good roads, and the practical plans that have been adopted by most of the States and the Federal government, ensures several completed national highways in the next year or so, and already the highways between most of the big cities in the country are as good as many city boulevards. All of which has educated the general public to the joys of getting far out into the open in a motor car.

The California expositions next year are expected to bring an almost continuous string of automobiles across country from every direction. Fully half of them will be new cars of the finest grade.

Wishart was compelled to quit, he was third in the race.

The Stutz car, driven by Cooper, which had been well up in the running, turned over in the back stretch when it threw a shoe, and added further gloom to the Americans, who had been hoping that this car would be able to stay in the money. It was then up to Oldfield to bring American colors across the tape.

With the French De Lage still leading and only sixty-nine laps to go, there were only sixteen cars left in the race.

At 325 miles the De Lage and Peugeot cars were still running neck and neck. The average speed at that juncture was 82 and 7-100 miles an hour, the time being three hours, fifty-five minutes, thirty-seven seconds. Following Boillot in the Peugeot came his team-mate, Duray, closely pursued by Guyot in the De Lage with Christiaens in the Belgian car, Excelsior, fifth.

BARNEY AT FINISH.

Boillot in his Peugeot and Thomas in his De Lage, running in the order named, the one upon the heels of the other, crossed the 350-miles mark in the record-breaking time of 4:13:25, the previous time having been 4:25:15, made in 1912 by Joe Dawson. Following closely was Duray in the Peugeot, Guyot in the De Lage, and the famous Barney Oldfield with the Indianapolis Stutz.

Oldfield was compelled to stop at the pits for a moment on his 137th lap, but was away again in short time, and the veteran dare-devil was cheered around the succeeding lap because of the determined effort he was making to overtake the French cars who were now leading him by about eight miles.

Announcement was then made that Boillot in the Peugeot had been compelled to quit. He was leading at the time. This gave Oldfield an opportunity to creep up, and created a most tense situation. Oldfield was being cheered by the thousands around the track as he gained on the leaders.

Fifty miles from the finish, or at 450 miles, the first division cars passed under the wire in the same order as at the finish. During the last half-century it simply narrowed down to a question of holding up under the strain and keep the positions already gained.

In attempting to miss running into the wrecked Isotta, under which were Gilhooley and Bonini, Joe Dawson, driver of the Marmon and winner of the race in 1912, also upset. Dawson was the most seriously injured of all. He may die. His mechanician was not seriously injured.

The race is a complete victory for foreign-made cars. They carried off the first four places with ease, Barney Oldfield being the first American to finish. The first four finishers, Thomas, Duray, Guyto and Goux, drivers of De Lage, Peugeot, De Lage and Peugeot cars respectively, all broke the record set by Dawson in 1912. Their average speed was better than the 78.72 miles per hour mark which Dawson set. The Peugeot which finished second was the smallest car in the race. It measured but 183 cubic inches piston.

Carlson, who drove a Maxwell car, used kerosene as his fuel throughout the contest. His was the only car which used kerosene alone, although Tetzlaff, who drove the second Maxwell, used half kerosene and half gasolene.

FILLMORE HIGH LOST TO POLY.

The boys from Fillmore High took an awful beating at the hands of Poly's baseball team at Bovard Field, Friday afternoon. Al they could do was to stand around in a dazed fashion while the Poly boys smashed hits to all parts of the field, fielded in great style and scored an even dozen runs. It was way along in the ninth that Abel let up and the up-country bunch managed to get over one lone run, small concession to take back home.

Belton Abel was at his best in this semi-final game for the Southern California championship. He gave only five scattered blows and fanned ten men. The losers never had a chance to bust through his pitching and the sensational support behind him. Six times he struck out the last man to face him in the inning, and each time it prevented any chance of a Fillmore uprising. In spite of the melodious cheering of the Fillmore girls, the runs were not forthcoming.

The score:

Hups Sold Stay Sold

Have you ever heard a Hupmobile owner say anything but good of his car?

Haven't you noticed that when he wants to dispose of it to get a new one, he never has any difficulty in so doing?

Haven't you observed how willing any dealer is to take a Hup in trade at a good figure—and how few of them you see on the floor of the second-hand dealer?

If you haven't noticed these things ask any Hup owner—and you'll get the answer as to why Hups sold stay sold.

Ask Any Hupmobilist

The Hupmobile's reputation for lesser maintenence cost, for longer life, and for a higher cash value in the second-hand market is founded on the experience of Hup owners.

It is not a thing of recent growth.

It is as old as the Hupmobile itself.

Owners of other cars can't understand the Hup owner's intense loyalty and enthusiasm for his car.

Their own experience knows no such economy as typifies the month-in and month-out use of the Hup.

They see Hup owners actually going out of their way to make Hupmobile sales to their best friends.

You can easily verify all this, possibly in your own neighborhood.

A chat with a Hup owner will reveal to you phases of economy and car service you have never perceived.

The Hupmobile dealer can give you scores of names and specific instances equally enlightening and convincing.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—San Francisco took a double-header today from Sacramento and clinched the series, winning the morning game 8 to 6 and the afternoon game 9 to 5. Fanning pitched a steady game for the Seals in the morning and was backed up by good hitting.

In the second game Barham began in the box for the Seals, but weakened in the sixth inning and gave way to Standridge, who was fairly effective. While Barham was in he walked five Wolves.

The early pitching for Sacramento was done by Klawitter, but after he had permitted the Seals to gather nine hits and eight runs he was recalled and the pitching was finished by Arellanes and Colwell. Cartwright, Fitzgerald, O'Leary and Del Howard contributed to the Seals' victory with two-base hits.

The Major League Averages.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, Detroit's batting king, base thief extraordinary, outfielder sensational and high salary grabber, is rising to the top of the American League batters with a yeast-like persistency. Cobb is poking the ball around the lot for .324 and stands third in order. Wahoo Sam Crawford rests twelve points ahead of him, while Joe Jackson is leading the parade with a slipping average of .355. Both Sam and Joe have fallen with a sad, sickening thud during the past week while Ty was climbing with the speed and sureness of a Rocky Mountain goat.

The batting in both the American and National leagues has been extremely light this year. May 15, 1913, some twenty men were hammering the ball for marks well over .300 in each league, but this season only ninteen men have passed that mark in both circuits. Just why this dearth of hits should arise is hard to say but splendid twirling by young recruits may have a lot to do with the dented averages.

Clyde Milan, the Jessie James of base ball, is back at his old trick of leading the American crowd in stolen bases. Thirteen swipes trail the Washington speeder's name. Turner of Cleveland is the sacrifice demon.

Detroit is leading the club batting as well as the league. Mack's Athletics are hanging around real close by reason of a .251 average to Detroit's .254.

Bobby Byrne, supposed deadwood and not wanted by the Pirates, is leading the National League by twenty points and swinging along at a clip that is sending cold chills into the ranks of the pitchers. An even .400 is Bobby's mark. He is lashing the ball to corners of the park where balls were never hit before, running the bases well, making Pittsburgh sore and the Quakers happy. His nearest rival is young Cathers out in St. Louis. Cathers's bat has turned in a .380 record up to date.

Hans Wagner manages to keep his average above the .300 mark in spite of his gray hair, bad legs, poor eyesight, lame arms and stiff back. Poor old Honus; he will never have a heart, so the pitchers say. The National twirlers should retire Hans on a pension.

"Tubby" Robinson's Brooklyn in-and-outers are the supreme batters of the league, with the Giants a close second. Batting and Greater New York seem to go hand in hand, except in the Federal circuit.

Steve Evans is still slamming his way along at the top of the Feds and doing it well. Steve has .440 to be proud of and don't let any one tell you that the Feds don't have to face some pretty good heaving. Tinker is only hitting .295, Knabe .202, Zeider .253, Oakes .247, Bridwell .210 and Stovall .234. These gents all hit several points higher in the big hedge last season.

Cooper and his left wing are leading the National pitchers with six wins and one licking. The young veteran has made the sluggers in his circuit look mighty foolish this spring and he promises to become one of the big stars of the pitching kingdom. Christy Mathewson has corralled five games while his opponents were beating him once. Chris is in second position and going better every day.

Otis Crandall has yet to get a snag in the Federal show during five games' activity. F. Smith of Baltimore has won four straight.

Several slabmen have been undefeated in the Ban Johnson's realm so far but Willie James, late of Portland, is a regular leader with five wins and one beating. Willie is the cause of many an aching heart in the American batting ranks. Caldwell is tied for the honors. Walt Johnson has won six and lost four, which is poor for the smoke-ball king.

The averages given here include all games up to May 22.

OLD-TIME TIRE MAN GOING EAST.

Walter Jackson of the Jackson-Eno Rubber Company will leave within the next month for his annual trip to the eastern factories. As his firm now has the Mohawk tire agency that factory will be his central point.

Jackson is one of the veteran tire and rubber men of the West and as he lived for years in Akron, Ohio, the center of the tire industry, he takes a great interest in the factory and makes it a point to keep in touch with all improvements.

The local plant was the first to make mechanical rubber goods in the West and is now the largest this side of Chicago.

ANOTHER INDIANA TOUR.

The Indiana Automobile Manufacturers' Association is already laying plans for its annual tour. This will not be as long as the tour to the Pacific of last year, but will invade some new territory. Two routes have been suggested, one through the South, ending at New Orleans, and one through the West, ending in Montana. The first route seems to be favored, and probably the tour will go in this direction if the details can be arranged satisfactorily. The tour will take three or four weeks, and it is planned to allow more time in the towns and make the runs between stops less difficult.

FLAWS IN BEARINGS.

In buying new bearings for an automobile with soft metal and bronze knit together it is not always easy to be sure that the two metals are knit solidly. There may be a blowhole somewhere not visible from the outside, or the contact may not be firm over the entire surface. The best method of detecting flaws in bearings of this kind is to suspend the bearing on a string and strike the bearing with a hard clapper, as you would a bell. If the bearing gives a good, clear ring it is solid. By comparing sounds emitted by bearings of the same size and of the same make you can then select the ones that are of sound construction.

Break Even.

out on a sensational assist by Leard. Ness singled Zacher home. Cook drove to right. Bayless over-ran the ball, and then slipped, the sphere going to the bleachers for a triple, counting Ness. Guest went out infield.

Guest's walk and a double by Alexander gave the Oaks a perfectly good tally in the ninth.

In the meantime, the Tigers had been earnestly striving, but seldom connecting. In the first five innings Litschi and Elliott were the only Tigers to establish business relations with the ball. Neither hit counted.

In the third Ramey bounced the ball off Johnny Kane's cerebellum. For a brief spell it looked like business for the morgue, but Johnny recuperated sufficiently to take first and steal second. An out placed him on third. Litschi walked. Kane was caught at the plate on an attempted double steal, tripping over Alexander and landing solidly on the back of his neck. This would be a good time for some enterprising life insurance agent to call on Johnny.

Ramey became rambunctious in the sixth, walking Carlisle and Leard in a lump. Devlin rushed out to drag him away, but the kid refused to budge. Kaylor made a stellar catch of Kane's fly, and Bayless forced Leard. It began to look like Ramey would wiggle out until Middleton stood still under Litschi's drive too long, and it sailed over his dome for a double, scoring Carlisle and Bayless for the only Tiger clean-up. McDonnell couldn't get the ball out of the infield.

The chances are that Ramey would have won his game, but Devlin deemed a pinch-hitter desirable in the seventh. Thus the fans were enabled to look again upon the noble form of Tyler Christian. T. C. appears to be as good as of yore.

MORNING GAME.

Mr. Powell, who came to the Coast to round out his declining years, seems to be doing so with great success.

Jack blanked Oakland before several hundred sleepy-eyed, blinking fans, just as easy as that.

Continually he threw up something that looked easy to hit, but which was by no means so. Middleton, Killilay, Cook and Kaylor were the only visitors to establish business relations with the ball, and but two of these survived to see second.

The struggling East seems to have made a great mistake when it permitted Powell to get away.

Killilay, as usual, pitched in tough luck, the same being proved by the fact that the Tigers made two runs in the third without being suspected of making a hit. Hogan made a lavish use of the sacrifice play, no less than seven of his men becoming martyrs to the cause.

This was the second anniversary of Killilay's first appearance on the Coast. At exactly the same hour two years ago, fresh from the Boston Red Sox, Jack beat the Angels on the same exact spot.

Singles by Litschi and McDonnell, and McArdle's sacrifice, whelped a Tiger tally in the second.

Carlisle's walk, followed by a fielder's choice that proved the wrong guess, and a wild throw by Petey Cook, let two runs over in the third.

Leard walked in the fifth, Kane sacrificed, and Bayless put in his oar with a timely lick that counted Bill.

WATER JACKETS.

Water-jacketing the carbureter is common; water jacketing part of the intake manifold is less so; putting what is virtually a water jacket inside the manifold is new. This is what one motorist with an old car has done. He took a length of copper tubing, bent it around a broomstick into a loose helix, and inserted it into the horizontal member of the intake manifold by way of a hole bored at each end. The holes were bushed to prevent leaks, and one end of the tube connected to the water jacket of the motor, and the other to the water pump, so that hot water from the jacket was drawn from the tube. The result was not only that the mixture was warmed just before entering the cylinder, and any liquid gasoline vaporized, but that a decided disturbance was set up within the manifold, resulting in a more homogeneous mixture.

Midshipman John H. Brown of Pennsylvania has been awarded the sword annually presented to the most notable athlete at the naval academy. "Babe" Brown has played football for four years, is also a member of the crew and competes in weight events.

JACK JEVNE WINNER OF VIRGINIA GOLF TOURNEY.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

JACK JEVNE is the winner of the Virginia Country Club's invitation tournament. He defeated A. A. French by 6 up and 4 in the thirty-six hole finals yesterday. For the first half of the morning round French was playing a brilliant game, but later Jevne's more consistent steadiness gave him the advantage. Jevne has improved his style of play out of all knowledge since his visit to England and there are many who regard him as the best player in the Los Angeles Country Club at the present time, with one possible exception.

Conde Jones of the Midwick Country Club won the second flight, defeating Frank H. Edwards by 2 up.

Raymond Hornby of Redlands won the third flight, defeating Watson by 4 up and 4.

The Rev. Darsie won the fourth flight, winning from Merrill by 3 up and 2.

Morris Phillips of Redlands won the first flight beaten eight, defeating E. N. Hillegas, 5 up and 3. Two cups for Redlands.

Dr. West Hughes, another Los Angeles Club man, wins the second beaten eight. He had a narrow escape, however, E. H. Bagby having other arrangements for the disposal of that cup. Bagby only lost at the twenty-second hole, the doctor holing a putt from fifteen feet off the green.

F. B. Browning, a Long Beach man, wins the third beaten eight—he defeated P. A. Coon of San Gabriel by 5 up and 3.

S Bancroft of San Diego won the fourth beaten eight, defeating C. S. Wright by 2 up.

The special event—thirty-six hole, four-ball foursomes, was a very popular win. It went to A. M. Goodhue and Raymond Hornby with 10 up on par and 6 handicap. Mr. Goodhue is president and champion of the club and chief host of the tournament. He was sadly off his game for the first two days owing to the natural anxiety of the responsibility of the occasion. But yesterday he was in his best form and made a medal round of 69 in the morning and 72 in the afternoon.

Other good scores in the foursomes were Drs. Cochrane and Fulton, who finished 7 up on 10 handicap; F. B. Browning and Bancroft, 4 up on 12 handicap; Oliver Hicks of Redlands and F. Hicks of Long Beach, 4 up on 10 handicap, and Winsor Walton and L. L. Elliott with 5 up on 6 handicap.

KING BOOMS BRITISH BOXING.

EXCLUSIVE SOCIETY PATRONIZES SQUARED CIRCLE.

Islanders Seeking Fighter Who Can Conquer Both Johnson and Carpentier—Amateur Champion Gives Reasons for Prosperity of Glove Encounters in Island Kingdom.

[SPECIAL CONTRIBUTION.]

LONDON, April 11.—Ever since Carpentier, the French boxer, beat Wells, Britain's "white hope," England has gone boxing mad. The great ambition of the nation now seems to be to find a man who can defeat both Jack Johnson and Carpentier; and a great impetus to this ambition was given only the other day by King George, who went to an army barracks in London and watched a lot of sparring bouts of soldiers with evident delight. Now even schoolboys forget to talk about football or cricket in their noble rage to discuss the merits of British fighters who may prove to be the best boxers in the world.

Stephen Black, the amateur middle weight champion of South Africa, holds that many signs are not wanting that the hitherto exclusive English are now taking the friendly interest in boxers which the United States once took.

STANDARD RAISED.

"It is, he urges, extremely interesting to analyze the principal causes of the changed outlook of England upon boxing and boxers. Without going into all the causes of this, one would say that the popularity and prestige of present-day pugilism are due to cleaner contests, greater intelligence of boxers, and the death of 'fake' fighting. But these obvious effects have been principally produced by three powerful agents—the stage, the kinema, and big purses. If one wishes to deal philosophically with the question, the three can be condensed into the word 'publicity.'

"About boxing there is now the glamor of the footlights; and were the average prizefighter of today to possess the refinement, deportment and culture of the average actor, his place in society would be much the same. But the average boxer has not the mental advantages of the actor, because in the first place a boxer's work is less actually intellectual, and also boxers have been looked upon in the past as socially inferior, and consequently have failed to attract into their ranks the better mental types.

FASHIONABLE AUDIENCE.

"One of the most interesting aspects of the recent Wells-Blake contest was the audience. Incredible crowds filled the streets for hours before the contest—clerks, typists, doctors, lawyers, taxicab drivers, omnibus men, men of the world, and women of the world; and through all these a leaven of old pugilists whose place on the free list had vanished with their powers many years ago.

"Splendid automobiles pushed their way slowly to the theater doors, and behind the glass windows sat men and women in the furs and silks that are such as one sees round the ring in Paris. The stalls gleamed with white shirts, and dainty hands applauded the struggling boxers. They did so at intervals, properly, decorously. There was not the tensity or the loud, savage, unrestrained shouting that comes from an habitual ring crowd. This was the new audience.

"Today not only is the prize ring proper in England in the most prosperous condition in which it has ever been, but the army and navy championships and amateur competitions generally are exciting extraordinary interest and producing splendid contests. The other week a baronet won a championship of the British army, and everybody knows the capacity of 'Big John' Hopley, a son of one of South Africa's most distinguished judges. Lord Lonsdale's interest in glove contests is not by any means unique, for the peerage; it would be hard, for example, to find anywhere a greater enthusiast than Lord Desborough.

"Aristocratic interest, of course, existed long before the present day, but I doubt if there have ever before been in England so many intellectual men and creative artists following the fortunes of the ring. And this, by the way, is an infinitely more eloquent sign, since artists are too often prone to sneer at sports of all kinds."

PICK CREW FOR COAST REGATTA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—In the elimination trials today to select the boat clubs which will compete at San Diego July 4 for the Pacific Coast championship, the Dolphin club of San Francisco took first, the Alameda club second, South End club third. Time over a scant mile and one-half course, 8m., 48 2-5s. These three crews will compete in the Coast championship regatta.

GERMANS DEMAND SPORT FOR SAKE OF GAMES THEMSELVES.

Religious Circles Deplore Advent of Sunday Races, While Real Athletes and Huntsmen Claim Military Training Is Only Reason Emperor Lends His Support.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERLIN, April 18.—Wilhelm the second, in the role of a sportsman, is causing great offense to two classes of Germans—those who deprecate and those who exalt and apotheosise all mighty sport. Both agree that he is taking sport too seriously. The first class say that he is exalting sport above religion and morals, which is an unworthy thing to do. The second class complain that he is spoiling sport by treating it as a science, and flavoring it with too much Teutonic seriousness.

The first class are highly incensed with Wilhelm the second's brazen encouragement of betting and Sabbath breaking, which are features of German horse racing. The latest instance is the outrageous bill establishing state-concessioned betting men. It has just been presented to the Reichstag, and is a personal invention of Kaiser Wilhelm—that is, of the director of his stables, Baron von Reischach, who advises his sovereign on all horsey matters.

This bill aims at setting up state bookmakers as rivals to the respectable and tedious "Totalisator," the only betting system, which is lawful today here. The state in future will appoint its own bookmakers in every town, and give them concessions to bet and take bets; and the wicked state will further take part of the proceeds, and add them to the Imperial revenue.

The congress of Western Pastors, which has met at Cologne, pronounces this to be an ungodly and demoralizing system; and it is preparing a petition, asking Kaiser Wilhelm—which is quite useless—to change his Imperial mind.

This is not the first time that Kaiser Wilhelm has enraged the virtuous by his unholy passion for sport. To him, personally, graumble the western pastors, is due the recent depraved spread of Sunday horse racing. Kaiser Wilhelm here set a bad example by intervening against the prohibition by Berlin's police president of Sunday racing.

Before Sunday racing was allowed Berlin race courses were always empty; their takings were small; and their prizes were insignificant.

SUNDAY RACING.

Kaiser Wilhelm was here dominated by practical considerations. The complaint of the sport enthusiasts is that all His Majesty's public and private measures in the domain of sport have been dictated by similar practical or by scientific considerations, and not by a mere sportsman's love of sport. That, they say, is why German "practicality" and "science" flourish, whereas sport makes slow progress or none.

All equestrian sports Kaiser Wilhelm regards merely as a means of improving the cavalry, or of producing suitable artillery horses. As a result of Kaiser Wilhelm's measures army racing is the turf department which flourishes the most. Army racing yields profit with the result that though there was hardly any army racing when Kaiser Wilhelm came to the throne, it now flourishes as it flourishes nowhere else. All because Kaiser Wilhelm—as he told the President of East Prussia—holds that "it is impossible to keep up a good cavalry during a long peace, unless army officers ride for prizes."

PASSION FOR BREEDING.

Kaiser Wilhelm's passion for breeding as an end in itself spoils other sports. Just now he is importing Austrian deer in order to improve the strain in his deer deer forest at Reminten, near Russian frontier, whither he goes for three weeks every autumn. On this matter he gets advice from Austria's heir, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, who knows more about deer breeding, deer stalking, and deer shooting than any German.

Kaiser Wilhelm's experiments here, like his attempt to breed from zebus and ordinary oxen have failed. Ten years ago, he imported other Austrian deer with a view to improve the strain; and the result was that the deer increased in number and vigor, but were spoiled from the sporting standpoint. The new Austrian importation is an attempt to remedy this.

TOO PRACTICAL.

Kaiser Wilhelm is a first-rate woodsman with a real knowledge of woodcraft; and his critics complain that he lets this fact spoil his sport. When he is not intent on big bags, he lets his mind wander to forestry. He cannot get out of his mind that shooting deer, or birds, or wild boar in the forest is an excuse for examining the state of trees, and giving orders about planting. Many years ago he told a French sportsman that German forestry is the best in Europe because Germany formerly had a hundred odd royal princely and ducal courts, all passionately devoted to hunting, and were all therefore concerned to see that their forests were well kept up. "In that way we developed a school of foresters." Upper Forester Stower, who was employed years ago on the domain at Hubertusstock, where Kaiser Wilhelm has a modest chalet shooting box, declares that "our Kaiser could tell better than any man where a tree needs planting, and he pulled us up sharply when he saw that any part of the woods was not in order."

Much in the same way, Wilhelm the Second is pushing non-sporting views about other branches of sport. He is encouraging the 1916 Olympiad entirely from the military-medical-social standpoint. The chief thing is that solders shall have strong muscles and sharp eyes; who wins the high jump does not matter. And the same is true of Wilhelm's yachting. Yachting will help Germany's future to lie on the water.

Though there is lots to be said for this practical scientific standpoint, it annoys the mere sportsman. The mere sportsman complains that Germany's chances to win in 1916 are being prejudiced by Kaiser Wilhelm's insistence that the army shall make a big show.

Vast preparations are being made for an army athletic competition in May, but the expert athletic men say that Kaiser Wilhelm's mass displays, though first rate for the army, are fatal to true athletics, the secret of which is selection and individual training.

So, nobody is quite satisfied with Kaiser Wilhelm's assiduous devotion to sport.

COFFROTH WANTS RITCHIE-WHITE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, May 30.—Willie Ritchie and Charley White, both claimants for the lightweight championship, will meet in either San Francisco or Los Angeles on Thanksgiving Day. Both Promoters McCarey and Coffroth are angling for such a contest, and White has given his consent to both matchmakers, so the fight will go to the club getting Ritchie's consent.

Dozens of wires from the California promoters were received by White today. Coffroth asked his terms for a battle with Ritchie July 4. Coffroth telegraphed that he was mailing articles for White's signature, and would hold the battle just as soon as Ritchie is ready.

NEW MODELS HAVE CLASS.

MANY CHANGES IN 1915 CARS NOW BEING SHOWN.

Starting Button Latest in Cranking Equipment and Electric Lock Operated With Switch Key Renders Machine Immovable and Motor-Thief Proof.

The new 1915 Locomobile with the left drive and center control has reached Los Angeles.

Most prominent among the new features is the bonnet enclosing the motor, panelled in front and fitted with vertical louvres at the rear. The catches which hold the sides down to the frame are of a new pattern, easily operated.

All the new Locomobile models carry the fuel tank at the rear of the car with the pressure feed system to the carbureter. Preliminary pressure is obtained by a hand pump as usual.

The new method devised for starting the motor on the 1915 models is a great advance in automobile engineering. The shifting of the starting gear is accomplished electrically instead of by a foot pedal. A small pushbutton is the latest victory over the old-time crank.

Another feature is the electric lock switch, located on the cowl panel. It is operated by a key and is marked "on," "day" and "night." In the "day" position the magneto is grounded. The starter is locked and the lights cannot be lighted. In the "night" position, conditions are the same, except the side and tail lights are lit and cannot be turned off or the car moved.

The new lamp arrangement is attractive. The side lights are done away with. The headlights have an extension at the top for auxiliary lights.

Various estimates have been made of the cost of the Defiance, as well as the Vanitie and the Resolute, the yachts which will battle for the honor of defending the American cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock IV. One of the latest of the estimates places the cost of the Vanitie and the Resolute at $200,000, and that of the Defiance at $100,000.

JUNIOR NET CHAMP LOSES TO GRIFFIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, May 30.—Clarence Griffin defeated Rolan Roberts, Pacific Coast junior champion, 6-1 and 6-4, in the singles championship play of the Central California Tennis Association today.

Bowie Detrick beat Stickney in two close sets, 6-3, 6-4, placing Detrick and William Johnson in the semifinal play. Griffin is slated to meet the winner of the Breck-Ella Fottrell match.

All the finals in the championship play will be played tomorrow.

In the championship doubles today the results were: J. Strachan and Fottrell beat Victor Chambers and E. W. McSwain, 7-5, 4-6 and 6-0. Breeden and Breck beat Francis and Johns, 6-0, 6-0. In the handicap doubles, Curtis and M. Fottrell defeated Maples and Dwight, 9-4.

In the singles handicap, G. Hall beat Maples, 9-1; Greenberg beat T. C. Gaskill, 9-2; J. B. Friner beat A. Becker by default; S. Guerin beat W. G. Hunter, 9-2; E. Otis beat J. S. Dean by default.

Jack Johnson will defend his heavyweight boxing title against Frank Moran of Pittsburgh at Paris, June 27. It will take place at the Velodrome d'Hiver, which has a seating capacity of 35,000. The date coincides with the Grand Prix, the blue ribbon turf event of France.

THREE POINT SUPPORT UNIT POWER PLANT

"Nearly a quarter of a century of leadership"

The new Stevens-Duryea model represents all that is best in modern motor cars. It is a car of distinction, elegance and exclusiveness.

We believe there is a sufficient number of people who desire distinctive motorcars of the highest quality to justify Stevens-Duryea standards.

High quality means high prices; there is no exception to this rule and no escape from this fact.

The Stevens-Duryea Company is committed to its present standards and any change will be in the direction of higher quality, if such a thing is possible.

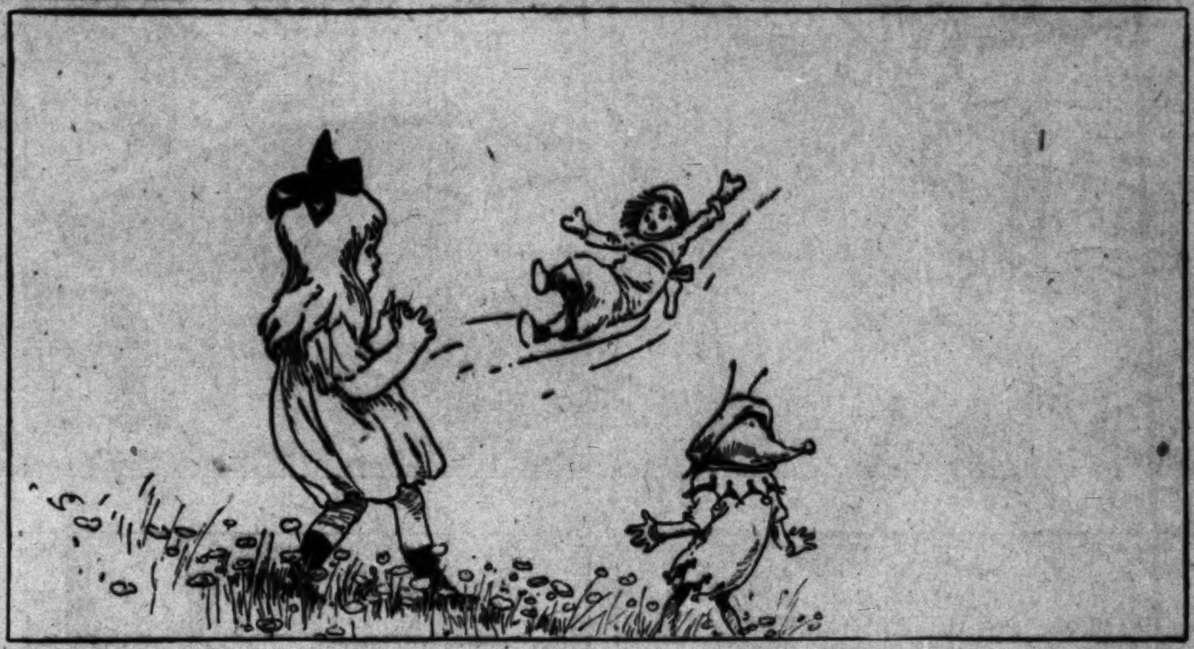
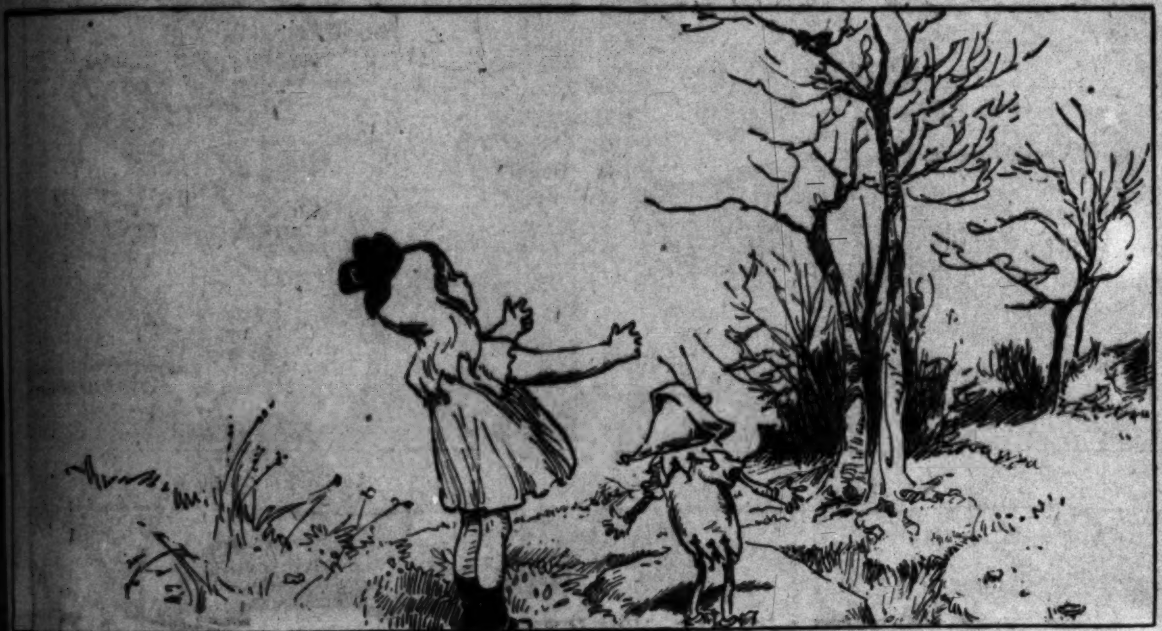
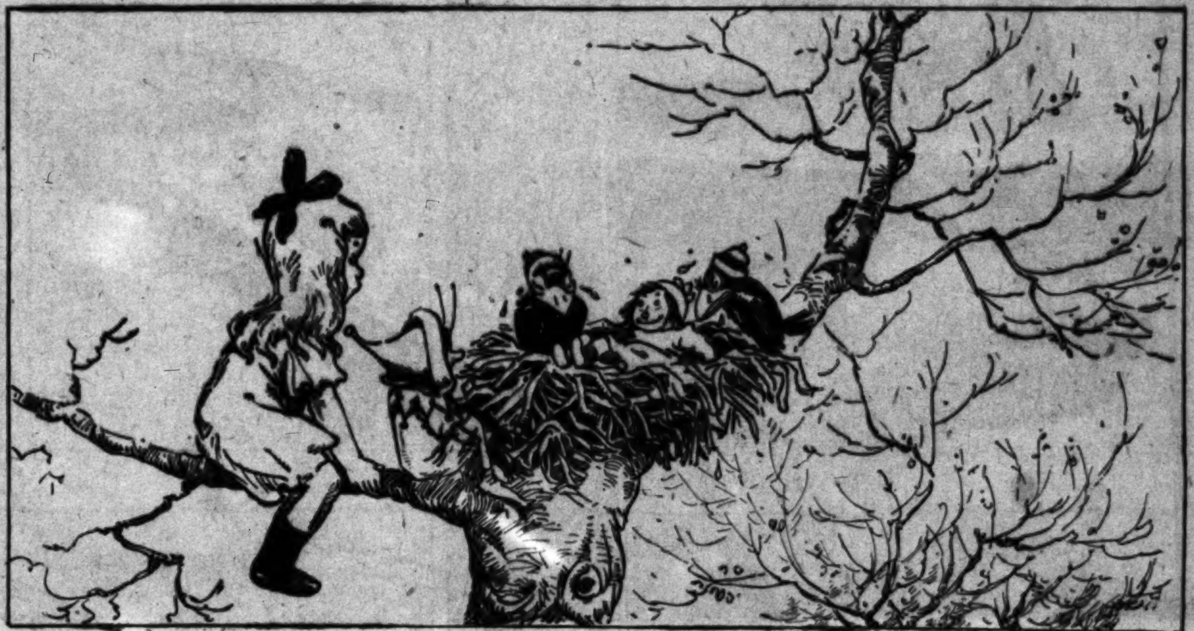
1—One day Dolly heard Mr. Twee Deedle whistling out in the meadow, so she went out to see what he was doing.



2—Mr. Twee Deedle said a magic word and Dolly's rag doll picked up her feet and flew away.

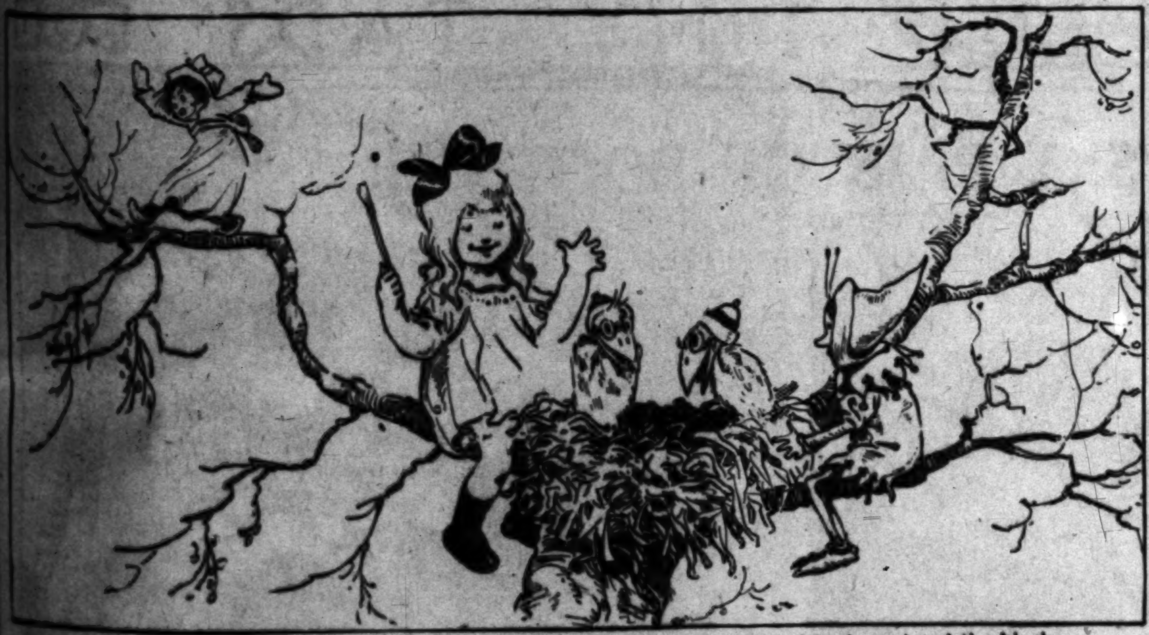


3—Mr Twee Deedle and Dolly saw the doll fly up to a big nest in an old tree, so they followed her.

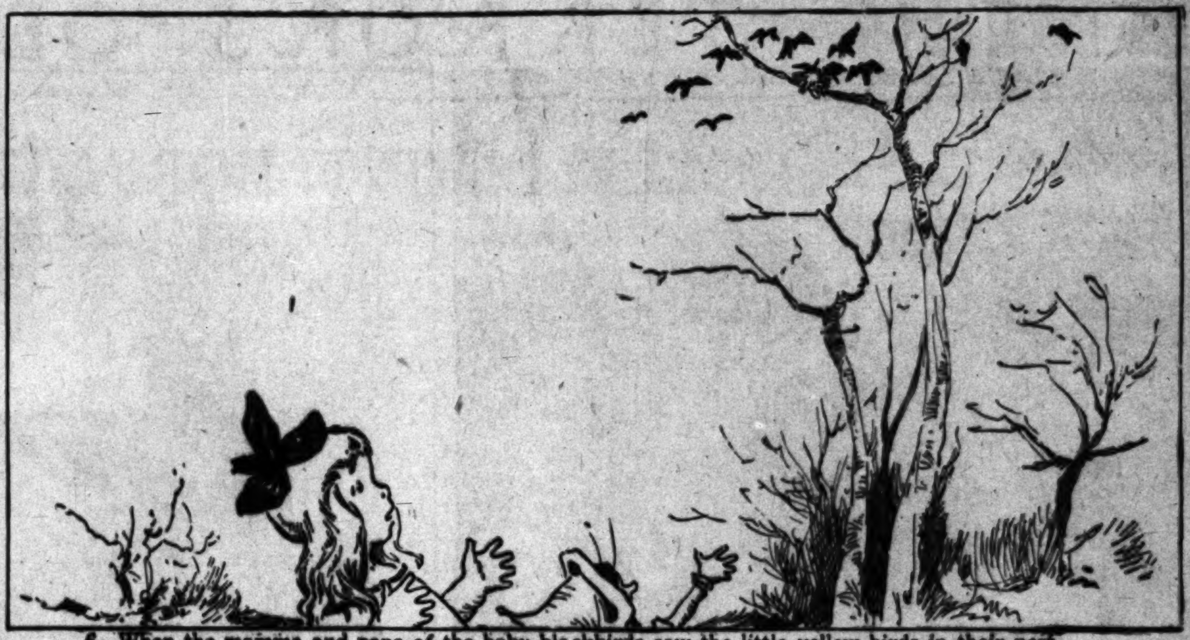


4—"Rags," the doll, was seated in the nest. Two baby blackbirds beside her were crying as if their hearts would break.

"We want to be like the yellow canaries," they said. "Then we could sing sweetly."



5—Dolly flew home and brought back a bottle of magic liquid. With this she painted the blackbirds a beautiful yellow. But when the blackbirds tried to sing like the canaries they made noises like a barn door creaking in the wind.



6—When the mamma and papa of the baby blackbirds saw the little yellow birds in their nest they made such a fuss that their blackbird neighbors threw the two baby birds out of their own nest.

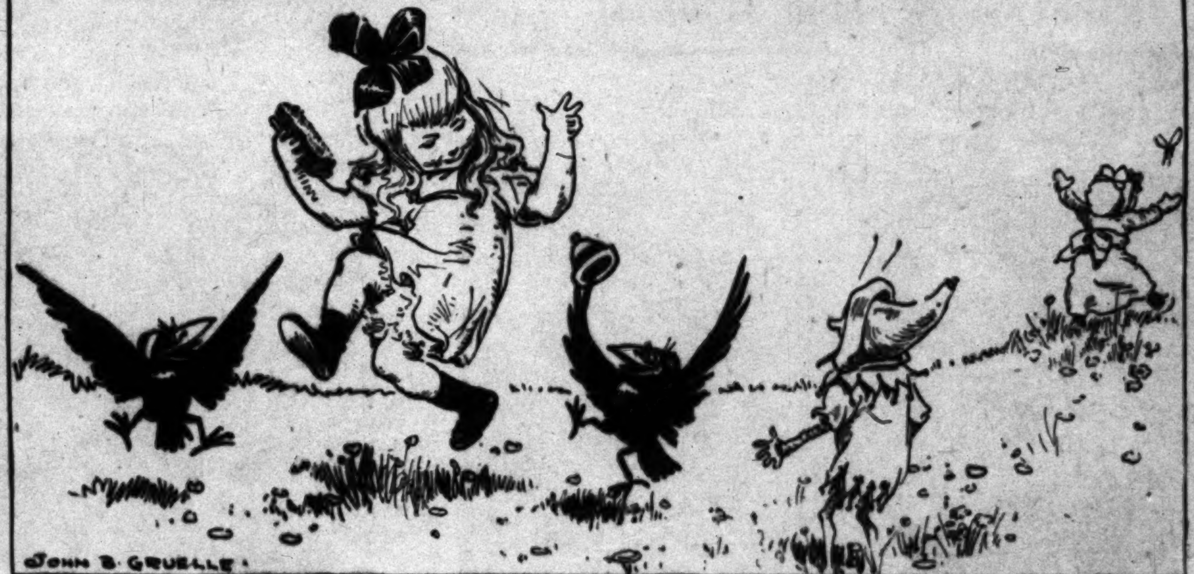
7—The baby birds were very unhappy because their mamma and papa did not recognize them. They asked Dolly to make them black again. Dolly ran home and got the shoe polish. She blacked the birds nicely and polished them with a brush.



8—The birds flapped their wings and danced with joy.

"You see," said Mr. Twee Deedle, "it is foolish to be discontented because one isn't as pretty as some one else. It is far better to be beautiful inside than to be beautiful outside only."

ZOTWOTS

The Wot the Mukes and the Jay-fowl.

STORY AND PICTURES By Bob Dean

“DID you ever hear what became of the two Slinks who frightened the Jay-fowl when he called at the Spakrum to see the Wot?” I inquired of my little friend.

“Oh, yes,” she replied, gazing reflectively out of the window. “The Wot locked them up, but let them out the next day because he thought the Jay-fowl was mostly to blame.”

“How could he think that?” I asked in astonishment.

“Well,” she [illegible], “it [illegible] happened this way:—The [illegible] are the friends of children, and their chief purpose in life is to teach grown-ups to respect the rights of boys and girls. Some days they are so busy zotwotting elders they hardly have a minute to themselves.

“The day the Jay-fowl was invited to the Spakrum happened to be one of their busiest days. Calls from children in trouble kept coming in so fast that only one crew of Zotwots were home when the Jay-fowl came racing back frightened most to death.

“They had just time to write the Wot a short letter when they were called away to attend to a man who was telling a little girl that the rag-picker would carry her off if she did not stop crying. Of course the Jay-fowl went with them, and made so many trips they thought it best to leave him home the next day to rest up.

“He didn't want to rest, so went for a walk, and, feeling quite lonesome, began to sing:—

“ ‘A lady who frightened a dear little child
With [illegible] and stories most fearsome and wild,
Was [illegible] by Zotwots, who gluggled so glook!
The [illegible] lady plightened and skivered and shook,
And covered her face and pleaded so loud
The neighbors came running and formed quite a crowd
But as soon as they learned what the Zotwots were at
They hurried back home again quicker than scat!
And the lady was taught such a lesson that day
Her friends hardly knew her; and some of them say
The whole neighborhood has improved and is glad
The Zotwots protected the terrified lad.

P. S.:—“ ‘Now the Jay-fowl never does forget
The things the Zotwots do,
For the Jay-fowl is the Zotwots' pet,
And the Zotwots know it, too!’

“He found so much joy in singing the P. S. that he paid no heed as to where he was going, till a loud clatter of wheels and shouting made him look up, and he saw the Wot driving his Mukes.

“As soon as the Wot saw him he stopped his team and cried in a pompous voice, ‘Sorry I did not see you when you called at the Spakrum yesterday. I'm on my way to tell the Zotwots the same thing.’

“ ‘They are all away,’ chirped the Jay-fowl, quite flattered to think the Wot would stop and talk to him.

“ ‘That's too bad!’ said the Wot in a disappointed tone, and turned his team around. Then, seeing how wistfully the Jay-fowl eyed his Mukes, said, ‘How would you like to take a ride?’

“Too overjoyed to answer, the Jay-fowl gazed at him with glistening eyes and the Wot said, ‘Come on, hop in and we'll drive around till the Zotwots get home; and you can tell me all about how you managed to escape from the Blubberingboo.’

“At the mention of this dreadful name, the Jay-fowl shivered and shrank back. The Wot reached out to help him into the cart. Thinking he intended to give him to the Blubberingboo again, the poor little Jay-fowl suddenly became panic-stricken and ran down the road toward home as fast as he could go.

“The Wot was surprised, but so eager was he to find out how the Jay-fowl got out of the Blubberingboo that he wheeled his team around and raced after him, shouting at him to stop.

“This frightened him more than ever, yet, run as fast as he might, the Mukes overhauled him. When they got so close he could feel their hot breath, he swerved aside and the cart rattled by. Then he ran back up the road.

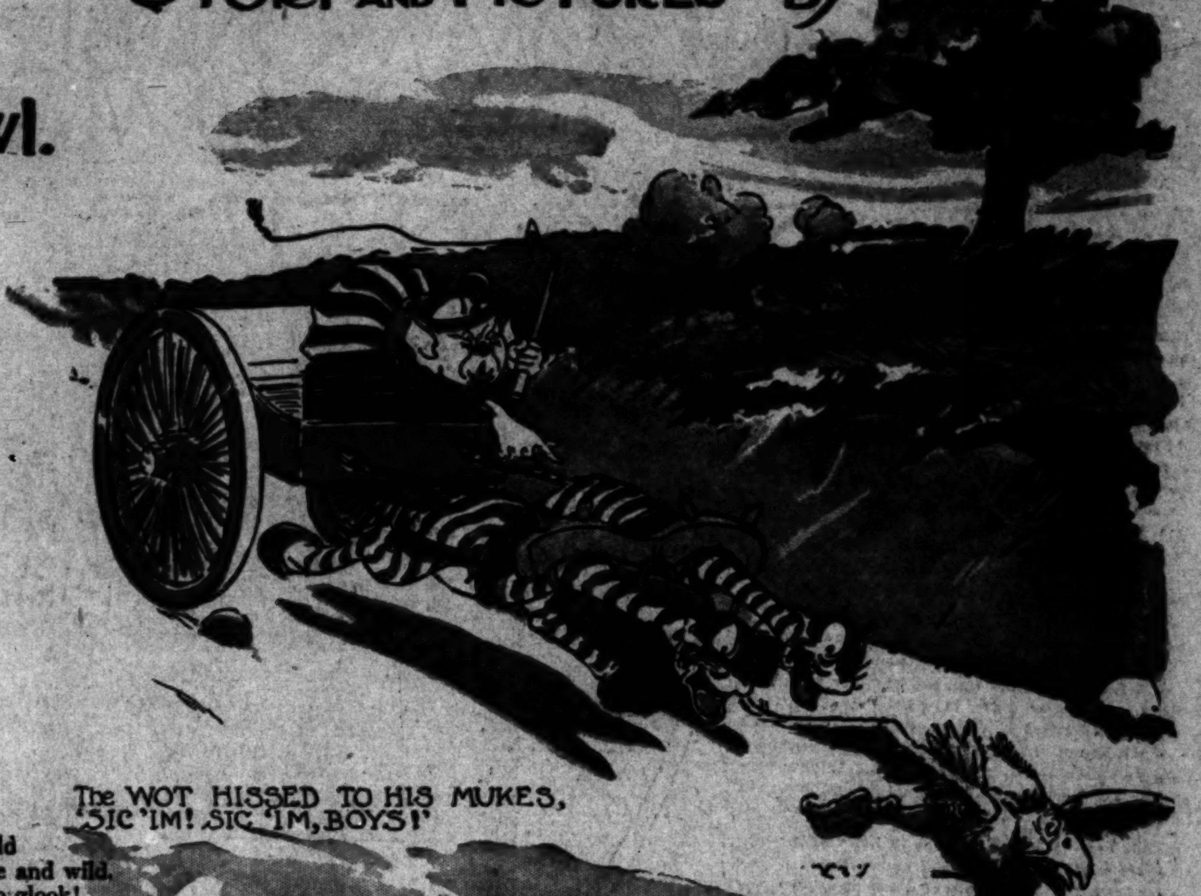
“The Wot, shouting and cracking his whip, quickly stopped his team, turned them around and drove after the Jay-fowl again. But as soon as he caught up with him ,the Jay-fowl dodged and ran in the other direction; and so they ran back and forth, back and forth till the Wot finally lost his patience. Making up his mind to catch the Jay-fowl, no matter how, and either make him tell, or give him to the Blubberingboo again, he leaned forward and hissed to his Mukes, ‘Sic 'im! Sic 'im! Sic 'im, boys!’ in a way that set them perfectly wild.

“Yowling fiercely, they took after the Jay-fowl with such earnestness that the Wot was unable to control them. He clung fearfully to the cart as it bounded and bumped over the rough ground, threatening every second to overturn as the Mukes followed the leaping, dodging Jay-fowl, who at the first cry of ‘Sic 'im!’ had taken to the woods.

Bounced and jolted till every bone in his body ached, the Wot yelled and screeched to his Mukes to ‘Whoa!’ but they were too excited to heed. The Jay-fowl at last began to tire. He looked to the right and to the left, but saw no hope in turning aside, so staggered on. Suddenly his way was blocked by a stone wall; the Mukes were close on his heels, yowling at every jump. He paused, then seeing a hole in the wall, scurried toward it in one last burst of speed, and wriggled through. The Mukes, never slowing their pace, dashed their heads against the wall and fell in a huddled heap, with the broken cart and injured Wot on top of them.”

“Of course, the Jay-fowl had no further trouble that day?” I said, when the little girl finished.

“No,” she agreed, “he didn't. He went home, firmly believing he had planned the whole thing as a joke on the Wot; and bragged about it so much that the Wot believed it, too, and decided that the Slinks were not to blame for what had happened the day before.”



The WOT HISSED TO HIS MUKES, 'SIC 'IM! SIC 'IM, BOYS!'

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

THE SEASON OF SALADS

THE time for salads is upon us. This does not mean that salads are not acceptable and desirable at any season of the year. We should try to have them as often as possible, even in the winter, but especially in the spring and summer. In the cold months the cost of lettuce and other green salads is sometimes prohibitive, and, although the housekeeper depends upon cabbage and cooked vegetable salads, she sometimes reaches the point where she and her family weary of these and long for a change. Fruit salads are some help, but the period when green things are plentiful and cheap is the one when salads made from them should appear constantly upon our tables.

The lucky woman who has a garden of her own may command salads of her own all during the growing months. Greens which may be converted into salads are many, and fresh vegetables that are left over from their first service are never better than when made into a salad of one or of mixed kinds. They are of special value in the dietary of those persons who do not lead active lives and take little outdoor exercise. Simple salads make small demand upon the digestion and give an impetus to failing appetites.

Heavy salads are rather out of place in hot weather unless they are made to serve as the main dish at a meal. If, for instance, the contents of a can of salmon is turned out into a bowl, left to stand covered with a light cloth for an hour or so, then arranged on crisp lettuce leaves and dressed with a good mayonnaise and accompanied by fresh cucumbers, sliced thin, this salad makes all one needs for luncheon on a hot day when good bread and butter in abundance are served with it. When there are children in the family something simpler may be demanded, but the grownups of the establishment will supplement the meal with iced tea, finish it with fruit, and find entire satisfaction. Or the salad may be of crab flakes, or of chicken, or of something equally substantial. Left overs of all kinds may find their place in salads and are far better there during the heated term than when made into the minces and scallops and souffles which are their destiny in cold weather. Until the housekeeper has studied the matter she has no idea of how many good central dishes for luncheon or for supper, and even for dinner, may be made of remainders compounded in a salad.

Take the Sunday's roast of lamb, for example. To some of us good cold lamb is better even than when served hot, and far preferable to the roast cooked over in any form. The first time it reappears on the table it may be sliced and the remainder of the mint sauce may be passed with it, or it may be offered without the mint sauce, but garnished with lettuce and French dressing served with it. But when the best slices are gone and the bits that are left are not in attractive form they may be chopped coarsely, moistened with French dressing, or merely sprinkled with salt and pepper, packed lightly into hollowed out raw tomatoes, and dressed with a good mayonnaise or boiled dressing. Behold an attractive and nourishing dish for luncheon or for dinner on a hot evening!

Any kind of cold meat may be used in this way—veal, beef, mutton, ham, the light or dark meat of poultry—or an aspic jelly may be prepared by soaking half a box of gelatin in enough cold water to cover it, stirring it into two cups of good stock, heated to boiling over the fire, adding salt and pepper to taste, unless the stock is sufficiently seasoned, two tablespoons of vinegar and one of sherry, and after straining the liquid through a cloth, setting it aside in a cool place to form. When it begins to harden a mold may be wet with cold water, a little of the jelly turned into it, the cold meat, cut into neat pieces, arranged on this with sliced hard boiled eggs, stoned olives, and minced pickles, more jelly poured in, and the mold put in a cold place until the jelly is firm enough to turn out on a flat dish and serve on lettuce leaves with a French mayonnaise or boiled dressing.

Tomato jelly may be made in the same way, substituting two cups of well seasoned tomato liquor for the meat stock and omitting the vinegar and the wine. Chopped meat may be stirred through this or through the meat jelly, and it may be formed in tumblers to make individual molds.

Other fillings besides meat may be employed for the raw tomato baskets or boxes. Cold green peas or string beans, minced celery, diced cucumbers, shrimps, flaked cold fish, are all good. Beets which have been boiled and peeled may also be cut into baskets and stuffed with any of these fillings.

Without going to the bother of making baskets, however, delicious, wholesome and inexpensive salads are possible. Sliced tomatoes may be served plain or with green salads or other vegetables; cucumbers and tomatoes make a good combination, and many others will suggest themselves from time to time.

No salad is really good without a satisfactory dressing. French dressing made with an excellent salad oil is best for most green salads, is more digestible and less costly than mayonnaise. This is admirable for heavier and more substantial salads, and its place may be in a measure taken by boiled dressings for those who do not like oil or are not in a locality where it can be obtained pure and fresh.

FRENCH DRESSING.

Put half a teaspoon of salt, an eighth of a teaspoon of pepper, and one tablespoon of vinegar into a bowl and stir until the salt is dissolved; add three or four tablespoons of salad oil, as your taste dictates. The oil lover prefers to have the dressing four parts oil to one of vinegar, especially if the vinegar is sharp, but the dressing may be made with three parts of oil to one of vinegar. When a larger quantity is desired the same proportions may be followed. The oil should have been kept on the ice and the bowl, the vinegar, and the spoon for stirring should all be chilled. The dressing will thicken a little by stirring and a lump of ice stirred about in the dressing will quicken the process of thickening. When the dressing is to be served with rather tart tomatoes a teaspoonful of white sugar may be put in for those who dislike acidity, but the dressing is better without it to most tastes.

The lovers of onion will enjoy this dressing more if ten drops of onion juice are added to it or the inside of the bowl rubbed with the half of a cut onion before the dressing is mixed, or a clove of garlic may be used in the same way. Sometimes this dressing is varied by the addition of a few drops of Worcestershire or of chili sauce, or of tomato catsup, but the French dressing, pure and simple, is made according to the direction first given, and is admirable for almost any salad, especially for the green varieties.

MAYONNAISE DRESSING.

For mayonnaise dressing also the ingredients and the utensils must be very cold. The white and yolk of a fresh egg are separated carefully, all the white drained off into a cup by itself and the yolk put into a [illegible] plate or a shallow bowl. To it are added a saltspoonful of salt, a pinch of pepper, the same of dry mustard, and the juice of half a small lemon. These are stirred with a fork just enough to mix them, and salad oil is poured upon them, a drop at a time, and each drop is stirred in before another is added. When about [illegible] drops have been used the quantity may be increased to two or three drops at a time, and in a little while, when the mixture shows signs of thickening, the oil may go in faster. After the dressing is really thick the oil is poured in by the teaspoonful, always taking pains to mix each installment in well before using another.

When the mayonnaise is as thick as can be stirred a teaspoon of vinegar is put in; this will thin the dressing a little and make it lighter in color. After this oil and vinegar may be added alternately, until the desired amount of mayonnaise of the right thickness is prepared. When done it may be set aside in a cold place to keep until needed. Mayonnaise may be kept in a cold place for days at a time and will be good. A pint of oil may be used with the yolk of one egg.

When the dressing is to be served the white of the egg, beaten to a stiff froth, may be folded lightly into the mayonnaise, which will be a little thinned by the addition, and made a trifle paler in tint. To make a rich mayonnaise half a pint of cream, whipped stiff, may be put with the dressing in place of the white of egg.

Should the mayonnaise curdle when half mixed an attempt to bring it back to smoothness may be made by stirring a lump of ice about in it for a couple of minutes. Should this fail the curdled dressing may be set aside and the process of mixing be begun again with another egg and fresh ingredients of every kind. When this batch of mayonnaise has thickened the curdled supply may be beaten into the new as if it were so much oil, and will work smooth.

BOILED SALAD DRESSING (NO. 1).

Work a heaping tablespoon of butter and a tablespoon of flour to a cream with a fork, add an egg beaten light without separating, a pinch of salt, half a teaspoon of pepper, a teaspoon of white sugar and four tablespoons of vinegar. Put all these together in a saucepan over the fire and stir until the mixture is thick. Just before it is to be used enough whipped cream is stirred into it to make a dressing the thickness of mayonnaise. This is especially good with fruit salads or those made of cooked vegetables, although the sugar in it renders it a little less desirable for meat or fish salads.

BOILED SALAD DRESSING (NO. 2).

Heat six cups of vinegar in a double boiler, beat light the yolks of six eggs and put them with the vinegar and stir until the mixture is thick. Take from the fire and while hot whip into it with a fork four tablespoons of butter. When the ingredients are perfectly blended pepper and salt to taste may be added and a little mustard. Oil must be added to it when it is used to thin it to the thickness desired, or to those who do not take oil may use melted butter mixed with a little vinegar in its place.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

"I HAVE derived much help from the letters you have printed in your Corner and now, having the opportunity to help some one, I am glad to avail myself of the chance. In a recent issue L. M. P. asks for a recipe for hamburg loaf. The egg is what holds the meat together and if properly seasoned the loaf is delicious. To two pounds of the chopped meat grate one small onion and cut fine a large sprig of parsley. Add a small cup of bread or cracker crumbs, one teaspoon of salt, a dash of pepper, and a small pinch of nutmeg. Mix all together with a well beaten egg or a half cup of sweet milk. Form into a loaf and when it is in the pan place over the top a slice of bacon or even a piece of the rind if it has a little of the fat left on it. Have a good hot oven and bake for thirty minutes. This is delicious. If some one who reads the page has single white or double blue or white violets I would like to have some. None of the florists seems to have them in stock.

"MRS. E. E. C."

Thank you very much for the recipe both in the name of L. M. P. and of the other housekeepers who will be glad to get it. I fully indorse all you say of the excellence of the loaf when well seasoned. Have you ever tried serving fried bananas with it? I have found these a most pleasing accompaniment. I hope some one may be able to supply you with the violets you wish.

Getting the Sampler Habit.

"In your Corner I find an offer of cross-stitch patterns and canvas to work on for the value of postage. I have three girlies who want to learn cross-stitch so as to get the sampler habit for the coming years. Will you let me have the patterns? Also do you know where one could get roots or slips of the snowball jasmine, calycanthus, and honeysuckle? A dear little woman has bought a home, but misses these sweet ornaments of the garden. I had sent some plants from the nurseries from here, but they did not turn out well. The flowering almond, which was a fine flourishing shrub, turned out to be grafted on privet; it grew privet one side and tiny almond on the other. I will gladly send postage for such plants and for one which is called the burning bush, or for any plant which can be spared for this purpose. Will you send me the name of some invalid who wants cheering by pen? It may be a German. I have three already who are glad to hear from me.

"MRS. F. H. K."

I am sorry you did not give the name of the friend who offered the cross-stitch patterns and canvas, for as it is I am unable to find her. If you had only mentioned the signature she affixed to her letter I could have put you in touch with her. I hope some one may see your request for the plants and be able to send them to your friend. I am sure some invalid who needs cheering will see your kindly offer and write for your address, which I shall be most happy to supply.

For a Tuberculosis Camp.

"May I ask in behalf of a number of patients at this tuberculosis camp for the phonograph offered recently in your Corner? We have only an old, worn out one, which is practically no good at all, and the camp would certainly appreciate the one I ask for. If that one is already taken, perhaps some one else will have one to offer. We have no musical instruments, except an old and worn piano and the old graphophone I speak of. A PATIENT."

As the writer made the omission, found so often, of the name of the friend who offered the phonograph, I have no way of knowing whether or not it has been given away, although I think there is a strong probability that it has already been bestowed elsewhere. Still, I cannot help believing that this appeal will bring a reply that will tell of a phonograph of some sort in readiness to be sent to the tuberculosis camp. The very name is synonymous with pain and suffering and uncertainty and banishment from active, well people. If ever cheer and encouragement are needed, it is by those who have left home and family and friends to make a fight against the encroachments of the white plague. The fighters deserve all they can get, and it should be the privilege of those who are spared their sorrow and suffering to solace their exile by every means in their power.

Something About the Chayote.

"For a long time I have watched the Corner to see if you ever wrote of the vegetable pear or chayote, and not seeing any reference to it, I conclude you are not familiar with it. If you were you would surely speak of it, particularly as a substitute for meat. In any event, I know you will be glad to receive some details about it. The plant on which the pear grows is a rapidly growing vine bearing pears that weigh from half a pound to a pound apiece; from 150 to 400 pears will appear on one vine. This dies down in the late fall, but early spring finds it sprouting out stronger than ever; it needs no replanting. This condition, of course, refers to California. The plant is originally from South America. The pear can be prepared for the table in several ways and is always delicious. The following are some of the directions for preparing it: 1. Use raw in small dice, with celery and nuts and mayonnaise for a salad. 2. Peel, slice, dip in egg and cracker crumbs, and fry as you would eggplant. 3. Peel, halve and bake, sprinkling with salt, pepper, and a little butter. 4. Cook exactly as you would scalloped corn or potatoes. 5. Use when small as you would mushrooms, with beefsteak gravy. 6. Peel and halve and cook with the roast of meat or chicken in the oven. 7. Peel, slice, cook in slightly salted water for fifteen minutes, then cream as you would carrots. I have made many housewives grateful by telling them of this vine. MRS. P. C. T."

I have no doubt many other housekeepers will be as interested as am I in the account of this pear, and I wonder whether most of them are as ignorant of it as I was before the receipt of this letter. The "alligator" or "avocado" pear I know, but the chayote is a new idea to me, and I am extremely desirous to see it and taste it for myself. I shall be happy to give your address to any of our Cornerites who wish to write to you of the pear and the vine and secure further information about them. The words of friendliness for myself in your letter touch me very much, and I plan to make your request for information upon dishwashing the text for a lead shortly. There is not space in the Helping Hand to treat the topic adequately. Thank you for writing as you have done and for your offer to send me a few of the pears to sample when they are ready to eat.

How to Candy Flowers.

"I would so much like to know how to candy violets and rose leaves, if you or some of the correspondents could tell me how it is done. MRS. J. F. L."

For candied flowers of any sort you must prepare a sirup in which to dip them. Put half a pound of granulated sugar in a clean saucepan with half a pint of cold water; boil the sugar, without stirring, until it spins a thread from the tip of a fork dipped into it. Your flowers should have been picked over carefully and spread on a sieve turned bottom up; they should lie on this until partially dry, although they must not be really crisp. When the sirup is ready the violets may be dipped into it one at a time, holding the flower by the stem. As it is taken out it should be laid on a plate that has been spread lightly with butter or oil. The rose leaves must be dipped into the sirup with a pair of fine tongs which will hold them lightly. After this dipping the flowers must be left for several hours. They should look as though thoroughly preserved in the sirup at the end of this time, but if part of the leaves look dry they must all be dipped again. The second part of the operation is to make fondant by cooking together two cups of granulated sugar and three-quarters of a cup of boiling water, without stirring, until a little of it dropped into water will make a soft ball, when the sirup must be poured out in a greased platter, and, when it begins to cool, stirred until it is a white, creamy mass. This may be worked with the hand until it is like dough. To use it for candy, a little of it must be put into a bowl, set in boiling water, and melted until soft. The flowers are dipped into this one at a time, powdered sugar sifted over them, and left on a buttered plate or oiled paper until firm. The fondant may be colored and flavored if desired. The process is a tedious and delicate one, and requires a good deal of practice before skill enough is gained to do the work easily and well.

"Will you please request some silk scraps for an old lady living near me who has almost finished a quilt? She is a shut-in, and her only amusement is patchwork. She would like worsted patches also. "MRS. J. M. B."

I have especial pleasure in printing this request, since it comes from one who has done much for the happiness of other Cornerites. I am quite sure it is only necessary for your request to be printed here for the selection you wish to be sent to you. But I ask that those who have these pieces do not send them to me personally, but write me for your address in order that the selections may be sent to you directly. This course saves delay and confusion.

Colored Rose Beads.

"Will you kindly give me the recipe for making rose beads and tell me if there is any way of coloring them? N. P. [illegible]"

I will answer your second question first by saying that I do not believe the genuine rose beads can be colored. At least I have never seen any that were not black or brown. The method by which they are made darkens them. As to the recipe for making them, that has been given so often on this page we cannot afford space for repeating it. If you will write a request for the address of some one who can send the instructions, inclosing a stamped envelope, I shall be happy to put you in communication with her.

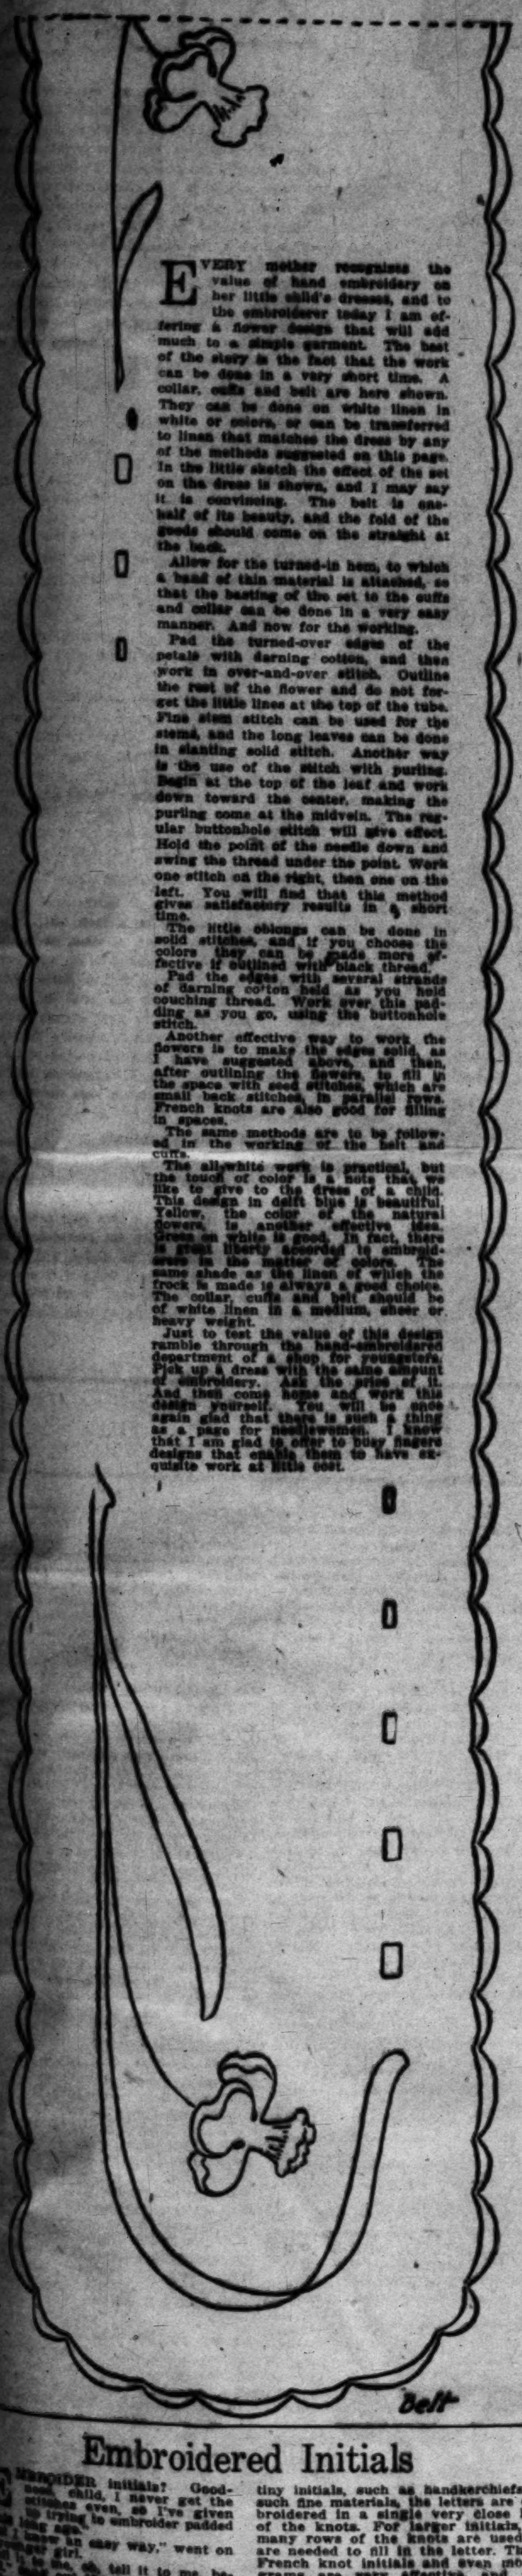
For the INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

By ADELAIDE BYRD

DAFFODIL SET FOR A CHILD'S DRESS



EVERY mother recognizes the value of hand embroidery on her little child's dresses, and to the embroiderer today I am offering a flower design that will add much to a simple garment. The best of the story is the fact that the work can be done in a very short time. A collar, cuffs and belt are here shown. They can be done on white linen in white or colors, or can be transferred to linen that matches the dress by any of the methods suggested on this page. In the little sketch the effect of the set on the dress is shown, and I may say it is convincing. The belt is one-half of its beauty, and the fold of the goods should come on the straight at the back.

Allow for the turned-in hem, to which a band of thin material is attached, so that the basting of the set to the cuffs and collar can be done in a very easy manner. And now for the working.

Pad the turned-over edges of the petals with darning cotton, and then work in over-and-over stitch. Outline the rest of the flower and do not forget the little lines at the top of the tube. Fine stem stitch can be used for the stems, and the long leaves can be done in slanting solid stitch. Another way is the use of the stitch with purling. Begin at the top of the leaf and work down toward the center, making the purling come at the midvein. The regular buttonhole stitch will give effect. Hold the point of the needle down and swing the thread under the point. Work one stitch on the right, then one on the left. You will find that this method gives satisfactory results in a short time.

The little oblongs can be done in solid stitches, and if you choose the colors they can be made more effective if outlined with black thread.

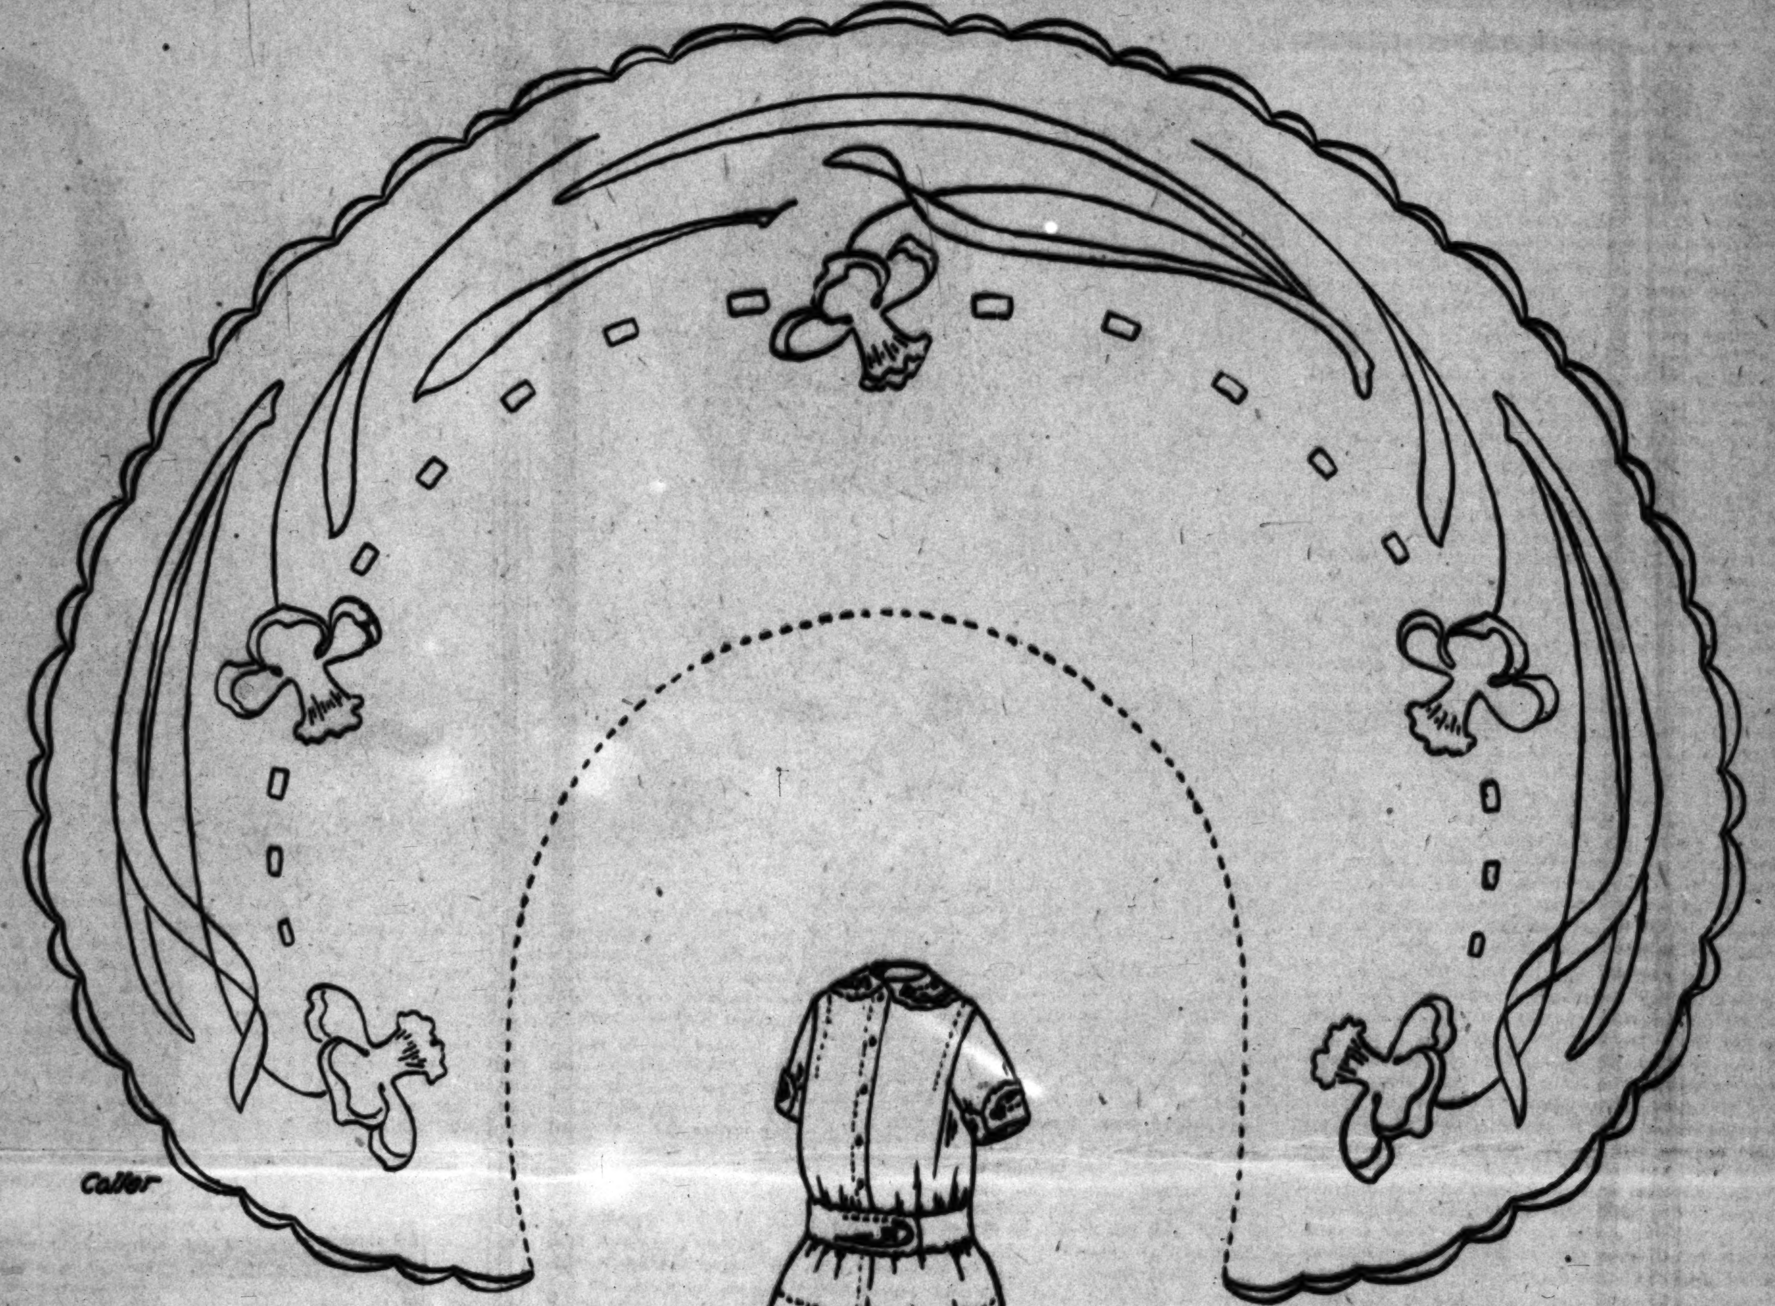
Pad the edges with several strands of darning cotton held as you hold couching thread. Work over this padding as you go, using the buttonhole stitch.

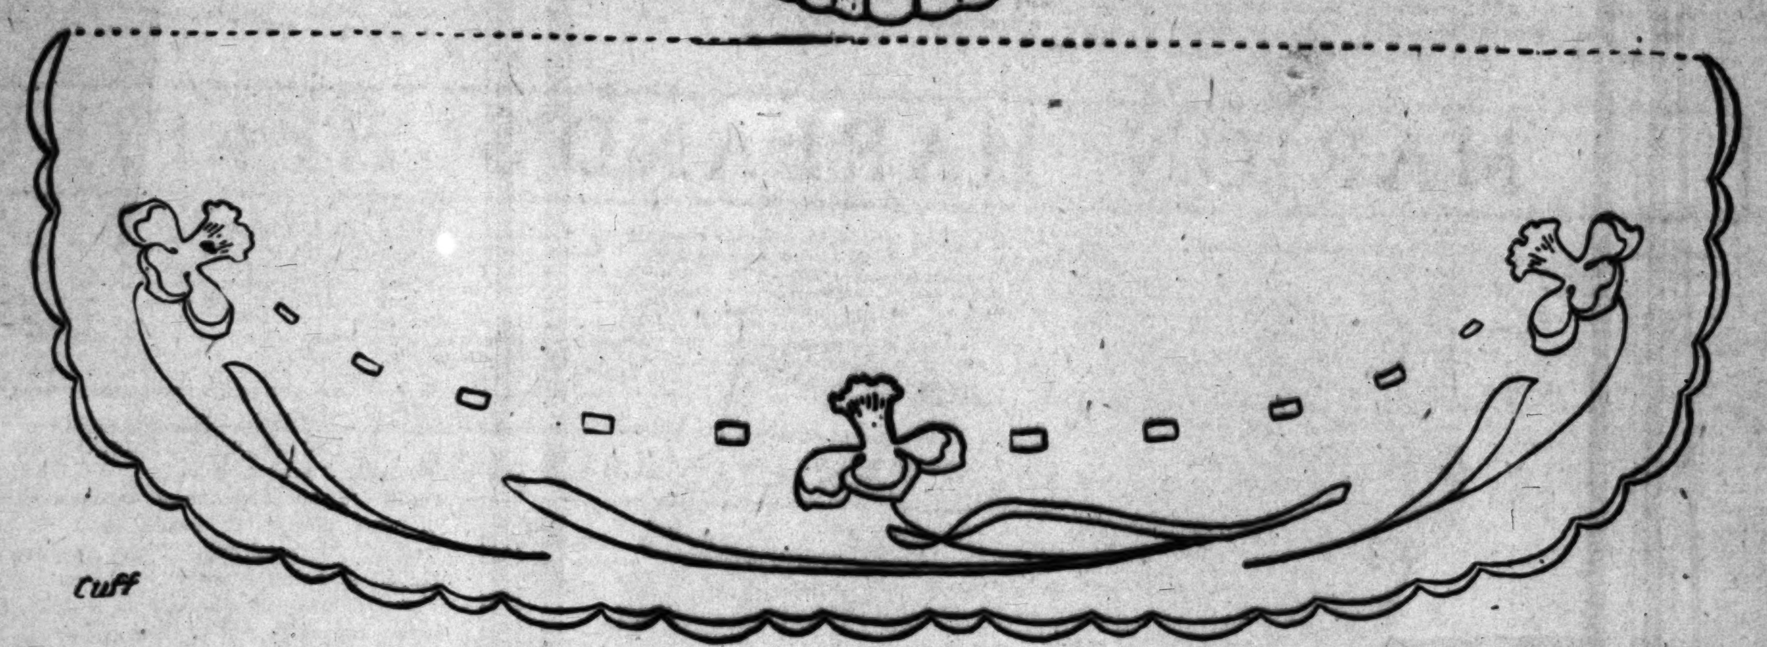
Another effective way to work the flowers is to make the edges solid, as I have suggested above, and then, after outlining the flowers, to fill in the space with seed stitches, which are small back stitches, in parallel rows. French knots are also good for filling in spaces.

The same methods are to be followed in the working of the belt and cuffs.

The all-white work is practical, but the touch of color is a note that we like to give to the dress of a child. This design in delft blue is beautiful. Yellow, the color of the natural flowers, is another effective idea. Green on white is good. In fact, there is great liberty accorded to embroiderers in the matter of colors. The same shade as the linen of which the frock is made is always a good choice. The collar, cuffs and belt should be of white linen in a medium, sheer or heavy weight.

Just to test the value of this design ramble through the hand-embroidered department of a shop for youngsters. Pick up a dress with the same amount of embroidery. Ask the price of it. And then come home and work this design yourself. You will be once again glad that there is such a thing as a page for needlewomen. I know that I am glad to offer to busy fingers designs that enable them to have exquisite work at little cost.





Embroidered Initials

"EMBROIDER initials? Goodness, child, I never get the stitches even, so I've given up trying to embroider padded initials long ago."

"But I know an easy way," went on the younger girl.

"Tell it to me, oh, tell it to me, be-[illegible] out the one addressed.

"I know how fond you are of making French knots, so when I learned of the easy way to embroider initials my first thought was of you. For tiny initials, such as handkerchiefs or such fine materials, the letters are embroidered in a single very close line of the knots. For larger initials, as many rows of the knots are used as are needed to fill in the letter. These French knot initials and even monograms are very effective, and you can't imagine, till you've seen one, how they actually beautify those ugly, old shaggy bath towels."

"Every day brings something new," said the older girl, gratefully.

Summer Bedroom Slippers

DAINTY, sanitary and cool bedroom slippers can be made from embroidered linen, linen just a trifle heavier than that which we use in doilies or centerpieces. Patterns for these slippers are obtainable at some of the pattern companies, but if you cannot find what you are looking for it is a simple matter to draw such a slipper top. This embroidered top is then fitted to leather soles by firm basting stitches. When the slippers become soiled it is then an easy matter to take the soles from the linen before it is laundered. Some of these slipper patterns are made with eyelets around the top for ribbons, while others are made to fit the feet without these drawstrings. Scallop the slippers about the edges. If the slipper pattern comes perfectly plain it is a simple matter to stamp or have stamped the scalloping and design. Solid work for the design is best on these slippers, as eyelet work plays too much peekaboo with one's toes. The slippers may be made with or without backs. Those without backs look very much like the conventional boudoir "mule."

Monogramed Towels

THE towel monogram is now being enhanced by an embroidered frame for the initials. Sometimes the frame is composed of a simple wreath of forget-me-nots or similar small flowers, and frequently the frame is an embroidered ribbon or a simple padded oval.

How to Transfer

PLACE a sheet of impression carbon paper between your fabric and the newspaper design, the latter on top. With a sharp pencil or a glass-pointed pen go over the outline. The design will be transferred to the material and will last until worked.

What to Make for the Veranda

THE greater portion of the warm summer days is spent on the cool, vine-shaded veranda, and the furnishing of this outdoor living room is as important as any room indoors. Most women display good taste when selecting the furniture, and the mission or wicker seems to be favored. When the furniture has been placed in position there is much the needlewoman can do to add to its attractiveness. The chairs should be provided with protectors which will cover the backs and seats. These can be fashioned of linen crash of a natural color, hemstitched at the top and lower edges; or they can be ornamented with a simple embroidered design. These protectors are almost an absolute necessity, for no matter how particular you may be, dust will accumulate on porch chairs.

Linen crash is inexpensive, but when practical wear is demanded it is the most decorative of materials. It corresponds well with the craftsman or wicker furniture. The protectors can be made in one strip sufficiently long to cover the back and seat of the chair, or they can be divided in two sections, one of rectangular shape and the other a square. If you decide to have them in one piece, make a two-inch hem at each end and hemstitch them or embroider a band in a conventional design, using colors that will blend with the furniture and awnings. The pinecone design, with its rich browns and greens, is always effective for the veranda. Another design much used for summer is the pond lily. Either of these will be appropriate for your summer living room.

The porch swing occupies a prominent position on almost every veranda, and the cushions and throw should be fashioned to match the protectors. If the scrim cannot be had wide enough to cover the swing, join the narrow strips, stitching them firmly together on the machine. Hem the ends and ornament the corners with an embroidered design, or, if preferred, a narrow border can be worked at each end.

The cushion covers should be made to button over the pillow, so that they can be easily removed and laundered when soiled. They do not require an elaborate design to ornament them, just a simple motif of the pine-cone or pond-lily design in one of the corners. You should supply a half dozen or more cushions for the veranda.

Of course, you will have a table for books and the bouquet of flowers, without which no living room is complete. For the table make a table runner of the narrow crash and ornament the ends to harmonize with the other articles of needlework.

The porch rug should be selected with care, so that it, too, will blend with the furniture and accessories. The pretty green-and-tan fiber rugs displayed in the shops are particularly lovely and will correspond with any furniture.

There is no excuse for having an unattractive veranda nowadays, and since the modern hostess does much of her summer entertaining in the outdoor living room, it must be inviting and homelike.

Storks for Baby

EVERY one gives the new baby pins, bibs, slips and the regulation baby gift, but not one in a hundred would think of a laundry bag for baby's own special use. If you observe the methods of young mothers, you will fine that very few of them put the tiny garments in the regular family hamper. So what could be more needed than a special baby laundry bag? They can be made in different sizes, and in any of several colors. A pretty one can be made of denim in old blue, embroidered in white. Have the bag stamped with a decoration of storks, and, if you wish, have the baby's monogram put upon it as well. The whole design may be done in cross-stitch, or a simple tapestry stitch may be used, or even the old outline stitch. The bag in brown linen or denim and worked in brown is, of course, less likely to soil, but the blue and white seems more appropriate for a baby.

A Pleated Camisole

PRETTY camisoles to wear under sheer dresses can be made from accordion-pleated chiffon. If the pleating is bought in the form of pleated ruffling and attached to a band, this band may be used for the waistband, and a ribbon can be tacked about the top to hold the pleats in place for the upper part. In the case of the ruffling the waistband should be a trifle large, so as to give more width at the top (which will naturally require more than the waist measurement does), and the pleats for this upper part will have to be slightly spread to increase the width still more. Across the front of these pleats can be trailed little chiffon vines of rosebuds and pretty green leaves. Ribbon straps are used for the shoulders; sometimes plain strips and sometimes a little bow upon the top of the shoulder.

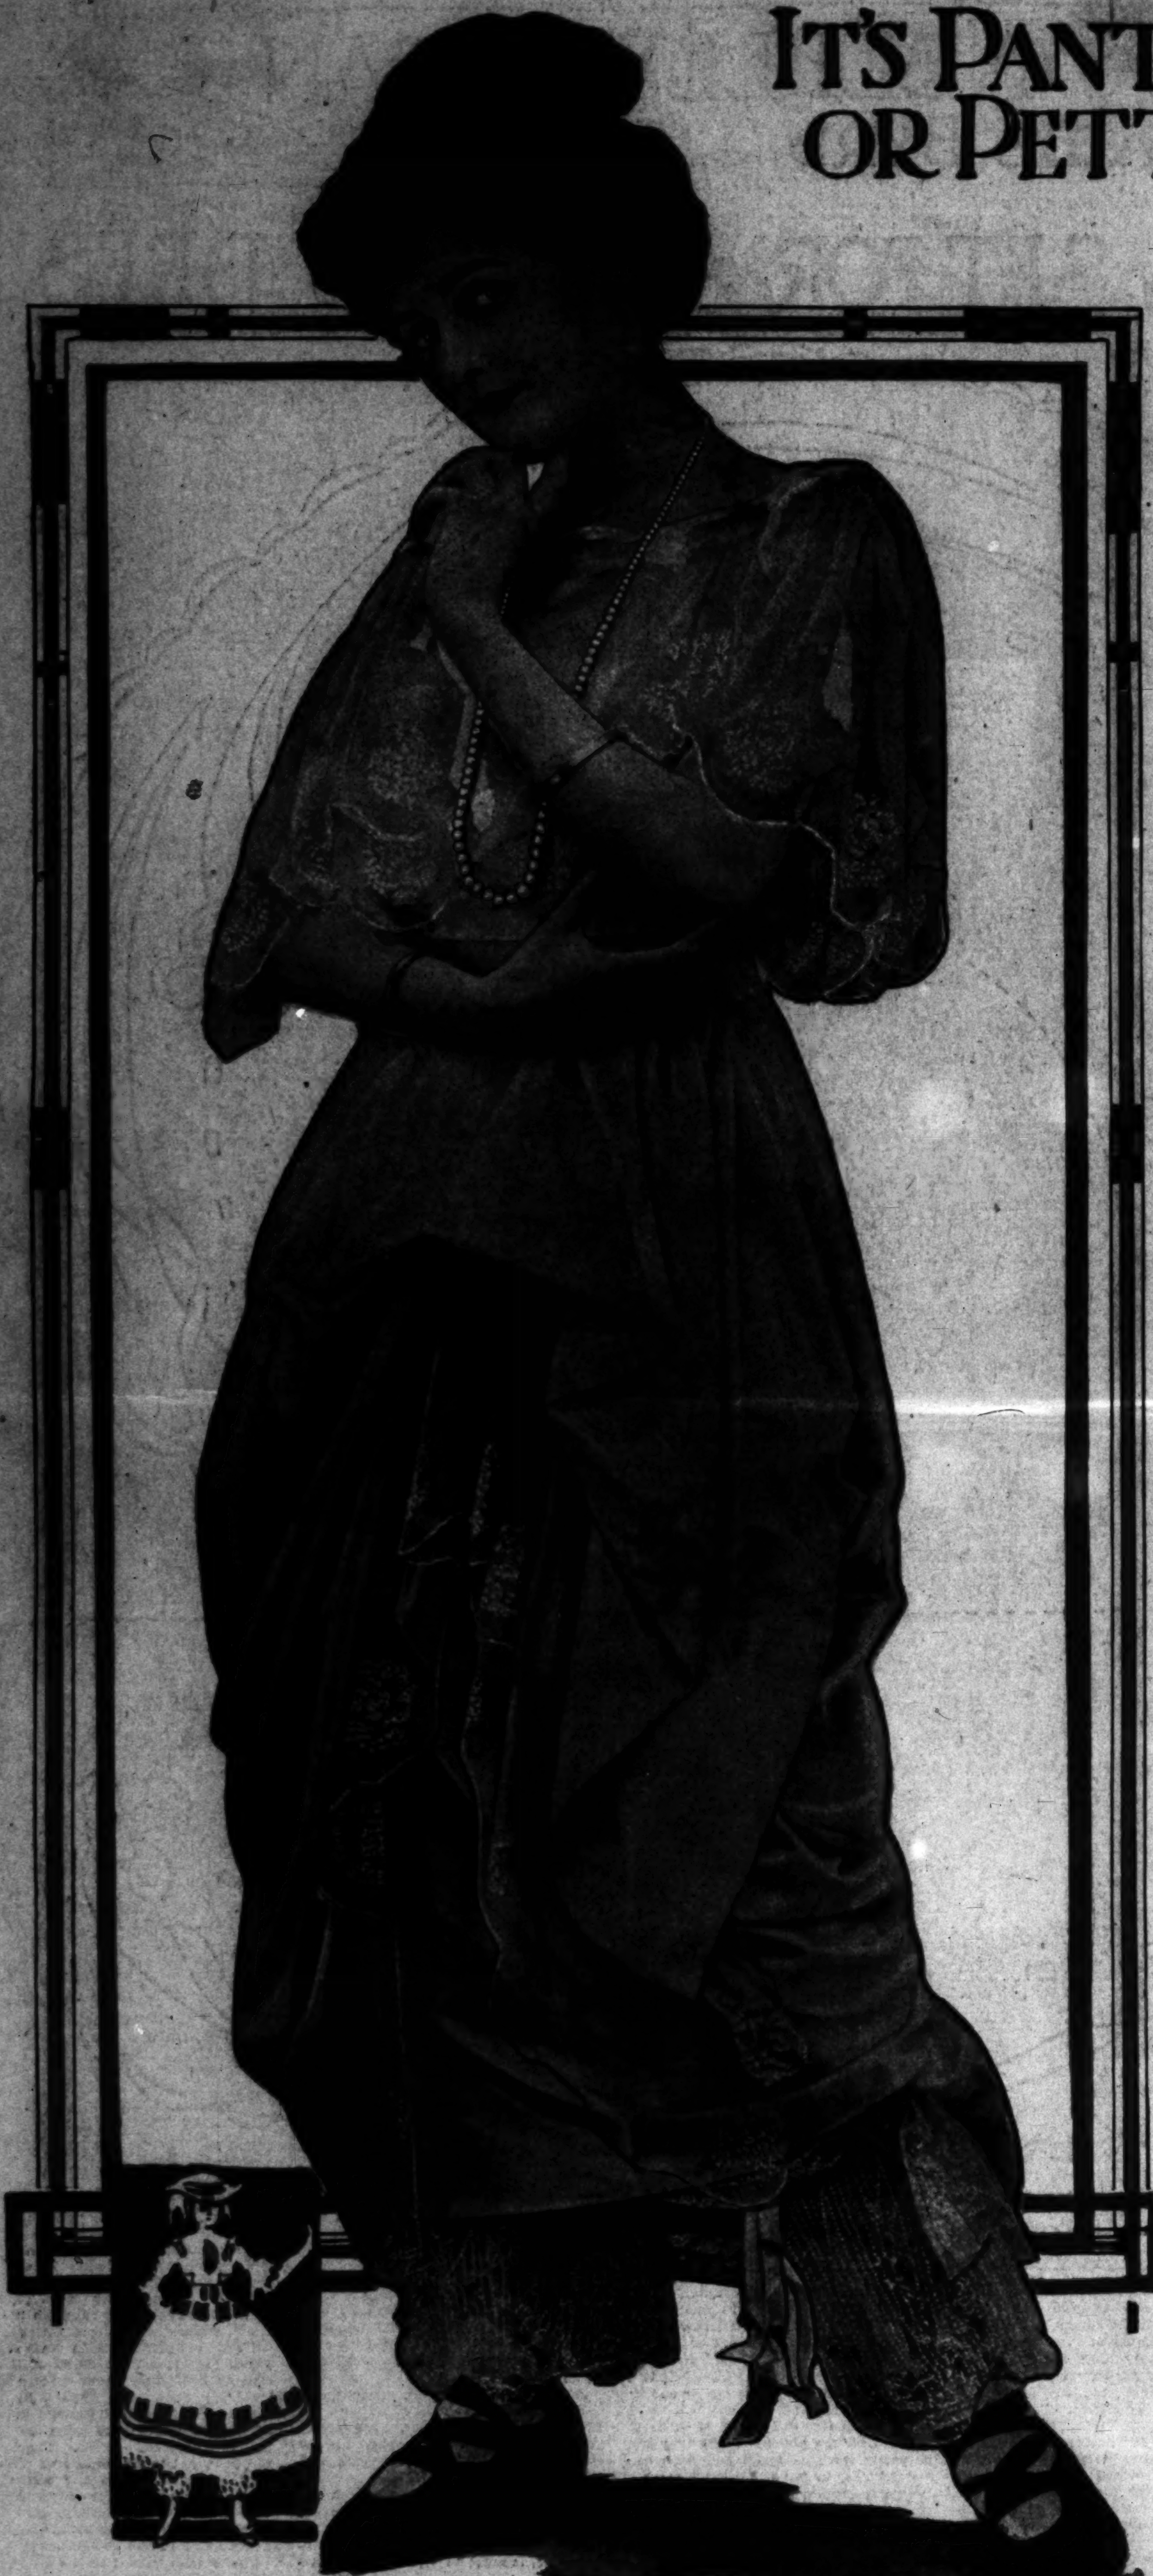
For the Coiffure

PERHAPS you have noticed the vogue for colored hairpins. The tresses piled high upon the head are now adorned with large pins set with colored brilliants to match the costume worn. If you price these luxuries you will find them an extravagance far beyond the reach of the average purse. One clever woman gazed longingly at a case filled with these lovely ornaments and wished for two of the sapphire-blue pins to place among her blonde curls. They were, however, not to be considered with her slender allowance, so she went home sighing. You must not forget that she was clever, and necessity, having on former occasions mothered invention, again came to the rescue.

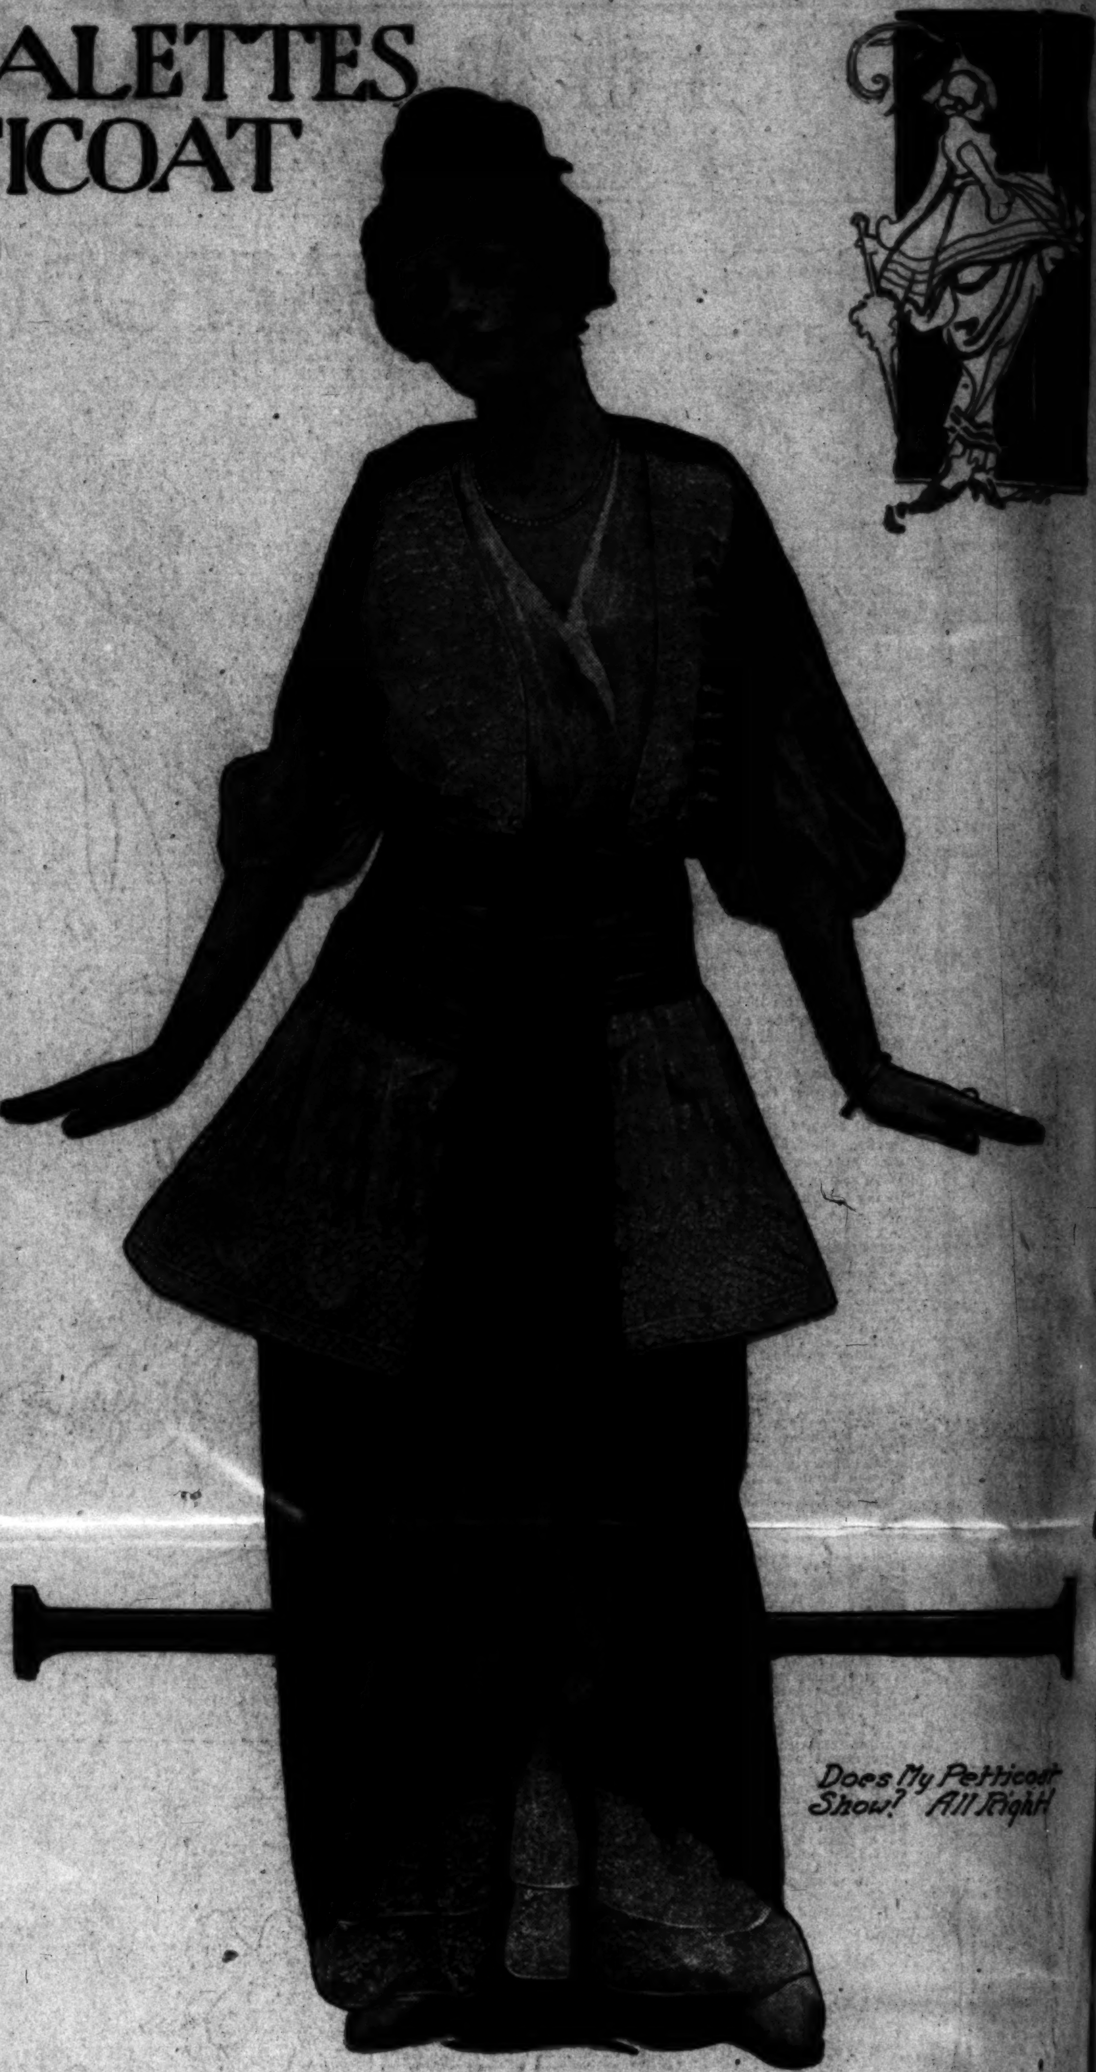
The woman rushed to the corner novelty shop and quickly purchased two large amber hairpins, shaped like the expensive ones in the case. Then she purchased a quantity of sapphire-blue crocheting silk of a medium-heavy weight and a crocheting hook. With these three articles she set about to fashion the pins which were the inspiration. In a few minutes she had crocheted a pretty blue covering over the ends of the pins. When they were completed, she held the ornaments at arm's length and admired them for several seconds and then ran to the mirror, placing them in her coiffure. A smile of triumph spread over her countenance, for the sapphire-blue pins were lovely enough for any beauty and had cost but 10 cents each.

Perhaps you are looking for a suggestion for graduating or birthday gifts. A set of these pins would please any young girl, and it requires such a short time to make them that you might crochet pins to match several frocks. The girls will not be likely to receive duplicates of a gift of this variety.

IT'S PANTALETTES OR PETTICOAT



These Are Detachable



Does My Petticoat Show? All Right!

WHEN you put on your dance frock and, after powdering your nose, take one last look at yourself in the mirror, it were well to see if your petticoat shows. Does it? Then you are all right. It should be one of the lacy, visible factors of your gown. It should have all the attraction of the petticoats of the shepherdesses who played at being country people on the green out beyond Paris. It should give a dash of white or cream in ruffles and ribbons, and add a delightful contrast to taffeta or satin. Yes, the petticoat must show. Mother need no longer stand at the front door and shout premonitory warning at her departing daughter.

This petticoat feature can be noticeable at the front; or, if you would make the assurance of the petticoat fact doubly sure, it can drop several inches below the outer skirt all around the edge. Such is the caprice of Dame Fashion. That which was a fault two years ago is now a feature to be adopted.

And now hold your breath! Not being satisfied with the petticoat flounce as a part of the dress, a daring designer has divided the lace flounces and has brought the pantalettes back to a high—or low?—place in the fashion picture. Here they are, bless them! right in view under the frock that is designed for the dance at its latest. They are of transparent lace, pleated and trimmed with narrow ribbons and handmade roses. They are exactly like the pantalettes that your great-grandmother wore when she was a young girl. Her pantalettes were of muslin, with tight strings around her ankles and frills at the edge. They were attachable, though, and by elastic were snapped in place. These are different, and no one can deny that they have gained by being introduced at this time. What would be the use of cleverness in matters of dress if the old pantalette idea could not be improved upon?

It's pantalettes or petticoats now if you would be down to the minute. Add them to your frock. To be sure, the neighbors will gasp. They always do at innovations. But it is the style. By that only will you prove that you know the coming trend in style and have the courage of your convictions.

For the dance frock the lace pantalettes, with their snowy pleatings and festoons of ribbons, will be a delightful change from the silk stockings that have been flagrantly thrust into notice. The slashes in the dance skirt will now be not so shocking, or a little more so—depends on how you regard the new things in style.

One thing more. If grandma objects and throws up her hands in horror, rout out that tintype of the happy family at bathing hour and in bathing suits. Look at the pantalettes of dark flannel that protected the ladies from the vulgar gaze, and then in the name of art and beauty accept this version of an old idea.
